RESTRICTION REMOVED.

'Frisco Grocers Can Furnish Women Customers With Drinks.

At a recent meeting of the Police Commissioners of San Francisco the board rescinded the action taken some time since by which retail grocers were forbidden from serving female customers with liquor over their grocery counters.

This is one more instance in which the San Francisco grocers are put under obligations to the present administration.

The objectionable order was passed nearly a year ago through the influence of Commissioner Hutton, who was retired some time since by Mayor Schmitz. It was not enforced generally. When a policeman had a grudge against a grocer, he could watch his store and, by reporting the sale of liquor to women customers over the counter, could cause considerable trouble. When the matter was brought to the attention of the Police Commissioners they were informed by Commissioner Grady, who is an attorney, that there was no law against supplying women customers in the manner Commissioner Hutton had insisted. Investigation proved that Mr. Grady's statements were correct and the Commissioners thereupon voted to withdraw the order.

A SWEEPING ENDORSEMEENT.

W. C. Longstreth, inventor of the Longstreth Lard and Butter Cutter, is a grocer of Los Angeles. His invention is the result of his experience as a retail grocer and was used in his store for some time before it was patented. Mr. Longstreth is very proud of the following letter which explains itself:

To Whom It May Concern:

At the regular monthly meeting of the Los Angeles Retail Grocers' Association, held May 4, 1905, it was moved and carried that this Association endorse the Longstreth Lard and Butter Cutter. Mr. Longstreth's machine has been investigated by the members and the Board of Directors of this Association, and pronounced as indispensable to grocers handling bulk lard or butter.

Mr. Longstreth or any of his salesmen are authorized to use this endorsement whenever they see fit to do so.

Yours very truly,

LOS ANGELES RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The local agent for the Longstreth Lard and Butter Cutter are Bovles & Knowles, who have offices at 21 Powell street.

PROMPT ACTION.

Price Cutting Stopped in Oakland by Del Monte Mills Within Twenty-Four Hours.

The prompt action of the Del Monte mills in stopping price cutting on their "Primrose" wheat and Flapjack flour by a department store in Oakland is worthy of praise and appreciation from all grocers and shows the value of associated effort.

Complaint was made to them by the Pacific Coast Grocers' Association on the 12th that prices on these brands had been cut from 15 cents to 9 cents by a large Oakland store and they were requested to endeavor to prevent a continuance of this evil.

On the 13th we received by the same mail a letter from the Alameda County Grocers' Association and one from the Del Monte mills, both advising that "the store in question had been persuaded to discontinue cutting the goods, had destroyed the advertising of the cut prices and promised to hereafter maintain the price established by the Del Monte mills."

It is evident that the Del Monte mills mean business and are making no idle boast when they assert that they will protect the retail trade.

The co-operation of manufacturers like these with backbone and energy, who do things in a whole-hearted and decisive manner, is what helps largely to make the Pacific Coast Association effective. Incidentally it is bound to establish a feeling of confidence among the retail grocers in the honor and integrity of such firms.

The Sperry, Port Costa and Crown mills are putting themselves and their salesmen to considerable inconvenience to circulate the foolish idea that "the grocers do not want a profit," and that the Association's request that they establish and protect uniform retail prices "is but a fad that will soon wear itself out and cannot be successfully accomplished anyway." The apparent ease of the correction of cut prices by the Del Monte people is enough to vividly illustrate that the childish arguments of the other mills is based on a flimsy foundation.

The retailers DO want a profit. We are being daily supplied with news showing that each day more of the purchasing power of both San Francisco and Oakland is forcing the issue. By supporting the mills who are maintaining prices, those earnest men are bringing to bear a steadily increasing pressure, to convince these firms who now profess to look upon their requests with complacent indifference and amused contempt, that the Association members of this community are a mighty influence in the distribtuion of merchandise whose just demands and rights cannot be safely ignored.

Necessity of Organization.

Under the head of "Good and Welfare" Mr. Hauch of Alameda made a logical and convincing talk as to the necessity of organization. He called attention to the tendency toward additional expenses occasioned by the demand for better delivery service, immaculate stores, beautiful windows, etc., and also the tendency of manufacturers to put up their prices. These tendencies the Association could not control. He called attention also to the tendency toward the general reduction of grocery profits which had

GROCERS APPROVE.

Leading Dealers Like the Plan to Protect Their Profits.

By H. W. Thurlow, Secretary of the Pacific Coast Grocers Association.

We told last week of how the Kelley-Clarke Company proposed to protect the price of their Riverside starch by refusing to sell to any dealer that refused to sign a contract to maintain a retail selling price, fixed by them, that would leave a fair margin of profit for the dealer.

To further insure the success of their plan, they require of wholesale grocers that they shall not sell to any retailer who will not sign the contract and also that they will not sell to any retailer when the Kelley-Clarke Company ask them not to do so because of his having cut the price.

Harry Blair, sales manager for the Kelley-Clarke Company, reports that the retail grocers who have been approached on the deal favor it almost to a man. They show this by giving orders and signing the agreement.

Several orders have been received from merchants throughout the interior.

The Pacific Coast Grocers' Association hopes that all dealers who want to bring about a rehabilitation of prices will show their colors by supporting this deal.

The Kelley-Clarke Company do not now and never have advertised in the Advocate to the extent of a 5-cent piece.

The Association is securing for them this advertising in this column freely and gladly, without cost, because they are following the only course which the managers of the Pacific Coast Grocers' Association think will result in better profits for grocers.

Mr. Grocer, It's up to you.

Are you willing to help yourself by helping popularize a starch that cannot be used by a competitor to buy your trade away from you.

If you do, write to the Kelley-Clarke Company. Tell them you are willing to sign a contract to maintain the price of their starch at not less than 8 cents a pound in less than 10 pound lots.

The Kelley-Clarke Company absolutely guarantee the satisfactory quality of both their gloss and corn starch. The grocer can "money back" Riverside starch to his customers.

It costs 5½ cents in 1-lb. packages, for both corn and gloss. The gloss is also put up in 3-lb. packages and costs 5¼ cents. Until May 31st, there is a free deal of one case free with five that brings the cost down about a cent per pound.

Remember, grocers, if the Kelley-Clarke Company finds that it pays to protect the price of Riverside starch, other manufacturers will protect the price of their goods. So Give Them a Lift. Show them that it pays to protect you by putting in their goods and pushing their sale.

Yours very truly,
H. W. THURLOW.

WILL MAKE LAGER.

The Jackson Brewery has begun work on a lager brewery that will be the largest this side of Chicago. The cost of building and outfitting the brewery, it is said, reach a million dollars. The contract for the outside brick work alone is $85,000. The new brewery is situated at 11th and Folsom streets and extends from Juniper avenue to 11th streets. It will be fitted up with all the very latest mechanical devices to insure a lager of the very best quality

FLOUR CAUSES INTEREST.

Retail Grocers Tell Why They Expect Protection.

We want a legitimate profit on all flour. We believe the Crown, Sperry, Port Costa or any other mill can give it to us just as easily as the Globe mills has done.

This seems to be the concensus of opinion of every grocer in this city and Alameda county.

From every quarter large and small grocers express themselves vehemently on this subject.

"If one mill can insure us a profit, why not all?" they ask.

Each individual seems to feel that as business men the mills opposing their desires must have begun to feel the loss of their business.

The grocers are greatly encouraged by the appreciation shown by the Globe mills. Each of them observes his sales on "A1," "Silver Star" and "Banquet" steadily increasing and a corresponding decrease in sales and demand for the brands of the other mills. Their trade is well satisfied and less argument is found necessary each day to obtain the price.

Experience has fully demonstrated that the flour from one mill can be sold at a profit. They logically conclude to sell as much as they can of this flour and just as little as possible of the brands of the other mills.

Some of these men have been successful in educating fully 75 per cent of their trade to buy Globe mills flour and find they come back for more and will pay the price. Others are so gratified with their experience and the satisfaction expressed by their customers that it is becoming a matter of indifference to them whether or not the other mills follow the example of the Globe.

This flour problem has been very beneficial to many grocers and has enabled many to test their individual power and also their influence with their own trade. It has clearly demonstrated to many of them how utterly helpless and hopeless is the position of any manufacturer who deludes himself into the belief that he can defy the retailer.

Grocers Learn Their Power.

This flour agitation has convinced many grocers as nothing else could that without their support no manufacture of food products can have great hopes of success for his goods.

It has opened their eyes to facts here-to-fore obscured by mists of doubt and their own timidity. The facts are these:

First—The honest retail grocer is an influential power with his trade.

Second—His trade has confidence in him and will believe his statements and buy the goods he recommends.

Third—He can with little effort persuade them to try any product he will guarantee and encourage them to use.

Nothing but compulsion could have ever before convinced the grocers that it was their own fault that they did not make a profit on a staple like flour.

Now they are wise and many are asking: "If a profit can be maintained on one flour by one mill, why not a profit on coal oil and other articles that the manufacturer can control?"

The opposition of the mills is showing the retail trade their power.

An Interesting Salmon Report.

The following interesting circular has been issued by the Kelley-Clarke Co.:

Pack of Pinks and Chums.

Alaska	584,210	721,686	396,486	319,801
British Columbia	54,789	None	25,735	36,096
Puget Sound	122,045	96,229	197,652	56,355
Columbia River	None	16,539	10,255	15,320
Outside Rivers	43,505	42,314	17,366	33,056
	804,549	876,768	647,494	460,628

Grand total for four years' packing.....2,789,439 cases
Less 1904 shipments to Japan..... 389,439 cases

2,400,000 cases
Less total stock on hand this date..... 130,000 cases

Balance of four years' consumption..... 567,500 cases
Average yearly consumption.....2,270,000 cases

What have we with which to supply this enormous appetite? Only 130,000 cases; that's all. New pack will not be available until October; even the new pack is but a puny effort, estimated to fall 150,000 short of the annual consumption. Will you buy pinks now at 70c per dozen, or will you wait and pay 75c to 85c per dozen? Chums are not to be had at any price.

Red Situation—Packers of Columbia River Chinooks have made their spring offering at $1.45 per dozen, tall basis. As against this price, sockeyes should open at $1.35; but possibly, owing to a more favorable situation, sockeyes may open as low as $1.25. This latter figure is, however, based on a large pack; a shortage in the present estimate would materially enhance the value of sockeyes. It is pertinent to state that sockeyes have already been largely overbooked, more especially in flats and halves. Yesterday we declined an order of 7,500 flats and 5,000 halves, and our capacity is not so small either, as we control an output of 150,000 cases.

Red Alaska—The red Alaska pack is not expected to exceed 1,200,000 cases, as against 1,800,000 in 1902. Canneries in operation this year, 41; in 1902, 72. The halcyon days of red Alaska are gone, never to return. Not much longer will the cheaper Chinese labor render it possible to pack salmon at a fair cost. They are dying off, and those that are not dying are being driven from the country by the swarm of special agents of the government—who must enforce the senseless Chinese Exclusion act. You will appreciate how vital the Chinese are to the salmon business on learning that there is only one cannery in all Alaska that does not employ Chinese, namely, the Metlakahtla Industrial Co. Alaska shores are so sparsely settled that white help is not available, even though packers could afford to pay the price, which they cannot.

To those of us that live on shores of the Pacific, the decline of the Alaska salmon business is more readily understood. The circumstances just related is one of many that have contributed to the present condition.

We do not believe that the present cost of packing red Alaska will permit any less price than $1.10, which will undoubtedly prevail should sockeyes open as low as $1.25.

Spot Red Alaska—We will sell a limited number of cars at $1. The limit is low, and when it is reached, the price goes to $1.05 to $1.07½, without notice. Do not imagine that if we had packed these goods we could afford to sell at the present price. We could not. The lot was purchased from the receivers of the P. P. & N. Co., whose elimination from the salmon business was effected by this sale.

WANT A COFFEE TAX.

Expert Say Porto Rico Coffee the Best in the World.

John H. Mulhearn, who is credited by the "Grocery World" of Philadelphia with being a representative of a big New York coffee house, is reported as saying that all the big coffee dealers were in favor of the proposed duty on coffee. Mr. Mulhearn argues that the wholesalers, and not the consumers, would have to pay the freight. He points out that the United States and Belgium are the only two countries in which there is not a tariff on coffee. He insists that such a tariff would result in reviving the coffee industry in the United States possessions.

Porto Rico, he declared, produced a kind of coffee that cannot be equalled by the world.

Porto Rico is poor. Mr. Mulhearn wants to have American capital go into Porto Rico.

The Hawaiian Islands are adapted to coffee growing.

But when it came to the Philippine Islands Mr. Mulhearn grew enthusiastic. He has spent some years there, he says, and the prospects of raising coffee are simply limitless.

Still, the coffee grown there now is poor, just as that in the Hawaiian Islands. With good seeds and proper culture, under American hands, Mr. Mulhearn contends the Hawaiian Islands and the Philippine Islands, as well as Porto Rico, could grow all the good coffee that the people of the United States can consume.

He scouted the idea that American experts on good coffee will have to resort to the famous blend of the product of the Java Islands and of Mocha of Arabia. He said all these good coffees can be grown in American possessions.

been forcing itself on the trade through the influence of the cut rate and the department stores during the past four or five years.

This tendency he showed could only be checked by united action on the part of the great mass of retailers who wished to pay 100 cents on the dollar. In conclusion he said:

"There is only one cure. We must combine. We must make ourselves stronger than the people to whom the manufacturers have been catering. We must, as business men, secure such strength that we will not have to go to the flour men and beg favors, but will be able to go to them as men and demand they give us what is ours by right.

Mr. Hauch promised that he would be a more faithful attendant at Association meetings in the future.

Mr. Mitchell of Gardner & Mitchell pleaded guilty of having been delinquent in the past. He said he was going to come to the meetings of the Association in the future. He stated he had been profiting already by the work of the Association since he was now selling two sacks of "A-1" flour at a big profit to one of Sperry's, whereas before the Association took the flour question in hand he had been selling flour without any profit at all.

Amusements

ALCAZAR.

There is almost a laugh a minute in "A Fool and His Money," in which a young man of wealth learns how few friends he has by making them think he has lost all his money. The play is splendidly mounted, the club house scene, showing the golf links, in the second act, is one of the best the Alcazar has ever attempted. A boarding house scene in the third act is very funny. "Tennessee's Pardner," a Brete Harte romance, will be produced next week beginning Monday night.

THE MAJESTIC.

Geo. Woodward's presentation of "Old Jed Prouty" is one of the cleverest things the Majestic has shown. This is Richard Golden's comedy and it is full of clean, laugh provoking humour with a rather sad story holding it together. "Mizpah" is to be reproduced next week. Mrs. Fiske will be the attraction very shortly.

THE GRAND.

"Way Out West" is a drama of much interest. It takes the audience close to nature and to men with the gilding of conventionality removed. The story is full of interest and the piece well acted. Mr. Ferris and Miss Stone are to produce "The Holy City" next week.

THE TIVOLI.

They have been recording another success with "The Tenderfoot" at the Tivoli this week. There are a number of new faces in the cast, which is a strong one. The show is very funny and the scenic accessories and the chorus are attractive.

CENTRAL.

"The Convict's Daughter" is a comedy drama full of excitement and sensations in which tears and laughter blend. It has been drawing good houses. "Why He Divorced Her" follows next week.

FISCHER'S.

Howard Thurston, the clever magician, is in his last week. This turn alone is worth the price of admission. The bill includes a long list of headliners. There are two performances each evening, one beginning at 9:15.

THE CHUTES.

They are giving a splendid vaudeville show at the Chutes in the big free theatre. Beginning Saturday afternoon, there will be another revival of "Cleopatra-Up-to-Date" for a week.

AN IS'ER

Last week, at Steinway Hall, a well-known business expert, Mr. Sheldon, of Chicago, told a story about a young man from the Middle West who went to Chicago to buy a horse. The salesman at the stockyards first trotted out a horse whose sires had held world's records and therefore recommended it as a valuable animal. The young man was not satisfied. He was then shown a horse that was expected to be a Prize Winner. He then said, "Don't waste any more time on has-beens or comers, they won't do. What I want is an

FLOUR CAUSES INTEREST.

We print some more interviews with some of the representative and substantial grocers of this city. Their expressions on the flour situation are both interesting and encouraging:

McCoy & Son, 159 Ninth—Unless the grocer gets 15 cents profit on a sack of flour, he is handling it at a loss. I would like to see the mills fix a fair selling price on their flour and refuse to sell firms that cut that price. At the same time the mills should give the same protection to every dealer and not tie the hands of one by refusing to let him sell at a low price and then let a competitor sell for what they please and thus take away the customers of the legitimate dealer.

Henry Heide, 342 Fourth—It is not fair to the grocers of the cities around San Francisco bay for the mills to allow any firm to sell their flour for less than $1.35. It is not unreasonable for the grocers to expect such protection from the mills and as business men the mills should see the necessity of protecting the retail grocery trade in its profits.

Ed Broderick, 29 Ninth—I would like to see the mills require retail dealers to keep up a fair price on their flour. I also think they owe it to the trade to do this.

H. Horstmann, 429 Ninth—It is wrong that the grocers of San Francisco have to sell flour for less than $1.35. I think the mills should correct this.

Lunsmann Bros., Fourth and Harrison—I must meet the price on flour made by my competitors. For this reason I put in the flour of the Globe mills and am getting my fair profit. I think all the other mills should protect their price.

J. W. Offerman, Tenth and Folsom—When the mills let any dealer sell flour for less than $1.35 they are hurting all the rest of the grocers of San Francisco. I think the mills should help the men who distribute their flour get a fair profit for their investment and labor.

Doell Bros., 501 Eighth—It is not fair to the retail grocery trade for the mills to allow their flour to be sold for less than $1.35 per sack. I think the mills should protect us in this regard.

M. M. Toomey, 258 Eighth—I sell my flour for $1.30. I sell at this price because the mills let other dealers sell for even less and if I charged more I would lose all my flour trade. I think the mills should protect the grocers.

Luders & Buter, Eighth and Harrison—I think the mills should protect the great mass of their customers against the cutters. It is not fair to us for them to allow a few firms to sell flour at such a price that we either have to distribute the flour of the mills for nothing or else have our competitors take our customers away.

John Sheanon, 248 Fourth—It costs 12 per cent and sometimes more to run a store. All of us suffer through having to sell flour for less than a proper price and the mills are entirely to blame since the retail dealers can not afford to charge much more than the down-town stores. If he should charge a fair profit his customers will think they are being robbed. The mills should refuse to allow any firm to sell their standard brands for less than $1.35.

T. J. Norton, 337 Fourth—I, together with many others, have been losing a large part of my flour trade because the mills allow a few firms to sell flour at $1.20 per sack. We not only lose flour trade but other business besides, since if we do not meet the cut price on flour, our customers think we are not treating them fairly on other things. I think the mills owe it to the grocers to refuse to allow the price of their goods to be cut.

H. F. Sahlender, 287 Natoma—The mills owe protection to the retail grocers. It would be a good thing for the mills if the retail grocers could be assured of a profit of 15 cents on their flour since the dealer would not then consider a proposition to put other flours in stock and urge them to buy in order to get a profit for himself.

Christensen & Kenney, 336 Fifth—I certainly think the mills should not allow their flour to be sold for less than $1.35. At present we are getting $1.30, but the fact that other stores are selling flour for $1.20 and $1.25 hurts us considerably.

J. R. Van Arsdale, 438 Sixth—It is a shame for the mills to treat the grocers around San Francisco bay as they do. I think the grocers owe it to themselves to sell these flours on which they get a profit and that if all would unite in doing this, the mills would soon realize that it paid them better to protect the great mass of the trade rather than to try to curry favor with a few large dealers who would have to sell their flour any how if all the smaller dealers were handling it. I have transfered practically all my trade to the Globe mills and my orders for the older brands of flour are now 5 barrels where they used to be 25. Only a short time ago, I was able to put out an order of 100 barrels of Globe mills flour for Alaska, where I would have sent the other brands six months ago.

SHREDDED WHEAT RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

HONORS FOR HARRY BLAIR.

Sacramento Retail Grocers Present Their Retiring Secretary With Chest of Silver.

After the annual meeting of the Sacramento Grocers' Association last Thursday evening, there was a banquet at which Harry Blair, the retiring secretary, was presented with a very elaborate chest of silver ware. The presentation was made by F. B. Fancher, of the American Cash Store, who called attention to the many years of faithful service which "Harry," as he affectionately called Mr. Blair, had performed for the Association. Mr. Fancher said that there was hardly a man seated at the table whom Mr. Blair had not differed with strenuously and vigorously at various times, but that they all recognized that he treated the smallest grocer with the same fairness as the largest, and that they could depend upon his absolute honesty and courage and they loved him all the more for his steadfast courage for what he thought was right.

Mr. Blair responded in a few well chosen words in which he expressed appreciation of his gift.

Before the meeting was concluded the following resolutions were passed:

Whereas, Mr. H. R. Blair, who has been the secretary of the Sacramento Retail Grocers' Association for the past sixteen years, has found it to his best interests to resign and take up other work, and

Whereas, He labored so faithfully and successfully for us all these years; be it

Resolved, That this Association hereby voices its appreciation and approval of his work, which has been onerous, and required tact, intelligence and energy to accomplish; be it further

Resolved, That we recommend him as a faithful, fearless and honorable man, one to whom the word fail is a stranger.

The officers elected to serve during the ensuing year were as follows:

President, A. A. Jost; vice-president, S. H. Farley; treasurer, A. Schaden, secretary, C. S. Mering.

IT GIVES SATISFACTION.

All over San Francisco retail grocers are having inquiry for Ponce de Leon Coffee. This is the very highest grade of Porto Rico coffee which is admitted by experts to be the "best in the world."

The Porto Rico Company are spending large sums of money to introduce Porto Rico Coffee on the Pacific coast. They realize that no matter how fine their goods may be there can be no general sale for them unless the public is first induced to try them.

Perhaps the cleverest mode of advertising they employ is that of giving a prize of $5 in payment for ads written by school children. They use three different advertisements each week in the evening "Bulletin." This means that the child of some customer of some grocer has been paid $5 for telling how good Ponce de Leon coffee is and that all that customer's friends will know about the little one's success.

While Ponce de Leon coffee has quality that makes it satisfactory, it also pays the grocers a larger profit than any other package coffee on the market. In addition to this, the Porto Rico Company has decided that in order to increase the interest of the retail grocers in selling their goods they will give to each of six dealers who sell the most of them between April 15th and August 15th, a solid gold Waltham watch valued at $60.

CO-OPERATIVE STORE SOLD.

The Zenos Co-operative M. & M. Co. of Mesa, A. T., has been sold to Lesieur & Gibbons lately of St. John, Ariz. They will continue the store at Mesa.

TRUTH ABOUT COFFEE.

James Hislop & Co., of Portland, Ore., put the emphasis on the two following sentences in one of their circulars:

Java is not a synonym of excellence in coffee, although popularly supposed to be.

The alleged transcendent superiority of imported Arabian "Mocha" is purely mythical and has no foundation in fact.

Evidently the time of the naked truth has come, even as fearsome as it may be for the unsuspecting layman.—American Grocer.

SUGAR.

While the quotations on sugar had not been changed at this writing (Wednesday afternoon) from last week, jobbers were freely cutting prices, in many cases 10 cents per hundred, and a break in the market was looked for. This condition was brought about by the new factors in the situation, the Hawaiian refinery and the independent jobbers.

MOLASSES.

Boston, Mass.—The Boston Molasses Company reports:

"The molasses market is firm on the recent advances on Porto Rico grades. Later cables from Barbadoes indicate that the crop there is about closed out and the market firm at recent quotations. The situation is strong and we do not look for any lower prices. If there should be any change it will be an advance rather than a decline.

MAPLE SUGAR.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., May 4—The Cary Maple Sugar Company says:

"The crop of maple sugar in Vermont is about an average one. The demand has increased on account of the pure food agitation and prices will rule high. In Canada they have quite a large crop. The prices there should be rather low since many producers of mixed syrups will probably cut down their output."

Chicago, May 15—J. A. Lamore reports:

"Maple sugar is easier in price. Vermont records an average crop. Canada reports an extra crop, assuring us of a price fully 20 per cent less than last season unless speculators buy up the stock and hold for an advance."

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"The San Francisco coffee market, in harmony with the New York market, is very firm. Roasters are buying freely.

"We regard coffee as good property at present prices. The last sale of Salvador standard was made at 9½ cents, but importers are now asking 5 5-8 cents. There is very little on the market. Two steamers are to arrive in the next ten days with 20,000 bags on board, and in these shipments there may be some Salvador.

"It is now evident that there will be a shortage of low grade coffees."

TEA.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"Reports from Japan are to the effect that the 1905 crop of tea will be about 12 per cent less than in 1904. Fancy first crop is easier in price, while prospects are that the lower grades will show an advance. The Formosa market opened on the same basis as last year."

A. Schilling & Co. say:

"Reports from the Orient are to the effect that the 1905 crop of tea will be much better as to quality than was that of 1904."

New York, May 16—John B. Brown & Co. report:

"Confidence is expressed in the future of teas by those in a position to judge of their value. The new crop is traded in at Yokohama and Kobe at prices fully up to last year's basis, but only about one-half of the amount of teas have been settled which were sold at this corresponding date last year.

"Green teas have sold freely of late at prices slightly in advance of those ruling some three weeks ago."

RICE MARKET.

Although Mr. F. E. Harris, manager of M. Phillips & Co., denies that they are trying to corner the rice market, yet it is known for a fact that they have been buying quietly for the past six weeks.

We understand they have in Crowley, Louisiana, over 30,000 pockets of Jap rice which they bought at very low figures, and also have stocks in other Louisiana and Texas points.

In San Francisco they have been buying gradually for the past month in a quiet way, and to-day most of the jobbers have sold them the bulk of their stock. They have also bought through their agents at Los Angeles, Portland, Sacramento, Seattle, Salt Lake, Denver and Kansas City all the jobbers would sell, and to-day they have, including their stock in Louisiana and Texas, over 150,000 pockets on which they will probably clean up at least $125,000, as the market is gradually hardening. It has advanced in the past two weeks on Jap grades over ¾ of a cent, and with poor crop reports for next season, as continual rains have interfered with planting, it looks as if prices will soar upward.

If we remember rightly about three years ago Phillips & Co. cornered the rice market on the coast and made a handsome clean up, sending prices up over $1 per bag, and conditions at the present time favor them.

Mr. Harris, although a very young man, has certainly handled the rice business with exceptional judgment and ability, and we wish him success in his venture.

New York, May 16—Dan Talmage & Sons Co. report:

"The improvement, especially in Japan sorts continues with Honduras a good second. Orders widely distributed from Maine to California have been coming in that quickly absorbed the bulk of the offerings in sight. An active demand at New Orleans, particularly for Japan sorts caused sharp advance and Honduras sorts of lower and medium quality are held low in sympathy.

"It is generally considered that even at the enhanced prices, Japan rice is reasonable and cheaper than the Honduras."

Charlestown, S. C., May 6—Samuel G. Stoney says:

"There is now such a small quantity of Carolina rice left that it will be a very scarce commodity about the end of this month. Conservative estimates place the acreage planted to rice this year at from 40 to 45 per cent of last year's acreage."

CANNED FRUITS.

The California Fruit Canners' Association, through its sales manager, Mr. C. H. Bentley, reports:

"Spot stocks are lighter than they have been in years. The buyers are very well cleaned up, and the goods in jobbers' hands seem to be going into consumption at the present time.

"In spite of the depressed feeling of the trade with regard to futures on corn, peas and tomatoes, there is a very general interest in the matter of future prices on canned fruits, so that it is reasonable to infer that the retail trade have their stocks well in hand."

Santa Rosa, May 19—The "Democrat" says:

"For the first time in the history of the local canneries there will be no cherries canned here this year. In consequence of this unusual condition, the local cannery will not start before berries are ready to handle, which will be about June 20th. Reports from the canners indicate that the peach crop is short. As a consequence farmers will receive fancy prices."

Sacramento—There were 309½ carloads of cherries sent East last year and 311 cars the year previous. It is estimated that the shipment for 1905 will be between 60 and 75 cars. Pears will be short. Canners are reported to be offering $60 per ton for Bartletts.

Griffith, Durney & Co. in a recent circular say:

"Outside of apricots, we look for an average crop of everything. The crop of plums, including prunes, will be lighter than it has been for years. The pears have been seriously affected by what is called pear blight. One orchardist who had a crop of 250 tons last year and expected 400 tons this year, stated that he will not have more than 25 tons. This is merely an example."

CHERRIES IN MARASCHINO.

Cherries have been advanced in price by the French packers.

CANNED VEGETABLES.

The "Trade" of Baltimore, in commenting upon the situation in regard to peas, corn and tomatoes says, that the present depression on these lines will result in shortening production in 1905. It adds:

"This, of course, means that the stock on hand, whatever it may be, will be well cleaned up during the year and probably at the present low prices. Secondly, that the fall season will see a marked change in the condition of the market, with steadily advancing prices on nearly all articles."

CANNED SALMON.

Astoria, Ore.—Salmon fishing continues very poor on the Columbia River. A prominent canneryman says that the river is full of sea lions, and in his opinion they kill more salmon than were propogated.

Rio Vista—The present salmon season along the Sacramento River is thus far undoubtedly the worst in many years, and is deeply discouraging to the fisherman and also to the canneries. The continued scarcity of the fish is far past the time when, in ordinary seasons, the spring pack is in full blast. The spring run usually sets in about the latter part of March or the first of April, but up to the present time salmon have been so scarce that the fear the season will be a failure is generally expressed.

London, Eng., May 6—The "Grocers' Gazette" says:

"There has been more demand for Alaska this week at firm rates. Indications point to the possibility of prices going higher. Really fine quality of 1-lb. flats, British Columbia pack, is practically unobtainable.

DRIED FRUITS.

The market is in a thoroughly healthy condition. It will be cleared up, practically, of everything but raisins by the time the new crop is delivered. New apricots will be offered soon.

Oleander, Fresno County—Apricots are falling in great numbers. This will make the crop in this section very light.

Lodi—Almonds promise a good crop this year.

Yuba City—Canners are offering $30 to $35 per ton for peaches. Some growers are holding out for $40. Pears are scarce and a very good price is expected.

Suisun—Cherries are so badly cracked that it is doubtful if a carload will go forward to Eastern markets. There will be a full crop of apricots and fair crops of peaches and pears.

PRUNES.

Prunes are being strongly held at prices that will secure the grower a profit. They are not moving rapidly, but growers are not willing to give them away, as they were thirty days ago.

prune growers in the vicinity of Healdsburg have formed an organization for the purpose of marketing their crop to better advantage. They have agreed to turn their prunes over to the association and authorize their goods to be mingled with those of the other members. Their idea is that by concentrating the sale of the goods in one man's hands they can be sold to better advantage.

Portland, May 17—The "Journal" states that the outlook for both the Italian and petites is not promising as far as quantity is concerned, but that all indications point to a quality far superior to the crop of last year

RAISINS.

Fresno, May 18—The new Raisin Growers' Association has begun an aggressive campaign to secure more growers in their combine. In a circular letter, the Association states that the first commandment of the new company is "absolutely don't hold an umbrella for the profit of outside growers." Figures are quoted to show that through associated effort, the price of raisins has been made more satisfactory to the growers and the reason why better prices will accrue because of the association is explained as follows:

"Everyone concedes that more money can be raised for the whole raisin crop, if the crop be concentrated under one central control than if the crop is offered on the market by thousands of individual growers, respectively; or than if a part only be under control and another large part be offered by different growers, at cut prices, in competition with the portion under control."

New York, May 13—Hills Bros & Co. report:

"Cables from Greece report a firm market with no lower prices looked for."

DATES.

"There is about one-third the quantity of dates on hand now that there was at this time last year. It is probable that the stock will be completely cleared out before the new crop arrives."

COD FISH.

Gloucester, Mass.—May 11—Receipts have not been large. It is thought there will be no material change in prices for some time and that the present rates are about as low as they will be. Much depends upon the catch of the Bank fleet, the first of which will not be due until July.

PROVISIONS.

The Cudahy Packing Co. say:

"The market is very firm, with brisk demand."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Martin's fall make cheddars and twins are not to be had anymore and what little stock there is in on market will be cleaned up in about two weeks. New cheese at a lower price ought to arrive about the end of June."

OLIVES.

Wieland Bros. say.

"Our shippers in Seville write us: 'Small and medium size queen olives are entirely exhausted and we as well as other curers are unable to fill orders which we have received for about 1000 hhds. There is still a good supply of larger Queens in our market.'"

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, May 4—Aspegren & Co. report:

"With the situation as it is, we can hardly expect lower prices. Some of the heaviest producers expect a considerable advance before long, although the present deadlock may continue for a while yet.

CEREALS.

Germea has been out of the market for several days. A new shipment arrived Wednesday.

STARCH.

The market has been short of Kingsford's starch for some time, but new shipments arrived this week.

SPICE MARKET.

New York, May 16—John Clarke reports:

"The market is active with firmer tendency. Stocks of almost every grade are unprecedently small here."

INSPIRED SEATTLE GROCERS.

The "Trade Register" of Seattle in its last issue states that J. R. Newberry last week in speaking before the Seattle Retail Grocers' Association made one of the best addresses ever delivered before a grocers' association in that State. The paper spoke of the fact that Mr. Newberry had fourteen stores and believed in thorough system and practical methods. The report says:

"In his 34 years of active grocery life he has studied the manufacture, package and distribution of every article of goods the grocer handles, has new goods analyzed before acceptance, and warmly advocates associations securing contracts from manufacturers establishing prices; urges associations to issue price cards to all salesmen offering goods to retailers or no acceptance; refusal to buy goods that are allowed to go to cutters; unfailing support of the secretaries; support of good trade papers; co-operation with jobbers and brokers who are friendly supporters of associations and mutual interests; confidence and unity of employers and employes and the dignifying of the retailers' business.

"Mr. Newberry called attention to Dun's report that 77 per cent of the retail grocers fail, 20 per cent just make a living and only 3 per cent are successful. He then gave other reasons why he believed more could succeed. The question of the elimination of the jobber was then treated of, the methods the Southern California retail grocers have made to assure profit and success, where there is one retailer to every 250 people—the southern section having 835 retail grocers. The speaker then referred to the work done by the Pacific Coast Association, the need for united action, and how similar action to that of the Port Townsend Association would always bear like fruit."

Before his return to California, Mr. Newberry will have addressed the grocers of Tacoma and Portland and will interest them in the work of the Pacific Coast Grocers' Association is undertaking.

BETTER VALUES.

Since the Spohn-Patrick Company introduced "Griffin Extras" brand of fruits and vegetables on this market they have been recognized as a leading factor in the canned goods trade.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

An invitation is extended to any white merchant outside of New York City, or their representative, whose name appears in Bradstreet's or Dunn's Commercial Agency Book, to accept the hospitality of our hotel for three days without charge. Usual rates, apartment with private bath, $3.00 per day and up without meals; parlor, bedroom and private bath, $35.00 per week and up, with meals for two. New York merchants and editors are requested to call the attention of their out of town buyers and subscribers to this advertisement. GALLATIN HOTEL, 70 W. 16th St., New York City.

BRINGS DUPLICATE ORDERS.

Many retail grocers have been putting the Diamond "C" hams and bacons of the Cudahy Packing Company in stock and find that it has increased their trade in provisions. There is nothing in which quality counts more than in this class of trade. A sweet, tender and delicious piece of ham or bacon will be remembered by the customer and they will go back to the store for more and send their friends as well.

This is the experience of numerous grocers who have put the Diamond "C" products of the Cudahy Packing Company in stock. We would call attention to the letter printed on page 4 from a leading grocery firm of Oroville which is the best evidence of the desirability of these goods.

REDWOOD CITY PROGRESSES.

At its recent annual meeting, the Redwood City Board of Trade elected the following officers:

President, P. P. Chamberlain; vice-president, A. D. Walsh; secretary and treasurer, F. H. Thorpe H. E. Mourot and Con Cullen are on the executive committee with the other officers. President Chamberlain is one of the leading merchants of Redwood City. He has a very finely appointed store and carries a complete grocery stock. He is the county treasurer, is also president of the Redwood City Bank, and is agent for Wells-Fargo.

The Redwood City organization has now 40 members and includes the leading business men of Menlo Park and Woodside.

GROCERY JOTTINGS.

B. Meyer has purchased the store of Wm. Kennedy on the corner of Buchanan and Eddy and is rearranging and improving the store in many instances.

A crazy broncho took possession of the store of R. McCoy & Son, 159 9th street, one morning last week. The horse charged round the store upsetting things generally and was only captured and subdued after a long struggle

Cigars and Tobacco

The business of S. Santaella & Co., manufacturers of the Optimo, goes right on increasing by leaps and bounds. They now employ 550 cigarmakers, and their weekly payroll aggregates $10,800.

Bustillo Bros. & Diaz, manufacturers of the Alexander Humboldt, shipped from their Tampa factory 1,200,000 cigars last month, which was 200,000 more than they shipped in April of last year. April was their best month so far this year.

The Imperial Tobacco Co. of Great Britain has made sweeping reductions in the prices of tobaccos. The retail price is cut 16 cents a pound, while the wholesale price is cut only four cents.

Ed Bowen has purchased the Capitol Hotel (Sacramento) cigar stand of the United Cigar Stores Co. Mr. Bowen formerly conducted the store for the M. Blaskower Co., which sold to the United Stores Co.

Boltz, Clymer & Co. are making a big display of El Caudillo, their new nickel cigar, in their windows at 416 Market street, and in order to call attention to the price of this excellent piece of goods, strew nickels on the open boxes.

The M. Blaskower Co. report some heavy orders for the Nathan Hale, now being sold with a deal of 100 free with each 1,000. The firm are arranging to practically cut out the retail trade, and give attention exclusively to the wholesale trade.

L. & A. Samuels, the popular cigar dealers of Stockton and Fresno, have been spending a few days in San Francisco. They report excellent success in the introduction of the Henry Miller, Ehrman Bros. & Co.'s new nickel cigar.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco, under date of May 13, says: "A. Santaella & Co. have enjoyed a big week. In their great factory and with a weekly increase of workers, it is next to impossible to keep up with their orders. Many orders are rushed forward by express. In addition to their heavy order from Alaska, another came in for 82,000 Optimos to go to Sitka."

A fine store is to be opened shortly on the Market street front of the Palace Hotel building, in the room now occupied by the Rock Island Railway office. The cafe in the new Monadnock building, now being erected just above the Palace Hotel, is also to be provided with an up-to-date cigar stand. This, however, will not be opened to the public for something like a year. Another stand of importance will be the new M. A. Gunst & Co. store on Montgomery street, just off Market.

Advance sheets of the twenty-second annual report of the Michigan Bureau of Labor show some interesting facts concerning the cigar and tobacco industry in Michigan. In 68 out of the 83 counties in the State, there are cigar manufactories and their output now reaches 231,000,000 cigars annually. The report states that the cigarmaker commands fair wages in Michigan, superintendents of shops receiving $3.08 per day, foremen $2.88, and ordinary cigarmakers averaging $2.18. Eight hours is the average day's work. The raw material used each year is valued at approximately $2,500,000, while the finished product has a market value of $7,000,000. There are 2,716 female employes employed and 82 per cent of the factories employ union labor.

Eastern manufacturers of cigarettes are about to start an agitation to stop the sale of all forms of tobacco to minors, if present anti-cigarette legislation is not discontinued. One cigarette manufacturer says: "In the first place, if the use of cigarettes—beyond all question the purest and most sanitary method in which tobacco can be consumed—is objectionable, the use of cigars, cheroots, stogies, smoking and chewing tobacco, and snuff, must be vastly more so. Everybody who knows anything about the matter, knows that there is far more nicotine in a single cigar or stogie, and in a single plug of tobacco, or package of smoking tobacco, than there is in an entire box of cigarettes. Then again, the cigarette is absolutely pure and wholesome. It contains nothing but the pure tobacco, just as it comes from the earth. It is cut by machinery, and the cigarettes are made by machinery, so that the tobacco that enters into the cigarettes practically escapes contact with the hands of the operatives, clean or unclean, and the cigarette is thus the most sanitary of all tobacco products."

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco writes to that journal: "C. H. Schmidt, vice president and general manager of Tillmann & Bendel, who represent Sanchez & Haya on the Pacific coast, has been in Tampa this week, the guest of Don Ignacio and Mrs. Haya, who made the trip over from Havana especially to meet Mr. Schmidt. He leaves Sunday for New York to sail for Europe on a tour of England, France and Germany, the latter country his early home. Mr. and Mrs. Haya return to Cuba, where Mr. Haya is now occupied in making a large pack of tobacco for use in the pioneer Sanchez & Haya cigar factory, which bears on its door plate 'Factory No. 1.' Seated on the roomy porch of the handsome Haya residence, the broad expanse of beautiful Tampa Bay in full view, Mr. Schmidt said: 'I am profoundly impressed with the wonderful growth of Tampa and this clear Havana cigar industry generally. Having been for over 20 years representing Sanchez & Haya on the Pacific coast, I naturally feel great interest in Tampa and the cigar industry. My house pays every year over a half million dollars to Sanchez & Haya. In my 20 years with Tillmann & Bendel I have seen the house grow to be the largest on the Pacific coast, with branches in Oakland, Sacramento, Portland and Seattle, and with a selling staff of 65 representatives soliciting the entire Pacific coast, including Alaska and the Hawaiian Islands. I brought along with me some big orders, which will be executed at once. In New York I shall close deals with the American Cigar Co. and T. J. Dunn & Co. I feel overwhelmed with the beautiful and cordial reception extended by Mr. and Mrs. Haya, who made the journey from Cuba entirely on my account. The fatigue of a six days' journey by rail is completely forgotten in such hospitality and friendliness.'"

Don Gustavo Bock, for many years one of the most prominent figures in the cigar industry in Havana and widely known throughout the world, has tendered his resignation as president of the Havana Tobacco Co., a branch of the American tobacco trust, which a few years ago sought to obtain a virtual monopoly of the cigar industry in Havana.

A happy marriage is the usual result when love is adulterated with a little common sense.

Macy, the present manager of the San Dimas store and secretary of the company, has decided to sell his interests and to resign as manager, and has notified the officers accordingly. Mr. Macy has been the efficient manager of the store at San Dimas for six years and his action is taken because he is unable to perform the duties necessitated by the increased business. It is his intention to move the postoffice from the grocery store to the new pharmacy recently opened there. He will continue, also, with his real estate and insurance business.

REAL SUCCESS.

Important Elements to be Considered by Ambitious Dealers.

Statistics show that the percentage of retail grocers who really achieve sucess is surprisingly small.

If a study were made of the methods of those successful men it would be found that their success was made up principally of three elements: Courtesy, Promptness and Fidelity.

There are numerous minor details such as keeping the store scrupulously clean, keeping the windows attractively dressed, etc., but the basis of success rests upon the elements we have mentioned.

Courtesy.

This is inborn in some. It may be cultivated, however, and developed by all. It always pays.

People remember us pleasantly when we are able to do something for them that gives them pleasure. It lies within the power of the dealer to give pleasure to every person entering his store by treating them courtesously. This will make people remember him and his store pleasantly and will make them wish to go there frequently when, if they had been treated discourtesously themselves or had seen or heard some one else treated discourtesously in the store, they would rather dread calling and would be tempted to make their purchases at some other place where the management was considerate of the feelings not only of the customers but of all within its door.

Promptness.

When a promise about the time of delivery is kept, the housewife is pleased. She may not say anything about it at the time or may not even realize that she thinks of it then. Yet she will carry in her mind an impression of satisfaction because she feels certain that she will not be disappointed when she is promised anything by some certain store. This will often induce her to place her business with this store, frequently without her realizing why it is she prefers to trade there rather than somewhere else.

The retail grocer should be scrupulously careful in this regard. He should not lag himself nor allow any of those employed by him to lag. The best reason for being prompt is the fact that it pays.

Fidelity.

This means: "Give good values." When you once convince your customer that anything bought at your store will be the very best possible value for the money you have assured yourself of a steady customer.

When your customer knows that you would not take his money for an article if you could give him a better article for the same money, you will have that customer come into your store whenever he wants to buy anything in that particular line. It pays to convince your customer of your fidelity.

There is only one way to secure the confidence of your customer in your goods. Back them up with your own confidence in their quality.

To be able to do this safely the dealer must be able to have the goods backed up to him by the manufacturer.

It is by this chain of circumstances that A. Schilling & Co. help the dealer bind to himself confidence of his customer in "Schilling's Best" goods. The quality of "Schilling's Best" is not only guaranteed by the full influence of the high standing and unquestioned honesty of A. Schilling & Co. It is backed up as well by their absolute "money back" guarantee.

Through the "money back" guarantee, the dealer is able to convince his customer that the quality of the goods he is selling to them is the best possible for the money. The very best evidence of his sincerity comes from his feeling willing to refund the money for the goods if the customer does not find them satisfactory in every respect.

Another matter that the retail dealer should take into consideration is the fact that he is guaranteed a profit on all the "Schilling's Best" goods he sells since A. Schilling & Co. will not supply their goods to firms who may cut the price.

AN INTERESTING EXHIBITION.

A very interesting performance was given Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at Lyric Hall under the auspices of the National Cash Register Co. It consisted of a series of moving pictures and stereoptican views showing the workings of the National Cash Register and illustrating the value of system in business. The lecture is the same as was shown to 12,000,000 visitors at St. Louis and is now on its way to the Portland Exhibition, where the lectures will be given to the visitors at that fair.

NO MORE FREE YEAST.

Alameda County Grocers a Unit in Opposing the Give Away.

At the last regular meeting of the Alameda County Grocers and Merchants' Association, Secretary Reed submitted agreements which had been signed by nearly every grocer in Alameda county by which they bound themselves to pay $25 for violation, to discontinue giving away free yeast cakes, as had been the custom for years past.

By the terms of the agreement they also bound themselves to maintain uniform selling prices for the different sizes of yeast cakes.

Much credit is due Mr. Reed for the prompt and thorough manner in which he has handled this matter, the successful accomplishment of which means a saving of from $2.00 to $60.00 per month for every grocer in Alameda county.

At this meeting it was voted that the grocers should remain closed all day May 30th, Decoration Day.

Flour Situation.

In spite of the many statements of the salesmen of the various mills to the members, by which they are endeavoring to break up the present attitude of the grocers favoring the card price on flour, it was proven conclusively and to the satisfaction of all present that all of these statements were both untruthful and malicious.

S. V. Sill of Berkeley stated that on account of the stories the salesmen of the mills were circulating that his firm was still a heavy purchaser of Port Costa, Crown and Sperry's flour, he had brought with him a statement showing that since April 1st his total purchases from all three of these mills did not exceed over 20 barrels, while from the Globe Mills, since April 1st, they had so far purchased 80 barrels. Since the card prices had been established on flour his firm had purchased 215 barrels of the Globe Mills flour. Since May 1st his firm had sold only two sacks of Sperry flour.

He supplemented his remarks with the assurance to all members that his firm were having no trouble to secure the desired profit on the brands which were protecting profits and that they were determined to sell as little as possible of the brands of the mills who refused to support them.

Banquet in June.

It was reported by the committee having charge of arrangements for the banquet that a date some time between June 10th and 15th would be shortly decided upon for this event. The committee reported that although the spread would cost $1.50 to $1.75 per plate it had been decided to make the cost to members only $1.00, the difference to be borne by the association.

Arrangements have been made to have a number of capable speakers who are conversant with the grocery business address the members. Among these will be Mr. J. R. Newberry, the millionaire retail grocer of Los Angeles. Mr. Newberry is an exceptionally convincing and brilliant speaker and his speech alone will be both instructive and interesting.

SAN JOSE PICNIC.

It took eleven cars and two engines to take the members of the San Jose Grocer's Association and their friends to Santa Cruz last Wednesday. The picnickers were met at the Santa Cruz depot by a citizen's committee and a band. The affair was a great success and the committee in charge received many compliments for their good management. The committee was composed of the following: J. W. Borchers (chairman), W. A. McDonald, H. Hoenes, F. Bacigalupi, D. W. Smythe and F. Bozzelle.

Attracting Trade

A Novel Scheme.

One merchant advertised a plan which produced results as follows:

"On display in my window are transparent imported china salad or table dishes, attractively decorated in tints and colors, for which you would pay from 30 to 40 cents each at a china store. To any one buying 50 cents' worth or more of other goods from my store on the above date I will give the choice of these dishes for 10 cents as long as they last, and only one to a customer."

Prizes for Eggs.

A Minnesota merchant issued an attractive circular to the trade announcing an egg contest for April. Mr. Sammons gives away four fine prizes to the four customers bringing him the most eggs during April. This is not only a good way to get eggs, but a good way to get business. The man who pushes his business is the man who wins out, no matter where he may be located. Think up something new and then do it.

Souvenir As Premium.

A merchant writes that it advertised his store to give for a time a souvenir with every purchase of a staple. With a 10-cent bar of soap, for example, he gave a glass tumbler. He says it brought people to the store and most of them made other purchases that more than made up his slight loss. One benefit, he thinks, was the impression it gave people that he bought especially low.

News By Postal Card.

A Kansas merchant mails twice a month a postal card headed "Blank's Store News," with the date. On this postal card he lists a number of offers of goods free with purchases of different amounts. A recent postal card offered with a $3 purchase the choice of an assortment of glass cream pitchers, butter dishes, spoonholders, vases, etc. With a $4 purchase a three-quart enameled pudding pan. With a $5 purchase a five-quart enameled preserve kettle. On each postal card is given the date to which the offer holds good.

Change Windows Frequently.

If the window dresser does not have time for a more frequent arrangement of the display, let him at least divide the window dressing year into monthly divisions, so far as the general design is concerned, the arrangement and color of draperies, etc., and changing the minor features of the display much oftener. A weekly arrangement is much to be preferred to a monthly one, but we have seen so many designs running unchanged for two, three or four months that a monthly limit seems like a considerable reform. Let it be a monthly limit, then, and let the change at the end of the month be complete. Let every month have its own color scheme, and let the seasonable articles for the month be featured in the window. The stores that have a couple of show windows should have the changes made alternately, every fortnight.

An Ingenious Display Fixture.

An ingenious window display of cigars was recently devised by a Pittsburg dealer by the aid of barrel hoops. A center stand was made of the hoops, composed of six rings. These rings, or barrel hoops, were covered with colored paper.

In the center of each was fastened an upright, which was secured by a small wire nail. On the top of the upright was tacked a small piece of pasteboard about three inches square, upon which to rest a cigar box.

The rings were held together by small wire nails, and the frame fastened securely to the bottom of the window.

The centerpiece was composed of the six rings, while on either side was placed a small stand composed of four rings treated in a similar manner.—Tobacco.

Gentlemen:—

We desire to duplicate our last order for "Diamond C" Hams, and will probably use a great many more in the future, as the brand is eminently satisfactory and the public is recognizing that this is one of the best, if not the very best, grade of goods on the market. Please ship the goods as soon as possible and pack them as you have done heretofore, as we find that this conduces to their better keeping. The last shipment went much quicker than we expected, and if business continues according to indications, we have no doubt that another order will be sent you within a week or ten days.

Points to Watch

RICE—
Weather conditions in the South have been such that it has been impossible to put in the crops, and unless the rains cease within a few days Japan rice will go to 4 cents, perhaps higher. So say jobbers whose facilities for knowing are unquestioned.

CHEESE—
New Limburger now in the market, but poor and cheap. Fancy October make is very scarce and commands a good price.

SARDINES—
A war in domestic sardines is expected between the Trust and the independent canners.

LIMA BEANS—
It is thought that spot stocks will be exhausted inside of 60 days inspite of higher prices.

MACKEREL—
Stocks of fat Irish mackerel are very low and can not be replenished till the fall.

MAPLE SUGAR—
Short crops of maple sap have resulted in the payment of higher prices than was looked for at the beginning of the year.

RAISINS—
Growers are being offered $60 per ton in the sweat box (and refusing the offer) for raisins that brought only $35 per ton last year.

PRUNES—
There is no longer a question as to the shortage in prunes. A price of 3 cent basis is anticipated by growers.

EVRETT SETTLES A FIGHT.

The grocers of Everett, Washington, have sent out the following circular to the jobbers, wholesalers and manufacturers of the Pacific coast, over the signature of President B. S. Bridgeway and Secretary T. C. Simmons:

"Gentlemen.—We take pleasure in notifying you that all differences between

are now adjusted to the satisfaction of this Association, for which we extend our hearty thanks for your co-operation in this matter."

STAMP COMPANIES FIGHTS.

The National Trading Stamp Company of Seattle has brought suit against the State officials of Washington to enjoin them from enforcing the trading stamp law which will become effective June 7th.

They claim the act is unconstitutional. It is to be hoped that the California grocers will have secured a decision from the Supreme Court as to the constitutionality of the law before that time and thus save their Washington brothers expense of similar litigation

The Oakland Banquet.

Alameda County Retail Grocers Will Gather in Honor of J. R. Newberry.

A banquet is to be given at the Hotel Metropole by the retail grocers of Alameda county on Monday evening, June 5th, at 7: 45. The guest of honor is to be J. R. Newberry of Los Angeles. All the leading grocers of Alameda, Oakland and Berkeley will be present at this banquet and the leading issues of Association work will be thoroughly discussed.

S. J. Sill, of Berkeley, the president of the Alameda County Association, will preside and H. D. Cushing, of Oakland, will act as toastmaster.

C. B. Pearson, of Stockton, the president of the State Association, has been invited to attend. There will also be a number of San Francisco grocers present.

Besides good fellowship, the principal reason for the banquet will be the opportunity that will present itself of a careful discussion of those matters in which retail grocers are especially interested. Particular attention will be given to the possibility of correcting the present demoralized condition of selling prices on certain staples which can be controlled by manufacturers with the assistance of retailers.

Mr. Newberry has visited the principal cities of Washington and Oregon and has done much good for the grocers in those cities by telling of the results of associated effort in Southern California and outlining the possibilities for the grocers in the other communities of the Pacific coast. He addressed the grocers of Seattle twice. At the last meeting there were over 200 in attendance among whom were many jobbers, brokers and manufacturers.

Mr. Newberry's speech covered the following points:

Honesty in the retail grocers' business.

The handling of goods on their merit and the eliminating as much as possible of articles sold because of their being fads.

The evils of prize packages and trading stamps.

The value of holding old customers.

The protection of the legitimate manufacturer.

What makes dishonest employes.

The establishment and maintenance of reasonable, uniform prices, and confidence among dealers and with the manufacturers and the jobbers.

He strongly urged close relationship between employer and employe, advocating credit trade, abandonment of special inducements, and a square deal all around.

CUT OFF THE OWL.

Wholesalers May Not Sell Sapolio to Cut Rate Drug Store.

A short time ago the attention of Enoch Morgan's Sons' Company was called to the fact that the Owl Drug store was advertising Sapolio at 4 cakes for 25 cents. An attempt was made to have the offending firm discontinue this policy. Upon their refusal a letter was sent to every jobber throughout the State informing them that it would be a violation of their contract to sell Sapolio to the Owl, either direct or indirectly.

While the Owl may be able to buy up Sapolio in small quantities at retail prices and sell the same at cut rates now and then, this action on the part of Enoch Morgan Son's Company will make it too difficult for them to secure enough stock to make the cutting a regular thing.

PLAN MEETS APPROVAL.

Retail Grocers Place Orders for Goods That are Protected.

By H. W. Thurlow, Secretary Pacific Coast Grocers' Association.

We are glad to note that the confidence of Mr. Blair, the sales manager of the Kelley-Clarke Co., in the desire of retail grocers to secure a profit was not misplaced.

Mr. Blair, in order that there should be no loop hole for the cutter (announced that he did not want to sell Riverside Starch (corn and gloss) to any dealer that would not protect the price. To guard against this being done, he requires that all retailers who buy Riverside Starch must sign an agreement not to sell the starch for less than 8 cents a pound in less than 10 pound lots. He must also agree not to sell the starch to any other dealer who has not signed the same agreement.

Ties Up the Jobber.

As a further protection, the Kelly-Clarke Company require that all wholesale grocers must sign an agreement not to sell the starch to any retailer who has not signed an agreement to retain the retail selling price. They make them also agree not to sell to any dealer who they may have been notified has been cutting.

A forfeit of $25 binds this agreement.

If a jobber does not try to maintain the contract, it will be revoked and he will be sold no more goods.

Hall, Luhrs & Co. of Sacramento have signed this contract and are now placing the Riverside starch with their trade who are accepting it very generally.

Wm. Cluff Company of San Francisco have put out their salesmen to present the proposition to their trade.

We are glad to be able to state that a very large part of the grocers to whom the Kelly-Clarke Company have presented their plan, have accorded it their warmest approval.

Retailers Must Help.

This is all that is needed to insure success. Wholesale grocers are glad to sell what retail grocers order. If the retail grocers insist on handling lines that pay them a profit, the jobbers will put them in and they will sign agreements not to sell to cutters in order to get the goods their customers want.

Thus the responsibility comes back to the retailer again.

If the retail grocers want a profit, they should hire a man as secretary who can help them unite in forcing the sale of these goods that pay. In this way, they can make their associations very profitable to them.

This office, by securing the prompt co-operation of the secretaries, can make it very unprofitable for any jobber to refuse to lend his aid in the movement to keep cutters in line.

Thus, through the retailer, can come the combination of the wholesaler and the manufacturer to make cutters uphold the prices of certain listed goods.

The proposition of the Kelley-Clarke Company will test the willingness of the retail grocers to co-operate with the manufacturer. If grocers will help to secure a profit on Riverside Starch.

Dissatisfaction Grows.

Retail Grocers Realize More and More How the Mills Play Them False.

It is doubtful if the flour mills realize the full extent of the dissatisfaction they have created.

Every day that the thinking grocer sells flour that cost him $1.20 for $1.25 or $1.30, he gets sorer against the flour mills that, alone, are responsible for his selling it for less than $1.35.

If the mills should say the word, every grocer in San Francisco would be getting $1.35 a sack for his flour—a margin of 15 cents.

There are not more than five firms in San Francisco that present any opposition, worthy of the name, to an honest movement of the mills to prevent their flour being sold for less than $1.35. Yet to save themselves the unpleasantness of having trouble with a few big handlers of flour, the mills are willing to force 2000 other retail grocers to sell flour with a margin of 5 to 10 cents a sack, which means a loss.

They do worse than this.

When they let Market street stores sell flour at $1.20 a sack, they help those firms to STEAL the trade of the smaller men whom they make pay $1.20 for their flour.

The word STEAL is used advisedly here, because the competition is not honest and never would exist if the local flour mills treated fairly the trade that sells thousands of barrels of their flour each month.

The mills that help the cutters and refuse to "stand in" to help grocers maintain the price of flour are:

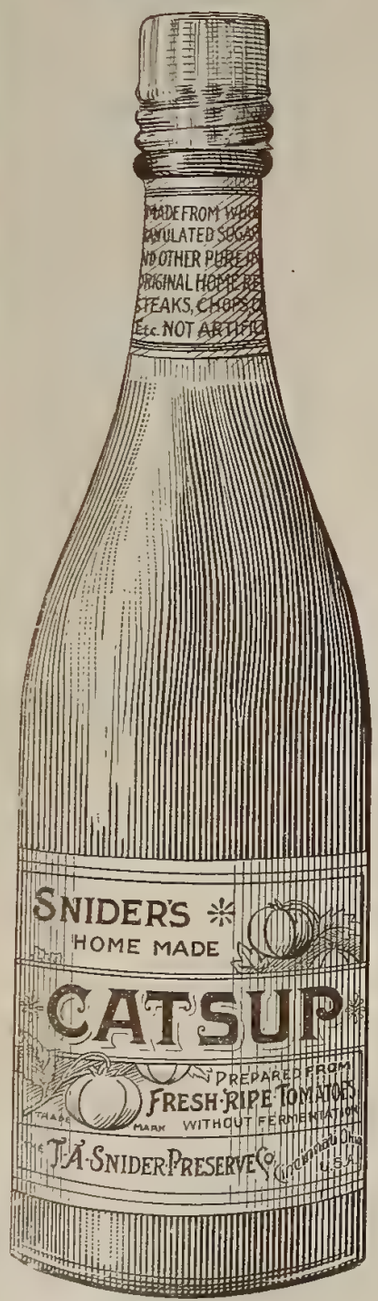
Sperry.
Port Costa.
Stockton (Crown).
American (Colonial).
Del Monte.

There is one mill that refuses to allow its goods to be cut and that maintains a margin of 15 cents a sack on its flour for retail grocers. This firm is

Globe Grain and Milling Co.

How much in earnest the grocers are in regard to this matter will be understood from the expressions of a few of our leading grocers:

Claus Alpers, Fillmore and Sutter— I would like to see the mills establish a fair selling price, such as $1.35 on their standard brands of flour. I fear that they will not do so as the organization of San Francisco grocers has never been so directed as to accomplish proper results. If the grocers had a good organization they could add materially to their profits.



Wm. Wethered, 1763 Fillmore—I can not understand how the mills ever got the idea that the retail grocers did not want a profit on flour. If the grocers sell flour for a less margin than 15c per sack they are losing money on it and no man does business at a loss because he likes it.

Geo. A. Sack, 330 Fifth—I think the mills should protect the price of their flour. When I sell flour by the sack, I ask $1.25, but I think the grocers should be able to get $1.35.

H. A. Wuhrman, 400 Sixth—I would like to see the mills protect the price of their flour. I think every grocer in the city would be glad to sell flour at $1.35 if they knew the rest of the trade had to do the same. I think the mills could better afford to lose the business of a few cutters than to make all the rest of us sell their flour without a fair profit.

Chas. Witt, 596 Sixth—If the down town grocers had to charge $1.35 for flour all the rest of us could get the same price without any trouble. People would not object to paying that much for flour if they could not buy it for

SNIDER'S CATSUP

Best and Purest

The T. A. Snider Preserve Co., under date of May 25, 1905, informs Local Agents that all Snider's Catsup shipped to this market since July, 1903, contains absolutely NO coloring matter, as reported by the San Francisco Board of Health.

Prior to that time, this Catsup, while absolutely pure in its ingredients, contained a small amount of coloring matter to give it the bright appearance the trade at that time demanded. The Board of Health NOW INSISTS that catsups must not be colored. Any grocer having any of this OLD STOCK on hand, can have the same changed for the NEWER PACK by applying to less anywhere else. I think the mills owe it to the grocers to protect that price on their product.

J. J. Cusack, 715 Brannan—When the mills let the down town stores sell flour for $1.20 and $1.25, they hurt all the rest of the grocers without benefiting themselves. Even if the down-town stores sold none of their flour, which would never be, their output would not be lessened since the other grocers about the city would sell more of their flour because consumers would never believe that the brands advertised for less money by the department stores were of an equal quality with the brands that all the trade were a unit in demanding a larger price for. I think the mills should protect us.

J. C. Rithmuller, 731 Brannan—I am not in the grocery business for a pastime, but to make money. I think that the action of the mills has interfered with my making a profit that I should have on flour and that it would be only fair for them to require a dealer to sell their standard brands at least for $1.35.

Wm. C. Zimmerman, 1801 Broderick—My trade on flour has been very materially lessened because I will not sell for less than $1.30. I think the mills have taken my trade away from me by allowing down-town stores to sell for $1.20, which has induced many small stores to sell for $1.25. The mills are doing me a great wrong when they fail to protect the price of their flour.

H. Muller, 1701 Devisadero—When the mills allow a few firms to sell flour for $1.20, the rest of us have got to keep our prices down too. I think the mills should refuse to allow firms to sell for less than $1.35.

Ramsner & Borman, 601 Larkin—There is no reason why a grocer should not get a profit on flour except that the mills allow a few firms to sell their flour for what it costs the bulk of the trade. I think the mills are wronging the grocers when they allow this to be done.

John Otten, 1633 Turk—I want a profit on flour, but have to meet competition. I would be glad to see the mills require the grocers to sell for at least $1.35.

REAL ECONOMY

And Economy that is Really Extravagance.

Real economy consists not of holding on tight to every dollar, but in using money so as to get the best possible return for it, in spending one hundred dollars here so as to save five dollars a month elsewhere.

Dealers are realizing this, and that is why the Bond Scale Company is meeting with its great success in offering automatic weighers that will save a few dollars every month to any dealer selling five hundred dollars worth of groceries per week.

This is the best of all modern store fixtures and is sure to find a place in every store where the owner has an eye to real economy.

WILL ALWAYS SATISFY.

Alpine Condensed Cream Company Makes a Strong Bid for Business.

We present to our readers this week a letter from the makers of Alpine Cream that we recommend for careful consideration:

San Francisco, May 29, 1905.

Editor Advocate:—We ask for a little space in your valuable columns in order to state the reasons why it will pay the trade to handle Alpine Evaporated Cream.

Briefly summed up, they are two in number:

1. The price is right and allows a good profit to the retail grocer.

2. The quality is the best on the market.

In regard to the price, we would say that at $3.60 per case (or at $3.50 in 10 case lots) the dealer can sell the cream at 3 for 25 cents and make a very satisfactory profit, since there is always a certain large percentage of tins in each case that are sold singly for 10 cents each.

In regard to quality, we would say that Mr. John B. Meyenberg, who personally supervises the making of Alpine Cream, is the "father" of evaporated creams. The makers of all other evaporated creams had to learn their business from him. Their processes are based either directly or indirectly on the discoveries and experiments of Mr. Meyenberg and our company is now profiting by his experiences and experiments of the last 20 years.

As a last word, we would say that it is the duty of the retail grocer to familiarize himself with the comparative qualities of goods that are submitted to him for sale. When the new article possesses superior quality, he owes it to himself (as well as to his customers) to present the goods to his trade. And when, as in the case of Alpine Cream, he is able to sell it for less money and still make a satisfactory profit, his duty is doubly plain.

Alpine Cream stands at the head of all evaporated creams for its large percentage of butter fat and the uniformity that the tests will reveal. This is no idle boast, but a statement that is backed by the analyses of official chemists.

Very respectfully yours,

ALPINE EVAPORATED CREAM CO.

POLICE AFTER CATSUPS.

Two Companies Offer Protection to Retail Grocers Who Carry Old Stock.

The grocers of San Francisco have been warned by the police department against selling catsups, a list of which are printed below. Grocers who may offer any of the illegal goods for sale ten days after they receive the notice, will be arrested and fined. As notice was given May 23rd, the police will begin to act about June 2nd.

Two firms in the list printed below claim that they have been made the victims of a gross injustice. These firms are the T. A. Snider Preserve Company and the Pacific Vinegar and Pickle Works who own the "California Home" brand.

The Spohn-Patrick Company have received a wire from the T. A. Snider Preserve Company to the effect that all Snider Catsup shipped to this State since July, 1903, contained no coloring matter and was absolutely pure.

The Spohn-Patrick Company explain that the bottle analyzed must have been some old stock sold to the trade over two years ago. To protect the grocers, they will exchange any old stock retail grocers may have on hand for new goods that meet all the requirements of the board of health.

The "Cal. Home Packing Co." is no longer in existence. All "tomato catsup" put out under the "Cal. Home Brand" by the Pacific Vinegar and Pickle Works is guaranteed to be pure in every respect. Although they did not pack the goods, this company will replace all illegal catsups bearing the label of the "Cal. Home Packing Co." for grocers who will report to them at 126 Davis street.

The goods declared to be illegal are the following:

Colonial Pack. Co., S. F., Cal.—Salicylic acid; coal-tar dye.
Columbia Manf. Co. S. F., Cal.—Salicylic acid; coal-tar dye.
Fisher Pack. Co., S. F., Cal.—Benzoic acid; coal-tar dye.

QUALITY TELLS.

It Wins Friends for Diamond "C" Hams and Bacons.

Californians are good livers. If given their choice, they will invariably pick out the goods that rank highest for quality. Price is a secondary consideration.

Wise grocers take advantage of this. They know that a customer who uses the Diamond "C" hams and bacon of the Cudahy Packing Company is going to be pleased. That customer is coming back for more. She is going to tell her friends about the hams that were so sweet and tender and delicious.

Experience has shown this to be a fact. Grocers who have put Diamond "C" hams and bacon in stock have found that it has increased their provision trade and brought them new customers.

CUTTERS MAINTAIN PRICES.

A short time ago the secretary of the Los Angeles Grocers' Association wrote to J. P. Gillespie, the San Francisco representative of the Enoch Morgan Sons Co. that a cutter in a town near Los Angeles was advertising and selling two cakes of Sapolio for 15 cents.

He requested Mr. Gillespie to act on the matter.

Mr. Gillespie at once wrote to the cutter telling him that Enoch Morgans Sons Co. were attempting to maintain a price of 10 cents or three for 25 cents on Sapolio and that if the cutter persisted in selling at less than that price, he would be compelled to notify the jobbers not to supply him further.

This week Mr. Gillespie received a response reading as follows:

Mr. J. P. Gillespie, Representing Enoch Morgans Sons Co., San Francisco.

Dear Sir:—I have withdrawn Sapolio from the cut list."

TRADING STAMP FAILURE.

Benedict & McFarland Company, one of the pioneers in the trading stamp business and reputed to be next to the Sperry & Hutchinson Company, has been forced through lack of patronage to go out of business. This is another evidence that the trading stamp graft has run its course and is about to take its place amongst the "gone but not forgotten" schemes for revolutionizing the business world.

The above firm was incorporated with a capital of $1,000,000. It had offices in all the large cities and enjoyed a rapid growth for some years. With a general awakening amongst retailers and consumers to the fact that no one but the trading stamp companies benefit by their existence, receipts fell off to such an extent that there was no longer any profit in the business and the firm died.

SHORT WEIGHT SARDINES.

Packers are putting up sardines in a new tin that is so dented that while it looks as large as the usual tin, the contents are much less. The "Journal of Commerce" says that samples of the new pack quarter oils that has been examined have been found to weigh 5¼, 5½, 5¾ and 6 ounces, while other goods in different tins show an average weight per can of 7¼ ounces. Grocers must consider the size of the tins in accepting offerings of domestic sardines.

EASTER MARKET DAY.

A Clever Scheme by Which an Escondido Grocer Built Trade.

Having noticed an advertisement in an Escondido daily paper announcing that Steiner & Co., general merchants of that city, had devoted their store to the Trinity Guild for one day, the Advocate wrote to that firm asking them as to the success of their plan and as to the method employed and the satisfaction that it gave to the ladies of the Guild.

We have received the following reply:

Escondido, Cal., May 24th, 1905.

"Mr. A. H. Powers, San Francisco, Cal.

"Dear Sir:—Replying to your inquiry, recent date, regarding the manner in which 'Easter Market Day' sale, conducted by the ladies of the Trinity Guild, worked, would state that they were very much pleased with the day's doings, which netted them about $50.

"We gave them the use of our front window store space, about 15 feet wide, and also donated them the coffee and sugar which they served with cookies and cream. Out of this they got $8 net, and we received a good ad which sold many pounds of coffee for us and helped its introduction.

"We paid for the circulars and paper ads to 'help the cause along.' As the ladies sold only cakes, pies and bake stuffs which they made, it did not interfere with our lines and brought in many customers.

"The inclosed letter of thanks speaks for itself and shows how the ladies appreciated the courtesies extended.

"In the near future we will again give them the privilege. Trusting this answers your questions, we remain,

"Yours truly,

STEINER & CO."

The letter of thanks mentioned is as follows:

"Mr. S. Steiner, Escondido, Cal.

"My Dear Sir:—At a meeting of Trinity Mission Guild, held on Wednesday, May 3rd, a vote of thanks was extended to you for your many acts of kindness both before and during our 'Easter Market.'

"SARAH JONES, Secretary."

A circular supplied to the ladies of the Guild was worded as follows:

AN IS'ER

Last week, at Steinway Hall, a well-known business expert, Mr. Sheldon, of Chicago, told a story about a young man from the Middle West who went to Chicago to buy a horse. The salesman at the stockyards first trotted out a horse whose sires had held world's records and therefore recommended it as a valuable animal. The young man was not satisfied. He was then shown a horse that was expected to be a Prize Winner. He then said, "Don't waste any more time on has-beens or comers, they won't do. What I want is an

HOW MUCH EXPENSE?

The Question That Decides Whether a Merchant is a Success or a Failure.

In spite of the vast importance of this information few grocers know what it really costs them to do business.

They may have a general idea of what their monthly bills amount to. But the most important thing: which is, What percentage this sum bears to the amount of business they are doing, is nothing to them.

If a grocer who is doing a business of $1500 a month will take 12 per cent of that amount, he will find that it will give him $180. If from this $180 he takes his rent, clerk hire, cost of lighting, proportion of taxes and a small allowance for waste and bad bills, he will be surprised what a very small sum of money there is left for him as wages. This means that the cost of running his business will be at least 12 per cent of his gross receipts.

This must be considered carefully by the grocer who would know whether he is making money in his business or is to be listed among the 77 per cent of failures.

For the sake of figuring take one hundred of the first items on your shelves.

Then set opposite each one, the percentage of your expenses.

Then see how much is left.

You will be surprised at the number of items upon which you do not make a sufficient profit to cover expenses.

Study them carefully and find whether the number of articles on which you are getting a fair margin is increasing or decreasing.

If the number of articles on which you are getting a profit is increasing, it means that your business methods are good and that you should follow them up.

If your investigation shows that the number of articles earning a profit is decreasing and the result of your stock taking produces an unsatisfactory showing, then you know that it is absolutely necessary if you continue in business for you to study carefully how you can turn your trade to articles on which there is a profit.

The first essential is to find articles that you can sell as cheap as any competitor, because it hurts a grocer if he has a reputation for charging more than his competitor for the same article.

It is of even more importance that the article sold should be of satisfactory quality.

Both of these requirements are fulfilled by "Schilling's Best." A. Schilling & Co. give the very best guarantee of quality. They authorize the dealers to "money back" all their "Schilling's Best" goods, so that the dealer who recommends them to his customers can give those customers full confidence in them, since he can assure the customers that if they are not satisfactory in every respect they can be returned.

He knows that the price will be satisfactory because A. Schilling & Co. will not sell their "Schilling's Best" goods to cutters.

Besides the "money back" guarantee, the dealer is helped in selling "Schilling's Best" goods by the high standing of this firm, whose name is recognized throughout the entire Pacific coast as being synonymous with business integrity.

AN EXQUISITE REPRODUCTION OF A REMARKABLE PAINTING

GIVEN AWAY.

"The Three Most Beautiful Roses" by Paul de Longpre.

At the urgent solicitation of the "Woman's Home Companion," Mr. Paul de Longpre, who is the greatest painter of flowers in the world, consented to make a painting of what he considered "The Three Most Beautiful Roses," and the painting is without doubt one of the masterpieces of this great artist. This magnificent picture is reproduced in all its original grandeur on the cover of the "Woman's Home Companion" for June. Although this cover is an accurate reproduction of a painting worth hundreds of dollars, yet the June number, which has this exquisite cover, may be obtained at any first-class newsstand or direct from the publishers for the trival sum of only 10 cents.

Mr. Paul de Longpre is justly styled the "King of Flower Painters." He not only paints roses, but every flower that grows, and is the highest authority on flowers. His paintings are found in the most select homes. Some have sold for as much as seven thousand five hundred dollars ($7,500.00).

Artists, art critics and competent judges all agree that the covers of the "Woman's Home Companion" far excel those of any other magazine.

The "Woman's Home Companion" is a magazine which in beauty and excellence, art, stories, illustrations and fashions, etc., excels all other home and family magazines. The "Woman's Home Companion" is published by the Crowell Publishing Company, New York City, also Chicago, Ill., at One Dollar a year, and is the favorite magazine in nearly half a million homes, where it is read each and every issue by three million people.

SHREDDED WHEAT (WHOLE) RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

BOOMING THEIR COFFEE.

Porto Rican Government Spending Money to Popularize Its Product.

The sum of about $15,000 has been appropriated by the Porto Rican Assembly for the expenses of booming Porto Rico coffee in the United States," says the "Merchants' Review." "A Mr. Scott Truxton has been appointed as agent. His salary will be $2,500 and he will have an assistant at $1800, leaving about $10,000 for general expenses.

"On July 1st an office will be opened in this city for the sale of the Porto Rican coffee, from which points the leading hotels and clubs will be canvassed by the agent. There will be no attempt to popularize the coffee by cutting the price, as has been done in the case of Ceylon tea, but as the article to be sold will be obtained from the producers of the best quality grown in the island, the prices at which orders are to be solicited will be considerably above those which are charged for ordinary grades of coffee.

"As the Porto Rican coffee averages near the top level of West Indian coffees, in point of quality, it ought to find a ready market here."

The Porto Rico Company, with offices at 587-589 Howard street have recorded a decided success in introducing their coffee to the Pacific Coast trade. The "Ponce de Leon" brand, which represents the highest quality has won deserved popularity.

They have excited much interest by paying school children $5 each for writing advertisements for their Ponce de Leon coffee. There is hardly a school in the city but is able to show one or more prize winners.

The six grocers who, between April 15th and August 15th, handle the most Ponce de Leon coffee are each to be presented with a handsome solid gold Waltham watch worth $60.

OIL STORAGE.

How Proper Storage Might Have Saved Life and Property.

Much attention has been given the question of safe oil and gasoline storage of late, the result of a serious loss of life in the Northwest.

A merchant was obliged to go down in the basement soon after dusk to get a can of oil, and in some way upset his lantern. The flames caught up a small stream of oil that had leaked out of an old tank, and before the merchant could extinguish the flames, his clothes were ablaze and the tank ignited. In the catastrophe which followed, the unfortunate man was burned to death, and his store destroyed.

Only a few days previous, a representative of a well known tank manufacturing firm called upon this merchant and endeavored to convince him of the disadvantages of his method of handling oil, and the advantages which a good substantial self-measuring oil outfit would offer. His reason for not buying was that there was not much profit in oil, and he did not feel he could afford a new tank. Upon a return visit, shortly after the fire, this salesman had little trouble in placing his outfits in the stores of the other merchants in the town referred to.

In its endeavor to place a perfect self-measuring oil outfit upon the market to overcome this danger of fire, the firm of S. F. Bowser & Co. has made a careful study of the question, and have now perfected an outfit which, without doubt, meets all the requirements of handling oil in a safe, convenient and economical manner. Not only is it absolutely safe, but convenient, durable and in all respects satisfactory. This outfit merits the careful attention of all merchants who desire to insure the safety of their stores and the lives of themselves and clerks.

As stated on another page of this issue, the above firm will be pleased to send any merchant interested detailed information.

CRITICIZES DENTIST LEEK.

A short time ago the Advocate printed a letter sent to the daily press by Dentist G. W. Leek. Mr. Leek owns a prune orchard and he insisted that the prune growers were suffering because the "mild-faced" grocer was dishonest and was forcing the public to pay exorbitant prices on prunes. In commenting on this the "Grocery World" of Philadelphia says:

Mr. Leek is a leaky fool. More than that, he is a teller of falsehoods, to speak more mildly, perhaps, than the circumstances warrant. The "Grocery World" has itself suggested that perhaps the average retail price of prunes was higher than the wholesale price warranted, but in no case has any grocer bought prunes at 4½ cents and sold them at 18 cents.

You have only to read Mr. Leek's interview once to tell what an awful ass he is. "Grocers sell nothing without a profit," he says, in an accusatory tone, as if getting a profit was a crime. And grocers get 5 per cent cash discount on "flour, sugar and all such things," he further says. What colossal ignorance! Why, the man doesn't even know that a jobber's profit comes between the commission merchant who receives prunes from the coast and the retail price. Read his last paragraph—he has added the commission merchant's profit to the carload price delivered in New York to get the retail selling price!

Mr. Leek, the "Grocery World's" advice to you is to load your hot air with at least one fact.

SHORT WEIGHT CRACKERS.

A Nebraska grocer reports the following shortages in Biscuit Trust goods: "In their Faust oyster cracker packages I found 11 ounces net of crackers, while their three-pound packages of soda crackers, so-called, weigh, gross, two pounds and six ounces, and the package will weigh at least six ounces, leaving two pounds net, or 33⅓ per cent shortage. Besides the short weights the prices are high enough, and more, too, for fullweight packages."

A VALUABLE BOOK.

J. J. Higgins, secretary of the Washington State Grocers' Association, is compiling a book that should be of much value to the grocers of that State.

It will contain the delinquent list of the various associations. It will also contain the names of the State and local officers and their addresses.

It will give an outline and forms of one of the best credit rating systems in use. It will also contain various useful hints for secretaries and members. It is proposed to sell this book to members of the various associations for 50 ceits per copy.

Clerk's Corner

A Pointer for Clerks.

I once had two clerks. Eames was getting $12 a week and Roberts $15. Eames asked for a raise. I told him that his services would not, as yet, justify it, and that the business could not afford it. He was not satisfied, even after I told him I would do better by him just as soon as I could.

A few days afterward Roberts had occasion to criticise his associate for a very apparent lack of interest in the job in hand. Eames answered: "Well, I guess I do it well enough for $12 a week."

It was in that spirit that his work was done. He was getting only $12, and was determined to earn no more until paid more. Roberts, on the other hand, put in his best efforts, and tried to make himself more valuable with every day that passed.

I am to-day paying Roberts $2,100 per year, while I was compelled to discharge Eames at the end of his first year.

Loyalty of Employe.

A strong spirit of loyalty to the employer should cover up many minor shortcomings of the employe. Without abundant loyalty the best of the other qualities a merchant's employes are expected to have are not worth much.

Another kind of loyalty is that which makes an employe faithful to the interests of his co-workers.

Still another kind of loyalty is faithfulness to high principles, which have been instilled in the mind in the days of one's childhood. Faithfulness of this character means loyalty to the public—a loyalty which keeps a man from trickery, "grafting" and generally rapacious practices.

Fortunate is the retail storekeeper whose clerical force contains none but those whose loyalty is of that strong and tough character that covers all the relations mentioned above. Fortunate also are the assistants who are faithful and true in all kinds of service. Fortunate is the public that is supplied by stores provided with such salesmen.

Infuse Sympathetic Feeling.

There are apparently successful businesses wherein every man's hand seems to be against every other man's hand; where suspicion and jealousy are rife, and where employer suspects employe, and employe resents all espionage with a smoldering malice and hatred that bodes ill for the future of the business. A few seeds of true loyalty sown in such apparently unsuitable soil might actually revolutionize the whole business and bring into action unsuspected energy, turning failure into success, or adding tenfold to the prosperity already existent.

A common form of disloyalty is shown in criticisms of the acts of superiors. In some businesses there is nothing the employer or employers can possibly attempt that would not excite invidious comment or sour criticism and complaints. Like the sailor of the old school, the clerk who has lost all feeling of loyalty to his employer looks upon every incident with a jaundiced eye, and is often as quick to suspect, criticise and condemn his fellow-workers. Disloyalty is sometimes due more to sluggish liver than anything else.

LEADING CATSUP MANUFACTURERS.

The T. A. Snider Preserve Company of Cincinnati, Ohio, manufacturers of Snider's Home Made Catsup, have always been able to secure the major part of the catsup business from the fact that their catsup is recognized by the public as the best and purest produced.

To begin with, the Snider Preserve Company grow all their own tomatoes, pick them when fresh and ripe and make their catsup while their tomatoes are in their very best condition.

Other ingredients necessary in catsup making, such as vinegar and sugar, must be high grade. Large quantities of pure water are obtained from artesian wells.

The company operates eight factories—modern in every respect and kept scrupulously clean. The Snider Preserve Company extend invitations to the public to visit their various factories so that they may see how the catsup is made.

A man always remembers his enemies, but he sometimes forgets his friends.

SUGAR MARKET.

New York, May 25—Willett & Gray report:

Raws—The week under review appears to have brought about a change for the better. Europe has made steady improvement from the low point of the downward tread.

Refined—The market shows small signs of improvement, not yet sufficient to influence the market to any extent. Prices show no indication of change immediately or until undelivered contracts are filled by deliveries at contract prices."

GLUCOSE.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19th—Conditions are growing stronger. An advance of 10 cents per bushel on corn indicates an advance of 10 to 15 points. As soon as old stock of corn is exhausted, the glucose plants will have to advance prices or manufacture at a loss."

MAPLE SUGAR.

Grand Rapids, Mich, May 17th—Stroup & Carmer report:

"The season was very short and only about half a crop was harvested. Prices are firm."

Lowville, N. Y., May 19th—R. J. Richardson & Co. report:

"The crop in this section is about one-third short of the normal. Prices have advanced during the past two weeks. Syrup is sold at 75 cents and sugar for 10 cents. Considerable syrup is being held for higher prices."

Bellefontaine, O., May 20—F. N. Johnson Co. report.

"Buyers and farmers in Vermont were forced by the short crops to pay about 20 cents per gallon over the opening price in Ohio. This has increased the tub maple syrup about 2 to 2½ cents per pound above the price it was thought the article could be had for."

COFFEE MARKET.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. report:

"Recent private advices which we have received from London, are to the effect that the leading coffee importers of that city believe that the reported shortage in this year's crop has been greatly exaggerated. In fact the opinion prevails that it will be little short of the crop of 1903.

"This opinion is somewhat affecting the American trade in the East, but in California, the market being controled by local supply and demand, the condition is different.

"Locally receipts will be greater than in 1904. Roasters are buying freely, and have little stock on hand.

"We believe that prices are now at about their lowest possible level, approximating the cost of production; hence we look upon it as a safe proposition to carry a full stock at present prices."

New York, May 23rd—Volney, Green & Son report:

"Low and medium grades of Rio and Santos continue scarce. Grades from No. 2 to No. 4 can be bought at 1-8 to ¼ cent lower. There is a better undertone throughout the market to-day and holders are firm on all grades with roasting merit."

TEA.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"The Shanghai market has opened with prices substantially as last year for better grades, and about 8 per cent less on cheaper grades.

"Yokohoma prices are as in our last reports. The local business is good."

A. Schilling & Co. say:

"Recent reports from Japan are to the effect that prices are somewhat firmer."

New York, May 23rd, John B. Brown & Co. report:

Congous—Cables from Hankow state that the market for new crop opens 7 per cent less than last season. The quality, however, is reported to be poorer than that offered at opening last year.

Japans—Cable advices show prices to be exactly the same as last season. From indications to date, it would seem that the present Japan pickings would compare in volume and price with previous seasons.

Green Teas—A large amount of business has been transacted in Pingsueys during the past week at somewhat higher prices than ruled a month ago.

Oolongs—Cable advices differ. Some state opening prices for Formosas are 2 cents over last year. Others say the prices are only 1 cent per pound more. All cables agree that the quality is poorer than last season.

RICE MARKET.

M. Phillips & Co. report:

"The Japan rice has again advanced, and mills in the South are asking a basis of 3 cents for ordinary Japan rice, which would mean $3.55, actual cost to the jobber in San Francisco. The prospects are that the rice market will go much higher. Weather conditions are such that they can not put in their crops and unless there is less rain within the next ten days, Japan rice will go to 4 cents, perhaps higher.

"Other grades have advanced in sympathy; in fact, all grades of rice, that is, Louisiana and Texas rice, have advanced all the way from ¼ to $1 a bag. We will give a full detailed report regarding prices and outlook next week."

Dan Talmage Sons' Co. report:

"The market has been highly excited and large sales have been made. Japan rice advanced ½ to ¾ cent and Honduras ¼ to ⅜ cent. Advanced prices are fully maintained.

"The market in Japan and Honduras at New Orleans has advanced sharply. In southwestern Louisiana and Texas there has been brisk demand for all clean stock.

"Although values have materially advanced, holders are convinced that prices will be much higher since it is estimated that only 25 per cent of the acreage has been seeded owing to the unfavorable weather, which will shorten the present crop (1905-1906).

CANNED FRUITS.

The association has withdrawn prices on apricots, pears, Royal Ann cherries and all peaches except a few clings.

Pears and cherries will be scarce and high.

Haywards—The local cannery is not running full blast because the crop of cherries is so light. It will not employ many hands until apricots are ripe.

Fernando—The Fruit Growers Association has decided to dry the entire apricot crop. After a sharp fight between three canneries, the peaches have been sold to the Pasadena Canning Company at the highest prices ever received in this section.

Folsom—There will be good crops of all kinds except pears in this vicinity. Pears will be a total failure.

Pasadena—County Horticultural Inspector C. A. Day says there is not enough decidious fruit in this section to warrant canneries in opening up. There will be good crops of peaches and apricots in the country north of El Cajon.

Loomis—The Fruit Growers' Association of Placer county has decided to stand together on the matter of prices. Placer and Sutter counties will come nearer having a full crop of canning peaching than any other place. The Bartlett pear crop will be from one-half to nothing. In no place is a full crop of pears reported.

CANNED TOMATOES.

The Central California canneries are reported as offering future tomatoes at 65 cents.

CANNED CORN.

A prominent brokerage firm writes the Advocate:

"According to the United States government crop reports for the Middle Western States (which takes in the corn belt of the United States) and also from priavte advices, it is apparent that they are having a very cold spring. This seems to have destroyed to a certain extent the very early planting of corn, and of course, interfering very seriously with the planting during the month of May, which is the average time for planting of corn for canning purposes. This condition of things has already had its effect in strengthening packers views on the 1905 pack, and it is thought by Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Chicago speculators in this product that the extreme low price (about 60 cents in car lots) will not prevail again in the immediate future. We are talking now about a strictly standard article of corn. Of course 'off qualities' are simply worth what the jobber or retailer is willing to pay for them."

CANNED ASPARAGUS.

The extra cold weather of the past few weeks will tend to further curtail the asparagus pack. It is now thought that not more than 30 per cent of the orders can be delivered. This means that the entire pack of asparagus is in the hands of the jobbing trade to make their own prices.

RAISINS.

Because of the formation of the Rasin Growers' Association, packers opposed to the association are offering outside growers 3 cents per pound for raisins in the sweat box. The officers of the association have sent out a strong circular advising growers against against accepting this price. In their circular they state that every pound of the old crop raisins is to-day worth 3½ cents and will be worth 4 cents per pound before next fall if the new growers' committee has control of the crop. As the price received by the growers last year was only 1¾ cents per pound in the sweat box, it will readily be seen that all sound raisins are good property at ruling prices. In their circular the association says:

"Every statistical condition to-day points to a higher price next fall for raisins. At this time last year there were over 20,000 tons of raisins on the market unsold. To-day there are not over 5000 tons of sound raisins in California, about one-half in packers' hands and one-half in growers' hands. What raisins there are in packers' hands cost them during the flurry subsequent to the heavy rains last fall, 3 cents per pound. With insurance and interest charges accruing since last fall, packers who are now carrying raisins, cannot afford to sell at less than a 3-cent basis. In fact, they are to-day scrambling to purchase old raisins at 3 cents as a speculation to carry over the next fall's trade, realizing this early that there will be a handsome profit on a 3-cent purchase. After showing enough backbone by carrying your 1904 raisins this late, is it not foolish to hand the accrued profit over to a middle man, who takes no risk?"

PRUNE MARKET.

Walter M. Field of the Hooke-Field Co., says:

"The prune market is now practically on a 3c f. o. b. basis on new crop Santa Clara prunes, and you can safely assert that 2¾c basis is now an inside figure. You cannot be too strong in predicting a 3c basis market for Santa Clara prunes and 2¾c probably for outside fruit. That, however, is as much as the market will stand." Beyond that price prunes will not sell. The grower holds the key to the situation this season, for with a small crop they are in a position to dictate prices within the limits I have defined. A most encouraging feature of the situation on the Coast is the export demand, which indicates that the goods are going abroad in the usual quantity at the advanced prices. Not more than 200 cars of 1904 prunes remain on the Coast, and these are being gradually absorbed by the demands of both home and export buyers. I sent out an inquiry for some 90s or smaller sizes and received the reply that there was absolutely none to offer."

State Horticultural Commissioner Elwood Cooper has sent out queries to growers to learn what plan of co-operation of selling their crops would be most acceptable to the majority. The idea is to establish some means by which the selling of a large part of the crop can be concentrated into one hand and thus prevent wild competition.

San Jose, May 27th—Prune prices for the coming year were discussed at yesterday's meeting of the Dried Fruit Promotion Association. The following cable was read, showing that the European crop would be light. "Bosnian and Servian crop medium only. Prospects do not look very good. The French crop fairly large. Prices continue on the upward course."

A general discussion as to the probable price developed the fact that a 2c basis would not be acceptable and that prunes would be worth as much this year as in any year since 1900. A committee was appointed to take up the matter of having an official label to be put

DATES.

New York, May 20th—The Hills Bros. Co. report:

"Stocks of Persian dates are unusually light. Supplies are being steadily reduced and will be fully cleaned up before the arrival of the new crop."

CURRANTS.

New York, May 23d—The Greek Currant Co. reports:

"The situation is somewhat undetermined because of doubt as to what the Parliament of Athens will do with regard to proposed legislation. Supplies on the spot are much lighter than they were last year at the same time. Cables report the market firm at last week's quotations."

HONEY.

Lordsburg—The prospects for the bee men never looked brighter. Such an immense new crop of white sage has never before been known. This is now in full blossom. The crop of honey will be very large and a very great proportion will be light amber.

BEANS.

Los Angeles, May 17th—Holmes & Stackard Co. say:

"It seems certain now that spot stocks, although they will command big prices, will be exhausted within the next 60 days. The new crop will come into an unprecedentedly eager market—bare of supplies.

"The late rains delayed planting some ten or fifteen days and made it necessary to re-seed some land that had already been planted. The lateness of the season has strengthened the hopes of the growers who are looking for about $3.50 Coast, for future prices. Beans are good property and experience shows them to be a safe buy when contracted for at anything near that price in about eight seasons out of ten."

CANNED SALMON.

Portland—The small run of salmon in the Columbia is creating trouble among the various packers. The run has become so small on the Upper Columbia that dealers there are paying 7c a pound for chinooks, steelheads or bluebacks.

Bellingham, May 26th—In the "Reveille," D. L. Platt of the "Seattle Fisherman" is quoted as saying: "Practically every plant on the Sound will be operated to its fullest extent provided there is enough fish caught to keep it going. The canners are putting all their available money into traps, canning equipments, etc., necessary to put up a good big catch. If the fish do not come as the canners expect, the results will be disastrous to many who will be unable to stand the great financial loss. The canners are preparing to handle all the fish that can be caught and if the sockeye run is even near what is expected, the 1905 catch will be a record breaker."

Portland, May 23d—Spot salmon is very firm. Columbia River chinooks are in larger demand than ever and already the sales have probably exceeded the entire pack of the season. The weather has been very unfavorable for a good catch and canners along the lower river complain of the dullness. However, they all agree that this year's pack is, to date, ahead of that of the previous season. The markets here show slightly better supplies today, but the demand is so great that prices are even firmer than ever.

MACKEREL.

New York, May 19.—Thos. Woodward & Son report:

"There will not be enough old fat Irish mackerel to go around and there is no chance of getting any more fat mackerel of any sort until next September or October. The Spring catch will not interfere with the old fat Irish.

"The market is bare of No. 1 mackerel. All the Nova Scotia and Gloucester mackerel have been cleared up. Norways are practically concentrated into one hand and are very firmly held.

"While orders are coming in for Irish now at $15.50 for 300-400 count, it will not be long before buyers will be glad to pay $17.

"All kinds of barrel herring are practically cleaned up, both domestic and imported. In fact, stocks of all fish have not been cleaned up so thoroughly before for many years."

AMERICAN SARDINES.

According to the New York Journal of Commerce there will probably be a war among the packers of domestic sardines. The Sea Coast Co. (the trust) has said that it will no longer "hold the umbrella" for the independent packers, and certain independent interests say that they will meet and undersell the trust price, whatever it may be.

In speaking of the probable pack, the article says: "It is generally predicted by fishermen that catches on the offtides in June will be very light. Consequently, after the present run is over it is expected that very few goods will be packed in June."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"New limburger cheese, the quality of which is poor, is in the market and sells at a low price. Fancy October made limburger is very scarce and high in price."

OLIVES.

Wieland Bros. say:

"California ripe olives of good quality are very scarce and command a good price."

HAY.

Somers & Co. report:

"Choice hay for retail purposes holds very firm and is in good demand; the medium grades show a trifle more activity owing to the decreased supply, but poorer stock sells very slowly. Some districts will be shorter than last year, whereas in other parts there will be a greatly increased crop. The recent showers will help make more grain in some districts, and will also tend to spoil some volunteer that got considerably damaged in the early rains.

"Choice wheat hay is selling up to $14 and $15 per ton here."

GROCERS RESEMBLE GROWERS.

The experience of men who have labored in building up grocers' associations will make them sympathize with the following paragraph taken from the "Exponent" of Redley. That paper in speaking about the difficulties in bringing about united action among raisin growers, says:

"The ingratitude and indifference of many growers who had stared destitution in the face some years ago could not be accounted for. The selfishness of greed for their own benefit, not caring for the benefits to be derived by others besides themselves was beyond comprehension. Nearly every grocer hoped the new company would be a go, but to save a paltry 25 cents per acre to themselves for the time being, would let it fail. Some of these men will bear the "mark" for years to come and in their innermost selves will wish they had signed.

"'The Exponent' has done its part as earnestly as it could and has no regrets for the part it has taken in the work, but finds it very hard to refrain from saying some hard words to those who have refused to join with their neighbors to help save the most and best promising industry in agriculture in this State or nation."

PUSHING PRICE'S FOOD.

Energetic efforts are being made to secure the initial introduction of Dr. Price's Wheat-Flaked Celery Food. The agents are now distributing from house to house in Oakland 25,000 orders upon retail grocers for full-sized packages of Dr. Price's Food. These orders will be redeemed at the office of the Dr. Price's Celery Food Company, 115 Davis street, at the full retail price of two for 25 cents. As soon as the campaign is completed in Oakland, it will be taken up in Alameda and Berkeley. Their activity will then be transfered to San Francisco.

The consideration for the rights of the retail grocer exhibited by this concern is very laudable. Instead of distributing large quantities of free samples, which prevent the sale of just that much of their goods by the retail grocers they send the consumer to the grocers direct for the goods and let the dealer get his profit on all goods that are thus taken up by their customers.

Retail grocers will be wise to prepare themselves for the demand that should ensure. The price of Dr. Price's Food has been reduced to $3.70.

City soil is said to be superior to country soil for wild oats.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

Usual rates, apartment with private bath, $3.00 per day and up without meals; parlor, bedroom and private bath, $35.00 per week and up, with meals for two. VALUE OF CONFIDENCE.

A value can hardly be placed on confidence between business people today. Faith in a man's word and honor is what makes credit, credit in the broad sense of the word, and this is the chief essential of prosperity.

This principle extends from the banker whose check is honored for thousands to the retailer who advises his customer in her purchases.

If you want to build up a broad guage business, study the interests of your customer. There is no one way in which you can gratify her better than by recommending "Sunset" Brand mackerel broiled in olive oil.

PLAN MEETS APPROVAL.

it means that they will be prepared to help secure a profit on other articles if they are given the chance.

There is no reason why the retail grocers of California should not be able to add at least 5 per cent to their gross receipts and be saved the necessity of meeting the unfair competition of department store cutters and the advertising "cash" stores that fail.

Do your part by helping the men with the starch that offers to pay you a profit.

Your success then will help make other firms see that it will pay them to protect you and they will help you get a profit, too.

Cigars and Tobacco

S. B. Korn recently received the third shipment of E. A. Kline & Co's El Symphonie Perfecto Extras.

The American Tobacco Company has given notice to the jobbers that their contracts on plug tobaccos expiring this month will not be renewed.

The Rough Rider has become one of the leading brands on all the best stands of San Francisco, and is a great favorite with smokers of nickel goods. J. L. Jerichau, San Francisco distributor of this cigar, is making a very active campaign in its behalf, and has a line of very attractive display matter setting forth its merits, which he is liberally distributing to the trade.

EEhrman Bros. & Co. are much gratified with the success that has attended their campaign in behalf of the Henry Miller, their new nickel cigar. Not only have they made a big introductory sale of this cigar, but repeat orders are already coming in freely. The Henry Miller is a fine nickel smoke, and is being liberally advertised in the daily papers, bringing its merits to the attention of the smokers of five-cent cigars.

Tillmann & Bendel are opening an extensive advertising campaign in behalf of the Recruits. In addition to the bill-board advertising it will include a liberal use of the daily papers of all the leading cities and towns of the coast. They are receiving some heavy orders for this cigar as well as for their clear Havana leader, the Sanchez and Haya.

The tobacco farmers about Lexington, Kentucky, have determined upon a plan to finance the 1905 crop, which is, in brief, the organization of county associations in every town in the tobacco belt at a capitalization of $50,000 each. It is proposed that this stock be taken by the tobacco growers in exchange for their tobacco at the rate of $5 per hundred pounds. When all the stock has been issued the company will have one million pounds of tobacco and should it sell for more than five cents per pound there will be paid to the county associations 80 per cent of the proceeds, the remainder to go to a controlling company. The latter will have a capitalization of $50,000 and will do business as the Burley Sales and Warehouse Company. The county companies will make advances to the growers who need money before their crops have been disposed of.

Can California Grow Tobacco.

Prof. A. D. Shamel, expert on tobacco culture, is expected to visit the Sacramento valley during the present year for the purpose of investigating the possibilities of tobacco culture here.

There are many people who believe tobacco to be one of the crops that may be successfully and profitably grown on Sacramento valley lands. It is a fact that tobacco has been grown in many parts of the valley and no doubt there are to-day many plats grown for the individual use of the owners.

The Sacramento Valley Development Association wants to locate some of these tobacco patches and will appreciate communications from persons who are now growing and who have grown tobacco, or from any person who knows of growing tobacco.

It has been urged against tobacco culture that the extremely dry climate of this State is not conductive to the best results in drying the leaf, but, if so, no doubt artificial means can be found to correct any unfavorable conditions for curing.

The first step in introducing this valuable crop is to grow the weed, and if, as expected, the valley soils prove to be especially suited to it, there is little doubt that great and profitable industry may result.—Red Bluff Sentinel.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

Owing to the continued absence in Europe of Mr. Joy Norton, president of the Great Western Cereal Company, that company has informed the National Grocers' Association that they cannot give a definite reply by June 1st as to whether they will discontinue giving premiums and ask for a continuance of several weeks. It is promised that the matter will be taken up as promptly as possible.

St. Louis—The recent "Dollar Dinner" of the St. Louis Retail Grocers, because of the contributions of various firms, showed a net profit of $23,645.

Tacoma—The Grocers' Association has completed arrangements for its annual picnic to be held in July. Arrangements are being made for the reception of J. R. Newberry, who will visit Tacoma the latter part of May.

Spokane—The grocers are to have their annual picnic at Coeur d'Alene. All the merchants' associations in the Inland Empire have been invited to join the Spokane associations in the picnic and many have accepted.

Salt Lake City, Utah—The Grocers' Association was addressed at its last meeting by State Food Commissioner John Peterson who spoke about "Food Adulterations." Food Inspector J. J. Meyer also addressed the association and asked the co-operation of the members in a fair enforcement of the law.

Detroit, Mich.—The secretary has been instructed to secure speakers of prominence to address the members at their next meeting in hopes that it will increase the attendance. At the request of the association the Epicure Baking Company agreed to discontinue all premiums in the sale of its bread and other goods. The grocers are trying to secure the passage of a law to make the wife jointly responsible for the necessaries of life.

New Orleans—The directors of the Grocers' Association recognize the necessity of assisting the development of the "Louisiana Grocer," which is being printed in the interests of the grocery trade in their city. Plans are being made to increase its strength and value.

Michigan—The assembly has passed the Hudson bill which prohibits the retailing of liquors in grocery stores and other establishments where merchandise other than liquor is sold.

Texas—In their call for the State Convention which is to be held in Mineral Wells on June 13th and 14th, the State Grocers' Association says. "No grocer could spend two days to better advantage than by attending this convention."

DENOUNCE COFFEE JOBBERS.

Two of the Denver daily papers are giving away premiums to parties placing want ads in their Sunday issues. The matter was brought up at a recent meeting of the Denver Grocers' Association and language that would not look well in print was used by the grocers in denouncing both the firms who are furnishing the coffee.

One grocer stated he would never buy a pound of the coffee being given away by the two papers.

It was estimated that from ten to twelve thousand pounds were given away each Saturday.

One member said that if the roaster sold the coffee to the retail dealers at 8 cents per pound instead of 22 and 28 cents that they also might sell it for 10 cents per pound.

CHAMPIONS "FUTURE" BUYING.

The agitation against the buying of "futures" has brought forward several champions of that practice.

One of these advocates asserts that it is the only possible safeguard against a constant state of demoralization, particularly in the canned goods market, with alternate periods of shortages and over-production which would be highly unprofitable to the packer, the jobber and the retailer.

The New York "Merchants' Review" asserts that the contention that this year's purchases of staple products is not affording a good margin of profit, because of prevailing conditions, is not a fair way to look at the question, because the slump in values is simply a mid-season fluctuation of very common occurrence and one which should cause the dealer no apprehension. That journal favors the policy of future buying to the extent of making contracts for reasonable supplies of superior goods, which are not only a safe purchase as a rule, in its opinion, but unless the orders are placed in advance a sufficient supply may not be obtainable from the factories to cover the ensuing twelve months.

The majority of grocers also give testimony that their purchases ordinarily give satisfactory returns which compensate them for assuming the burden of carrying stocks that otherwise would have to be carried by the manufacturer and wholesaler until such time as the demands of their trade would necessitate laying in supplies.

The greatest danger, and one which even the most optimistic admits, is in making advance purchases in excess of the season's requirements and thereby tying up needed capital in dead stocks or tempting the dealer into an effort to unload by putting the knife to prices and profits.

A wise woman never gives her husband a letter to mail if she hopes to receive an early reply.— Chicago News.

PORTO RICO PLEASES.

Coffee experts agree in stating that the islands of Porto Rico produces the finest coffee in the world. The high standing of this coffee always secured it a ready market in European countries at high prices before it became the property of the United States.

Since the Porto Rico Company have begun the introduction of Porto Rico coffee to the consumers of the Pacific Coast, they have found that this coffee pleases the discriminating coffee drinkers here also. Among other evidences, is the following unsolicited letter that was received last week from a lady who, having received a free sample of the coffee, was so pleased at having found a coffee so much to the liking of her household that she wrote as follows:

Porto Rico Co., San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sirs: Your demonstrator left a sample of your coffee at my house and I am writing to thank you for the same. We have found a coffee that is a coffee.

I have ordered some more from our grocer.

Thanking you for the favor you have done me in this regard, I beg to remain, Respectfully yours,

Mrs. Leon B. Reynolds,
1138 Broderick Street.

WHAT LAWSON PLANS.

The Advocate is in receipt of a circular which Thos. W. Lawson has sent to all the newspapers of the country in which he states explicitly what he expects to accomplish by his attacks upon the great combination of Standard Oil magnates and other stock-jobbing millionaires of this country. He states that he wishes to show the danger of present conditions so clearly that all the general investors in the country will sell the stock they hold in the concerns of the "system" at the present high prices. He will then urge the people to withdraw their money from the banks so that the "system" cannot use the money of the great public in order to maintain their ficticious price.

Lawson then proposes to spring his remedy which will not only squeeze all the water out of the inflated stocks and reduce them to their real value, but will prevent any future inflation of prices by which the millionaire schemers will be able to make themselves rich by selling to the public water and retaining for themselves the rich rewards of their enterprises.

LOW DOWN SPIRIT.

Editor Menzies of the "Grocer and Country Merchant" has made it a point to personally attack every association leader whenever he has found or has been able to invent an excuse. Speaking of certain indecent editorial utterances which Mr. Menzies used recently the "New England Grocer" says:

The San Francisco Grocer with ghoulish glee gloats over their troubles—forgets that hundreds of others not engaged in association work fail every day. A pretty low down spirit is that which, vulture like, rejoices in another's downfall and hopes the fallen have had "common sense" and boasts that it alone knows what is sensible and what is absurd. A paper that favors trading stamps to-day and opposes them to-morrow—what value can it claim for its future services in the field of trade journalism?"

BIGGEST SELLER IN MARKET.

Carnation Cream is growing more popular all the time. In the summer people put Carnation Cream to a wider range of uses than at any other time of the year. For instance, they make custards, and all kinds of pastries, ices, etc., with it, and use it on berries,, cereals, preserves, etc., all of which are especially in season in summer time.

The Spohn-Patrick Company say that the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Company, manufacturers of Carnation Cream, are handling a larger volume of business at present than at any previous time of its existence.

The demand for the cream seems to be equally great for all territory in which it is sold.

A poor man may be a crank, but a rich one is eccentric.

LEWIS AND CLARK EXPOSITION.

Biggest Thing of the Kind Ever Attempted in the West.

The Lewis and Clark Exposition, which is to be held at Portland, Oregon, this summer, is the first great fair to be held west of the Rocky Mountains under the sanction and patronage of the United States Government. The fair, while not so large as those held at Chicago and St. Louis, is by all odds the biggest thing ever attempted in the West, and the West has put its heart into the undertaking, with the result that the exposition, while showing many things that might have been seen at earlier fairs, is in many ways original, and has a number of attractive features which are possible only at a fair so advantageously situated.

The fair on opening day, June 1, will represent an expenditure of $5,000,000 and its exhibits has an estimated value of five times that sum. The participation which the United States Government has provided could not be duplicated for $800,000.

The specific historical events which the Lewis and Clark Centennial commemorates is one worthy a great enterprise of its nature—the exploration by Captain Meriwether Lewis and William Clark of the great Pacific Northwest and the discovery by them of an overland route to the Pacific ocean, an accomplishment which added 307,000 square miles to the territory of the United States.

A SATISFACTORY LUNCH.

Did you ever go out on a fishing trip and after tramping through the brush and wading the creek for half a day, sit down ravenously hungry for lunch? Then was the time that you wanted something satisfying and filling, as well as dainty and tasty.

If you have ever tried Sunset Canned Mackerel you know how completely it fills the bill. You need not hesitate to take it yourself or recommend it to customers.

BUSINESS BUILDERS.

The Brower-Rich Co. are the latest candidates for recognition in the field of manufacturers agents of San Francisco. They have offices at 330 Market street and already represent several important accounts. Chief of these is the Holbrook's sauce. This is the only important English sauce now sold in the American market. Mr. Brower has presented the numerous advantages of Holbrook's sauce to the grocers of many climes. His associate, Mr. Rich, has had a long experience in the grocery business. They should prove a strong combination in building business.

HOLDING THEIR OWN.

"We are holding our own and getting considerable new business," this is how Manager Favel of the Pacific Creamery Co. sizes up the situation as regards Lily Cream. "We have the goods," he adds, "and in the words of the classic poet, we are 'getting there!'"

Amusements

THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"The Holy City" is one of the really notable productions of the week. It deals with the time just preceding and following the crucifixion of Christ. This wonderful melodrama is the basis of the story which is worked up with skill and strength and is gorgeously staged. Miss Stone plays the part of Mary of Magdalen, the beautiful woman of pleasure who is shown first in her riotous living and later as the repentant and gentle follower of Christianity. The play is well cast and finely presented. This is the last week of the Ferris Company. Barney Barnard follows with a week of "The Financier," which has been strengthened considerably since its production at the Majestic.

THE ALCAZAR.

Crowds have given their approval of Miss Woodson in "Tennessee's Pardner," Bret Harte's story of the Calaveras mines. The story is a beautiful one in which plain, ordinary men do things that stir the blood and bring the tear of sympathy to the eye. "Judah," the famous play of Henry Arthur Jones, is to follow on Monday, June 5. Both Mr. Craig and Miss Lawrence will have strong parts.

THE MAJESTIC.

"Mizpah" is now in its last nights. If there are any who have not seen this beautiful dramatic presentation of the great Bibical story of Esther, they should make it a point to take a night off for that purpose. Mrs. Fiske, the actress who is almost as famous for her fight against the theatrical thrust as she is for her great talent, begins a two weeks' engagement on Monday evening with "Leah Kleschua."

THE TIVOLI.

"The Tenderfoot" is in its second week of deserved success. The piece is full of fun and catchy music and is presented with a strong cast and a large, pretty and beautifully costumed chorus.

THE CENTRAL.

Theodore Gamble and Grace Hopkins, the new leading people of this theatre, made their bow to the Central audiences this week in "Why He Divorced Her." This is a sensational society drama full of intrigue and trouble. There is a leavening of comedy that lightens the piece, which has been well received.

WEBER'S MUSIC HALL.

"Miss Frisky From Fresno" is a hodge podge of nonsense and specialties that is held together by an almost imperceptible thread of story. It has served to introduce Weber's Music Hall to San Francisco. This theatre is located at 121-127 Mason street, in the building formerly occupied by the "Terrace Gardens." It is a pretty little house and present a good entertainment of its kind.

FISCHER'S.

Henry Lee, a character impersonator, is the leading card at Fischer's this week. A strong list of vaudeville stars completes the bill. There is a matinee every day at this theatre and two performances each evening.

THE CHUTES.

The big free theatre has been showing "Cleopatra Up-to-Date" again this week. The stage full of clever children has proven a strong attraction. The great play ground presents more different kinds of amusements for less money than any other place in San Francisco.

SHOULD KEEP PIM-OLAS.

At this time of the year it would be impossible to suggest a more seasonable and appropriate article for window display than Pim-Olas.

Pim-Olas sharpen the appetite.

There is no table relish to be compared with them.

Pim-Olas are used by the elite on all occasions for garnishing salads, hot and cold meats, fish, oysters, etc., and for cocktails.

Picnics are now occupying the attention of the public more than ever before. Nearly every one includes a bottle of Pim-Olas in their lunch.

A DRINK THAT PLEASES.

Welch's Grape Juice is valuable as food and pleasant as a drink.

With the coming warm weather the consumers' thoughts turn naturally to something light and refreshing to drink, and what is better than grape juice, of which so many delicious punches and dainty desserts may be prepared.

The Spohn-Patrick Company's traveling representatives are effectively promoting the sale of Welch's Grape Juice, which is now the leader in its line.

Attracting Trade

Getting Business.

I was once acquainted with a young man who started in the grocery business with fair capital and good prospects, but who had a very peculiar idea of the matter of profits, says a writer in the "Inland Grocer." He was very ambitious to do a big business and seemed to think that if he sold enough goods he was all right, no matter how much he got for them, so long as the selling price was above cost. He would sell an article that cost 25 cents at 26 or 27 cents, and believe that he was making money. Within five years he failed twice, and no doubt would have done so again had his family been willing to help him make the experiment a third time.

The moral of this tale is that there is no net profit, nothing for the merchant himself, until the retail price is more than enough to cover all the expenses of handling the goods.

Keep Margin of Profit Right.

Every merchant is intent upon increasing the total of his sales, for other things being equal, his profits increase in direct proportion with the volume of business.

These "others things," which should be equal are not always so. We have all observed the repeated history of the man who starts a store in a small way with light expenses, prospers, is touched with the fever of expansion, moves into a more expensive location, takes a larger stock on borrowed capital, fails to swing it, and goes to the wall with a crash.

What Brings Trade.

Various things enter into the campaign for new business. Cutting prices will always produce it, though this is a costly method and not to be pursued indiscriminately. Legitimate sales for a definite period are enlivening and beneficial to business, but prolonged, reckless price cutting is suicide to the best interests of trade. Advertising of some sort is nowadays conceded to be indispensable, but its many forms and features make it too large a subject for discussion here.

Display of new goods and of anything especially attractive, may be made with great advantage to their sale. Place a few packages of a sample with a brief sign, upon a front counter, where customers usually stop, and encourage the salesmen to call attention to them. Surprising results can be accomplished in this way.

Soliciting is resorted to by some merchants, but I have never looked upon it as other than an unmixed evil and an unnecessary expense. There may be circumstances under which competition forces it upon the grocer, but the trade would be much better off without it.

Prize schemes may appeal to certain people, but experience shows that the class attracted by this kind of allurement is not exceedingly desirable. Sensible people prefer good values at reasonable prices and do not expect imitation silver ware or cheap crockery as a bonus.

Cheap Goods Don't Hold Trade.

The policy of selling at the lowest prices is not the ideal policy for a grocery store. To do this profitably necessitates buying the cheaper class of goods, which are frequently unsatisfactory to the customer, and while he may be attracted by the price, the grocer never is certain of such a hold on his trade as can be obtained by always furnishing the best quality, even if at a higher price.

GROCERS AS CITY FATHERS.

Sacramento—The retail grocers of this city are well represented on the board of trustees. At the present time the grocers are represented by S. H. Farley, E. McKeween and J. Popert. This insures that anything the grocers may ask of the city fathers will receive respectful consideration.

CALIFORNIANS WANT QUALITY.

The trade generally recognizes that "quality" is what makes goods go, permanently, in California. There has been a recent exemplification of this fact. It occurred in a contest started by the Cudahy Packing Company in which three cash prizes were given to the salesmen disposing of the greatest quantity of Diamond "C" hams and bacon in the three months preceding May 1, 1905. Every sales agency of the Cudahy Packing Company in the United States set its men to work to secure record sales. It is notable that the first, third and fourth prizes went to California salesmen. The winners were: First prize, J. R. Crawford, San Francisco; third prize, W. M. Moran, Sacramento Valley; fourth prize, J. B. Bleakmore, San Joaquin Valley.

The second prize was won by a salesman of the Salt Lake branch. As this branch has four salesmen and only one reported, it is safe to surmise that all sales of Diamond "C" goods were reported as made by him.

This fact makes the success of the California salesmen the more remarkable. It is the best proof, too, that the quality of the Diamond "C" product of the Cudahy Packing Company is all that is claimed for it since Californians know quality and the enormous increase of business in Diamond "C" products would only have been won by genuine merit.

Points to Watch

BACON, HAM AND LARD—
The market has advanced on bacon in the past few days, and packers predict a further advance on hams, lard and salt cured meats in the next few days.

RICE—
Importers are agreed that rice has passed its lowest point for at least a year or two to come. The crop in the South promses to be about 40 per cent short, and all stock now in hand is strongly held.

CANNED PEAS—
The weather has prevented a full pack and as dealers have bought heavily stocks are going to be very much depleted.

ALMONDS—
The market is bare of fancy stock. Although a large crop is promsed for California, the shortage in European crops will probably increase the demand enough to keep the market firm.

LIMA BEANS—
As we foretold, limas have advanced again. A price of 6 cents in carload lots is predicted before the new crop comes in.

SARDINES—
A war between the trust and the independent canners is making American sardines very cheap at the present time.

LOBSTERS—
The demand is all out of proportion to the catch and prices will rule high.

Worth Many Dollars, Can Be Obtained for a Few Cents. "The Three Most Beautiful Roses," by Paul de Longpre.

At the urgent solicitation of the "Woman's Home Companion," Mr. Paul de Longpre, who is the greatest painter of flowers in the world, consented to make a painting of what he considered "The Three Most Beautiful Roses," and the painting is without doubt one of the masterpieces of this great artist. This magnificent picture is reproduced in all its original grandeur on the cover of the "Woman's Home Companion" for June. Although this cover is an accurate reproduction of a painting worth hundreds of dollars, yet the June number, with this exquisite cover, may be obtained at any first-class news-stand or direct from the publishers for the trivial sum of only 10 cents.

Mr. Paul de Longpre is justly styled the "King of Flower Painters." He not only paints roses, but every flower that grows, and is the highest authority on flowers. His paintings are found in the most select homes. Some have sold for as much as seven thousand five hundred dollars ($7,500).

Artists, art critics and competent judges all agree that the covers of the "Woman's Home Companion" far excel those of any other magazine.

The "Woman's Home Companion" is a magazine which in beauty and excellence, art, stories, illustrations and fashions, etc., excels all other home and family magazines. The "Woman's Home Companion" is published by the Crowell Publishing Company, New York City, also Chicago, Ill., at one dollar a year, and is the favorite magazine in nearly half a million homes, where it is read each and every issue by three million people.

LIGHT FOR GROCERS.

Pacific Coast Association Directors Plan an Active Campaign.

By H. W. Thurlow, Secretary.

The members of the Pacific Coast Association as well as all other grocers in Washington, California and Oregon will shortly begin to sit up and take notice. They will realize that an immense movement is developing that will be of collosal benefit to every grocer from Anacortez, Washington, to San Diego, California.

The directors of the Pacific Coast Association met Tuesday, June 6th, and an earnest discussion of all necessities for the benefit of the Association was held. Plans for the future were made and will be vigorously carried out.

Will Educate Grocers.

A campaign of education will be begun at once for all grocers.

A department for this purpose will be established in the official circulating organ of this association. This will be called the "Grocers' Congress" and each week this department will publish clear concise articles contributed by the most successful retail grocers of the Pacific coast. These articles will give many valuable ideas and practical hints for successfully conducting the retail grocery business, and will be both interesting and instructive.

Mr. J. R. Newberry of Los Angeles will contribute a series of copy-righted articles. We will also have articles from prominent and successful grocers in Oregon and Washington.

We have secured a publication as our Official Organ and the policy of this publication is to be absolutely controlled and directed by the Pacific Coast Association through their secretary.

This organ will be the Retail Grocers' Advocate.

Under the terms of the arrangement made with this paper its management agrees absolutely and unequivocally to support our association in a vigorous editorial manner in all our fights to secure right and justice for the grocers of the Pacific coast.

War Against Unfair Firms.

Under the terms of its agreement with our association, it must decline to accept and print the advertising of any manufacturer who may refuse the request of the Pacific Coast Association to establish and MAINTAIN a retail selling price that will leave a just profit to the retailer.

It will be expected to cancel the advertising in effect, of any manufacturer who contracts with our association to establish fixed retail selling prices on their goods and ignores their contracts.

It will vigorously attack editorially such manufacturers and give the widest publicity possible to their duplicity and will expose all tricks and questionable methods employed by them in marketing their products.

Our official organ will fight for the grocers of Seattle, Portland or any other town or city who may at any time find themselves abused by jobbers or manufacturers, just as easily as it will fight for the rights of the California grocers.

San Francisco's Shame.

J. F. Paulding Tells a Few Plain Truths.

GENERAL BODY IGNORED.

Minority of Directors Unable to Secure What Members Want.

In the "Commercial Bulletin" of Los Angeles, J. F. Paulding tells of the condition of affairs in San Francisco whereby the desires of the members of the San Francisco Association have been ignored and efforts to advance the interests of the grocery trade obstructed or defeated by a few men who represent a majority on the Board of Directors and have made so many grocers dissatisfied with the organization that a great part of the membership would have withdrawn long since if they had not hoped that there would be a change in the management at the annual election that is to be held this month.

(From the "Commercial Bulletin" of Los Angeles.)

Notwithstanding the fact that the San Francisco retail grocers have been organized for thirty-three years, they have less to show for their efforts than any association in the State.

We are not familiar with conditions of the organization up to three years ago, but since that time the association has been torn by almost continual strife, and part of the time two associations existed. They finally did away with both organizations and reorganized under the name of the San Francisco Retail Grocers.

Since that time it has been a repetition of past history, that of internal strife and a continual pull to see who should control the association.

The conditions at the present time certainly leave much to be desired.

Personal Feeling Interferes.

At almost every meeting there is a controversy over some trivial matter that should be acted upon without delay and without personal feeling. This has become so common that many of the best members of the Association refuse to attend the meetings, saying they cannot afford the time to go down and hear a lot of quarreling.

The attendance shows that the members are disgusted with the proceedings.

The meetings are held once a month and at the January meeting there were nine present, one less than a quorum. It is true that it was raining, but the Los Angeles association held a monthly meeting at the same time when it was raining also, and their attendance was 60.

At the February meeting almost the entire time was taken up in wrangling.

The March meeting was attended by about 20 and peace and harmony prevailed. The Los Angeles association had an average attendance of 40 when the meetings were held monthly, and from 10 to 20 when held weekly. San Francisco is three times as large as Los Angeles and the attendance shows there is something radically wrong.

No Inducements.

The association has practically no inducements to offer to members.

They have no price card.

They are offering no official assistance to those manufacturers who protect the retail price.

In fact the president and secretary have made it their business to do all they could to induce the mills of San Francisco not to establish a flour card, the same as they have in other cities. The president on two occasions got out of his chair and made a plea to the members not to insist on the mills taking this step and this after the association had almost unanimously voted to ask the manufacturers to establish a retail price on their leading brands of goods.

Secretary Against Profits.

The secretary also canvased and said he secured the names of forty members who were not in favor of the flour card in addition to this, the secretary has continually circulated the story among his members that the flour proposition was an advertisement for one mill.

The retal truth of the matter was that, on calling on the individual members, nine out of ten wanted protection on their flour, could they have been assured that the mills could have been depended upon to enforce their agreement.

Retailers Lost Business.

Another condition confronting the retailer is the number of wholesalers and Retail Grocers Discuss Important Trade Problems.

HAUCH ON BETTER PROFITS.

J. R. Newberry Tells of the Possibilities of United Effort.

The big dinning room of the Hotel Metropole was crowded Monday evening with the grocers of Alameda county and their guests.

Most of the principal dealers of Alameda, Berkeley and Oakland were in attendance. Among the out-of-town guests were: J. R. Newberry, of Los Angeles; Joy D. Cambell, of Stockton; Jos. A. Stulz, Frank B. Connolly, Geo. B. Doyle, H. W. Thurlow, H. R. Blair, and A. H. Powers of San Francisco.

The menu was an elaborate one and the service was particularly good.

It was 10 o'clock when President S. J. Sill, who acted as toastmaster, rapped for order and introduced the different speakers.

The principal speech of the evening was made by J. R. Newberry, who roused the assembled grocers to a high pitch of enthusiasm. We give a full account of his speech further on. It is full of meat and is worthy of the most careful study on the part of every retail grocer in the country.

The address of H. Hauch of Alameda on "Profits" was also very valuable, since Mr. Hauch gave his hearers the results of long years of thought as a careful business man.

The first speaker of the evening was L. Warnke of Alameda, who was called upon to answer to the toast, "The State Grocers' Association." He said in part:

MR. WARNKE'S ADDRESS.

The State Grocers' Association was organized in November, 1900. Its organization was brought about through the efforts of the San Francisco grocers who, by that action, did more for the dealers of that city than had ever been done before.

The San Francisco grocers had been going to the legislature asking for laws for years. They had been almost invariably turned down.

In 1900, a few earnest men, some of whom are present with us this evening, gathered together and arranged a plan for spreading the gospel of organization. As a result, in 1903 two laws were passed and signed to protect the retail dealers. One of these allowed the garnishment of the wages of public officials. The other amended the pure food law so that dealers who might secure a guarantee of the purity of the goods they sold could not be punished if they were not true to label.

In 1905, we secured two more laws. One of these was the anti-trading stamp, anti-premium law and also the law to prevent a man from defrauding his creditors by transferring his property to his wife.

This success was only possible through organization

Members of the legislature from all over the country received letters and telegrams from their constituents urging them to support the measures we wanted. In this way, we secured the support of men who could not have been won by any other means. It is easy to see how, when the grocers act together, they can accomplish results, not only in the legislature but in many other things

Mr. Newberry is here to tell you of the power of unity. I know that he will be able to tell you much that will be of interest, that will illustrate further the value of the State Grocers' Association to its members

When the applause subsided, Mr. Sill called on Frank B. Connolly, vice-president of the San Francisco organization and secretary of the State Grocers' Association, to answer to the toast, "Our San Francisco Brothers."

His address was listened to with closest attention and frequently interrupted by applause. Among other things he said:

MR. CONNOLLY'S ADDRESS.

While I am one of the youngest of the several hundred grocers who make up our association, I am proud to say that I was chosen their vice-president about a year ago. Later I went to San Jose and there was honored by being made secretary of the State Grocers' Association.

During the past few years, I have been making a considerable study of association work. I am satisfied that the best results can be obtained only through co-operation with our fellow grocers in taking advantage of their strength to be added to ours in uniting in associations. For this reason, I feel that each dealer should give his warmest support not only to his local organization but also to the State and National Associations, and that the grocers of California will profit very largely by lending all their strength to the Pacific Coast Association.

Our association in San Francisco is, I understand, the oldest in the United States. We have accomplished many things. One of the accomplishments of which we have the most reason to be proud was the organization, some three years ago, of the Grocers' Association of Alameda County.

In our San Francisco organization there are a few non-progressive members. Those few men would like to make San Francisco like China with a high wall around it. They are few and in a large minority.

Flour Problem Progressing.

At the present time the flour problem is the main issue among the grocers around San Francisco bay. I want to urge you to be patient and keep on along the lines that you have been following for the last few months. I am satisfied that if you will go on as you have been, that our flour contest will be won out inside of one or two months.

The representatives of the mills are talking very different now than what they were a short time ago. They are not nearly so abusive now and have begun to apologize for the unfair attitude of the firms they represent.

I am glad and proud to know of the stand the grocers of Alameda county have taken. I think that in the end you will be amply rewarded.

Your interests are identical with those of the grocers on the other side of the bay. Your customers read the San Francisco papers and see the prices of the Market street cutters. These cut prices interfere with your trade just as they do with the trade of the grocers in the Mission or the Western Addition.

Causes Many Troubles.

The cutting on flour causes trouble not only with flour sales but on other things as well. While some of my customers have rung me up and told me that I had charged them too much for flour when Prager's was advertising standard brands at $1.20, there are more of my customers and of your customers, fellow grocers, who do not say anything to us but believe we have robbed them.

When the big cutters is able to destroy the confidence of your customer he takes something away from you that is of much more value than the small profit that you may charge on flour over what the cutter charges.

When the customer believes that you are robbing him on flour, he expects that you are robbing him on everything else that you sell.

If we lack the support of a few of the smaller retail grocers in our attempt to better the price of flour, we have the support of more than 90 per cent of the grocers of San Francisco. The men who are loyal to this movement are grocers who buy in quantities. When they buy, they do it to make a profit.

Must Get a Profit.

The grocer needs a profit on everything he handles. No matter how economically he may live, the grocer will not be able to lay anything aside for himself if he does not get a sufficient margin to pay for running his store.

The large number of grocers in San Francisco would make them a power for good if they would only be intelligently directed. We are shortly to have an election and I feel that the better grocers of the city will then show that they are in favor of using the strength of the purchasing power of the grocers of San Francisco to guarantee profits for themselves on their leading staples.

I am very glad to see so large an audience here this evening. I am satisfied that when you have heard Mr. Newberry and others that you will be certain that you can benefit yourselves by uniting with your neighbors to cooperate with the manufacturer who has a legal right to protect the selling price of his goods.

Mr. Sill then introduced Mr. Stulz, to whom he referred to affectionately as "Foxy Grandpa." He referred to Mr. Stulz' long service in the cause of Association work and was warmly applauded when he spoke of the high regard in which he was held by all who knew him. Mr. Stulz referred to the fact that he had served as chairman for the first meeting of the Alameda County Grocers when they were called together to discuss the desirability of effecting an organization, also that he was an honorary member of their association. He then spoke as follows about association progress:

MR. STULZ'S ADDRESS.

It was thirty-four years ago that the retail grocers of San Francisco first realized the necessity of co-operation should they expect to better trade conditions. Since 1871 they have been working together more or less effectively. It must be admitted, however, that more and better results have been accomplished in the last three years than in all the other thirty years previous.

As for myself, I have been working with the association since 1885. I have done yoeman service as high private, as director and as president. In every capacity I have given the very best efforts to help better conditions of my fellow grocers, realizing that what was to their advantage would also be of benefit to me.

During my connection with the Grocers' Association of San Francisco, we went to the legislature frequently with requests for consideration, without result. The organized grocers were considered somewhat in the light of a joke. It was only after we had created the "Grocers' Advocate" and were able to keep the grocers in many communities in touch that we were able to secure wider organization and thus accomplish the results we aimed at. It was with this idea in mind that myself, together with about forty other retail grocers of San Francisco helped to incorporate the "Advocate" in January, 1900.

Just at this time, I was sent as a National delegate to the convention at Cleveland, where the greater problems of association work were discussed. As the only delegate from California, I received much consideration and was instructed to organize the California State Grocers' Association on my return to San Francisco. This I promised to do and in November, 1900, with the assistance of several earnest men of Oakland, Sacramento and Fresno, a start was made.

In the beginning we had in view the following ideas:

1. To get better laws.
2. To correct trade abuses.
3. To collect bad bills and make a list of slow-pay people.
4. To make it profitable for wholesalers to back up the efforts of local associations to establish price cards, and last but not least, to build up and establish other associations that would make all the other things possible and without which nothing could be done.

A Powerful Ally.

We went to work vigorously along the lines suggested. Although without means, we had in the "Advocate" and its editor, Mr. Powers, a power that counted for more than money and with their aid, numerous associations were formed throughout the State, many of which have grown and thrived to the advantage of their members and also to the advantage of the other associations of the State.

There have been three sessions of the legislature since our State Association was organized. At the first session, we had not perfected our machinery and all the requests we made of the legislature for justice were absolutely ignored. At the session of the legislature in 1903, however, we were able to profit by our experience of two years before and secured the passage of three laws, two of which were signed by the Governor. One of these allowed the garnishment of the wages of public of-officials, and the second amended the pure food law so that the retail grocer who could show a guarantee of purity had in that a full defense against a charge of violating the pure food laws.

The next session of the legislature, that of 1905, we secured the passage of several measures that were denied us in 1903. One of these was signed by the Governor. This was the law that prevented a husband from defrauding grocers by transferring his property to his wife. We also secured the passage of the anti-trading stamp, anti-coupon bill.

Two of our bills have been vetoed by Governor Pardee.

Correcting Trade Abuses.

Many trade abuses have been corrected merely because our association was in existence. That more have not been corrected is due to the laxity of the members themselves.

I think that it is not too much to say that $50,000 has been collected for the retail grocers throughout California because of the formation of our State Association. Each local organization that has been formed has established its own system of collections. These have been able to co-operate very largely and splendid results have been achieved in many localities.

Our experience in maintaining prices has been only an experiment. In numerous towns the grocers have maintained prices along the lines originally planned. Our organization found that we could not secure the active co-operation of the wholesalers and therefore we could not use the methods in vogue in Minnesota and other States as we had hoped.

But our experience taught us the way we could travel in order to reach our ends. The result has been the formation of the Pacific Coast Association, the object of which is to secure the co-operation of the State Associations of Oregon and Washington with that of California in making it profitable for manufacturers to protect organized retailers rather than cutters. The organization leaders have realized that the power lay in the hands of the retail grocers to advance the per centage of profit on enough different articles to increase their income materially. This revolution could be brought about only by the manufacturers who have the right to fix the price at which their products shall be sold.

Control of the Cutters.

When the organized retail grocers unite in advancing the sale of protected articles as against similar articles the price of which is not protected, it can be made very unprofitable for any manufacturer to allow a cutter to interfere with the fair selling price of his goods.

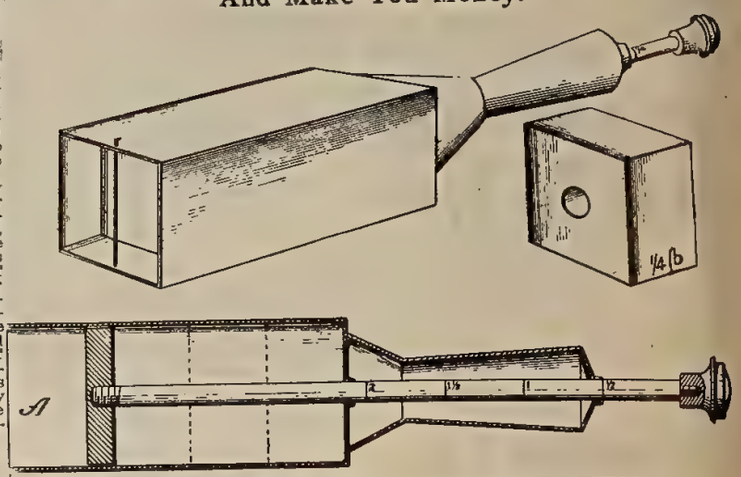
This last result will be more far-reaching in its benefit to the trade than all the other things upon which we have been working. It will make our association of extreme value to every retail grocer on the Pacific coast and make it worth the while of every retail grocer to lend their full support to our movement.

The grocery business is to-day one of the most unsatisfactory forms of commercial activity. It has been degraded by the lessening of profits to such an extent that the strife for mere existence has at times resulted in an almost disgraceful scramble in which each dealer sought to secure business no matter at what cost to himself or his competitor.

I look to the Pacific Coast Association to raise the standard of the business by increasing the profits of it. This can be done to the betterment not only of the retailers themselves but also of the manufacturer, the wholesaler and the great consuming public, who will receive better goods and better service when the men making up the grocery trade are better paid for their efforts.

Gentlemen, the matters I have referred to are history. They are old. Looking along the line, I see the newest thing that it will pay the grocers about the San Francisco bay to get interested in. I refer to the Newberry about three seats to my right. We are told that the Logan berry is a cross between a blackberry and a raspberry. Our Newberry here can not be crossed. When he starts out for certain results he always gets them. If the grocers of the Pacific coast can only get out two or three more Newberrys their problems will be solved.

Mr. Hauch's Address.



H. Hauch of Alameda was called to speak about "Profits." He explained that he had been watching the growth of the Grocers' Associations of the country to learn to what extent grocers would be able to secure more adequate returns for their efforts. He found that there were some associations that were able to better the financial returns of their members. The grocers of Alameda county and of California seemed to be making some progress in that direction. The progress was a little slow, but he was sure that eventually they would get there.

He called attention to the fact that while profits in the grocery business had been growing less, the expenses of running a store had been increasing. This additional expense was in the shape of better looking stores, better deliveries and better service.

Dodge, Sweeney & Co., AGENTS SAN FRANCISCO

"I am glad," he said, "to see these additional expenses. It has a tendency to elevate the grocery business. But since the expenses are continually increasing, it has become necessary for us to advance our margin of profits if we intend to get more than a mere living for our efforts, and not be one of the great masses who are losing money without realizing just how they are doing it.

I took a few figures to-day as to the margin of profit on some of the goods we are handling. The result was startling. Here are a few items:

Goods Sold at a Loss.

Sugar is sold on a margin of about 8 per cent. Most of our cereals on a margin of 16 2-3 per cent; Fels Naptha soap, 12 per cent; Eagle Milk, 12 per cent; Rose milk, 10 per cent.

Just look at the list of articles which are only a few of many that are sold at such prices that you must add money to what you get for them from your customers if the sum is to approximate what the goods costs you when you add to the invoice price, the cost of handling.

When you look over the list of goods that you handle you will find that there are approximately 40 per cent that give you no return whatever. Imagine how much you must add to the other goods on which you get a profit in order to catch up.

The tendency of the business is more and more to package goods. The manufacturer can control the price of those goods and usually does it so that, should there be no cutting, the dealer will be left about 20 per cent margin on the costs of the goods which means 16 2-3 per cent on the gross selling price. When we are selling our leading staples such as sugar and flour at a margin of less than 10 per cent we can not sell these package goods on such a margin and make money.

Now, as to the remedy.

It is useless for us to seek to correct this abuse singly. As individuals we can do nothing. No one man no matter how powerful, can change this established method.

How can we seek a correction of this abuse?

Grocers Must Unite.

There is just one way.

Instead of going around as we did in the old days looking on our neighbors as enemies, we must look about us as I am looking about this table and see that the other men in the grocery business are friends.

We are all seeking the same thing. We wish to make a living. In spite of long hours and great labor, we can not succeed in securing a proper living for our families unless we are able to secure a fair margin of profit.

There is just one way to do this.

We must make our association strong enough so that the manufacturers can afford to protect us rather than to protect those who seek to cut down prices.

Co-operation is the first law of nature. We must learn how to work together. The more firmly we realize this and the stronger we grasp the association idea, the easier it will be for us to get the protection we need.

Must Attend Meetings.

In conclusion I want to urge the grocers of Alameda county to attend the meetings of their association and not do as I have in the past, think that their whole duty has been fulfilled when they have paid their dues. It is not enough to say that you are willing to abide by what the majority may agree upon. Come to the meetings and give the association not only the advantage of the dues you pay, but of your council. Look at those meetings as part of your business. If you will do this, it will not be long before you have added 1 per cent to your margin of profits. Then another 1 per cent will be added and still another 1 per cent and it will not be long before you will be able to live like men and in the end have some return to show for your expenditure of energy and money.

Harry Blair's Address.

Mr. Sill next introduced Mr. Harry Blair whom he spoke of as an old friend who had been formerly of Sacramento but was now of San San Francisco.

Mr. Blair said that the last time he was in Oakland, was when he attended the meeting of the State convention in 1901, and there were not so many men present then from all over the States, as he saw before him at the table. His subject was "Overcoming Opposition."

He said the opposition of the manufacturers and wholesalers was hardly worthy of consideration if the retail grocers will show an unbroken front. The jobbers instead of opposing them will then be glad to help.

Mr. Blair cited an instance of a cutter who had entered Sacramento with the avowed purpose of winning trade by selling everything cheaper than any other grocer. A certain wholesaler had supplied this cutter with his opening stock and had included in that stock all his own special brands which had been made popular in Sacramento by years of kindly attention on the part of the Sacramento retail grocers. The cutter sold these goods, as well as every other without any profit. In this way, the wholesaler had put into the hands of the cutter, a weapon to take away the trade of the men who had been buying goods of him for many years.

Grocers Turn Down Goods.

The secretary of the association immediately called upon the grocers of Sacramento to discontinue handling goods of this particular brand, explaining to the members that since this brand was controlled by the wholesaler, he could force the cutter to discontinue using these goods as a bait if he so desired. As a result, the retail grocers not only quit handling this special brand of goods but also such a large portion of the rest of this jobber's goods that he called a special meeting of the wholesale grocers of Sacramento at which the secretary of the Retail Grocers' Association was present by request. The wholesaler proceeded to roast the secretary very fervidly and demanded that he should have the retail grocers quit the policy they had taken since it was costing him thousands of dollars of business.

The secretary of the Grocers' Association said: "It is not only costing you thousands of dollars but will cost you many more. You let the cutter take things which you absolutely controlled and owned and allowed him to sell them without a decent profit. As long as you allow this to be done, the grocers of Sacramento will continue to shelve your goods.

"You accuse the retail grocers of interfering with your business. You are wrong. They are merely attending to their own business. When you allow a certain line of goods that you control to be sold too cheaply, they would be neglectful of their own interests if they did not switch their trade to some other goods that paid a btter profit."

The wholesaler saw the justice of our opinion. He immediately took steps to see that this special brand was protected.

Honesty Will Win.

When the retail grocers go after the jobbers and manufacturers in this way, taking a stand for honesty and fair treatment they will always bring them to time. Instead of serving your interest, the wholesaler has in the past been serving his own. If you will come to the meetings as Mr. Hauch suggested and make yourself a power through a mutual understanding as to how you can best benefit yourself, you will see the manufacturer and jobber coming to you."

Mr. Blair then told several good stories illustrating the need of a dealer changing policy when he finds himself on the wrong track and going ahead to the best of his ability when he finally gets on the right one.

Mr. Newberry of Los Angeles.

Toastmaster Sill referred to his early days in the grocery business in San Diego and of the favorable impression he had secured of J. R. Newberry at that time through seeing his store and learning of his methods in Southern California. He then introduced Mr. Newberry, who said among other things:

Usually I have had to urge on retail grocers the necessity of getting a good foundation. As I listened to Mr. Hauch and the other speakers, I realized that this would be superfluous here. You have your foundation already and with the men who are leading you, I see no reason why, with the assitsance of your brothers in San Francisco, you should not be able to take your Port Arthur.

I just said to the gentleman at my left (Mr. Sill) that if the Oakland association had a few more like him and Mr. Cushing, they could get anything they went out for. He answered: "We've got a regiment." Under the circumstances, it seems to me that the only service I can be is to give you a few words of encouragement.

While the Iron is Hot.

Be patient. Be watchful. Be earnest. Remember the old saying: "Strike while the iron is hot." And success is yours.

It is surprising, however, how few men know when to strike. There are still more who do not realize the power there is in their own hands.

I've found that 90 per cent of the cutting and disorganization comes through ignorance, the downright ignorance of the retail grocers. There is not so much of it due to the professional cutters as most people think. The men who suffer most are themselves responsible for the very large part of their troubles.

As Brother Stulz has said, the retail grocery business is the most undignified and undersirable line of trade in the United States. The retail grocers have the darkest record of any commercial body of men. The records of R. G. Dun show that of every hundred men who go into the grocery business, only three of them make money; twenty more make a mere living; seventy-seven score an abject failure. I can not help dwelling on these figures and talking about them every time I talk about the grocery business. It seems so dreadful that such a condition should be possible.

All Willing to Help.

We all go into the business hoping for success. We have a way to get it. I have found that the grocers from one end of the coast to the other are willing and anxious to bring about the results we want.

I have just returned from a trip through the Northwest where I was able to meet the grocers of Portland, Seattle and Tacoma and speak to them. I found them earnest, honest men. In Tacoma and Seattle, alone, did I find active co-operation with the retailers on the part of the jobbing trade.

It is a remarkable thing and one hard to understand that the men you have been making for years, the men who depend upon you for their very existence, do not seem to have any regard for the retail grocers' welfare.

Who is to blame for this?

Nobody but yourselves.

Nobody will have any higher regard for you than you have for yourself The jobber is only doing for the retail grocers what the retail grocer expects.

Just stop and look at the conditions as they exist.

Retailer Makes the Jobber.

The jobber can not exist without the retailer. There has to be at least one hundred retail grocers to support one jobbing house.

There is an old saying that the creature is not greater than the creator. You have made the jobbers and it is in your power to control these firms that you have made and you yourself are to blame if you do not do so.

The foundation and cause of all the disorganization among retail grocers lies in the bigotry, ignorance and selfishness of the retailers themselves.

With intelligence, we can get co-operation that will benefit you all. You can not get co-operation until you eliminate ignorance and selfishness.

The ground work of association work is in getting together. Learn that the other men of the grocery business are your friends, not your enemies. Then plan to unite in securing those things which you all need and make up your mind to be fair and honest with others and you will be surprised at the results you can achieve.

The grocery business is made up of four great parts: The producers and manufacturers, the wholesalers, the retailers and the consumers.

Retailers "Prejudiced" Middlemen.

We are middlemen in helping the manufacturer distribute his goods among the consumers, just as the jobber is a middleman. The only difference is that the jobber must be an unprejudiced middleman, because he handles only what the retailers desire to sell. We are, on the other hand, prejudiced middlemen since it lies with us to direct what consumers use and thus decide what the wholesalers will have to handle.

If we do right and carry ourselves intelligently we hold four aces in the game of commerce.

We have two men we must take care of. These are our friends the manufacturer and the consumer.

If we have any friend, it is the consumer. These are the men who make money for us because they are the men who give us their money. We must take care of them and see that they get a proper value for what they pay. If we do this, they will take care of us.

Grocers Need Educating.

In many cities the government hires men to teach the farmers how to make butter and cheese so that the consuming public will be protected. I think they made a mistake to stop there. They ought to teach men how to be grocers and to learn what it is that they sell to the public, so that they can be sure that the public gets full value.

Let us take one thing as an example.

You all sell Force.

Did you ever look into it?

You sell two packages for 25 cents. In a package of Force, there is between 11 and 12 ounces of wheat worth about 1 cent per pound. That is, there is three-fourths of a cent worth of food. This, with the cost of package and box brings up the actual cost of putting this cent's worth of food in a marketable shape to about three cents. For this package you charge your customer 12½ cents and most of you are paying 12½ cents as well.

Is not that brilliant?

Grocers Rob Their Friends.

Do you realize what you are doing?

You are robbing your friend the consumer. You are making him pay 12½ cents for food worth less than a cent. Now, if it was your enemy you were doing this thing to, it would be a different matter. But your enemy does not come into your store.

It would be much better if you would use common sense in advising your trade as to how they can get the best value for the money they have to spend with you, rather than to let your business be controlled by ignorance and carelessness.

There is just one way to do this.

There are 2800 articles on the shelves of the grocery stores. We can not be experts on all of them. We can not control the price of all of them.

There are about 225 proprietary articles. We can secure expert knowledge of every one of these and we can get a profit on each one of them if we will only stand together.

A Strong Association Necessary.

It merely requires a strong association so that we will secure the active assistance of each manufacturer when we ask him to put an individual price on his individual article and assure him that, if he will do this, we will help him to keep his goods before the public.

Our first care must be to see that our friend the consumer is not unfairly treated. In doing this, we are not only protecting ourselves but protecting the manufacturer as well. If the manufacturer makes his price too high, the consumer will not use it.

When the manufacturer's price to the retailer is too high, and our margin will not pay us for handling the article, we

Attracting Trade

Securing More Trade.

Probably every retail grocer in the country is looking for more trade than he has now. Some have given the problem of securing it careful consideration and have worked out a scheme which accomplishes its purpose. Others haven't yet discovered many of the little things that go to increase trade and place business upon a more substantial basis. It is to the latter portion of the trade that these remarks are particularly addressed, says the "Grocers' Criterion."

It is a question of adaptability rather than lack of actual knowledge of the requirements of the business. Many grocers do not understand exactly how certain specified results are obtained. Others have started in the right direction, only to be turned back by difficulties which they didn't expect and which they have been powerless to overcome.

House Cleaning.

It is cleaning house time. Those of you who have families and whose wives have begun the annual spring operation understand this without further explanation. It would be wise for you to do as the good wife is doing and clean house, too. If you clean house be sure that you clean thoroughly. Start way back there in that dark corner that you haven't cleaned out for years, perhaps, and work this way, removing every particle of dirt and litter and creating a new condition throughout the store. The back store should be included in this as well as the front part.

Indifference in Cleaning.

The trouble with most of spring cleaning of this sort is that it is not thoroughly done. The cleaner begins and cleans a little way, but inasmuch as he begins at the wrong end, that nearest the front door and works backward, it is frequently the case that he gets tired before he gets through and much of the store remains uncleaned. The front part may look better, and undoubtedly is better, after even a superficial cleaning of this character, but what about the rest of the place? Is'nt it quite as important that there should be something done with the accumulation of years in the back store, in corners under shelves and under counters? If you cleaned this way last spring, or the spring previous this portion of this article doesn't apply to you. But some of you didn't, and you need to.

Careful Cleaning Important in Country.

These observations apply with equal force to city and county stores. There should be no distinction drawn. Both are alike guilty of numerous shortcomings in this direction. Both require some energetic work to create new conditions. Both should be so thoroughly renovated that their owners wouldn't know them.

Have Pot of Paint Handy.

While one is about this cleaning the application of paint and whitewash where it would do the most good wouldn't be amiss. It is an inexpensive operation. Country dealers generally carry a stock of standard paints so that it would be only wholesale prices that the material would cost.

Renovate Every Part.

This paint should be applied to all portions of the store. Take the goods off the shelves and paint under them. See that they are in good repair. Drive in such nails as have worked out. Replace screws that have become rusted and apparently weakened. Such little things as these are important in maintaining the efficiency of the store and keeping it up to its proper standard.

Proper Placing of Goods.

In putting back the goods upon the freshly painted shelves put them in better order than they were when you took them down. For instance, see that the goods most asked for are placed nearest at hand so that as little effort will be expended in reaching them as possible. Arrange goods of similiar character together, wherever convenient. It adds to the appearance of the shelves and assist somewhat in keeping track of stock.

Keep Unsightly Goods Out of Sight.

Unsightly goods should be packed away under counters or in out of sight places so they will not detract from the appearance of the store. It is quite as easy to do this, and it adds materially to the looks. Old-fashioned groceries were operated upon exactly the opposite principle. They had all the unsightly goods in front, while the best looking articles were kept in the back store or were not out of the packing cases, even.

STAMP COMPANIES FAIL.

In our issue of last week we told of how the women of Lafayette, Indiana, wrecked the headquarters of the local Trading Stamp Company because they learned that the management intended to move away without redeeming their stamps.

In our issue previous, we told of the failure of a million dollar trading stamp company, with headquarters in New York, Boston and Chicago.

The Merchants' Trading Stamp Company of New Orleans is the latest victim of the combined efforts on the part of the grocers. The grocers of Louisiana secured the passage of a law requiring the payment of $5000 annual license from trading stamp companies. The courts of Louisiana upheld the constitutionality of the law and now receivership proceedings have been begun against the trading stamp company mentioned and the secretary has consented to the appointment of a receiver.

It was only a year ago that the following advertisement was published in the daily papers of a large Eastern city:

"The Benedict & Macfarlane Co., Prop., Paid up Capital, $1,000,000. Are here to stay, this year, next year, and for years to come."

This same company is now in the hands of a receiver to satisfy creditors whose claims amount to only $700.

A receiver has also been appointed for the New York Trading Stamp Company, which has stores in Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticutt, New York and New Jersey.

WARNING FOR GIRLS.

The management of the Portland Exposition has sent to the newspapers of the country warning that girls and young women should not come to Portland during the Fair expecting to secure work. The cost of room rent and living has already been increased in Portland and there will be many applicants for every position open for girl visitors at the Fair. In speaking of conditions, Carrie A. Holbrook, secretary of the Portland Travelers' Aid Association, says:

"In spite of repeated warnings the conditions at St. Louis last year were appalling. It is imperative that something in the way of prevention must be done."

Girls, stay away from Portland.

LIBERALITY BRINGS REWARD.

In these days it does not do to hold on tight to every dollar. It is the man who is a liberal provider in the matter of store equipment who in the end really economizes and wins trade and profits.

The machine that will quickest pay for itself and save time and strength in the greatest degree is the Bond Automatic Weigher. This is the machine that PAYS. If you haven't seen it yet, find out about it.

AMONG THE GROCERS.

August Hillebrandt has purchased the interest of Mr. Nagel in the firm of Holzkamp & Nagel. Mr. Hillebrandt has had a splendid training in the grocery business, having been in the employ of Wm. Mohrman and George Alpers. He managed the store of H. Goetgen while that gentleman was in Europe. The new firm has been making many friends.

The firm of Frearis & Co. have purchased the store of Henry Holle at 1201 Pacific street. They have a nice store and are doing a fine business.

COAST CROP CONDITIONS.

U. S. Department of Agricultural reports for California:

In most sections hay is of excellent quality and the yield heavy. Bean and other vegetables are in good condition. A new pest has injured potatoes and onions along the Sacramento River. Grapes give promise of a heavy yield.

U. S. Department of Agricultural reports for Oregon:

Cherries, peaches, pears, prunes and apples show lighter yields than usual, although the prune crop will probably be heavier than last year.

U. S. Department of Agriculture reports for Washington:

The weather has been unusually cold Heavy frosts have injured fruits very generally. Orchards in eastern counties have been injured by high winds.

SUGAR MARKET.

Wednesday Afternoon—Raws are quoted to-day in New York at 4⅝c (local price 4c) and refined at $5.75 less 1 per cent (local net price, $5.35) There have been no changes in the New York market during the past three days.

Were the local market controlled by the ordinary laws of supply and demand, the price of local sugar would be at least 1 cent more than it is at present. All jobbers are selling at cost.

New York, June 1st—Willet & Gray report:

Raws—The improved condition of the raw sugar market has continued throughout the week without, however, having made any special advance in market price. Indifference is shown on the part of both buyers and sellers and the market seems waiting for some recognition of intrinsic merit.

Refined—As we foretold, the large refineries made no change in their prices until the end of the month. The small refineries becoming over sold, raised their prices to the level of the others. Immediately following this, however, American, Howell and Arbuckle began making cuts of 10 cents per 100 pounds [illegible] with a guarantee. This is the condition at the close. A largely increased business marked the change. It did not continue long. The principal reason for the discontinuance being still the large difference existing between the present price of raws and refined.

New Orleans, La., May 27—G. Schwartz reports:

"Sugars continue to rule dull and depressed, although the feeling among holders is still one of confidence, and a reaction is looked for in the near future.

"Refiners here, with a view of 'bearing' the market, will make no offers on raw sugars, but, on the contrary, have recently been selling Y. C. at a much lower price than what they paid for them. Raw sugars, now being melted, costs refiners about 5⅛c landed, and they are giving out the impression that when they come to melt sugars that they purchased on a much lower basis, the price of granulated wil be still further reduced.

"We must not forget, however, that all of this is done with a view of discouraging holders of raw sugars, both at home and abroad, and more especially for the purpose of buying up the remainder of the Cuban crop at the very lowest possible price.

"The true fact of the matter is that during the next five months every pound of sugar now in the United States, Cuba and the islands will be needed, and considerable quantites of beets will have to be imported from Europe, and we will start out on the first of September with the smallest stock on record during recents years.

"Reports from the cane growing districts of this State are very unfavorable. It rains every day, and the effect is very disastrous to the growing crop. In fact, I was told to-day by a prominent packer that great damage had already been done, and unless the rain ceases very shortly the crop of sugar in this State will be cut short fully one-half."

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"The market is very quiet, with small sales. Otherwise there is no change from last reports."

TEA.

In our market reports last week we quoted a New York house as saying of Congous: "Cables from Hankow state that the market for new crop opens 7 per cent less than last season. The quality, however, is reported to be poorer than that offered at opening last year."

The falling off in price mentioned in the above applies to only the better grades, and this is due to a decline in quality. The statement does not apply to the medium and cheaper grades.

RICE.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"The rice market is very firm and is advancing, with the result that trading has been temporarily curtailed.

"There is little rice in the hands of Southern mills and the present indications are that there will be only about 60 per cent of a normal crop.

"Nevertheless prices are still abnormally low compared with former seasons; so low as to be too near the cost of production; hence we are looking for a steady increase until the price reaches 4 cents. At present the price in the South is on a basis that means $3.60 as a California base."

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"Japans have again advanced and it looks now if there will not be over a 40 per cent crop next season. Every indication points to this. Mills in the South have withdrawn from the market and will not sell even at the advance, for they are waiting to see how the next two weeks' weather turns out. If it rains again before balance of planting is in, then we look for another advance on Japs of ½c. In fact, we advise all to get aboard now, and do it quickly, for the longer the trade waits the more they will pay for rice.

"Fancy heads are up ½c; medium heads are also up, about ⅜c.

"Sandwich Island Rice.—The planters in the island have advanced their prices ½c and this grade of rice will go up another ½c within the next 30 days, as the July crop is over 50 per cent short.

"China rice remains the same, number 2 is stronger and may advance in sympathy with other grades."

Goldsboro, N. C., May 27—Carolina rice mills report:

"The truth of our predictions of higher prices was manifested by the sharp advance that has taken place. The wise handler of rice will anticipate his needs at present prices. From this time, we predict steadily advancing prices."

Charlestown, S. C., May 27—Samuel G. Stoney reports:

"Holders of the small lots of rough rice still on hand, are clinging to them. There is every reason to expect still higher prices than are now ruling. In fact, it is generally admitted that the situation assures abnormally higher prices for next season. With the heavy reduction of acreage along the Atlantic coast and throughout Louisiana and Texas, rice must advance very considerably within the next twelve months."

CANNED TOMATOES.

The local market is in a very healthy condition. The very cheap goods that glutted the market have practically all gone into consumption.

Aberdeen, Md., May 27—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. say:

"The market rules much firmer and it is difficult to find a round block of 3's full standard tomatoes, under 65c. Growers report that cold nights, stormy winds and fleas are interfering with the growth of plants."

CANNED FRUIT.

While there is a scarcity of pears, there will be no difficulty on the part of canners to fill assortments from this year's pack.

The situation is different in cherries. The larger canners will have to fill their assortment from goods of the 1904 pack.

The Central California Canneries issued their prices for the season of 1905, subject to change without notice, on June 1st. These prices show an advance of about 35c per dozen over last year's prices for pears and 20c for cherries. Cling stone peaches are about 5c lower. Free stone peaches will be at the same price as last year except for lower grades, which will be 5c lower. Apricots will be 15c lower and plums 10c lower.

Visalia, June 3d—The Earle Fruit Co. have begun operations with 25 packers. The force will be increased to about 100 as the fruit begins to come in.

San Jose, May 31st—There has been active bidding for pears on the part of several of the canneries. Prices have been run up to $60 and even $75 per ton has been paid for No. 1 Bartletts. As it does not require more than 25 per cent. of the normal crop of Bartlett pears to satisfy the needs of the canners, it is thought that, even with a short crop, the canners will be able to get all the pears they need. For this reason many think that prices on pears will be much lower a little later on.

Los Gatos—The Los Gatos cannery opened last week on cherries.

Geyserville—The cherry crop is such a failure that the local cannery did not start up. They will make a large run on peaches and pears. The peach crop was only fair in this vicinity so that [illegible] to be brought in from other sections of the State.

Suisun—Buyers are offering $60 per ton for pears around Walnut Grove, but the farmers are holding back for a still higher price, as pears are very scarce.

Baltimore, Md., May 27—H. H. Taylor & Son report:

"The cool weather so far has kept peas in excellent condition for packing a superior article, though the crop, it is said, will be a short one and it would not be surprising to see high grade siftings command more money later on than at opening of season. We can buy at present some very choice Petit Pois at $1.45 to $1.50; extra sifted at $1.25; sifted at $1; all new goods."

The California Canneries Company issued their price list on June 6th. Their prices were from 10 to 15 cents less than those of the Central California Canneries quoted above on low grade goods. They were 10c higher on 3-lb extra Royal Ann cherries and 10 cents higher on low grade Bartlett pears and plums.

CANNED CORN.

Baltimore, Md.—The "Trade" says: "Corn almost everywhere has been suffering in one way or another. In nearly all sections there has been a very considerable amount of replanting necessary. Some reports lay it on the weather and others on inferior seed. There is one consideration in the situation that should be remembered by both packers and jobbers. The retail trade as well as the wholesale trade, because of a kind of fear or doubt, have refrained from buying almost to the extent of selling their last can of goods before they think of replenishing. It is evident that such a condition is bound to result sooner or later in an extraordinary demand for the goods that have been so thoroughly cleaned up."

CANNED PEAS.

The situation as regards peas is somewhat unusual this year. The weather has been unfavorable to a large pack, and the trade has bought more heavily than usual. Packers say that as a result of this condition they are looking for higher prices in the near future.

DRIED FRUITS.

Peaches and pears have advanced this week. Every line is fairly well cleaned up except prunes and raisins.

Riverside—The peach crop will be short. Apricot crop will be unusually heavy.

Red Bluff—The apricot crop in Antelope Valley has never been so large as this year.

PRUNES.

New York, May 25th—Brokers are ready to submit orders on 2¼c f. o. b. bag basis, but there are no offers to sell at that price from the coast. It is asserted by prominent commission men that a 2¾c basis with a premium on 30's, 80's and 90's is the best that can possibly be done and they look for a 3c basis ultimately.

RAISINS.

The carryover this year is only about 5,000 tons against 24,000 tons at this time last year.

The California Rasin Growers' Co. has been able to secure a number of packing houses belonging to the Co-operative Associations. This will assist materially in the successful carrying out of the Association's plans.

NUTS.

Fancy almonds are out of the market and there will be no more to be had till the new crop comes in.

Pecans and Brazils have advanced sharply.

Santa Barbara—F. E. Kellogg, secretary Walnut Exchange, now estimates the county walnut crop at about 50 per cent of the normal.

Riverside—For the first time in many years the almond trees are loaded with nuts.

Pecans—Reports from Georgia and Texas give prospects of a much better crop this year than in 1904.

LIMA BEANS.

Spot lima beans are concentrated in a very few hands. They are getting $5.50 in carlots and, since it looks as if they could readily clean up their entire holdings at this price some time before new crop of beans arrive, a price of 6 cents is now being talked about.

OLIVES.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Good California ripe olives are scarce and high in price."

CANNED SALMON.

Seattle, Wash.—One Seattle Salmon Packer expresses the belief that even without any foreign demand there will be scarcely a case of pink salmon in the market within sixty days. Spot salmon situation is practically confined to red Alaska, which are in liberal supply. Pinks are very short and all other grades are practically cleaned up. The Alaska Packers' Association holds reds at $1.10 with outsiders selling for $1. It is probable that some pinks could be sold for 70 cents, but the quality is merely nominal. Some packers are holding what little pink salmon remains at 75c. As jobbers have not purchased much red Alaska salmon during the past two years, stocks are low and, if there is not an advance soon, the probability is that there will be a clean up of all stocks remaining on hand between now and the new deliveries in September. Manila has come into the market recently as a purchaser of salmon and is expected to become an important factor in the industry.

SARDINES.

Baltimore, Md.—The "Trade" says: "The market for domestic sardines is unsettled, due to sharp competition. It has been expected all along that the trust would be the first to reduce prices, but the independent packers appear to be the first to make a cut. They have dropped the price on quarter oils from $2.65 to $2.50 f. o. b. Eastport, for keyless cans. The total decline since the season of 1905 opened a month ago has been 30 cents a case. Buyers who placed contracts at the opening figure are dissatisfied, while those who have not made contracts are disposed to hold off, expecting a further reduction. It is improbable that any best quality goods can be obtained below $2.50, f. o. b. Eastport, or $2.65, f. o. b. New York."

HERRING.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Holland herrings are scarce at present. There are no more stocks in first hands in Holland and we look for higher prices ere long."

PROVISIONS.

The Cudahy Packing Co. say:

"The market is very firm and every indication points to an advance on hams and all salt cured meats in the next few days."

Cigars and Tobacco

Tillmann & Bendel report that trade conditions are excellent, and that the Sanchez & Haya is doing better than ever.

Generally speaking the cigar and tobacco trade of San Francisco is in good conditions without any striking features.

H. Rinaldo & Co. have got well located in their new Montgomery street store, where they find themselves very comfortable and are getting a good trade.

Wellman, Peck & Co. are meeting with a big success with the Flor de Lovera, the distribution of which they undertook about one year ago. It is proving one of the best accounts on the coast.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. report splendid success with their new nickel cigar, the Henry Miller. They have already placed over $00,000 with the trade, and repeat orders are coming in rapidly. They have already placed their second order with the factory for 100,000 more.

Oakland—William V. Zingg of Alameda, J. D. Waterman and E. A. Waterman of Berkeley; John E. Ward, Jr., of San Francisco, and C. Westover of this city, have incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000 to conduct a general cigar business.

The Tampa correspondent of "Tobacco" writes that journal: "In the great Santaella factory they are using 90 bales of tobacco a week and making 90,000 Optimo cigars a day. In the few months since the new factory was erected, the business has outgrown the building, and Architect Fred Janus is already at work on plans for a 75-foot extension to the handsome and commodious new building."

Brockton, Mass., May 30—The conviction of Abe Strauss, a salesman for the American Tobacco Co., of a violation of the statute which was passed to prevent firms and corporations from making it a condition of the sale of their goods that the purchaser or retailer shall not sell the goods of any rival manufacturer, has been set aside by a decision of the full bench of the Supreme Court, upon the ground that it was obtained under an erroneous view of the law.

The St. Louis Cigar Manufacturers' Association has passed resolutions protesting against the Sunday closing of saloons. The resolution recites that the closing decreases the consumption of cigars at least 50 per cent, and deprives a large number of small manufacturers and many journeymen cigar makers from earning a livelihood from their accustomed vocation.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

National President John A. Green is urging that the grocers interested in the National Association finance the organization themselves by contributing $1 per year. He figures that $6000 would pay the expenses of conducting the organization and he thinks that of the 14,000 grocers now affiliated with the National Association there could be found enough to more than supply the necessary money. In speaking of the value of the National Association, President Green says:

"The National Association of Retail Grocers is in the foreground of all trade movements for the general benefit of the retail food trade.

"It has developed sentiment in Congress in favor of a pure food law, which insists upon manufacture and distribution of good articles of food, but absolves retailers from responsibility for errors of manufacture.

"It has prevented the passage of parcels post measures which threaten to destroy retail trade by subsidizing department stores and retail mail houses.

"It has developed the anti-premium movement and is well on the way to putting a final quietus upon this most unhealthy of trade abuses.

"It seeks enforcement of rules requiring government employes to pay their bills and has acquired a strong influence in removing the most oppressive of the features of all exemption laws.

"It stands for sound business and just legislation, and its future is in the hands of its individual members."

New Orleans—Kraus & Co., a large dry goods house, has put in a grocery department and are selling groceries to consumers below cost. The grocers are discussing how they can save themselves from threatened loss.

St. Louis—In accordance with an agreement the members of the Grocers' Association are weighing crackers and cakes as soon as delivered by the driver and in the driver's presence. In every case where a shortage is found the goods are refused unless an allowance is made. The drivers at first rebelled, but later made the allowance. The result has been that the cracker companies are now putting full weight of goods into their boxes so that the grocers are not charged cracker prices for card board which they can not sell.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The association has purchased a large McCray refrigerator, listed at $175, as a prize for their picnic. A banquet is to be given in honor of Fred Mason on June 1st.

Milwaukee, Wis.—There are usually 75 or 100 in attendance at meetings out of a membership of about 400. The picnic of this association nets from $2000 to $2500 each year.

Cleveland, O.—A May party is to be given on May 23rd. There will be a program and dancing. A picnic will be given later in the year.

Indianapolis—Attention was called to the fact that although the association was even then combating a question with a large produce concern, it had been appealed to for a prize for the picnic and that the offering of their contribution was in the hands of a committee. It was decided not to accept the contribution. The annual picnic will be held at the State Fair Grounds on June 11th.

Akron, Ohio—The grocers of this city have arranged for a closing of their stores every Thursday afternoon during June, July and August. The retail meat dealers have made the same rule.

New Orleans, La.—The retail grocers of this city are convinced that trading stamps have gone for good since the only large company has collapsed owing to its failure to break down the law requiring $5000 annual license.

Seattle, Wash.—The Retail Grocers' Association will hold its annual picnic July 19th.

Tacoma, Wash.—The Retail Grocers' Association will hold their annual picnic July 26 at Spanaway Lake.

Spokane—The management of the Retail Grocers' Association has decided that the grocers should obey the Sunday closing law. A number of grocers have insisted that if they are required to close Sunday they will force all other retail stores to obey the law.

Chicago, Ill.—The central committee of the Retail Grocers and Market Merchants of Chicago have addressed a letter to the wholesale dealers of that city requesting that they stop selling to consumers and put up a card furnished by the dealers stating their position.

Texas—C. A. Beamann, secretary of the State Grocers Association, has associated himself with the Retail Merchant, published in Dallas, which has done such splendid work for the Association movement in the Lone Star State.

Cleveland, Ohio—The constitution and by-laws has been changed so that the association now meets every other week and the board of directors meet on the weeks when there is no association meeting.

San Antonio, Texas—The State Grocers' Association passed a resolution pledging friendship and patronage to wholesalers who refuse to sell to consumers. The association of this city has now written to wholesalers, sending them a copy of the resolution and asking that they state their position in regard to the matter.

Massachusetts—The State Board of Health has begun to enforce the law requiring that all food products be properly labeled. In the course of their investigation they found that a brand of pepper put up by a New York house was composed almost entirely of pepper shells and a brand of "best refined powdered borax" was found to contain no borax but only baking powder.

being prejudiced distributors, will refuse to devote our time to its sale. When the manufacturer knows that we are giving intelligent thought to these problems and can divert our trade to other goods, he is going to act intelligently and our association will be a source of profit and of value to him and he to us.

Can Control Selling Price.

The manufacturer has the legal, moral and honest right to say what his goods shall be sold at. He makes a brand valuable by spending large sums in advertising and by years of honest treatment of consumers and dealers. It would be preposterous to maintain that he should have no protection for this property which he has built up by a long career of careful business methods—that the first ruthless cutter had the right, if the whim seized him, to destroy by ruthless slashing of prices what the manufacturer had spent so much time and money to create.

If a man killed your horse or burnt your house, he would go to jail. If he destroys the value of a manufacturer's trademark ruthlessly, he is equally liable in the eyes of the law.

This was recently decided in Seattle where the manufacturers of the Crescent Baking Powder has created a market for their goods at 45 cents per pound. A large cutting store advertised that they would sell it for 40 cents. They were forbidden from doing this by a temporary injunction which was later made permanent by the judge who decided that every man has a right to protection of his life, liberty and property and that the cutting firm did not have the right to sell the Crescent Baking Powder for a less price than the manufacturers had fixed on it.

The results of this decision will be very far reaching. When I spoke of it to Mr. A. Schilling, that gentleman said: "If that's good law no man can cut my goods where there is a court to stop it." And Mr. Schilling had his attorney wire to Seattle for a copy of the decision.

We want a few more manufacturers like this and then fair profits will be assured.

Hot Shot for the Wholesalers.

I want to call attention now to another point of our problem for protecting the retail grocer in his profits. I want to read to you the contents of a paper that was submitted to all the wholesale grocers of San Francisco within the last two days by our secretary, Mr. Thurlow. It is as follows:

"We, the undersigned wholesale distributors of San Francisco, California, hereby agree to support all manufacturers in maintaining their established prices, made with the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association."

We had this drawn in this way to protect the retail grocers of Washington and Oregon. The grocers of Washington, particularly, have the support of their wholesalers and we want the manufacturers to know that the wholesalers of San Francisco will do nothing to interfere with the maintenaince of their prices in the cities of Washington should any firm there refuse to obey their demands that their goods should not be sold below a certain specified price.

Just consider how simple this is.

It merely says that if Mr. Schilling or Mr. Royal makes a price that Mr. Jobber will help them to maintain this price. Mind you, the burden of maintaining the price is on the manufacturer and all he asks of the wholesaler is that he should agree not to do anything that would interfere with this arrangement that is so much to the advantage of the retail grocer.

Jobbers Refuse to Sign.

This agreement was submitted to Tillmann & Bendel, Haas Bros., Sussman & Wormser, M. Ehrman & Co., Harris Bros. & Co., Lewin-Meyer Co., J. H. Newbauer & Co., Frank B. Peterson & Co., Wellman, Peck & Co., Louis T. Snow & Co., S. Foster & Co., Hooper & Jennings, Suydam Bros. & Rodgers.

Yet, I can assure you, and I will refer you to Mr. Thurlow to support my statement, that every one of these creatures, made by you, have refused to agree to help the manufacturer to maintain the price that the manufacturer may see fit to make. There is one name I have not read and I will not read it because there may be others who may have a change of heart and see the error of their ways.

A certain revivalist who had won great success was asked to what he attributed his ability to win people to his religious ideas. He explained that the matter was very simple. He converted the ministers first.

Convert the Wholesalers.

Gentlemen, here is your chance to put in your oar. Convert the ministers first. When you have done that, you will have little difficulty in securing the active co-operation of the people who make up their flocks.

When the wholesale grocers are converted to, and understand and have belief in the desirability of what you seek, they can be a power for good in helping you to secure the active assistance of many retail grocers who might remain untouched by the arguments and persuasions of the secretary of your organization.

I want to read for you, too, a contract that we have had manufacturers sign in Southern California:

"We, the undersigned manufacturers, being anxious to introduce or perpetuate our goods on this market, namely, _____, hereby make the following prices, which they shall be retailed at, _____, and we hereby agree not to sell directly or indirectly to any one breaking the prices established by us, and we agree not to sell any jobber or distributor who sells either directly or indirectly to any one who destroys our legitimately named price. Should our prices be cut by any one it shall be the duty of your association to notify the jobbers, as well as ourselves, of the party cutting our price, and said jobber or distributor must then refrain from selling our goods either directly or indirectly to said cutter until matters are adjusted with us in writing.

"Yours very truly,

(Signed) "_____,

"Manufacturer."

Many Articles Pay Profits.

I want to say that we have 84 of these contracts and that all 84 of them are being enforced and that the enforcement is made easier because of the general knowledge that the wholesale grocers will do their share in helping the manufacturer to carry out his part of the agreement.

One of these agreements is signed by the Royal Baking Powder Co.

This is of special importance, since we have found that almost invariably we have had the Johnson-Locke Co. lined against us. This firm has made no attempt to assist us in securing an understanding with their principals and many communications that have been addressed to their principals through them have failed of being forwarded. We think that this firm, who makes its living off you, owes you better service and more consideration than this.

I am not bringing up these matters without a motive. I would not speak of them if I did not feel that it was possible to follow up these suggestions for our mutual good.

Man's Work at Hand.

This is not child's play.

It is man's work.

We have a serious problem that must be confronted with all the strength and earnestness of which we are capable.

Stop and think.

If some villain should enter your home and it should be torn asunder through his machinations, wouldn't you kill him?

Of course you would. And every sane man would approve of what you had done.

If a man or firm deliberately takes up a course that destroys your profits and makes it impossible for you to continue in business and supply your family with the comforts that they need, are you going to stand idly by and allow this dreadful act to be consummated, wringing your hands and complaining idly, when by effective action in conjunction with your fellow grocers, you can stop the evil and force fair treatment from the men who are abusing you?

Retail Grocers Disregarded.

Your approval of the sentiments that have been expressed by the speakers who preceded me give the best answer to this question.

What do you think of men whose very existence depends upon the retail dealers who say, in actions and sometimes in words: "To hell with the retail trade?"

Why, if they had a mule, they would put a saddle blanket on its back.

They would do this because if they did not, the mule would get sore and they could not get as good service out of it as if they were careful of its condition?

What do the wholesale grocers and some of these manufacturers' agents, who make their living out of the retail trade and depend upon them for their very existence, do for the retail grocers?

Instead of putting on a saddle blanket they say: "It's none of our business whether you get anything out of this or not. You are welcome to what there is left if you can make anything out of it that we cannot keep for ourselves."

This is not true of all of them.

In Southern California we have one wholesale grocer who has consistently supported the retail trade in every movement they have made for their goods. I want to say to you that if you can find such a wholesaler in Northern California, stick to him. (Applause.)

Let me tell you of a little instance that happened in Southern California.

The San Bernardino.

There were two firms who started in to cut prices in San Bernardino. One wholesaler stood by us and said he would refuse to sell his goods to men who would attempt to upset card prices. Four wholesale grocers said they would sell to the cutters if they wanted to. These men had passed a resolution, signed by every member of their wholesale Grocers' Association, in which they said that they would not cut off a cutter at the request of the retail grocers. It was only a few days later that the men who had declared that they were going to sell to the cutters if they wanted to, found that they were losing so much trade it would not pay them to ally themselves with the movement to prevent their customers from getting profits and they held another special meeting, and, as a result, the cutting stopped in San Bernardino. It is worthy of note that after this meeting the wholesale grocers claimed that no such resolution as I have spoken of appeared on their books, and we told them that if we were wholesale grocers we would be ashamed to have it appear on our books also.

Now, let us get back to this simple agreement that was submitted to the wholesale grocers of San Francisco.

Individuals Can Help.

Every man in this room can do much towards helping secure their signature to this agreement. When you go to the wholesaler or when their salesmen come to your store, say to them: "Why don't you sign this agreement of ours? It is not work for you. It is the manufacturer who makes the price. Why will you refuse to uphold the manufacturer who takes all the responsibility and who is prepared to do so much towards helping the men on whom you depend for your existence, to get a fair return out of the grocery business?"

Mr. Newberry at this juncture turned towards Mr. Blair and said: "This monument of the Kelley-Clarke Co. here says they can do it. They will, too. Mr. Blair is a part of the leaven that is working upon our commercial dough and I want to tell you now that before long the entire body will be affected. I want to say that I hope you will stand by Riverside Starch. (Great applause.)

"I want to say something further. It is, that there is only one jobber in San Francisco that will fill orders for Riverside Starch, and that is Wm. Cluff."

Cheers for Wm. Cluff.

Mr. Newberry was interrupted here by loud cheers for Mr. Cluff, and continued applause.

"Most of the jobbers will tell you that they would like to see you get a profit and that they think your movement would be a splendid thing if it could be carried out and that they would do all they can to help. When a man says a thing and will not put his name to what he says, I question his veracity.

"I am very glad to have had this opportunity to outline briefly what we are looking forward to. I would like to talk to you further with regard to this, but I judge from the way you have voiced your appreciation of what has already been brought forward, that there is no need for further talk."

(A voice from the end of one of the tables: "We like to hear you. Don't stop. Go on.")

"I will say to you as I said to the grocers of the Northwest when they urged me to stay a little longer: 'If the jobbers don't treat you right, I will come back.'

"I think I will be going back again before long to see what we can do towards assisting the grocers of Portland and the other cities of Oregon and Washington to help get their business on a desirable basis.

"There is another thing that I wish to mention here.

"When manufacturers had signed our agreement to maintain prices in Southern California, I would tell them that I wanted them to sign an agreement for the Pacific Coast Association.

"They would say: 'Does that include San Francisco?' and when I said 'Yes,' they would say, 'Not on your life.'

"Now, gentlemen, that is the one place to get in line. San Francisco must be in line before the grocers of Alameda county can get the best results out of their organization.

"At this table there are many strong buyers. You must use your strength to assist the grocers of San Francisco to bring about this result."

H. D. Cushing pointed out that it was impossible for any dealer who would have his business grow to secure any greater profit than the average grocer asked. Organization was needed to put that profit on a proper basis. Over $6,000 had been collected on bad bills for the members. They had the association to thank for that money, most of which they would not have got otherwise, and more money that grocers collected themselves because their debtors knew the association was in existence. The association had made it possible for them to get a profit on Globe flour. The agreement not to give away yeast was worth from $3 to $50 a month to every grocer in Alameda county. He emphasized the fact that these benefits were only to be had if the members were willing to pay for them.

Wilber Walker, who was present at the birth of the association, pointed out how much easier it was for the grocers to handle the manufacturer and the jobber when they were properly organized. He advised that the organization double its dues.

Geo. A. Bussell, the first president of the association, insisted that the members were getting more than they were paying for, considering the fact that dues were only 50 cents a month. He thought dues should be at least $1 per month, and was certain that if members would pay a little attention to association work they would receive many times that value from it.

F. Fay, of Berkeley, agreed that dues were too low. He insisted that the possibilities from the association were beyond computation if the grocers would only pull together.

Geo. Morris, of Alameda, said he was willing to pay $2 a month if it was necessary and was sure he would be getting his money's worth.

Secretary Reed urged the members to united action and impressed the necessity of deeds rather than words.

The meeting adjourned at 12:15.

BAD MILK CAUSES ARRESTS.

Several Los Angeles retail grocers have been arrested for selling milk that was not up to the standard. Some of the milk had been skimmed of part of its cream. Other specimens seized by inspectors were found to contain water.

The Exciting melodrama, "The Eleventh Hour," is the drawing card this week. The play is being presented under the personal direction of Chas. A. Sellon, who is manager for the author, L. J. Carter. The caste is a strong one.

FISCHER'S.

The star turn this week is that of Henry Lee, who presents likenesses of noted men. The bill is rounded up with numerous clever vaudeville artists and some new moving pictures. There are two performances each evening and one in the afternoon.

THE CHUTES.

This big playground is presenting an entirely new bill in its free theatre. Nearly every number is an Orpheum headliner.

MERITS ATTENTION.

An Industry That Californians Should Foster.

Few people realize the future wealth that Californians will derive from its fisheries. The Atlantic has so long been looked upon as the one fish-producing coast (aside from salmon) that it is hard for us to awaken to the fact that canned mackerel and sardines of the very finest quality are produced from Pacific waters. Once try the "Sunset" Brand of mackerel, packed at San Pedro, and you will learn something that will open your eyes.

LIGHT FOR GROCERS.

er association members or not can call upon us to help them correct their troubles and we will investigate them and if just, our paper will take up their fight.

We propose to use extensive publicity to assist us in securing the just demands and rights of the Pacific Coast Association. We intend to allow daylight to constantly illuminate the unfair or neglectful attitude taken by manufacturers or jobbers towards our association.

Private Brand Iniquity.

Conspicuous among the features of our educational campaign will be a practical effort to enlighten the retail grocers of their folly in handling private brands either of their own or their jobbers.

Convincing proof, facts and figures will clearly and simply illustrate the arguments that will be presented on this subject.

We expect plenty of antagonism.

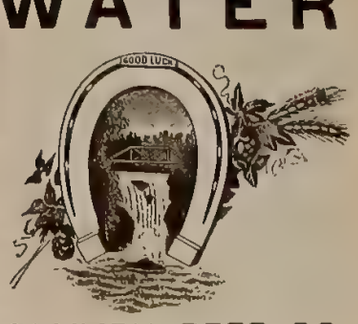
We know that we will have some bitter fights. But we can assure the grocers of the Pacific Coast that we do not intend to faulter and will go right ahead with "our knitting," and our official paper, The Advocate, will appear regularly on Friday of each week even if it does not carry a single advertisement.

In the issues to follow we will outline fully further plans that we know will startle every retailer and jobber on the Pacific coast.

The outline of these plans, when thoroughly digested, will create an interest in our association that we are certain will be unparalled in the history of any association of this country.

It has taken much close study and hard work to gather up the threads of the organization, but our office is now tolerably familiar with conditions, the necessities of the retail trade and the various local associations and the results that should follow.

The directors of the Pacific Coast Association have decided that a campaign of activity shall begin and it has already started.



You will shortly begin to see, read and hear things, and through the clouds of battle you will begin to observe your salvation and you will get assistance in allopathic doses towards correcting the abuses from which you and the other grocers of the Pacific coast are now suffering.

Yours for success,
H. W. THURLOW.

manufacturers who are taking the trade away from them. Two cracker companies, to our knowledge, sell direct to hotels, restaurants, saloons, etc., that apply in San Francisco and Oakland.

Bishop & Co. and the National Biscuit Co. do not do this, as far as we can ascertain.

Many coffee houses sell to anyone who will apply.

There are six or seven semi-jobbers who also sell to anyone.

Secretary Not Interested.

All these matters receive little attention from the secretary or board of directors.

The result is that such men as Goldberg-Bowen, West, Elliott & Gordon, Rathjen Bros., Johnson Bros., and several other prominent grocers are not supporting the association.

These questions must be handled in order to interest the larger dealers, as they are usually not interested in the association collection department or delinquent list, they having a credit man of their own.

The Poorest Collection Department.

In addition to the above shortcomings, the San Francisco association has the poorest collection, credit rating and delinquent department in the State.

The reason for this is obvious.

The secretary is burdened with more work than he can possibly attend to. He has charge of the collections. He has charge of soliciting new members. He has the dues of over four hundred members to collect. He has a delinquent list to look after, and he has several pages of advertising to solicit and collect for. This takes so much of his time that none is left for other matters.

'Frisco's Poor Showing.

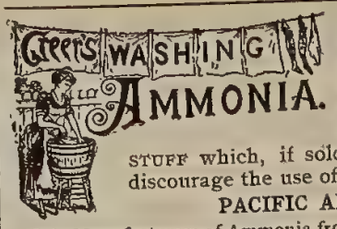
The collection department is ineffective owing to the amount of work in charge of the secretary. Less than $200 per month is collected, while Los Angeles collects from $400 to $600 per month. Los Angeles has two collectors who devote their entire time to collections and live off the commissions made, while the San Francisco association pays their secretary $100 per month and as large a commission as that paid to the Los Angeles collectors. In addition to this they pay their office girl $40 per month and almost her entire time is taken up in writing letters, working on bills, etc., and the commissions go to the secretary. In addition to this the secretary spends a great portion of his time for which he is paid this $100 in soliciting ads for his delinquent list and all the profits go to him.

Ignore General Body.

At a meeting of the general body early in the year the secretary was instructed to solicit only enough advertisements to pay for publishing the delinquent list. In April W. R. Baxter, secretary of the Los Angeles Association, received a letter from the San Francisco secretary saying that the board of directors would not stand for such instructions, and they allowed him to get all the ads he could and keep the money, in addition to his $100 per month salary.

Many of the members are beginning to consider that the secretary is paid a sufficient salary to devote his entire time to building up the association, instead of soliciting advertisements and collecting accounts.

The State collectors, knowing the conditions of the San Francisco association went before the meeting and offered to collect the accounts without expense to the association and offered to give a $5,000 bond for the faithful performance of their duty. The matter was turned down without investigation.



Antagonistic to State.

The secretary is exceedingly antagonistic to the State association and in his letter to Mr. Baxter stated that the State association had cost the San Francisco grocers nearly $1,000 the past year and that it had done them no good.

In order to make the amount he has charged to the State association anything like the amount mentioned he had to include the $400 spent by the San Francisco association in sending two delegates to the National Convention also $38 national per capita tax, neither of which the State association had any interest in whatever. He also charges up $160 railroad fare of the delegates to the State convention, when, if they had wanted to be economical, they could have spent half as much with as good results.

Owe All to State Association.

His statement that the State association has done them no good certainly leaves the San Francisco grocers little to stand on. Aside from the good work done by the San Francisco association (which we are glad to acknowledge) in helping secure laws at the last session, the San Francisco grocers have accomplished practically nothing, and to take away from them what they helped the State to get, they certainly have little left to hold up as an excuse for existence.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

Points to Watch

RICE—
San Francisco prices are below parity with New Orleans market.

TEA—
Japan reports a shortage of 30 per cent in the tea crop as compared with last year.

CHEESE—
Limburger cheese now in market is of poor quality. Better is expected soon. New Martin's cheese comes on the market this week; cheaper prices are predicted by importers shortly.

CANNED SALMON—
The market is strong and it is predicted that there will not be a case of pink salmon left in first hands by August 1st.

TACOMA BEER.

The Tacoma Bottling Company, of which George Alpers is president and treasurer, and Wm. Lieber, vice-president and secretary, are fitting up their plant at 2350-60 Harrison street. The beer will be on the market shortly and both Mr. Alpers and Mr. Lieber are enthusiastic in praising its quality. They guarantee the beer to be made of the finest Bohemian hops and the water of Mt. Tacoma. They further guarantee the beer to be six months old before bottling. This new beer will unquestionably have many loyal friends from the very beginning, since there is not a retail grocer but knows George Alpers, and Mr. Lieber is also very well known among the best grocers of the entire Coast through his long connection with the Johnson Locke Mercantile Company.

THE RICE SHORTAGE.

Chief Cause That Leads to the Reduction of the Southern Crop.

The "Grocery World" of Philadelphia states that the crop for 1905-6 will not be over 50 or 60 per cent of last year's and that this is largely due to the fact that the Southern banks have withdrawn their support from the millers.

According to this report the amount of rice purchased became so heavy that the banks feared to lend the millers money to continue their business. As a result many millers have had to stay out of the business.

No new rice in any quality will be shipped before the middle or last of August. The season is about eight weeks late this year. There is no actual scarcity of rice since last year's crop was very large.

HELPS GET RESULTS.

Value and Strength of the Pacific Coast Association.

By H. W. Thurlow, Secretary.

In the various movements of Association progress among the individual organizations, there should be always kept in mind the strength that can be added and the support that will be extended by the Pacific Coast Association.

This Association is kept in operation to supply the assistance, and leverage when necessary, to help the affiliating associations to correct trade abuses. Its intentions are also to cooperate with manufacturers and others who are desirous of having their products sold at a price that will insure the retail distributors a fair and equitable PROFIT.

The principal object is, of course, the PROFITABLE handling of all staples and the encouragement of uniform prices among all grocers.

PROFIT is absolutely necessary for success in the grocery or any other business.

To encourage manufacturers to really and sincerely believe that grocers desire a profit, it is a part of the duty of each grocer member to individually maintain prices on goods that insure a profit and to talk profit to every manufacturer's representative who enters their store.

They should also individually refuse to encourage the sale of any manufacturer's goods which are sold at prices that do not pay a profit.

They should urge, by every means possible, the sale of the brands of those manufacturers who are showing a disposition to assist the grocers to maintain prices which pay a profit.

The strength and influence of the Pacific Coast Association is becoming recognizezd by many progressive and enterprising manufacturers who, as shrewd business men, appreciate the assistance that the Pacific Coast Association can be to them in helping sustain the popularity of their goods, and are extending to us substantial financial support and encouragement.

We are assured that we can shortly depend on more of the representative manufacturers of this Coast becoming actively interested in protecting prices on their goods and who will co-operate with this Association.

If the retailers individually will talk in favor of these manufacturers to all salesmen who call upon them, their preferences will quickly be reported to the other manufacturers who, at present, frown upon Association work and in the end, as sure as the sun rises each day, they will all be eager to do their share to promote the general welfare which is, after all, in the long run, only profit for themselves.

WILL PROTECT PRICES.

Three Wholesale Grocers Agree to Help Maintain Contracts.

By H. W. Thurlow, Secretary.

Wm. Cluff Co. of San Francisco.
Hall, Luhrs & Co., Sacramento.
J. R. Garrett & Co., Marysville.

These are the only wholesale grocers, up to date, who have been willing to agree to lend their assistance toward requiring retail grocers to maintain a proper selling price on Riverside Starch.

The Kelley-Clarke Co. will not sell Riverside Starch to any dealer who refuses to sign a contract not to sell his starch for less than 8 cents per pound in less than ten pound lots. This company also refuses to sell their starch to the wholesale grocer unless that wholesale grocer agrees not to sell the starch to any retailer who has not signed an agreement to maintain the retail selling price and also not to sell to a firm when notified that prices are being cut.

Up to the present time, Wm. Cluff Co. is the only wholesaler in San Francisco that has been willing to lend its strength towards an attempt to rehabilitate prices on starch. The matter has been submitted to every wholesale grocer in the city, but up to the present writing, none of them have been willing to assist in the attempt to help the retail grocers get a fair profit on their sales of starch even to the extent of filling the orders that the Kelley-Clarke Co. may be able to send to them.

Hall, Luhrs & Co. of Sacramento have not only signed an agreement to maintain prices but have bought a carload of this starch, most of which has already been distributed among the Sacramento grocers.

J. R. Garrett & Co. of Marysville have also sold considerable Riverside starch, none of which has been placed with retailers who have failed to sign contracts to maintain prices.

The manufacturers of Riverside starch intend to place their starch on the market under proper auspices. They do not want to sell their starch and will not sell it to any retailer who will not sign a contract to maintain prices. They will not sell and do not want to sell the starch to any wholesaler who will not sign a contract to refuse to sell to cutters and any wholesaler who may violate this agreement will not only be fined, but, if the Kelley-Clarke Co. find that he does not intend to try to maintain that contract, they will refuse to supply him further.

This is the basis upon which the manufacturer must proceed if he really wants to protect the retail grocer in his profits. Unless the retail grocer can get a profit on his goods the manufacturer cannot expect to have the grocers push the sale of his goods or, in fact, sell any more of them than they can possibly help.

FLOUR!

Retail Grocers to Blame When Profits Are Not Secured.

By H. W. Thurlow, Secretary.

No man is going to secure anything unless he asks for it as if he expected to get it.

This is especially true if what he asks for is going to cause a disturbance with people who are prepared to cause trouble if the request is granted.

The San Francisco grocers are themselves to blame because they are not now getting a profit of 15 cents per sack on flour. They have not asked for it as if they expected to get it.

In other communities, the retail grocers said to the mills:

"We want 15 cents per sack profit on our flour. You can assure us this profit if you will insist that all retailers must sell your flour for $1.35 per sack."

The mills invariably said: "But this will cause trouble with the big cutting firms and we don't want to have trouble with them."

The grocers then replied: "If you want to protect the cutters at our expense you can do so. If you do this we will discontinue selling your flour as far as we possibly can and will switch as much trade as we can to the flour of those mills who protect selling prices."

In some instances it required only a showing of strength and determination on the part of the retail grocers to secure what they desired.

San Francisco is in position to make such a showing of strength, but the present Board of Directors of the Retail Grocers refused to make use of this and in every way possible gave the mills to understand that no bad results would follow if they should refuse to accede to what was requested of them.

As a consequence the following mills refused to protect the retail grocers of San Francisco, Alameda, Berkeley, Oakland and the other bay cities:

Sperry Milling Co.
Port Costa Milling Co.
Stockton Milling Co.
American Milling Co.
Del Monte Milling Co.

There was one firm that agreed to protect the price of its flour. This firm was

Globe Grain and Milling Co.

The flour mills of San Francisco did not realize the earnestness with which the grocers of the bay cities pursued this flour question. They did not realize that this problem had been discussed again and again by the retail grocers and that they knew what they wanted. They did not realize that the grocers were prepared to act in order to secure the results they needed.

The consequence has been that the mills who refused to protect the grocers have lost an immense amount of business, some of which they can never regain.

Every day that passes they are losing more.

The retailers have been profiting by the entrance of the Globe Milling Co. into the flour trade of Northern Cal-

OAKLAND'S OUTLOOK.

Secretary Reed Promises Endeavor and Expects Results.

Oakland, Cal.—It is the purpose of our association to awaken the grocers of Alameda county to a serious consideration of their business interests.

What the association has accomplished, and its immense possibilities for the betterment of trade conditions should be the subject of serious consideration by every thinking dealer.

The grocers' place in political economy is among the distributors, and it should be his endeavor to get his share for the service he renders.

The question is: "Can you get it working alone or must you seek it through an association with those doing the same work as yourself?"

All human achievement has been the result of incessant strife.

History tells us that the industrial warfare of the past was a fight between individuals.

To-day it is a struggle of organizations.

In every field of endeavor this is being thrashed out.

From small states, bickering and fighting with each other, jealous of what each had obtained, there has been formed the great units of modern times. The greatest among these are our own United States and the present German Empire.

Out of hundreds of petty railroad companies has been formed the great railroad systems of to-day.

The railroad companies have learned their lessons very thoroughly. When they went to the extreme of rate-cutting and carried passengers from Los Angeles to Kansas City for 50 cents, one of them went into the hands of the receiver. Then they quit fighting and agreed among themselves to obtain a profit that would pay for operating.

We witnessed a like competition in our own city between rival water companies, with the result that rather than become bankrupt they came to an agreement.

Each in his turn has gone through the same experience, the manufacturer, the wholesaler and the skilled laborer. When they could not get their share of the fruits of human industry working as individuals, they were compelled to do it through their respective organizations.

Retailers in other lines—the coal dealers, butchers and druggists, etc., have obtained more stable business conditions as a result to being organized. They have been compelled, through necessity to work together, and they found it better than cutting each others' throats.

Mr. Grocer, you have your part to play in the evolution of political economy. Play it—and play it like men. You can no more stop the course of events than you can stop the waves from rolling on the sands of the ocean beach.

It is not for you to cavil and say this or that can't be done. There is no such word as "can't" in the lexicon of the man who does things.

You are in the position of a sick man. The doctor says a certain medicine will cure you.

Take it.

It is not for you to say, "I can't"; but rather, "I must."

This is the talk, Mr. Grocer.

No great battle ever was or ever will be won on the "I can't" philosophy. Conditions can only be bettered by determined effort.

When the Spanish war was at its height there was a call for a man to take a message from Shafter to Garcia. Out of a thousand men one man with indominitable pluck carried the message to Garcia through an unknown wilderness swarming with the pickets of the enemy.

Don't tell me that the grocer is the only element of our complex system of human endeavor who is incapable of solving his economic conditions.

If the manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in other lines can improve their business conditions through an association, why can not the grocers?

And if the grocers in other places have increased their profits and reduced their losses through association, why can not we do it here?"

But I have heard it said that the grocers around the bay are "different" to anybody found in this creation. Then, when God made these particular grocers, he undoubtedly took a different kind of clay—clay with a large quantity of "It can't be done" in it.

I don't believe this.

I don't believe there is anything we can't accomplish.

We have our problems to solve and we have the stuff to solve them.

Let us stand steadfast on everything we undertake, and with a secretary who stands ready to do his part the grocers can better their condition materially.

Yours very truly,
JAMES G. REED, Secretary.

PARCELS POST AGAIN.

The parcels post will come before Congress again next winter, says "Cleveland Inland Grocer."

The various leagues and lobbying organizations behind the measure are pulling every wire at their command to make a showing for a parcels post. They will be in Washington in full force during the next session, and it is doubtful whether even the enormous deficit in the postoffice department, due to extension of the rural free delivery, will be sufficient to overcome their influence.

The parcels post measure, if passed, will be worth millions to a limited number of department stores and retail mail-order houses. Naturally, they want it and will spend money to obtain it. If a parcels post is established the regular dealer will be taxed to support his distant rival.

We trust that no false sense of security will prevent every reader of the "Inland Grocer" using his influence with his Congressman and Senator to prevent the passage of this measure.

See them personally, if possible. If not, write them. Be sure that your Representatives in Congress know your wishes, and also the wishes of as many others as you can muster, upon the parcels post proposition.

Paying your debts is one kind of a paying business.

Too many quarrels are picked before they are ripe.

HELPS THE GROCERS.

Mayor Schmitz Insists that Health Board Shall Act Fairly.

Once more, the retail grocers of San Francisco are indebted to Mayor Eugene Schmitz for relieving them from an unpleasant situation. This time, the Mayor has used his good services to secure business-like methods from the Board of Health.

The Board of Health, in analyzing the tomato catsups now on this market, reported that "Snider's" and the "California Home Brand" catsups contained coal tar dyes and, therefore, that retail grocers who sold them were liable to arrest.

The attention of Mayor Schmitz was called to the fact that the owners of these brands insisted that the goods they had sold to grocers during the past two years were pure and that the goods analyzed were from stocks older than that.

This being true, the police were forbidding the grocers from selling perfectly lawful catsups, which made up a large part of their stocks, because a few bottles of another catsup, differently labeled and no longer sold, were still to be found on some of the grocers' shelves.

Mayor Schmitz at once arranged a conference between State Secretary Connolly (who is also vice-president of the local Grocers' Association), representatives of the T. A. Snider Preserve Co., the Pacific Pickle and Vinegar Works and Health Officer Ragan, and let the gentlemen of the Health Board know what his desires were in the matter.

Dr. Ragan explained that the Health Board did not wish to do any individual injustice, but that, when the Health Office took up a line of investigation, it required a rather elaborate arrangement of chemical apparatus which had to be changed to accommodate the next investigation. This meant that, unless there were unusual circumstances, the Board could not, without considerable inconvenience and expense, undertake individual analysis of any class of goods until that kind of goods should be taken up again.

Mr. Connoly stated that the grocers were in favor of the enforcement of the pure food laws and had gone on record to that effect at various conventions. They were opposed to methods that worked injustice to dealers and manufacturers.

The Board of Health, he said, had threatened to arrest grocers who sold Snider's Catsup that was in accord with the law because another catsup, differently labeled, contained coloring matter. The same thing was true of the California Home Brand goods. It worked an injustice on the retail grocers to be forbidden from selling the pure goods in which they had their money invested. It also worked a grave loss to the manufacturer. He thought that when goods were differently labeled, samples of each kind of goods should be analyzed.

This was the decision reached by the Health Office. The machinery of the Analyst's Department was set to work and analyses of the later goods will be made by Friday.

This action on the part of the Board of Health was not taken until pressure was brought to bear by Mayor Schmitz. The physicians who make up the Board of Health did not realize the business interests that they were so carelessly interfering with and the losses and annoyance they were thrusting on innocent firms. Mayor Schmitz understood the situation and it is to his prompt interference that the grocers are indebted for the prompt recognition of their needs and rights.

WHERE JUDGMENT TELLS.

Skillful Buying the Most Important Task of a Retail Grocer.

Some dealers do not seem to realize how much their success depends upon how and what they buy.

Some things that look nice and taste nice will never remain staple long because there is something about them that causes one to grow tired of them soon. What, therefore, is the use of building up a trade on such articles?

"Sunset" mackerel in three flavors is ever welcome, and a trade once established on this delicious canned fish will last year in and year out. No one grows tired of it.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

Alabama—State Retail Grocers' and General Merchants' Association has incorporated. The annual dues are fixed at 25 cents per member. These are paid by each holder of one or more shares of stock in the corporation. No stockholder is allowed to hold more than 10 shares of stock.

Patterson, N. J.—The Retail Grocery Clerks' Union is working strenuously to secure a weekly half holiday during the summer.

Iowa—State Grocers' Association has declared itself in favor of asking the Legislature to repeal all exemption laws for the purpose, as they say, "that all men should be made equally responsible before the law." They agree to support an anti-child labor law, also a compulsory education law. They decided to favor union-made goods, all things being equal.

St. Paul, Minn.—At the regular June monthly meeting Secretary Ryan paid out to the members $425 collected for them on bad bills during the previous month.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—The tea stores of this city have been selling sugar for less than wholesale prices. To do this they had to buy a car of sugar. They could not afford to buy so much and asked the grocers to help in the purchase and agreed to sell it to them at less than wholesale prices as an inducement. The Grocers' Association passed a resolution denouncing the practice of buying sugar from any tea and coffee house at any price. A copy of the resolution was sent to each retail and wholesale grocer of the city.

Sandy, Utah—A movement is on foot to have all grocers unite in refusing to do credit business. A proposition is to give customers four months' notice, after which no more credit will be allowed.

St. Joseph, Mo.—The Trading Stamp store in this city was forced to close because the merchants of this city agreed to drop trading stamps after June 1st.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Governor Johnson of Minnesota is after the State Retail Grocers' Association because of accusations that the retail grocers and meat dealers of Duluth have been fixing selling prices. P. G. Hanson, in referrng to conditions, said that the Association did not fix prices. The secretary of the Association sent out cards when the jobbing prices changed suggesting how many pounds of sugar could be sold with profit for $1. and what the prevailing price was for a sack of flour. The grocer is free to charge whatever he chooses. With the card system he cannot lose money without knowing it. Governor Johnson will investigate the matter and if he finds that the grocers have been trying to fix prices he will request the Attorney General to proceed against the organization on the anti-trust law.

INTERESTED IN STATE ASS'N.

The firm of Bonaiti & Petar of Bolinas, Cal., have made an appeal to the State Grocers' Association for assistance against San Francisco jobbers who sell to consumers in their territory. They express themselves in a recent letter as being interested in what has been accomplished by Association work and would like to get a profit on all staples which is enjoyed by Association members.

They complain that several San Francisco jobbers are selling to hotels and large consumers direct and that one concern in particular recently made a house to house canvas of the entire town informing the residents that they were being robbed by the local firms. This firm succeeded in taking orders from the majority of these people, which were filled with inferior goods, much of which had to be returned or thrown away.

They also complain that the Standard Oil Co., from whom they are the largest purchasers, insist on selling anyone who cares to buy from them.

This firm has been obliged to discontinue their business relatons with one jobbing firm because they persisted in selling to consumers. They complain bitterly that virtually no protection whatever has been accorded them by jobbers or manufacturers in their territory and request that the State Association make some effort to use their influence towards correcting their difficulties.

This matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the State Association and we hope shortly to be able to publish a favorable letter from this firm that the efforts of the State Association have been of some benefit to them.

BABBITT'S SOAPS.

Veteran Soap Company Seeks to Prevent Cutting By Retail Grocers.

Recognizing the great injury done its business by cutting their soap the Babbitt Co. has decided to pay a rebate of 15 cents per case on all purchases made after May 8th where the retailer has not sold Babbitt's soaps for less than 5 cents per bar straight or 22 for $1. On the special rebate contract it is stipulated that the retail dealers forfeit the rebate on any soaps which he may resell to wholesale houses.

As a further inducement to assist in the maintenance of prices the B. T. Babbitt Co. have decided to distribute $1,375 among 100 of the grocers who have not sold Babbitt soaps during the year, January, 1905, to January, 1906, for less than 5 cents per bar, 11 for 50 cents or 22 for $1.

Each of the 25 dealers selling the most Babbitt soaps during the year ending June 1, 1906, will be paid $25. Each of the 25 selling the next largest amount of soap will be given $15 each. The 25 selling the next largest amount will be paid $10 and the 25 selling the fourth largest amount will receive $5 each.

In order to participate in this special allowance no soap must have been sold for less than the price named above.

HIGH LICENSE LEAGUE.

At a recent meeting of the High License League, held in the Parrott building, Vice President John Hatch stated that while it was necessary to secure 10,000 signatures of registered voters in order to obtain a place on the ballot at the next election in order to raise the license fee to $500 per year, that he felt that the organization could secure from 15,000 to 20,000 names to their petitions. He added: "If we get on the ballot there is not a doubt that the high license will carry with the people."

fornia. Every sack of Globe flour they sell gives them a good profit and also saves them from the necessity of selling some other flour on which they do not get a profit.

If every grocer in San Francisco who is now selling Globe flour should make it his business to get one other retail grocer to sell Globe flour in preference to the flour of those mills who do not protect prices, it would be only a matter of a few days before even the most stubborn of the local mills would realize that they were making a mistake by insisting upon the right to discriminate in favor of cutters against the welfare of the other grocers.

The grocers have only themselves to blame if they did not get a fair profit on flour.

When enough of them say to the mills: "We will push your flour when we can get a profit of 15 cents per sack, the same as we do on the Globe flour, but we will not push it until we are assured of such a profit," they will get the profit they want.

WANT A CHANGE.

'Frisco Grocers Disgusted With Conditions Now Being Forced on Them.

The grocers of San Francisco realize fully the fact that they are now suffering because of the unfair and foolish policy of the present management of their organization.

The present board of directors have failed to assist in the movement towards bettering prices. They have even interfered to prevent effective action.

The present board of directors have refused to consider the proposition giving the members an effective collection department. As a result the San Francisco Association collects about $200 per month for a few members, and the Association pays an enormous price for that service, while the members pay a commission besides. In the city of Los Angeles, which is less than one-half the size of San Francisco, from $400 to $600 per month is collected for the members and all the service costs is the commission that is paid to the collectors, which is the same as that charged by the San Francisco secretary.

The board of directors of the San Francisco organization attempted, in the beginning, to prevent the organization from co-operating with the State Association to secure better legislation. They were forced into line by the members at a general meeting who commanded the directors to do what they had refused to do two weeks before.

A Few Men to Blame.

The entire trouble lies with a few men who, in order to gratify personal feeling, are willing to sacrifice the best interests of the members of the organization.

The members must act if they expect to correct this miserable state of affairs.

The annual election will be held at a general meeting called for Wednesday, June 28th.

Every member should attend this meeting and should vote to see that the board of directors is made up of representative men who will work harmoniously and who have influence on the "street."

The Grocers' Association of Los Angeles has succeeded in advancing the price of staples to such an extent that the gross receipts of the retail grocers are from 7 to 10 per cent greater than they were two years ago.

If the grocers of San Francisco will put the management of their association into the hands of business men who treat the Association as part of their business, there is no reason why the gross receipts of every grocery store in the city should not be increased from 3 to 5 per cent over what it is at the present time.

Something for Nothing.

It is seldom that any one is able to get something for nothing.

This is almost the case with the present secretary of the San Francisco Grocers' Association.

He is paid $100 a month as salary and is allowed the assistance of a girl at $40, most of whose time is spent in writing letters, etc., to help in collecting bills and each member for whom the collection is made pays the secretary 20 per cent on those collections besides.

In addition to this, the secretary prints the Association's black list in magazine form and is allowed to keep for himself the advertising with which that publication is burdened. In this way he secures a very handsome addition to an already large salary to pay him for hustling for ads for himself and for running a collection business in his own interest. From the nature of the complaints of the members it seems evident that the secretary attempts to collect only the cream of the bils sent in by the members and pays no attention whatever to any that are either small in amount or hard to collect.

Because he is so busy working for himself the secretary has no time to help members get better prices. Instead of this, he lends his assistance to mills who give him advertising for his blacklist in order to defeat the action of the members.

The prevailing conditions are a disgrace to San Francisco.

If the members of the Grocers' Association do not take it into their hands and elect a good, competent board of directors for the ensuing year, the disgrace will be on them.

Numerous grocers have expressed themselves to the writer of this article as being disgusted with the present conditions and have stated that, unless present administration is changed, they will withdraw from the organization. The men expressing themselves in this way are the best men in San Francisco and the men to whom the Association has always looked for backing when they went to the manufacturers and jobbers for anything they might need.

X-RAY'S NEW SUCCESS.

Fred Holcomb & Co. are now introducing X-Ray Stove Polish in the interior towns. This splendid article is scoring the same success in the interior cities that it has in the larger communities about the bay. During the past week, salesmen have been canvassing Sacramento and the goods have been placed with about 90 per cent of the retail dealers. Ten thousand samples were distributed in Sacramento and other liberal advertising has been done there.

Another carload of X-Ray Stove Polish arrived this week, nearly all of which has been required to meet the pressing demand of the local trade. Another car is expected shortly.

Carnation Cream.

1. Time—Saves waiting for the milkman. Always ready for use.
2. Money—Retails at 10c. the 20-oz. can. It is heavily concentrated, goes farther than fresh milk, and gives better results in cooking. Will keep in any climate.
3. Health—Is absolutely pure and unadulterated (see San Francisco Board of Health "Official Bulletin" for March, 1905). A nutritious food. Is easily digested, and thoroughly sterilized (no danger from disease germs.)

A HELP TO GROCERS.

A Little Novelty That Makes Very Pretty Signs.

There is a little novelty in the shape of a formation pen for writing signs that is very clever. They come in different sizes, varying from one-eighth to two-quarters of an inch in width, and by a little practice anyone can make the prettiest effects with them, as the stroke gives the appearance of a twisted ribbon.

They are called Signographs, and can be had of P. E. Lenfestey, 220 California street, San Francisco, complete with ink and directions, upon receipt of the price $1.50.

CANNED GOODS.

Tillmann & Bendel issue a circular under date of June 12th in which they summarize the condition of the canned goods market. Among other things, they say:

Corn and Tomatoes are this season being offered at prices so close to the cost of production as to make them unprofitable to pack except to those canners who use modern and labor-saving devices, and who have an outlet for a large pack.

Asparagus—Those who have placed their orders for asparagus have already profited handsomely.

The crop of California Fruits, taken as a whole, is below the average; although the favorable condition of the apricot and peach crop has enabled packers to name somewhat lower prices on these varieties.

Apricots are in plentiful supply and most excellent in quality, having been affected neither by frost nor scale.

Peaches are expected to yield a good crop, although the quantity will not be up to early expectations. In point of quality there is little room for complaint.

Pears have again been affected by blight to such an extent that even higher prices than last year are being asked. Growers fortunate enough to be situated in districts free from blight are asking almost prohibitory prices for their fruit. The total crop will be about 50 per cent of the normal.

Cherries are almost an absolute failure, due to late rains just at the time when the fruit was ready to be picked and packed. Were it not for the fact that canners have a liberal carry-over, they would not be in position to offer any at this time.

Berries and Plums will probably yield a fair crop without much change in price.

Asparagus—Unfavorable weather conditions, the ravages of rust and a species of centipede, "Scolto Pendrella," are responsible for the disappointing asparagus pack. At the opening of the season, conditions seemed most favorable for satisfactory results, but as the time approached when the stock should be in condition for canning, it was found that the stalks were few and far between. Present indications are that packers will deliver about 50 per cent of their orders.

Corn—Present conditions are not very bright for a large pack, although it is a little early to accurately prophesy the outcome. In Iowa the weather has been so cold and it has been so rainy that but little seed was planted until very late. This late planting will surely make a late season unless the weather turns favorable from now on. Although last year's crop was a bumper one, we feel safe in stating that the bulk of the goods packed will have gone into consumption by the time the new goods are available; this being due to the extremely low price which has ruled on spot stock.

Tomatoes—Although the acreage planted warrants the prediction that the coming pack will not be as great as that of last year, the price is affected by the carry-over which is quite large. The figures named on this item leave packers without a profit; as a consequence, unless the season is a most favorable one, as to climatic conditions, it is more than likely that higher prices will rule later on.

Peas—The acreage exceeds that of former years; but the cold weather has reduced the crop considerably and has cut down the quantity packed, especially the low grades. While the pack to date has not reached the figures estimated earlier in the season, the quality is exceptionally fine and packers who have sold heavily are considering the advisability of advancing prices or withdrawing from the market, notably on the lower grades.

Salmon—As the Alaska Packers' Association, the largest handlers of canned salmon in the world, have not yet named figures, it is impossible to now quote same. From indications it appears that no prices will be named until it can be determined what the Sockeye run will amount to. Dealers are warranted in carrying liberal spot stocks for the reason that pinks are in short supply, while the red varieties are more closely cleaned up than for many years past. Foreign demand is apt to force the market up between now and the time when new pack goods are available.

DID MUCH GOOD.

J. R. Newberry, the millionaire grocer of Los Angeles who gave a number of interesting talks to the trade in the principal cities of the Northwest recently, accomplished a great good and his sound logic should go a great way toward establishing that confidence, co-operation and attention to business which he says are necessarily essential to success in the grocery trade.—Seattle "Trade Register."

CREEP BEFORE YOU WALK.

"It is a great mistake," said a gray-haired merchant in the lobby of the Hotel Astor yesterday, "for young men starting in business for themselves to want to get on too fast—to try to walk before they have learned to creep. There would be fewer failures recorded weekly in 'Dun's' and 'Bradstreet's' if all young men, at the outset of their business careers had adopted the policy of building only on a solid foundation. It would probably require some patience and economy to do so, but in the end it would pay.

"I remember a young man in my native town who started to manufacture 'whisk' brooms. He had just sufficient capital to buy one small hand machine and a trifling quantity of stock and material and to hire a vacant room about fifteen by twenty feet. At the beginning of the venture he had no help whatever. He did all of the work himself, spending the forenoons usually in peddling the brooms from house to house, and the afternoons and nights in making more brooms. At first, this was slow and hard work; but after a time the fellow's energy and grit began to tell. He sold, of course, for cash, and he was thus enabled to pay cash for what he bought; and it was not long before he was able to buy another machine, hire a helper and thus to devote more time to peddling.

"By plodding along in this way, that young man within two years was manufacturing 'whisk' brooms for the retail trade. He had moved to larger quarters, had a dozen or more men in his employ, and he himself spent a large part of the time on the road. He kept on in this way for several years, feeling his way cautiously, but all the time making a little further progress; and three years ago he retired from business at the age of about 50 worth $250,000. The big concern that he had built is now part of the properties, I believe, of the so-called 'broom trust.'"—New York "Retail Grocers' Advocate."

Attracting Trade

H. C. Clock & Sons, general merchants at Geneva, Iowa, are in that aggressive class of retailers who are not contented to sit down and let the catalogue houses carry off a big slice of their home trade. On the contrary, H. C. Clock & Sons believe in doing everything in their power to combat catalogue competition, says the "Grocers' Criterion."

"We believe," they say in a letter to the "Criterion," "that all merchants should advertise directly and aggressively against catalogue houses. The merchants should secure copies of their catalogues as soon as they are issued, pick out the leaders and advertise similar goods at the same, or less, prices. The secret of the success of catalogue houses is leaders, which pull the orders. The merchant can, by selling close, meet the leader prices—on nearly all the rest of the goods the catalogue house price is big. If all merchants should become aggressive the catalogue business would be curtailed in nearly every locality, and thus the business as a whole would suffer very much.

Give Better Bargains.

"The merchant should watch for the special issue by the catalogue houses, usually several times a year, and immediately counteract them by a circular or ad in the local paper, offering the same lot at the same, or less price. He can easily do it in nearly every instance. Ads comparing merchants' prices with catalogue prices are winning cards. They hurt the catalogue houses, as their recent attempts to come back at the merchant, as they tried to do at Stuart, Iowa, and in Illinois, prove."

One Day's Sales Free.

Ex-President M. L. King has recently tried a very novel and we doubt not a very successful plan to secure trade, says an eastern trade paper. On Monday morning, May 1st, an envelope containing the date in April on which all purchases at Mr. King's grocery store in Central square, Somerville, were to be free was opened in the Somerville National Bank, in the presence of Joseph B. Gendron, cashier of the bank, and Leon M. Conwell of the Somerville Journal. The date was found to be Monday, April 17th, and Mr. King at once began to redeem the checks for all purchases made on that day. Everybody who made a cash purchase of Mr. King on that day either has received the money back or may do so by presenting the checks given with the purchases.

Paying Church Debts.

An exchange tells of a merchant who gave five per cent of his sales for a certain period to churches to raise their debt or to make improvements. Coupons were issued, which, when presented by members of churches in the plan, entitled the church to a five per cent bonus on the sale. The plan proved a good thing for the merchant and for the churches, providing an easy way to help pay off the debt .

Elaborate Displays.

Mr. Charles F. Snow of this city, who for thirty years was a partner in a large retail grocery business of Sixth avenue, says the "Retail Grocers' Advocate,, of New York, and for ten years after that he was engaged in the wholesale branch of the trade, is also an expert in this line, and says:

"Our plant was established in 1855, and until 1863 everything went along smoothly and profitably, but during that year came the draft riots, it then being the third year of the civil war. There were several days of bloodshed, and hundreds of lives were lost, while property valued at upward of $10,000,000 went up in fire and smoke. Stores were sacked and burned, and this same fate finally involved our own establishment, and it went down in ashes and cinders.

"We immediately secured a new location. It was at this time that our junior partner proposed that with the new stock and fixtures we inaugurate a display service and make the embellishment as elaborate as possible.

"The plan was ridiculed by the others, myself among the number, as being impracticable and unprofessional!

"In the end, however, his logical reasoning prevailed, and then we went at it in earnest and fixed up the store and windows in fine style, sparing neither time nor expense in doing so.

"Our decorations soon become the talk of the town, and our achievement was frequently mentioned by the daily press in the most complimentary terms.

"But the idea of our getting all the glory was too much for the neighboring dealers and they began the same practice, some developing into powerful rivals—but we were pioneers; I am sure of that.

"But, as the old saying has it, 'too many cooks spoil the broth,' so it was in this case. With stores and windows decorated all about us it simply became a matter of sharp competition to hold what we had already got, but after a time the struggle became so disagreeable and the displays so onerous that a sort of 'mutual instinct' persuaded us all to gradually discontinue the practice, and within two years all our elaborateness had given way to a very commonplace yet neat and tidy appearance.

"At this time, however, the practice is on a firmer basis than ever before, and there are ten times as many grocers engaged in the service as formerly, and it is fast reaching what may be termed as common practice—thanks to the trade press, and the "Advocate" in particular."

VALUE OF SPECIALTIES.

Every store secures much valuable advertising if it is recognized as the headquarters for some article of particular merit. Few dealers have the facilities for gathering special goods together. There are still less who have the special knowledge required to enable them to discriminate between what is "good" and what is the "very best."

This is done for them by the Cudahy Packing Company, who present under their Diamond "C" the very choicest of choice hams and bacon.

This company begins the selection of its Diamond "C" products in the stockyards, where the hogs are purchased. They pick out the very choicest, and smoothest of the corn-fed hogs, and both the slaughtering and the cutting up of the meat is given special attention in order to produce as handsome an appearance as possible.

Special attention is given to see that the meat is chilled the exact number of hours before packing. Before going into the pickle each piece is thoroughly inspected. The Diamond "C" meats are also cured by expensive special formulas.

Nothing with regard to the Diamond "C" products is left to chance. On the exact date that the meat is "just cured," they are drawn from the pickle and are then prepared for the smoke house. This guarantees that every piece is mild cured and of delicious flavor. The beautiful color of the Diamond "C" meat is obtained by the use of shellbark hickory wood, which is used exclusively in preparing this brand of provisions.

The letter from the F. W. Miller Company of Chico on page 4 is one of many which have been sent to the Cudahy Packing Company from prominent firms of the Pacific Coast. These letters all carry the same general tone; this is, that all selling the Diamond "C" hams and bacons have increased their provision business materially.

NOT SELLING CONSUMERS.

False Rumors Spread About Methods of the Porto Rico Company.

For some time past there have been rumors spread abroad that the Porto Rico Company, who are advertising their Ponce de Leon brand of coffee so extensively, were selling their goods direct to consumers.

These reports have only been in the way of rumors until the past week, when a definite complaint was received by the Porto Rico Company, who proceeded to investigate.

They found that a coffee peddler, who has assumed the name of "The Porto Rico Coffee Company," and whose address they can not learn, is selling coffee to consumers, and unquestionably is seeking to take advantage of their wide-spread advertising. The name of this coffee peddler does not appear either in the telephone directory nor the city directory. As far as can be learned he is said to be located somewhere on lower Mission street.

The Porto Rico Company of 687-689 Howard street say with regard to this matter.

"We are doing strictly wholesale coffee business. We not only do not sell to consumers ourselves, but we have refused to supply route men or peddlers who do sell to consumers. We want the active co-operation of the retail grocery trade and are seeking to secure it by expending large sums of money in advertising our goods, which we know are the best in the world, and which we are satisfied consumers will agree with us cannot be surpassed.

"We would consider it a great favor if any retail grocer who hears of any one selling to consumers who claim to belong to our company or to sell the goods of this company would inform us. We will at once take steps to see that this abuse is stopped."

The Porto Rico Company sells direct to retail grocers the product of several large coffee plantations of Porto Rico. Their Mr. Wiley is now returning from a trip to Porto Rico made to keep in touch with their principals on our newly acquired islands.

The splendid quality of high-grade Porto Rico coffee is acknowledged by coffee specialists all over the world. The Porto Rico Company offers the Pacific Coast trade the very very choicest of Porto Rico coffee under its "Ponce de Leon" brand, and by its general advertising has succeeded in educating the consuming public of the value of these goods.

SUGAR MARKET.

There has been no change during the week. Eastern prices are also the same.

New York, June 14—Refined sugars same as last week, $5.75, less 1 per cent for cash.

New York, June 8—Willett & Gray report:

Raws—Many sugars are now being carried in Cuba awaiting a market in the hope of a change for the better. Should they abandon this hope, a very considerable amount of sugar would be thrown on the market.

Refined—Conditions show no signs of improvement for the coming week. The difference between raw and refined is now so large ($1.22½) that brokers and buyers are constantly looking for a reduction in the price of refined.

COFFEE.

The coffee market is weak and fluxuating.

New York, June 5th.—Henry Nordlinger & Co. report:

"On June 10, 1904, we entered the new crop year with the world's visible supply at 12,375,000 bags. This year we will start with 11,000,000 bags. Last year the opinion prevailed that the 1904-5 Rio and Santos crop would be about 11,000,000 bags. It actually turned out to be only 10,000,000. This year the trade expects the 1905-6 Rio and Santos crop will be about 11,000,000 bags. But nobody really knows within a million bags what the crop will be until reliable reports are received from different sections."

New York, June 6th—Volney Green & Sons report:

"The market has ruled about one-eighth easier on Brazils since our last report. Prices in Brazil continue on a higher level than the prices in this market."

TEA.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"Reports from Japan show an advance of one to two cents per pound on new crop tea, and a shortage of 30 per cent as compared with last year. Hankow reports Congous one-half cent higher and the market very firm."

New York, June 6th—John B. Brown & Co. report:

"The last mail advices arrived June 5th and quoted prices for Japans, quality considered, on last year's basis. The first picking teas were said to be in large supply as compared with present years."

RICE MARKET.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The market on Japs are the same as last reported. The advance is well sustained, and San Francisco merchants are selling rice lower than the same goods could be bought for in New Orleans, plus the freight. A good Jap rice in car lots could not be laid down under $3.55, and even this grade is not strictly fancy.

"Fancy Carolina rice will go much higher, and we would advise the trade to buy freely of all rice at present prices as there is bound to be an advance as soon as present stock in jobbers' and dealers' hands are exhausted, which will be in thirty days.

"China rice remains as in our previous reports."

Charlestown, S. C., June 3rd—Samuel G. Stoney reports:

"The offerings of this market have been promptly absorbed at advanced prices. There has been too much rain and grass is giving much trouble. There will be a limited amount of June rice planted so that it cannot be considered as a factor on the market. Carolina rice will be very limited next season. From authentic reports from Louisiana and Texas there will not be enough rice even for home consumption."

CANNED VEGETABLES.

Aberdeen, Md., June 2nd—Strasbough, Silver & Co., report:

"The market on spot tomatoes is strong, although we can still offer a car or two at 62 to 62½ cents. Future tomatoes are bringing 67½ cents for well known, reliable brands and 65 cents for regular offerings."

Baltimore, Md., June 3rd—Thos. J. Meehan & Co., report:

"The market on spot tomatoes is strong. 3-lb. Standards sold freely at 60 cents early in the week and touched as low as 57½ cents in some instances. Present prices range from 62½ cents to 65 cents. The advance was caused largely by the steady sales of spot tomatoes and also because the reports from reliable sources that the acreage planted for the coming crop will not exceed the acreage of 1904."

Bel Air., Md., June 3rd—Finney & Robinson report:

"The spot tomato market is strong at 65 cents now. Futures also are strengthening. It is now practically too late for the growers to increase the acreage to any considerable extent. The acreage is short."

Princess Anne, Md., June 2nd—C. M. Dashiell reports:

"Holders can not get cost for spot tomatoes at to-day's prices. Offerings of 65 cents per dozen for No. 3 future tomatoes are being declined by packers of the better grades of goods."

DRIED FRUITS.

San Jose, June 10th.—The Santa County Dried Fruit Exchange in its Bulletin No. 1, says:

"Because apricots are a good crop some dealers have been 'selling short.' This is absolutely uncalled for. The shortness of pears, cherries and prunes will influence the value of apricots and increase their selling price from one-half to one cent per pound over what they have already sold for in both America and Europe.

"Apricots—A fair lot of small apricots should bring dealers 6 cents and a good lot, 7 cents; an extra lot in quality and size, 7½ cents to 9½ cents per pound.

"Prunes—A price of 3 cents for a basis should be made. This would give the grower from 2½ to 4½ cents per pound with a premium on 30-40's and 80-90's. Fortunately there will be little if any carry-over in 1904 crop and there will be ready sale for the new."

Sanger, Fresno County—Fruit packers are offering $30 per ton for cling peaches and 7 cents per pound for dried. Packers are offering 3 cents per pound for new crop raisins.

PRUNES.

Healdsburg, June 10th—"The Enterprise" says:

"There is no doubt our entire crop could be sold for 3 cents net if the prunes when bought were free from fermentation during curing and honestly graded and packed. In our opinion 3 cents is the lowest price on which prunes can be produced in the average orchard in this State and if the lifetime product of an orchard should be sold at the outset for 3 cents, it would not pay any man to plant an orchard."

San Jose, June 8th—A report from the Prune Grower's committee says: "After careful investigation of the local holdings, it has been found that there is only a small quantity of prunes in the hands of growers and in the warehouses and packers. There is only about one-sixth as much fruit on hand as is usual at this season in other years. A careful canvass of the expected crop of 1905 now growing on the trees has developed the fact that there is about 42 per cent of last year's crop. As last year's crop was only from 70 million to 90 million pounds (the normal crop is estimated at 100,000,000 pounds) there can be only about 36,000,000 pounds in this year's crop. At the meeting of the growers it was decided to hold 1904 stock on hand for 2½ cennts basis and 1905 fruit for 3 cents and that no change would be made in those prices until September 1st. Since private cablegrams from France state that the crop there is less than normal and cables from Bosnia and Servia say that crops there are short, it is possible that the price may rise above these figures."

The most remarkable feature is the heavy advance in cherries. Were it not for the large carry-over there would be practically no cherries to deliver. Pears are lower. Peaches, apricots and blackberries are lower. Prunes, strawberries and raspberries are unchanged. The Association withdrew its prices in 1904 on July 14th.

CANNED PINEAPPLE.

New York, June 6th—Paul Taylor Brown & Co. report:

"Cutting of prices, which began a month ago has not gone any further the past ten days."

BEANS.

Limas—The entire crop is now concentrated in two hands, the J. K. Armsby Co. and A. Levy of Oxnard. It is estimated that there are only about 10,000 sacks left in the State which will have to last until October 1st. Limas are now quoted at $5.85, San Francisco, and $5.75, south.

Ventura—The acreage of limas is as large as last year when there were some 30,000 acres. Beans are looking good. The warm weather is making them grow very fast. A price of 3 cents is being offered growers for their crops.

SUGAR PEAS.

Two-pound style—Baby Petit Pois, $1.50; Petit Pois, $1.40; extra fine sifted, $1.15; extra sifted, $1.10; standard sifted, 90c; standards, 82½c; Marrows, 75c.

BEANS.

Three-pound—Solid pack, 85c; solid pack, with peppers, 90c.

Gallon—Standard, $1.40; solid pack, $2.25; puree, $2.

NUTS.

Sicily advices state that the market has taken an upward trend and that it would be difficult to buy there at the figures quoted in New York. Holders are said to be unwilling to release large holdings at inside figures.

HONEY.

San Diego, June 4th—The crop of honey is late but it will be first class. Probably one-fourth of the bees died because of last year's drought. The honey this season will be of a good color being mostly white and a light amber.

SALMON MARKET.

Astoria, Or., June 10th—Elmore & Co. report:

"With a smaller pack than in any preceding year, buyers will be fortunate if they receive their full quota of fish. There has been a good demand for future pack of sockeyes and future Alaska 'subject to prices when named.' The prices of sockeyes will certainly not open below $1.25 and possibly $1.35. We advise buyers to fill up their stocks now."

Seattle, Wash., May 31st—Brady & Co. report:

"Spot salmon market is confined practically to red Alaska with the prices rather weak, varying from $1 to $1.10 per dozen. Pink market very strong with stocks light and held from 70 to 75 cents. While it is possible we may not see much advance, still it is also possible between now and the new deliveries. We do not look for a case of pink salmon to be unsold on the Pacific Coast in 60 days.

Astoria, Or., June 4th—Fishing is good now and all the outfits on the lower river are making fine catches. All the fishing grounds in the State will be active in another week.

Benicia—The salmon cannery here is shut down owing to the scarcity of salmon. The run is the shortest in the memory of even the oldest inhabitant.

SALT FISH.

Gloucester, June 5th—John Pew & Son report:

"Codfish—The receipts up to June 1st denote a shortage of about 20,000 quentels as compared with last year.

"Mackerel—Domestic mackerel of 1904 catch are out of the market. There are 1904 Irish, in light stocks and held firm. The doubtful indication about a full catch this year is the absence of middle sized mackerel. Those thus far taken are of large size."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. report:

"New Limburger is in market; the quality is poor still and we advise dealers to order only small quantities. New Martin's cheese will be in the market about the end of this week at prices quoted in to-day's Advocate. Later shipments will be cheaper."

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, June 1st—Aspergren & Co. report:

"Prices to-day are about ¼ cent above what they were last week. The market remains very strong. Bulls claim that Europe will have to buy considerably more oil before the season is over and we will then be able to dictate prices."

SPICE MARKET.

New York, June 6th—John Clark reports:

"The market is very active with good spot demand with higher prices on pepper, cloves, cayennes, ginger and cassias."

UNWISE "KNOCKING."

Several salesmen of condensed creams are indulging in a line of "knocking" by which they will certainly do themselves harm. Although "Every Day" condensed cream was announced in the Official Bulletin of the Board of Health to be above the requirements as to butter fat, these salesmen are telling grocers they will be arrested if they sell it and are showing a "Police Bulletin" in which, through a clerk's error, this cream was stated to be "illegal." These salesmen must know that the very next day another bulletin was issued by the Police Department correcting this statement. The grocers who are thus falsely alarmed will not have a very good opinion of the "knockers" who are doing this particular bit of unfair business.

Cigars and Tobacco

Ehrman Brothers & Co. report a rapidly increasing demand for their new 5-cent cigar, the Henry Miller, which dealers are finding to be an exceptionally good value inasmuch as it gives exceptional satisfaction to all smokers of medium-priced goods.

F. S. Burrows has secured a splendid trade for E. M. Schwartz & Co. and the Jose Lovera Company, as is shown by the fact that he has jobbers handling their goods on a large scale. Wellman, Peck & Co., who have the Flor de Lovera account, are doing the biggest clear Havana trade by means of it they have had in many years

Marion, Ind, May 23—The anti-cigarette law received a severe body blow in the recent decision of Special Judge H. M. Elliott of Marion in the case of the People vs. Irwin Rohrer, who was charged with offending the peace and dignity of the State by having a cigarette in his possession. The defendant claimed that what he had in his possession were not cigarettes but little cigars and he was acquitted. Judge Elliott, in deciding the case, offered a lengthy opinion in which the weak points of the anti-cigarette law are dwelt upon at length.

The tobacco trust is said to have finally extended its invasion of the retail trade to the Pacific Northwest. Negotiations have been opened for the lease of a number of desirable corners in Seattle for the purpose of establishing branches of the United Cigar Stores Company. It is reported that a tender has been made to A. Lou Cohen, the leading retail dealer in cigars and tobaccos for the purchase of his various stores. It is probable that the usual tactics will be pursued of bidding high prices for leases of the stands of established dealers, and where this plan fails in ousting them, of starting competing stores, and underselling them in the handling of the trust's products. San Francisco trade has been largely corraled by the trust, and the campaign is apparently being extended north.—West Coast Trade.

Under the legend, "Special Cable to the Herald," and a London date, the New York Herald recently printed the following dispatch:

"London, Saturday.—I have heard many American devotees to the comforting weed complain of the inferior quality of the cigars now sold in many places in London.

"It is alleged that some brands which have been favorites for years past have deteriorated during the last two years.

"I have talked with clerks in at least twenty shops, who say the statement is true and put the blame for it upon the tobacco trust.

"In every shop in which I have been I have been urged to take some substitute for the trust goods.

"Retailers allege that goods put out nowadays are lighter in weight and the prices are higher than two years ago."

City People Demand Good Cigars.

An Eastern cigar distributor is quoted as saying to a representative of "Tobacco:" "Summer travel to nearby resorts has become a requisite of modern city life. Retailers located at any of the points frequented by city residents need not fear to purchase supplies of good cigars. They can be sold easily enough, and a good summer trade can be built up in them. In the past dealers have not understood their opportunities and have not improved the quality of the goods offered when the city sojourners began to arrive.

"Some dealers have risen to the occasion, but more often they have not, and in not a few instances large city firms have established branches in such localities which have proved money-makers.

"Wherever the summer seeker for a change from the city goes there is an opportunity to sell better cigars. And retailers ought not to be afraid of losing on their better quality of goods, but should get ready for this season and secure their share of the increased business. Outside dealers can prevent smokers taking boxes of cigars out of town with them over Sunday if they will provide the same quality of goods."

HINTS FOR HUSTLERS.

A smiling clerk is a better advertisement than a gilt sign.

A clean show window is a better trade drawer than a surplus stock of soap.

A bright gossipy handbill with some real bargains on it will do a lot of talking for you.

Unfailing politeness will do your store more good than daily bargain sales.

Show your clerks what hustling is by hustling yourself.

Keep your promise to deliver goods on time. If you don't you will spoil some dinners and lose some good trade.

Remember that so far as your store and stock are concerned, your customers prefer cleanliness to Godliness.

Never get wrathy either with customers or clerks. If you do you're sure to sour something.—From the Retailers' Journal.

Catch the Odd Dollars.

Don't wait until your competitor in the next block has already captured all the trade in your neighborhood before you decide to handle a product.

Catch these odd dollars!—Delicatessen and Grocery Store.

KANSAS CITY APPROVES.

Thinks Connolly's Plan Must be Forced on the National.

In its issue for May, the Kansas City "Journal of Commerce" in an article on the National Grocers' Association, calls for a National Issue. It says that National President Green's issue seems to be to make the National Association self-supporting by contributions from retailers. This our contemporary thinks can not be brought about until the National has a policy that the grocers will be willing to pay money to carry out.

In another column he prints the following article:

Mr. Frank B. Connolly, of San Francisco, Cal., has written an article, published in the National Trade Press Bulletin. As State secretary of the California Association he is in a position to present the Pacific Coast idea of what should be the general policy of the National Association. He does this in this article.

In its present position the National Association will undoubtedly leave the suggestions of Mr. Connolly severely alone. But if the Pacific Coast can succeed in establishing this policy we think they would be in a position to compel national recognition.

The manufacturers and retailers of this country are related directly. The jobber is a third party, who is essential to the distribution of the manufacturers' goods in many instances, but not in all.

It is an unfortunate fact that the jobber is usually responsible for the general cutting of prices.

Any attempt to rehabilitate prices and put back trade methods to a healthy basis is impossible in most districts because of the fact that each big cutting store represents a large amount of concentrated capital and a large concentrated purchasing power, while the stores that do not want to cut are not organized sufficiently well to present an equal amount of concentrated capital in opposition to cutting. The consequence is that the jobber throws his influence, usually in a secret way, to the cutters' side, he'ping the cutter get goods at prices that will enable him to keep price conditions demoralized for the rest of the trade.

The plan that Mr. Connolly suggests is one that the grocers of California, Washington and Oregon are already securing to a certain extent, and if they can interest the grocers of a few more States, they will surely be able to receive consideration at Niagara Falls in 1906.

Canada—The Canadian grocers are kicking because certain manufacturers are placing a retail price on their goods that does not leave a satisfactory profit for the retailer and are advertising the price.

DEATH IN LEAKY OIL TANKS.

Much attention has been given the question of safe oil and gasoline storage of late, the result of a serious loss of life in the Northwest.

A merchant was obliged to go down in the basement soon after dusk, to get a can of oil, and in some way upset his lantern. The flames caught up a small stream of oil that had leaked out of an old tank, and before the merchant could extinguish the flames, his clothes were ablaze and the tank ignited. In the catastrophe which followed the unfortunate man was burned to death, and his store destroyed.

Only a few days previous, a representative of a well-known tank manufacturing firm called upon this merchant and endeavored to convince him of the disadvantages of his method of handling oil, and the advantages which a good, substantial, self-measuring oil outfit would offer. His reason for not buying was that there was not much profit in oil, and he did not feel he could afford a new tank. Upon a return visit, shortly after the fire, this salesman had little trouble in placing his outfits in the stores of the other merchants in the town referred to.

In its endeavor to place a perfect self-measuring oil outfit upon the market to overcome this danger of fire, the firm of S. F. Bowser & Co. has made a careful study of the question, and have now perfected an outfit which, without doubt, meets all the requirements of handling oil in a safe, convenient and economical manner. Not only is it absolutely safe, but convenient, durable and in all respects satisfactory. This outfit merits the careful attention of all merchants who desire to insure the safety of their stores and the lives of themselves and clerks.

As stated on another page of this issue, the above firm will be pleased to send any merchant interested detailed information.

CO-OPERATIVE STORE FAILS.

The Union Workingmen's Co-Operative Company grocery store on Ninth street has failed and will pay about 50 cents on the dollar. This comes as a hard blow to the profit-sharing stockholders and to the labor unions that are interested to the extent of $8000.

SHORT WEIGHT TOBACCO.

Missouri Grocer Finds Pail Short in Count and Weight.

A correspondent sent the following interesting letter to the "Interstate Grocer" of St. Louis:

Joplin, Mo., May 23.

Editor "Interstate Grocer:"

A recent issue of the "Interstate Grocer" gave the experiences of some merchants who had been counting the number of pieces of Granger tobacco in a pail.

Now we have for years made it a custom to count pickles, fish, etc., but have never counted any Granger, so recently we counted one—result, 5 pieces short.

To-day we counted another pail. This pail was marked 15 pounds, 11 to the pound, there should have been 165 twists, but it contained only 158, so at retail price we lost 35 cents.

Revenue stamp D 1539148 certified that the pail contained 15 pounds of tobacco.

We weighed the pail and tobacco, removed tobacco and tags and found we had 13 pounds and 15 ounces of tobacco and tags. One hundred and fifty-eight tags weighed 5¼ ounces, so we had 13 pounds 9¾ ounces of tobacco for 15 pounds.

Of course a certain percentage should be allowed for drying out, but as this pail had been closed since coming from factory and it was a drop shipment, it should not have dried out almost 9 per cent.

Keep up your good work—make it plain to the grocers why it is for one thing there is so little profit in the grocery business. Yours respectfully,

H. PHELPS.

OUR PRUNES IN EUROPE.

In the two years ending March, 1905, we exported to foreign countries 114,240,095 pounds of prunes, of the value of $5,217,095, says the San Jose "Herald." In 1904 a great part of this export went to France and the fruit was reprocessed at Bordeaux and sold as French prunes. This fact was ascertained by the late Consul at Bordeaux, Judge Tourgee.

It suggests a study of the Bordeaux method of packing and processing the fruit.

If a Santa Clara prune can be sent to France and by mere handling be made to sell as a French prune, it can be similarly processed at home and sold under a local label and trademark.

There is no sorcery in packing and nothing is known about it in one part of the world that may not be known everywhere. People of this State know all the art of producing fruit and our capacity in that respect is the marvel of the world.

ELECT NEW OFFICERS.

San Bernardino, June 2nd, 1905.

Retail Grocers' Advocate, San Francisco.

Dear Sirs:—The officers for ensuing term in our Association are, viz: Geo. Feetham, president; Thomas Dobson, vice-president; C. B. Robuck, secretary; H. M. Willis, assistant secretary; Henry Brau, treasurer.

IOWA IN LINE.

Congratulates Connolly on His Plan For National Issue.

Frank B. Connolly is in receipt of the following letter from O. C. Clock of Geneva, Iowa, approving of his idea as to how trade conditions can be bettered:

Geneva, Iowa, May 20th, 1905.

F. B. Connolly, San Francisco, Calif.

Dear Sir.—We read your address and the resolutions you offered to the National Grocers' Association. We congratulate you upon your excellent and practical ideas.

The merchants of Iowa during the last year have been thinking and trying many different schemes to kill the retail catalogue houses. Everyone must admit that they are the local dealer's greatest competitor. When we think that probably they take more than $100,000,000 of business away from the local merchants, it is certainly time to get aggressive.

The druggist, hardware dealers, and furniture dealers are effectually solving this problem by forcing the manufacturer to take his branded goods out of the hands of price cutters and out of the catalogue of retail sellers.

The grocery price list of Ward & Co. and Sears, Roebuck Co. are the leaders that draw about all their business. The drug department of these catalogues have been almost nullified by not being able to list standard goods. But the grocery lists contain nearly all the standard goods, many of them listed at cost prices.

Advises a General Boycott.

We believe that your resolutions should be adopted by all associations; also that grocers in order to wake up and hurry action by the jobbers should boycott all brands listed in these catalogue grocery lists.

We have made out a complete list of these brands and sent them to the editor of the "Iowa Trade Journal" to publish. Each merchant should have this list by his desk so he can take action. Probably 75 per cent of the merchants do not know the brands of groceries that are being sold at cut and cost prices by the catalogue houses.

We believe that if every trade journal in the United States would publish a complete list of these brands and the prices they are being sold at, and advise the merchants to take action the manufacturers and jobbers would speedily find a way to keep them out of the catalogue price lists.

These are the greatest price cutters. And they do not cut for a few days only, but their lists are scattered all over the land and are in force the year around. It must seem too bad that the merchants of California must see their patronage going to Chicago. It is bad enough here in Iowa and we are fighting it hard, by using our local papers and cartoons, etc.

All grocers, whether belonging to an association or not, would help fight the catalogue houses.

We would like for you to try and have these grocery lists taken from Montgomery Ward & Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co. price lists, published in all the western journals. We know that such an action would help.

We have talked with many merchants and told them about certain goods, such as National Biscuit Co's goods, Baker's Chocolate, etc., being offered at cut and cost prices in the catalogues, and the merchants at once cut them out. In fact, the National Biscuit Co. is fast losing out along this line and the recent airing up of the close relations between the jobbers and catalogue houses in Chicago brought out by the strike trouble is hurting Chicago. The retailers can do everything if he gets aggressive. Very truly,

O. C. CLOCK.

WILL CRYSTALLIZE FIGS.

Modesto, March 30th—George R. Stoddard is constructing a building for the purpose of putting out his fruit in a particularly attractive form. He has purchased the patent right for Stanislaus county for a new patent process for crystallizing fruits. He proposes to put his fruits on the market in ½-lb. and 1-lb. cartons.

FOOLISHNESS OF JEALOUSY.

It seems so utterly foolish for one business man to constantly belittle the character and business ability of another, yet among no class of people can be found as much jealousy and selfishness as among the retailers. This is the case most especially among the retail grocers. In this way they pile burdens on each other that must cussessfully serve to make that business not only a drudge, but one that requires all the alertness an ordinary man is capable of to avoid the effects of being stabbed in the back by a slanderous competitor.—Up to Date.

Amusements

ALCAZAR.

A handsome young actor and his pretty wife are the cause of all sorts of troubles at the Alcazar this week, which are explained in "Mistakes Will Happen." A middle-aged couple are involved in the entanglements, the wife falling in love with the actor and the husband flirting with the fascinating actress. As they all reside in the same boarding-house, the complications keep the audience laughing. Mr. Craig, Miss Lawrence, Miss Young, Miss Woodson and Mr. Maher are all well cast. Next week there is another good play, "Harriet's Honeymoon," by the author of "Are You a Mason?"

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

English melodrama is being presented here by Maud Williamson and Alfred Woods. They are presenting this week a dramatization of Hall Craine's "The Deemster," under the caption of "The Gates of Bandage." The stage setting is very effective and the company is worthy of good patronage.

MAJESTIC.

This is the last week of Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan company in "Leah Kleschna." The theater has been crowded throughout the engagement, which has proven a thorough business success as well as one of the most complete artistic successes the city has known. Mrs. Fiske's "Leah" is a splendidly brilliant piece of acting, and she has surrounded herself with actors of great worth.

CENTRAL.

There have been curtain calls galore this week as a reward for the exciting situations and fine scenic efforts presented by the "Fast Mail." The story is full of stirring incidents which are forcefully presented by the Central's stock company. The scene representing Niagara Falls in the last act is a very beautiful effort and was warmly applauded.

TIVOLI.

This is the last week of the "Tenderfoot." The show is very attractive, and theater-goers who have not taken advantage of this production should not fail to attend before it is withdrawn. It is to be followed next week by "The Black Hussar."

FISCHER'S.

Henry Lee, the character impersonator, continues with his striking character impersonations at Fischer's. He presents a new line of faces this week. The rest of the program is thoroughly good and draws crowded houses. There are two performances each evening, and one each afternoon.

CHUTES.

With its numerous concessions and big free theater the Chutes presents many attractions for the casual visitor. Las Dahlias, the Parisian whirlwind dancers, lead a long program, every number of which is above the average. The amateur turns on Thursday night are extremely funny and continue to draw large special crowds.

LIGHT WEIGHT SARDINES.

Certain wholesale grocers of New York City have made a careful comparison between the size and weight of the regular domestic sardines and the new shortweight drawn can discussed last week. The two styles show up as follows:

Gross Weight.

Drawn cans, Two Brands, average 5¼ ounces.
Regular cans, 1905 pack, average 7 ounces.

Weight of Empty Tins.

Drawn Cans 1½ ounces.
Regular Cans, 2 ounces.

Net Weight.

Drawn cans, 3¾ ounces.
Regular Cans, 5 ounces.

The net weight of fish and oil in the drawn cans is therefore about 35 per cent less than in the regular quarter oils, 1905 pack.

The difference in weight is also shown by the fact that the transportation lines are asked to take these drawn cans at 40 pounds to the case instead of 50 pounds. This difference of 10 pounds is made up as follows:

Seven pounds less of fish and oil to the case.

Three pounds less in weight of cans.

One large New York jobber has sent out notices to his trade that after the sardine season gets older and the fish run large, he will not guarantee more than three fish to the shortweight can.

EFFECTIVE DECORATING.

Although the store of A. H. Boucke, at California and Lyon streets, is not a large one, the arrangement of it is such that visitors must be favorably impressed. The windows are daintily dressed and filled with high grade goods. Inside the store, a booth draped with tinted tissue paper and with a pretty canopy serves to show attractive and seasonable goods to the best advantage.

CLUFF'S NEW MAN.

W. H. Meherin is calling upon his friends among the local trade in the interests of the Wm. Cluff Co. Mr. Meherin was for a long time employed by Mailliard & Schmeidell and is well liked among the grocers, many of whom he has put under obligations to him in the days gone by. The Advocate wishes him all success in his new position.

Educating Store Employes.

It is just over a year ago that the grocers of Manchester, England, took up the question of holding classes for their employes. They approached the technical education authorities, and arrangements were soon completed, a very handsome sum of money being subscribed, as an essential preliminary. Mr. John Williams, whose long-cherished idea in such a connection was stimulated by reading of what the hardware men of Manchester had done, called upon the Manchester secretary and forthwith set to work to accomplish a similar boon for the assistants of his own trade. Last week what was called "a practical demonstration" took place at the Grocers' Exchange in that city. Mr. Williams, who was the chairman on the occasion, confessed that the present was a very proud moment, because when he first suggested some such scheme should be carried out, very great surprise was expressed.

How It Benefits.

The technical authorities also, as Mr. Williams expresses it, "nearly took a fit." The first gentleman said: "What on earth do you mean?" But Mr. Williams states that he has never met any one yet to whom he could not explain the reason for inaugurating such a movement for the benefit of the assistants. The students at the classes number 240, and there were about 230 entries on the occasion of "the practical demonstration." An idea of the nature of the competitions will be given by citing parcel wrapping, bacon slicing, classifying samples of goods, counter displays, window dressing, tea matching, etc., all very practical work, it must be admitted. Surely, in the foregoing there is some food for reflection by the grocers of our American cities.

The London grocers are now taking up a scheme for technical training for assistants and granting certificates, and the assistants have held a meeting and passed resolutions of strong approval.

Don'ts for Salesmen.

Don't limit yourself to ten minutes when talking to a prospective customer, but talk as long as you think there is a chance to do good, but be dead sure that you don't talk too much.

Don't assume to know more about your customer's business than he does himself, for you can't make him believe it.

Don't "put on" a civility or formal manner which is not natural to you, and never try to flatter a man; sincerity is as commendable in business as it is in religion.

Don't fail to let your customer talk if he is inclined to do so, as by listening to what he has to say you learn what his ideas are, and also show the respect that is due him.

Don't dodge a question, but answer it fairly and squarely.

Don't forget that every man has his own peculiarities which should be met in different ways.—Salesmanship.

PORTLAND'S BIG FAIR.

The grounds embrace 126 acres of charming woodland and a natural lake of 220 acres, in the center of which is a peninsula, sixty acres in extent, where the United States Government's five magnificent buildings are located.

Five of the principal exhibit palaces—the Forestry, Oriental exhibits, European exhibits, Agriculture, and Varied Industries buildings—occupy a slightly elevated plateau, with their short ends facing the water feature, Guild's lake. The central feature of the exposition, Columbia Court, which consists of two wide avenues with beautiful sunken gardens between, occupies the space between the Agricultural and European exhibits buildings, and a broad flight of steps, called the Grand Stairway, leads from the court to the music shell on the shore of the lake. The Auditorium, the Machinery, Electricity and Transportation buildings and the Mines and Metallurgy buildings occupy a court east of the main group; while the state buildings, Manufacturers' pavilions, Fine Arts Museum and miscellaneous structures are grouped about the principal exhibits buildings. The Administration and Fire Department buildings flank the main entrance, and an ornate colonnade of Ionic columns forms a bow that connects these structures.

WISE OIL PRECAUTIONS.

Steiner & Co., of Escondido, have adopted a wise precaution in the way of handling gasoline and coal oil so as not to get the two mixed. They have had wire tags neatly printed. A bright colored red tag is placed on each can leaving the store filled with gasoline, and a green tag signifies coal oil in another can. The word gasoline or coal oil is on the tag, with name of owner of can. The idea is a good one for the safety of oil users, since gasoline is so dangerous in careless hands.

TOO MUCH FOR ONE MAN.

The number of things that require the personal attention of the proprietor of a retail grocery are more than most men can care for properly. As a result some of them often are not done as well as they should be.

The bookkeeping is hardest to care for and easiest to shirk. Is yours up to the minute, and do you know the exact standing of each customer?

You ought to and you can. Write P. E. Lenfestey, 220 California street, San Francisco, regarding the Perfection Short Credit System and you will learn how other dealers save work and keep their accounts up so close that they know how much a customer owes as soon as her order is written down.

FOOD LAWS SAVE MONEY.

R. M. Allen, secretary of Food Control for Kentucky, says:

"We have conclusive proof that the enforcement of the Kentucky food laws saves the people over $300,000 yearly in the purchase of food products. At the same time, by preventing the sale of food products that contain substances hurtful to health, we are helping the general public, since while the amount of preservative in each item may not be sufficient to be of any great danger, yet the amount in an entire meal might be sufficient to upset the system.

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

Points to Watch

CHEESE—
The Martin's Cheese now in market is too mild for most tastes. Better quality will come later and be cheaper.

HOLLAND HERRING—
The Vlandingen market is entirely cleaned up of herring, and the supplies in importers' hands are small.

WALNUTS—
There is a fear that the crop will be short as the nuts are not maturing in some southern orchards.

PEPPER—
A shortage in all kinds of pepper has produced a firm market with promises of an advance.

TOMATOES—
Certain jobbers are selling standard tomatoes for future delivery at 65 cents. This is the cost price to the jobbers who get only a 1½ per cent cash discount in addition.

SNIDER'S CATSUP PURE.

In accordance with a request from the grocers, Mayor Schmitz had the Health Department analyze samples of Snider's Catsup bearing neck labels announcing that the contents were pure and uncolored.

This was a matter of justice, since the samples analyzed before were catsups that were shipped into this market prior to July, 1903, and, while pure in every respect, were colored in order to suit the requirements of the California trade, who wanted a brilliant looking bottle.

As a consequence of the analysis of additional samples, the following letter has been sent to the Police Department by Dr. D. F. Ragan, Health Officer for San Francisco:

San Francisco, Cal., June 20, 1905.
Mr. J. F. Dinan, Chief of Police, Hall of Justice, City.

Dear Sir—Please incorporate the following as additional to the communication of June 19, 1905:

Your commanding officers are hereby informed that the Snider's Catsup condemned by the Board of Health includes only that brand in bottles with no neck labels. All other brands of Snider's Catsup are not to be ordered removed from the shelves of local dealers. Respectfully,

D. F. Ragan, M. D.,
Health Officer.

Any grocer having Snider's Catsup that does not bear the neck label can have the same exchanged by notifying the Spohn-Patrick Company.

Alpine Cream Company will fix and maintain prices for all Pacific Coast Associations.

The Alpine Cream Company have agreed with the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association to fix and maintain the following retail prices on Alpine Cream: 10 cents per can or 3 for 25 cents.

They will protect and assist all the Associations of the Pacific Coast to maintain these prices.

They also back up their intentions with a very much appreciated and substantial donation of $25 per month towards maintaining the Pacific Coast Association.

The following letter has been received from Mr. Patrick:

San Francisco, June 10th, 1905.
Pacific Coast Grocers' Association, San Francisco, Calif:

Gentlemen:—We have taken very particular notice of the great progress your association has been making in matters which are of such material value to the retail grocers of this Coast. The energy you are using in seeking to establish harmonious relations between retailers and manufacturer, inspires us to a belief that your efforts will be crowned with success. The fact that Mr. H. W. Thurlow has become interested in your association is further proof to us that you will make much more rapid stride in the future than you have in the past. We desire to compliment you on having his services.

You have our best wishes for the success of your movement, and as a substantial evidence of our interest in your efforts, we are very pleased to herewith subscribe to the worthy cause to the extent of $25 per month for the ensuing six months, and hope it will be a means of still further advancing your line of progress. Yours very truly,

Alpine Evaporated Cream Co.

WINS NEW TRADE.

From many parts of California, Nevada and Arizona retail grocers are writing the Cudahy Packing Company telling them of the value they have found in the Diamond "C" hams and bacons. Because of the splendid flavor and fine appearance of these goods, the customers are so thoroughly satisfied that they not only come back for more, but usually send their friends. It is on the basis of quality that permanent business is built up and it is on the basis of quality that the Cudahy Packing Company have been able to build up its enormous trade on Diamond "C" goods.

It is worthy of note that the salesmen of the Cudahy Packing Company for California stood at the head of the list in a recent contest in which the house gave prizes to those salesmen who were able to show the greatest increase in the sales of Diamond "C" hams and bacon.

At the Oakland banquet an honored guest was J. F. Schomer of San Francisco, whom the grocers were pleased to meet, and who added materially to the success of the evening.

Movement to Make the Retail Brocery Business in San Francisco More Prifitable.

BUSINESS MEN AROUSED.

Successful Dealers of Influence Willing to Direct Association Affairs.

The annual election of the "S. F. Retail Grocers" is to be held Wednesday evening, June 28th. Those who desire to have the organization's power used to increase profits and make trade conditions better, will be able to do so by voting for the following officers:

For President
FRANK B. CONNOLLY.
For Vice-President
ERNEST A. LACKMANN
For Directors
Henry Wreden
Geo. B. Doyle
Joseph A. Stulz
John F. Schomer
Julius Lillienthal
R. G. Schroeder
J. J. Casack
J. W. Offermann
Henry Walking

The present Board of Directors of the Retail Grocers' Association of San Francisco have opposed every movement to make the organization of larger value to its members. This is largely the fault of two men. One of these is the present secretary who has said: "The members aren't interested in getting better profits" as an explanation for his failure to assist in the movement to better conditions. The other is Jeremiah T. Hurley who has opposed, wherever he could, directly and through his friends, without regard to its value any suggestion brought forward by grocers who did not belong to his particular little clique.

There are four members of the present Board of Directors who have been a hopeless minority during the past year. These four men are

Frank B. Connolly
Earnest A. Lackmann
Henry Wreden
Geo. B. Doyle.

These men have tried to make the Association a valuable adjunct to their business. They have been opposed by men who, to gratify personal spite and prejudices have preferred to let the association lose its value to its members rather than carry out ideas suggested by influences they oppose.

It is only fair to say that some of the other seven directors have not been active in opposing what was best for the members. They were more friendly with Mr. Hurley and Secretary Krueger than with the men of large interests who wish to see the efforts to maintain prices succeed. They therefore allowed themselves to be used by the last named gentlemen, although without any personal feeling on their part against the men and movements they opposed.

Why a "Slate" Was Made.

Messrs. Connolly, Lackmann, Wreden and Doyle felt that the grocers of San Francisco wanted better service. This, they knew, could only be secured through a Board of Directors made up of Successful Business Men who would think for themselves and do what they thought was for the best interests of the Association without regard to personal prejudices and above all who could not be led around by the nose by anyone.

According to the constitution and by-laws of the San Francisco Retail Grocers, the nominations and election of officers and directors take place on the same night. This would not give the members any chance to discover what was the wisest course to follow. It also means that if members cast their vote guided merely by personal prejudice, that the directors chosen in this hap-hazzard way may be so divided in their interests that no results or evil results may follow.

Unless they could be sure they were wanted, many of the best men of the Association would be unwilling to let their names be proposed as directors. This meant that, unless some action was taken ahead of time the same old crowd would elect themselves again who have run the Association during the past year.

How the "Slate" Was Made.

Messrs. Connolly, Lackmann, Doyle and Wreden discussed conditions. They talked with numerous grocers who wanted a beter Association. With several prominent grocers who were willing to give time to making the Association better, they went over a list of men who had been active in Association work in the past and who would be likely to be willing to serve in the future.

As a result, they found that the eleven men named above would work hard and unselfishly for the Association. There may be stronger and better men in the Association, but there are none who will serve the interests of the members more faithfully and more honestly.

What They Represent.

The eleven men on the ticket represent every interest in the organization.

Influence With Jobbers—All eleven are successful business men. They own property and are recognized as large buyers of groceries.

Liquor Interests—Six of the eleven have bars. This guarantees that the liquor interests will be protected.

Buying Exchange—Five of the eleven are members of the Buying Exchange. They will represent that organization fairly.

The Whole Ticket—Want to use the Association to help them get better profits. They want to stop the shameful condition that makes outside grocers say "The San Francisco grocers can't do anything," and that makes manufacturers say "The San Francisco grocers are not merchants. They will stand for anything we want to do to them."

An Opposition Ticket.

Secretary Krueger wants to hold his job. He has been out among the members asking them to run on an opposition ticket.

JOBBERS INTERFERE.

Secretary Paulding Points Out to the Retailers Where Treachery Lurks.

The wholesalers of Southern California are walking over a powder magazine when they play with the profits of the men on whom they depend for their existence. Mr. Paulding points this out in a spirited article which he prints in his last report. Among other things, he says:

I desire to say that I think it my duty to see that all agreements and understandings that exist between the manufacturer or the jobber and his association are either lived up to or reported to the association and abrogated.

The Burning Question.

The all-important question of the day is: "What stand is the jobber going to take as regards to the manufacturer establishing and endeavoring to maintain retail prices that will retain the interest of the retail grocer?"

We have a letter from every wholesaler in Los Angeles stating that they are in favor of the manufacturer establishing and maintaining retail prices and saying that they would support and assist such a movement.

The prima facie evidence is that at least some of the jobbers are not sincere in their statements.

Some jobber recently made the statement that they wished some one would have wiped Paulding off the map and not let him come back here to stir up trouble.

I want to say in answer to any such statement that there will be no trouble if the jobber does his duty to his customers.

History Repeats Itself.

Without a single exception the articles that are and have been cut for the past twelve months, after the manufacturer had received notice that the articles were cut, are articles that have come through the jobber. It seems at present that the only protection that the retailer can rest assured of is on the articles that are sold direct to the retailer by the manufacturer.

That we may prove these statements we will quote a little history.

Silver Leaf Lard is being cut by a prominent retailer. That retailer has not bought a dollar's worth of lard from Swift & Co. for twelve months.

Who is furnishing it?

Shredded wheat biscuits are being sold at 10 cents, and a notice was served on the jobbers many months ago not to furnish any more of the goods to the party. Scotch oats are still being retailed at 10 cents although the jobbers were served with notice not to sell the goods.

A cut price prevailed for over a year on A1 flour in one of the outside towns, and the Globe Mills did not sell the party cutting a sack of flour in all that time. They finally marked the goods and found the jobber who had been selling the goods, and that jobber had denied all the time that he was selling the party any A1 flour.

We could go on and mention other convincing arguments to prove that there is some jobber or jobbers who are not sincere in their statements. One of the parties who has always opposed every move that the association has ever made to better trade conditions as pertaining to profits, does not hesitate to say that he can get all the goods he wants no matter the action or desires of the manufacturers. It might be well to mention that in every instance, where a complaint has been made to a manufacturer who sold direct, that the matter was adjusted without delay unless some jobber interfered and furnished the goods after the manufacturer refused to sell direct.

Our Ultimate Object.

As pertaining to the jobber and the manufacturer, the ultimate object of the association is profits.

The burning question is, then, how are we going to obtain those objects?

If the jobber is going to be the factor that prevents the retailer from securing a profit, what attitude does the jobber expect the Association to take?

I do not write this because I have any personal feeling whatever against any jobber, or because it is a pleasure. But in order, if possible, to bring the jobbers to realize that they and the retailer should get closer together.

I plead peace and harmony, but I plead protection. Our objects are profits, is the jobber going to prevent us from getting them?

We are sure that there are some jobbers who are sincere. If we are again forced to take issues, we will endeavor to see that proper consideration is given those who can assure us they are sincere.

LOS ANGELES ENERGY.

How the California Fish Co. Has Won Fame.

The California Fish Company of Los Angeles was the first company recognizing the opportunities offered by our Pacific sea shore for packing high-grade sardines and mackerel in first class olive oil.

In spite of the prejudice against the domestic product the concern has persistently clung to its "Quality" motto, until now its products are recognized from one ocean to the other as a standard of high quality.

"Sunset" mackerel deserves a place on the shelves of every grocery store, large or small, fancy or cheap, for they are high grade goods at low figures.

THEY CATCH TRADE.

At this season of the year there is no article that a grocer handles which will tend more to render his store attractive to good livers than olives in bottles.

The "White Label" Queen olives of the Seville Packing Company make a notable addition to any show window or show case, and never fail to attract the very best class of customers to the store displaying them.

The Pim-Olas, also put up by the Seville Company, are a high class article, and are equally attractive with the olives packed by this company, and like the former they yield the dealer a most satisfactory profit.

SALESMEN PICNIC.

S. F. C. T. A. and Their Friends Go To Sunset Park.

The annual outing of the San Francisco Commercial Travelers' Association at Sunset Park on Thursday, June 15, was one of the greatest successes of the season. The day was perfect and the crowd was all that could be desired, both for jollity and numbers.

There were fifteen games that helped entertain the crowd. They were ranged to supply fun for young and old.

A list of 103 gate prizes also added to the interest.

There was not a single accident to mar the pleasure of the day. Both the members and their guests had occasion to feel grateful to the officers of the association and the committees who made the affair so thoroughly enjoyable.

The picnic committee consisted of E. Dunn, chairman; H. H. Becker, gate prizes; J. D. Warde, games; Nick Marisch, dancing.

The officers of the Association are: President, C. C. Miller, Kingan & Co.; vice president, Henry Heinz, J. A. Drinkhouse & Co.; secretary, M. B. Mergen 716 Leavenworth st.; financial secretary, Otto C. Sievers, Tillmann & Bendel; treasurer, John Armstrong, Capitol Mills.

Executive committee—T. McCarthy, Farmers' & Merchants' G. & P. C. Co.; L. L. Remy, American Milling Co.; J. D. Ward, Tillmann & Bendel; E. C. Smith, Vita Oil Co.; P. Lange, E. Guitard & Co.

Sergeants at arms—J. Brandon, Martin Dangers & Camm; Rank McGeeney, Lake & Co.

Membership committee—Nick Marisch, E. A. Fargo & Co.; W. H. Brown, Del Monte Milling Co.; K. M. Borman, American Box Factory.

Quite a number of retail grocers attended the meeting.

SEEDED RAISINS.

The California Raisin Growers' Association recently sent broadcast a letter from an Eastern jobber in which the latter was quoted as saying that the trade of the country would be glad to handle raisins in the old shape, that is, unseeded. The wish was unquestionably the father to the thought. An immense demand has been created for seeded raisins. The manufacturer must necessarily produce goods to satisfy the demand.

The following figures were supplied to an Eastern trade journal by F. A. Aplin of the J. K. Armsby Co. The figures are based on carloads of 15 tons each and give the output of seeded raisins from the year of their introduction to 1902, inclusive:

1896, 60 carloads; 1897, 120; 1898, 240; 1899, 500; 1900, 640; 1901, 1200; 1902, 2000 carloads.

The ratio of increase during 1903 and 1904 was fully equal to that indicated during the years for which figures are given. In fact, shipments in 1904 were fully 50 per cent larger than in any previous year.

INCREASE THEIR FIELD.

Los Angeles—Owing to the fact that many grocers in cities adjacent to Los Angeles had joined that Association, the name of the Los Angeles Retail Grocers' Association was changed at its last meeting to the Southern California Retail Grocers' Association. Secretary Paulding is preparing to make an aggressive campaign to secure members in every district adjoining Los Angeles. The Association has ordered one thousand copies of its by-laws printed and they will be very generally distributed.

No sale is complete until the customer is satisfied.

Keep your eyes off the clock—quitting time can't be hurried.

Learn that promptness is not hurry.

A "Thank you" is part of every transaction.

sition ticket. His only argument is that he wants to hold his job and that the "Progressive" ticket is an Advocate ticket.

His first argument is honest.

He wants to hold his job.

Who wouldn't?

He gets $100 a month and is allowed the services of a stenographer at $40 a month to run a collection bureau that others would be glad to run for the commission there is in it. He gets these commissions besides (and they go into his own pocket) and for this extravagant pay he collects less than half as much as is collected for the members of the Los Angeles Association, which is only half as large and which allows its collectors only a commission on what they collect. In addition to this, Mr. Krueger gets all the returns from the advertising in the black list which will approximate another $100.

It is no wonder he wants to hold his job.

The only question the Association must ask is whether the Association is being run for Mr. Krueger or for the advantage of the members.

No Advocate Ticket.

The ticket named at the head of this article was selected by grocers among themselves. The Advocate approves it, because it is made up of successful business men who want better profits and a better association and are ready to work to help get them. But it is the Grocers' Ticket and was made by grocers, for grocers.

OAKLAND GROCERS PLEASED.

Big Banquet Brings Members Together and Increases Enthusiasm.

At the meeting of the Alameda County Grocers' Association on Monday evening the reports received from the Association members prove conclusively that their recent banquet did more to promote good feeling and intensify interest among the members than any program that has ever been arranged in the community.

There were more grocers assembled at the Hotel Metropole when President Sill called the meeting to order, than have ever been together at any one time in the history of the Oakland Association.

The speeches and discussions of that evening have left a very marked impression upon the minds of the members and they are all apparently now thoroughly awake and eager to lend their individual assistance to any movement of benefit to all.

Support Friendly Flour Mills.

The increased interest is particularly shown by the increased support on protected flour. The many expressions of the members to continue to sell the flours of those mills who are trying to help them secure a fair profit on their brands.

The thorough success of the agreement to discontinue giving free yeast has been a great encouragement to all. It has shown how easily any just or fair proposition can be put through when the members become interested in their own welfare and work together.

From reports from the members it is admitted by them that they have had no trouble or complaints from their customers because of discontinuing the practice of giving free yeast. They are all relieved of a steady drain on their business. A leak has been stopped and a dead loss turned into a profit. Everyone is satisfied including the yeast manufacturers.

The success of this movement has assured every grocer member of a profit of from $2 to $20 per month that he has not previously enjoyed.

Can any of them now ask "how the Association is benefiting them," and refuse to join in any other progressive movement to improve their profit.

It was proposed at the meeting to appoint a committee to decide upon the most feasible plan to increase the revenue of the Association and to formulate a plan to further increase the interest of the members to attend the meetings.

If this Association continues to advance as it has during the past six months, it will be equal if not superior in strength and harmony, to any Association on the Pacific Coast.

STATE CONVENTION.

Directors Preparing a Program That Will Be of Much Value.

The next convention of the State Grocers' Association, which is to be held in Stockton on August 21st and 22d (Monday and Tuesday), will be of great value to all who attend.

The directors are planning a program that will make it pay every association in the State to be represented.

The first morning will be spent in organizing and in the reports of officers, showing the work done for the preceding year, and suggestions for 1905-1906, and the appointment of committees.

The afternoon will probably be devoted to an excursion on the river, when the committees will be able to do much of their work.

Monday evening will be devoted to addresses by well posted men to cover such matters as:

Legislation.
Maintaining Prices.
Effective Collection plans.
Making the Association Valuable.

Acting Secretary Thurlow is now corresponding with well-known authorities to secure their assistance.

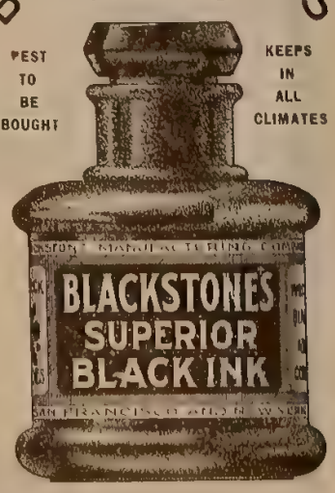
Tuesday morning will be devoted to reports from the various committees represented. By this part of the program much valuable information will be secured.

Tuesday afternoon will be given to a discussion of the report of the committees. In order to bring out ideas at least three delegates will be required to give their ideas as to the value of each before it is voted on.

Tuesday evening there will be a banquet.

The Stockton grocers will provide entertainment for the ladies of the delegates. There will be a reception to the visiting ladies on Tuesday evening.

The Constitution and By-Laws will come up for amendment.



Every grocer in California should be represented at this convention, either in person or by a delegate from his association.

All individual members of the State Association are entitled to attend the convention as delegates. All affiliating associations are entitled to two delegates at large and one for each ten members up to 50 and an additional delegate for each 50 members in excess of 50.

PREPARING FOR CONVENTION.

Los Angeles—The last "Report" of the Los Angeles Grocers' Association said: "The next convention of the State Grocers' Association is to be held August 21 and 22. We should use our efforts to make this the most valuable convention yet held by the State Association. When we remember the results accomplished at the last session of the Legislature, there is no need of mentioning the value of the State Association to the grocers of this locality."

Attracting Trade

Don't Make Extravagant Claims.

It is better to claim too little than too much. "The greatest sale on record" or "The cheapest on earth" and similar extravagant claims, might better be left out of an advertisement (except on very exceptional occasions) for no one is simple enough to believe them.

Such claims not only take up space that might be used to better advantage but they also tend to throw discredit upon the more moderate assertions of the dealer.

Think how little stock you, yourself, would be likely to take in such assertions, and you will get an idea of about how they will strike the average person who reads your own advertisement.

You can make your advertising forcible and attractive without making extravagant claims, which no one with money to spend is likely to believe.

Colored Lights for Windows.

Have you ever tried colored lights for your evening window display? The attractiveness of many displays is very much enhanced at night by the soft, rich tone added from a deep red or green light, and many striking and beautiful effects are easily made.

There are a number of simple methods by which you can color your own lights to any shades desired, says "Tobacco." One of these is the alum solution. Make a strong solution of alum water and after carefully cleaning your globe, dip it in the solution. Have a rack to dry them on and dry slowly and evenly. This gives you the plain white, frosted globe. By adding cochineal, you have a red solution; turmeric makes a yellow; indigo a blue; a mixture of turmeric and indigo will give you a green shade, or of cochineal and indigo a royal purple.

It may be necessary to dip the globe several times that they may have an even coating.

Another good way is to color a bottle of mucilage and carefully coat the globes with same.

If the colored lights have not been extensively used in your town, try them at once and you will be quickly convinced that they are most effective in attracting the crowds that throng the streets in the evening.

Suggestions for Fourth of July.

Enterprising dealers should not neglect the opportunity which the Glorious Fourth offers for special patriotic window displays. Flags, red, white and blue bunting, and guns, sabres and military accoutrements furnish a basis for most displays on that day, but the dealer who is willing to take a little pains can easily plan something that is more out of the ordinary.

A reproduction of the old Liberty Bell is easily arranged, and will always attract attention. The representation of the bell can be constructed of cardboard, over a light wooden frame, and covered with bronze colored cloth, so as to produce a most effective representation of the original.

Pictures of Washington are always appropriate in a Fourth of July window display, and serve to emphasize the patriotic character of the day. Portraits of the Father of His Country are not difficult to obtain, and when displayed in the midst of a drapery of flags and red, white and blue bunting, give the window a festal appearance and attract attention to the goods displayed.

A more elaborate effect can be produced by displaying the picture of Washington as a center-piece, surrounded by portraits of heroes and statesmen of a later period in the nation's history, like Lincoln, Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Dewey, Schley, McKinley and Roosevelt.

Where the portrait of Washington is given the honor in the display, the dealer can make an attractive arrangement of his leading goods grouped about the picture, with a bulletin reading:

"These are the goods that Washington would use if he were here to-day."

SUCCESS REQUIRES ACCURACY.

Ship-Shod Methods a Sure Road to Failure.

System and accuracy become more and more an absolute necessity to the man who hopes to be a success in the business world to-day.

That is why J. R. Newberry recently installed in his new warehouse in Los Angeles eight hoppers with attachments for putting up all packages with the Bond Automatic Weigher. This insures him economy of time, accuracy of weight and cleanliness.

Every dealer who sells as much as ten sacks of sugar in a week with rice and beans in proportion should have at least one of these machines, as it is a necessary economy.

See advertisement on page 8 and write for catalog.

NATURE'S FINEST.

Welch's Grape Juice has deservedly been styled "Nature's finest food and drink." It is the pure juice of the grape, unfermented, and is a most delightful as well as wholesome drink.

It is being recommended more and more by physicians as the perfect food drink. Its consumption as a beverage is increasing rapidly as its claims to favor become better and better known through the extensive advertising being done in its behalf, and the further fact that every one who drinks it becomes a walking advertisement of its merits.

DISPROPORTIONATE PROFITS.

Retailers Get Less Than Jobbers on Fels Soap.

In his recent "Report," Secretary Paulding of Los Angeles says:

What are the retailers going to do about the enormous profits they are allowed on Fels soap? Will they invest in real estate or buy stock in a bank?

The jobber pays $4.35 per box, less his discount, and sells to the retailer for $4.80, less the discount. The jobbers make 45 cents a case profit, while the retailers' profit reaches the enormous amount of 20 cents the case. Surely a handsome profit considering the small sales of from one to two bars at a time and delivered from two blocks to two miles.

The situation certainly leaves much to be desired on the part of the retailer. Many grocers have cut it out entirely, while others are selling simply what they have to in order to meet competition. Signs are being torn down and many grocers have stated that they think anyone is foolish to let a Fels sign remain in sight, until conditions change for the better.

To make matters worse, Fels & Co. have had several salesmen going from house to house telling the housewife not to pay more than 5c for the soap. We can prove this a question of doubt. One of the salesmen called at the house of a grocer and told the grocer's folks that they can buy the soap any place for 5 c and not to pay more.

With the competitive brands that are in the market many grocers say they have little trouble in substituting the goods. Lasco Kold-Wata, Rubb No More and A. B. soaps seem to have the friendship of the grocer at the present time.

Miller's soap is being introduced here at present and with the free bars given with the goods it pays a fair profit, but the retailers are wondering where their profit will come in when the free goods are taken away.

SUGAR MARKET.

A decline of 10 cents in refined was made at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The sugar is billed to the jobber now at $5.35, less 10 cents rebate. Jobbers are billing it to the trade at $5.50, less 25 cents for cash. This means they are selling sugar to the trade at actual cost.

New York, June 21st—American Sugar Refining Company and Arbuckle Bros. have reduced the price of refined sugar 20 points. The Federal Co. has cut quotations 25 points.

New York, June 15th—Willett & Gray report:

Raws—The market is again easy in tone with business done on a basis of one-eighth cent decline in price. The decline is probably due to the continued dullness of the refined sugar market.

Refined—The hand to mouth policy is still pursued. The margin between raws and refined has increased to $1.35, indicating a reduction in quotations when the next change is made.

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"The market is inactive and though roasters both in San Francisco and Portland have small stocks on hand, they are buying very lightly.

"We do not look for any reduction in prices; there is no possibility of a greater reduction than ½ cent, while the probability is that prices will advance.

"Low grade coffees are scarce and are selling at a premium. Good wash coffees at 10½ cents are good property. We have just sold 2000 bags of coffee to Portland."

New York, June 15th—Willett & Gray report:

"There has been a declining tendency in all the speculative markets in consequence of liquidation on the part of weak holders in addition to some large sales. It is decidedly in favor of the soundness of the market to eliminate this element altogether, as the market will surely right itself on its own merit. The official statistics show a continual decline in the world's visible supply. There is also a sharp falling off of the invisible or interior supply. It is highly improbable, even under the most favorable condition, that the production of coffee in Brazil for several years to come will be equal to the continual increase in consumption.

TEA.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"New Japan tea is now arriving in liberal quantities and is of high quality."

New York, June 13th—John B. Brown & Co. report:

Congous—The last cables report an advance. On what ground the advance was made we are not yet informed.

Japans—Prices continue on about the same level as existing last year at corresponding date.

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The market remains the same as at last report, with the exception that large holders refuse to sell at the present prices owing to the fact that goods cannot be laid down at San Francisco at the prices some of the jobbers are asking. One large dealer has offered 3⅜ for good, clean grades of Jap rice and will take any quantity, f. o. b. San Francisco.

"Other grades of rice remain the same at advanced prices, which are well maintained."

Charlestown, S. C.—S. G. Stoney reports:

"There is little Carolina rice left in the market. Two weeks more of activity like the past will clean up our stocks completely. The reduced acreage along the Atlantic Coast will very probably make Carolina rice extremely scarce next fall."

Houston, Texas, June 6th—Standard Milling Co. reports:

"In our opinion the acreage in the rice belt of Texas and Louisiana will not be more than 50 or 60 per cent of last year's."

New York, June 13th—Dan Talmage & Sons Co. report:

"The active demand noted in last reports continues. Japan sorts have advanced at least 1 cent per pound since the upward movement begun. At New Orleans the market is very strong with the active inquiry poorly met. In the interior of Southwest Louisiana and Texas holders of clean rice are standing firm at prices above the parity of the different distributing centers."

CANNED TOMATOES.

Local jobbers are in a scramble with tomatoes. They are selling standard tomatoes under their own labels at 65 cents, although that is the price made by the Association and Code-Elfeldt Co.

Haas Bros. are selling their Napa Valley Packing Co.'s tomatoes at 55 cents, with a 5-cent allowance for the case.

Aberdeen, Md., June 13th—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report:

"Weather conditions, aided by exceptionally heavy consumption, are bringing about a condition that promises to make present stocks of tomatoes seem light by fall."

Baltimore, Md., June 13th—Thos. J. Meehan & Co. report:

"Holders of tomatoes continue very firm in their views with a disposition to mark up prices. Buying of both spot and futures continues. The demand for corn is not as active as it was."

CANNED FRUITS.

There has been no change since last week's report.

DRIED FRUITS.

Some new apricots are arriving. They are all of small size. It will be two weeks before any choice stock is in. The new stock is selling at 7½ to 8 cents.

Dried Apples—Are growing scarce and have advanced this week.

Fresno, June 18th—The greater part of the apricot crop will be dried and about one-half the crop is now on the trays. Small quantities have been bought for immediate June deliveries. These were bought for 6 cents. The ruling price is 5½ cents, though the growers at Lemoore are holding out for 7 cents. No prices have been set on peaches yet, although they are 10 days earlier than last year. The best estimates now place the Muscat crop at 25 per cent short.

RAISINS.

San Diego, June 15th—R. C. Allen says:

"The raisin crop this year will not be so large as was expected, but we expect the quality will exceed that of any year for some time."

Hanford, June 13th—A. F. Jewett, a veteran raisin grower, says:

"Grapes are more backward this year than they have been since 1887. Present indications do not indicate a very good crop of the early raisins. The larger bunches of the early grapes have suffered much from the dropping of berries. As a consequence, good cluster raisins will be scarce unless we have good weather for rushing along the later grapes during the next twelve months."

Fresno, June 19th—The full Board of Directors of the California Raisin Growers' Association received W. C. Allen of El Cajon, as a representative from Southern California. They called for a 30-cent payment on the original $1 subscribed to defray expenses. The Association has acquired the packing houses of practically all the co-operative companies of the San Joaquin Val-

PRUNES.

San Jose—The Mountain View correspondent of the "Herald" says the June crop of that district will be about a tenth of what is was last year.

Salem, Ore.—Manager H. S. Gile of the Williamette Valley Prune Association reports that the yield this year will be about one-third of an average crop. The prospect is that, although few in number, the prunes will run to large sizes and will be of splendid quality. The Association had offerings on the basis price of 2½ cents for prunes which will include the 30-40's size. Present indications are that the Italian crop will go to the three largest sizes. A basis price of 2½ cents will therefore mean an average of 4¼ cents for the crop. Manager Gile advises against contracting early, since the last crop is so well cleaned up and the growing crop is short both here and in California.

DRIED APPLES.

Newark, N. J., June 10th—E. V. Pierson & Co. say:

"The holdover of evaporated apples is the smallest dealers have had in the past 4 or 5 years. Until after the June drop estimates are unreliable. At the present, we do not look for over half a crop of apples."

CURRANTS.

New York, June 13th—Greek Currant Co. report:

"High grade currants are closely cleaned up in foreign markets and are in close compass on the spot. Purchases made on fancy goods at this season will represent a saving of ½ cent per pound over the same grades a little later on in the season."

LIMA BEANS.

Ventura, June 16th—The acreage of Lima beans is very large. The stand is even and the young plants are looking good. If the weather continues the harvest will be a heavy one.

BEANS.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 5th—Michigan Milling Co. reports:

"We regard the situation as very strong. It may be summarized as follows: 1st—Practically no imports of beans. 2d—Small stocks in most dealers' hands. 3rd—Farmers' stocks almost exhausted. 4th—Jobbers have been running from 'hand to mouth' in many cases for months."

Fenton, Mich., June 10th—Burdick Potter & Son report:

"The bean season is passing rapidly along and the acreage which is planted is comparatively nothing. Most of the rivers have overflowed their banks and much valuable lands are flooded. If the conditions prevail much longer it will be too late to plant beans. With fully one-third of the receipts in New York being taken for export, it certainly looks as though beans ought to command a better price than at present."

Ovid, Mich., June 10th—Chas. Cowan Seed Co. report:

"We have had one of the greatest rain storms ever known in Central Michigan and it is still raining. Very little corn and no beans are planted. The great question is, can we get them planted and matured before the frosts. Many of the planters have given up planting beans."

CANNED FRUITS.

Haas Bros. are offering under their "H. B." brand, 3-lb. extras, table fruit, at the following prices: Apples, $2.20; Apricots, $2.35; Apricots, peeled, $2.75; Apricots, sliced, $2.75; assorted, $2.50; Blackberries, $2.20; Cherries, Royal Anne, $4.15; white, $4.15; black, $3.25; Grapes, white Muscat, $2.20; Peaches, yellow free, $2.60; lemon cling, $2.70; sliced, $2.70; Pears, Bartlett, $3.15; Plums, Damson, $2.00; others, $2.00; Pumpkin, $1.25; Raspberries, $2.90; Strawberries, $2.75.

WALNUTS.

Anaheim—Many walnut growers in this district believe there will be short crop. Some trees are showing up well, while the young nuts on adjoining trees do not seem to have grown for the last three weeks. It is not known whether these small nuts will fall from the trees. If they do, the crop will be far below the average.

New York, June 20th—French walnuts are strong and in good demand.

ALMONDS.

Livermore—Crops in this valley promise to be the largest in many years.

Lodi, Cal.—The season promises to produce one of the largest almond crops ever harvested in this county. Almond buyers are circulating among the orchardists, but growers do not desire to sell at present, as the ruling price offered is 11 cents, which is not up to their expectations.

Anaheim—Although a light crop was expected in this district, better sizes are shown than last year. Some orchards show larger sized nuts now than those full grown last year.

PEANUTS.

St. Louis, June 10th—St. Louis Edible Nut Co. reports:

"The supply of peanuts in first hands is not large for this time of the year. Holders expect better prices later on. Some grades, particularly Jumbo hand picked, show an advance. This grade is pretty sure to be higher still as the supply of nuts which will make this grade is scarce."

HONEY.

San Diego—Members of the San Diego Honey Producers' Association have decided to pool their crops this year. The season is not far enough advanced to make a reliable estimate as to this season's crop. The figures given vary from $20,000 to $100,000.

CANNED SALMON.

Bellingham, Wash., June 21—The annual run of sockeyes has begun in earnest. The Pacific Cannery received 500 this morning. These are the first of the year and vast schools of these splendid fish are reported headed this way.

Astoria, June 19th—The run of fish during the past few days is decreasing somewhat. The cannery men have still confronting them an exceptionally small pack. From the present outlook they will not only be unable to fill their contracts, but also will be far behind the number of cases they have contracted with their Chinese cannery crews to pack.

Vancouver, B. C., June 14th—The Fishermen's Union has decided, together with the Japanese fishermen, to accept the conditions of the canners. This means that the Frasier River Canners' Association will pay 12½c per fish for sockeyes from July 10 to 31, and 10c per fish after that time.

Vancouver, B. C., June 12th—Myriads of fish are reported as heading for Fraser River. A large school of spring salmon are now in the waters of the Gulf.

Bellingham, Wash, June 15th—The first sockeye salmon of the season were brought in yesterday and were packed at the plant of Schome Canning Co. The fish were small, weighing 4 or 5 pounds each. This the canners say is one of the best indications that there will be good run. In former years when the catch was good the fish caught first were small. The years when the run has been light the first fish have been large.

HERRING.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Holland Herrings, all Milchner, are scarce in our market and as the Vlandingen market is entirely cleaned up, the few that are here command higher prices."

SARDINES.

Chicago—The "Modern Grocer" says "According to plans previously announced, a further advance in prices of 1905 pack domestic sardines "drawn" cans is to take effect soon among the independent sardine packers. The price is now $2.30 per case f. o. b. Eastport for ¼-oils and $2.25 for mustards. The advance in prospect, it is stated, is because of the marked falling off of the catch of sardines."

New York, June 13th—Jed Frye & Co. report:

"There has been some falling off of fish as is expected at this season of the year. There is considerable competition existing and it is a difficult matter to quote the market."

MACKEREL.

Philadelphia, Pa.—New shore mackerel has been offered this week at $13 per barrel. This is an unexpectedly high price and is due to the heavy demand for the fresh fish.

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"New Martins cheese has arrived; it is rather too mild and in general quality is not any too good. Later lots will be better and cheaper."

PROVISIONS.

The Cudahy Packing Co. says:

"The market is very firm, with a tendency to higher prices."

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, June 9th—Aspergren & Co. report:

"Foreigners are re-selling oil in the New York market. The result has been a decline of ⅛c, and still more important than that oil has passed from weaker into stronger hands who can take care of it."

SPICES.

New York, June 13th—John Clarke reports:

"The market has become very active in all grades of pepper. There are signs of much higher prices in the summer and autumn of 1906. All grades of pepper are short of the normal and production has been falling behind consumption for three years past."

Somers & Co. report:

"Shipments of hay have been increasing during the past week. The new crop is beginning to come in although rather sparingly. Actual sales of strictly choice tame oat hay have been made as high as $9.50 per ton with some off grades going a-begging at $6.50. The standard for new wheat or wheat and oats has been ranging from $8.00 to $10.00, although strictly fancy will bring more.

AN IGNORANT INK SLINGER.

The editor of the "Evening Post" of this city, in a recent issue of his paper devotes almost a column to the dissemination of a vast amount of mis-information in regard to the responsibility for impure foods. He says:

"At the present time the efforts of an honest Board of Health are laughed at by the grafting 'grocers' and butchers. They know that they will not be fined or sent to jail and the profits are so great on their sales of goods that they can afford to lose an occasional job lot of their poisonous merchandise."

If Editor Garrett would investigate he would learn that the National Retail Grocers' Association for the past six years used every endeavor to secure the passage of a national pure food law and has had committees at Washington working to that end. He would find, too, that the State Grocers' Association of California, of which San Francisco Grocers' Association is a part, has put itself on record as desiring to secure a uniform and effective enforcement of the present pure food laws. He would also learn that the San Francisco Grocers' Association has at all times sought to assist in every way in making the efforts of the local Board of Health effective.

Cigars and Tobacco

J. L. Jerichau, San Francisco distributor of the Rough Riders cigars, has got it placed on over 500 stands, and the number is growing daily.

Major F. S. Burrows, Pacific Coast representative of E. M. Schwarz & Co., and the Jose Lovera Co., is arranging some very effective advertising in behalf of the various brands sold by his houses here.

Robert E. Starr, manager of the San Francisco branch of Boltz, Clymer & Co., says: "Trade this year has exceeded that of any previous year with this house. Each month has shown a greater aggregate of sales than the corresponding month of 1904, the best year in the history of this branch."

The trade has taken hold of the Henry Miller cigar in a way that is more than satisfactory to the San Francisco agents, Ehrman Bros. & Co. The introductory sales were very heavy, but are being exceeded by the repeat orders, showing that the smokers of 5-cent cigars find the cigar perfectly satisfactory.

The visitor to the handsome cigar factory of A. Santaella & Co. when 600 cigarmakers are using 165 bales of tobacco a week and turning out close on to 100,000 Optimo cigars a day, instinctively exclaims: "What a phenomenal business!" The visitor is invited to smoke an Optimo freshly made and his thoughts break forth in words like these:

"I've smoked cigars, some good, some bad;
Some made me sick, some made me sad;
An Optimo just made me glad."

Work on the 100-foot extension to the factory will begin soon. The enlarged factory will accommodate 1,000 cigarmakers.—Tampa Correspondent of Tobacco.

The paymaster general of the United States Navy has received a petition from independent tobacco manufacturers of Richmond asking for a hearing to protest against the recent award of the navy contract to Butler & Bosher. The claim of the independent dealers is that Butler & Bosher are a branch of the tobacco trust, and that the award of the contract to them is illegal, as a clause in the regulation under which the bids were received provided that no bidder should be interested in two or more sets of bids, and the trust had several bids under the names of its different branches.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco, under date of June 3, says: "Senor Antonio Santaella, of A. Santaella & Co., returned from Cuba Sunday. 'The best there is, and all the time,' is the leading idea in the marvelous business of this progressive firm. When they built this commodious and imposing cigar factory within the year, they supposed they had provided amply for future needs. Such has been the phenomenal growth of their business, however, that the contract is already let for a 100-foot extension to the handsome factory. They now use from 120 to 130 bales of tobacco a week and turn out 90,000 cigars daily."

The "Inland Grocer," issued in Cleveland, and widely circulated throughout the Middle West, will hereafter eliminate from its market quotations the various brands of the American Tobacco Co., substituting for them the quotations for the product of leading independent manufacturers. As a reason for this policy the "Inland Grocer" gives the following: "The attitude of the trust in opening retail cigar stores, selling at cut prices in direct competition with the retail grocers; its maintenance of mail order coupons and other prize systems, and its general piratical policy toward the distributing trade has, it appears, placed it out of sympathy with retailers. We therefore believe that our service to our subscribers will be improved by quoting prices of independent brands only."

CUBAN TOBACCO TRADE.

The United States Department of Commerce and Labor, in a recent issue of the Daily Consular Reports, under the caption of "Exports of Cigars from Cuba," published the following report, which was dated April 13, and bore the signature of Richard Guenther, Consul-General, at Frankfort, Germany.

"Since April 1, 1904, the statistical bureau at Habana has published monthly statements of the exports of cigars, which shows the name of the manufacturer and the destination of the product.

"According to these data the exports during the last nine months of 1904 were as follows:

Exports of cigars from Cuba during the nine months ended Dec. 31, 1904.

Whither exp't'd.	Exp. by trust factories. Number.	Exp. by Indpt. factories. Number
England	33,740,000	32,801,000
United States	28,446,000	16,976,000
Germany	11,562,000	12,525,000
Canada	2,530,000	2,540,000
Other countries	10,348,000	17,242,000
Total	86,626,000	82,084,000

"These figures show that 51.3 per cent of the total exports came from the trust factories and 48.7 per cent from the independent concerns. When the trust was formed the trust factories supplied about 75 per cent—according to the statement of the trust itself, 85 per cent—of the total exports. It is, therefore, evident that the trust, up to December 31, 1904, has lost at least 30 per cent—more than 50,000,000 cigars—in trade."

SALADS.

The Seville Packing Co. of 202 Franklin street, New York City, have recently issued a 100,000 edition of a beautifully illustrated salad recipe book entitled "Salads; How to Make and Serve Them." This is far and away the most up-to-date booklet that has ever come to our attention, containing as it does not only recipes of the most noted authorities of the culinary art, but it is also beautifully illustrated with halftones of the finished dishes.

It is gotten out to advertise Nicelle Olive Oil, only to those who have never given it a trial. It needs no advertising where it has been tried. This is the brand of oil which was found by the United States Bureau of Chemistry tests to be superior to all other brands. Messrs. Stillwell & Gladding, official chemists to the New York Produce Exchange, say that the figures prove conclusively that it was superior to all brands tested.

The Seville Packing Co. will send a copy of this booklet without charge upon request, if you mention this publication.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco—Max Levy, grocer at 1013 Folsom street, was taken to the Central Emergency hospital, June 10th, suffering from a malady which the surgeons have been unable to name or account for. An officer found Mr. Levy lying on Dupont street near Washington, unable to speak or move. His jaw and limbs were moveable, though he seemed to have lost all control over them.

Cloverdale—George Imrie and Clay McClelland have bought out the Shaw grocery store. The former started with J. A. McClelland & Co. five years ago and the latter, a nephew of J. A. McClelland, joined the forces of the same establishment two years later. They have been with J. A. McClelland & Co., and their successors, the E. R. Gifford Co., down to the time of their purchase of the Shaw grocery.

Clovis—The new grocery of Lloyd & Harlow was opened June 10th.

Oakland—Henry Harmon, grocer at Allendale, was nearly killed recently by a pet bear, which he had owned for over a year, and which previously had never given any cause for regarding it as dangerous. His clerk, William Carrege, was also badly hurt while assisting his employer to get out of the bear's clutches.

Ontario—W. W. Smith, the pioneer dealer in groceries and glassware, has moved into his handsome new store on Euclid avenue and A street. The new store has an entrance on both streets and is one of the best equipped in Southern California. Mr. Smith has been in business in Ontario for eighteen years and is one of the solid citizens of the Kite.

Redlands—An attempt was made to rob the north Side grocery store recently. Arthur Cazel and wife, who were sleeping in an adjoining room, were chloroformed. A superabundance of the drug caused Cazel to sneeze, and he awoke just in time to hear noises around the place. He found the room saturated with the odor. The robbers, it seems, were unable to force an entrance, although all of the doors and windows had been tried. No trace of the miscreants could be found.

South Pasadena—F. H. Dolan has sold his grocery business to Nathan Franks and will go East with his family when Mr. Franks gets broken into the business.

Portland—William Wadhams, a pioneer wholesale grocer, died a few days ago at the age of 75 years. Mr. Wadhams was for many years senior member of the firm of Wadhams & Co., but of late identified with Wadhams & Kerr Bros., when that house was established.

WASHINGTON.

Bellingham—President H. C. Byron, of the Byron Grocery Company, met with a serious accident a few days ago. While driving a colt the animal became frightened and ran away, overturning the carriage. Mr. Byron was thrown violently to the ground, his skull fractured and right arm and several ribs broken. Reardan—Box-car peddlers are working in this vicinity and half a carload of groceries were unloaded at this depot one day recently, and we understand another carload will be brought in next week, says the Reardan Gazette. A man by the name of Clark is at the head of the proposition and although he claims to be working for Parks, the long-whiskered individual who got into so much trouble in this county a year or so ago, his goods are billed from the Pacific Coast Importing Company of Spokane, and in the future our merchants would be wise to place this company on the unfair list. It is only a year or so ago that some of the people of this vicinity bit on the same proposition and when the goods were examined by the State Food Commissioner they were found to be adulterated.

Seattle—H. C. Lamarty has discontinued his grocery and meat market at 408 Cedar street and is starting in the same lines at Denny station.

Young, formerly engaged in the hotel business here, has purchased the interests of M. C. Miller in the Red Ribbon Grocery, corner of Ninth and E streets, W. E. Young & Co. continuing, with A. H. Switzer as manager.

PORTO RICO'S PROSPECTS.

George S. Wylie Tells About the Outlook in America's New Possessions.

After a careful trip over the island of Porto Rico, Geo. S. Wylie is enthusiastic over the value of this wonderful island of the United States. Mr. Wylie returned this week, having made the trip in the interest of the Porto Rico Company of this city. He reports that Porto Rico is in a bad way financially, as the planters have not yet recovered from the exhaustion of the Spanish-American war and the hurricane which did so much damage several years ago.

"The fertility of Porto Rico is remarkable," he said; "coffee, cotton, bananas, pineapple and sugar cane grow in splendid luxuriance and the island government is devoting itself now particularly to the cultivation of a market for these articles.

"I traveled all over the island from one end to the other. This did not take long as it is only about 147 miles long by 47 miles wide. My purpose was to study the comparative merits of the coffee raised in the different sections of the island. The finest coffees come from Yauco and La Junta districts in the southeastern portion of the island. In these districts considerable quantities of coffee are shipped to Europe, some of which has brought the planters as high as $40 per hundred pounds. A large part of this first-class coffee goes to Vienna which is recognized as the most discriminating center of coffee consumption.

"The islands at the present time are practically bare of high grade coffee, almost the entire crop of 1904 having been sold and shipped. I was fortunate in being able to secure for the Porto Rico Company considerable high grade thoroughly aged coffee that was being held on speculation in expectation of high prices this fall. Owing to the fact that the Porto Rico Company was prepared to pay spot cash for their purchases, and also that our company is the only one on the Pacific Coast giving special attention to the introduction and popularizing of Porto Rico coffee, the planters were glad to make a considerable concession in our favor. As a result, we now have on the way 300,000 pounds of the finest coffee that Porto Rico has ever produced.

"Owing to their loss through the Spanish war and the hurricane of which I have spoken and also to the fact that the planters live in a princely style, almost all the holders of the large plantations are heavily in debt. Because of this, practically the entire crop of coffee pays quite a tribute to the commission men and banks who have advanced money to the planters. All are now looking to the United States to provide them an additional ready spot cash market for their crops. With several good years and a ready market for their output, the Porto Rico planters would soon become financially independent. Without the drain of heavy interests to pay and concessions to make to the men to whom they owe money, I think it would be possible for the Porto Rican crop to be marketed for 3 or 4 cents less than it is to-day.

"Another cause of hard times is the fact that the planters are required to pay a considerable tariff to market their coffee in Spanish markets which they entered free of charge before the war. As their goods were marketed very largely through Spanish merchants in the past and they have not yet built up new channels through which to dispose of their goods, they suffer severely from this.

"Americans are welcomed to Porto Rico with open arms. The coffee planters recognize that the United States is the largest consumer of coffee in the world and they hope that now that they have been taken under Uncle Sam's sheltering arm that he will accord them protection that will mean prosperity. An import tax of 3 or 4 cents on coffee sent to America from foreign countries would prove a boom to the coffee growers of Porto Rico.

"Considerable attention is being paid by the planters to the development of bananas, pineapples and cotton. The growth of cotton, particularly, is being watched with much interest and care. Porto Rico can grow cotton the fibre of which is one-third again longer than that of the Sea Island cotton. This latter cotton has for years been recognized as the finest cotton produced in the United States because of its long fibre.

"The Porto Rican government has taken steps towards advertising Porto Rico's possibilities in the United States. A commissioner has already been appointed. I understand he is to have headquarters at Washington and will establish an exhibit where people from all over the world can be shown what Porto Rico products are like.

"Although in a chain of volcanic islands, there are no volcanoes on Porto Rico. The island is made up of mountains so low that in California we would call them hills. Trees grow strongly to the very tops of these mountains. On the mountains, bananas and pineapples can be grown on the coffee plantations and the production of these fruits will practically pay for the running of the plantations. In the low lying districts, cotton and sugar cane are grown to large advantage.

"My trip was a very valuable one to the Porto Rico Company. We have made new connections which will unquestionably prove of great value to us as the years pass and we are able to make the consumers on the Pacific Coast realize more thoroughly the fact that Porto Rico coffee is the best in the world."

PLEASED WITH PORTLAND.

Leo Lewin of the Lewin-Meyer Company, returned last Saturday from the Portland fair, whither he went with the California Promotion Committee.

He reports that the Fair is in excellent shape and has a good attendance. The Oregon country looks very prosperous and offers a splendid opening for men with money and enterprise.

A FALSE ALARM.

A Los Angeles contemporary throws fits over a law secured at the last Legislature by the Retail Druggists' Association prohibiting the sale of drugs by others than registered pharmacists. As the law specified that it does not refer to the sale of proprietary medicines by dealers in general merchandise, it can readily be seen that there is no cause for alarm. This law was submitted to J. F. Paulding and carefully examined by him during the session of the Legislature and if it had worked an injustice on the retail grocery trade, its pasage would have undoubtedly been stopped by the State Grocers' Association.

Amusements

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

A sweet and clean love story of the Tennessee mountains is being presented in "At Piney Ridge." The leading role is in the hands of Frank Bacon, whose genius is particularly fitted to characters of this kind. He is supported by a strong cast. Next week James Neil and Edythe Chapman will open their season in a series of strong plays with a capable support.

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE.

"The "Black Hussar" is proving another heavy success. The opera is very interesting in itself and with Barron Berthald in the leading role with a strong support in good voices and with plenty of pretty girls and handsome costumes, the production is thoroughly worth while. The stage management is to be congratulated upon the vim and grace with which this opera is given.

ALCAZAR.

"Harriet's Honeymoon" at the Alcazar is full of fun from start to finish. It tells the story of a New York broker who is hurrying his bride through a European trip in order to get back to Wall street as soon as possible. The bride is very unreasonable and jealous and their misunderstandings at a fashionable watering place in Germany gives opportunity for many funny situations. Mr. Craig and Miss Lawrence appear as the honey-mooning couple. Miss Woodson as an up-to-date yellow reporter is very funny. Next Monday "Audrey," a romantic play of the Colonial period, will be given its first production in San Francisco.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"A Woman's Sin" is being presented this week by Alfred Woods and Maud Williamson. It is a melodrama of considerable interest and is well presented by the stock company. Next week "The Best to Win" will be put on, in which Eddie Hanlon, the well known prize fighter, will spar four rounds.

CENTRAL.

"The Tornado" is being presented at the Central this week and raises a perfect cyclone of applause. The production is full of remarkable scenic effects and is one of the most sensational that has been seen at this theatre for some time. At the same time it is well written and has much good comedy. Next week "Down Mobile" is to be presented.

FISCHER'S.

De Velo is the bright particular star at Fischer's this week. His act is particularly sensational. When he loops a perpendicular loop the audience holds its breath. There are eight other numbers on the program. There are two performances each evening and a matinee every afternoon.

THE CHUTES.

Francesca Redding and a company of clever comedians are adding to the interest of the bill in the big free theatre of the Chutes. Several other Orpheum head-liners make up a program of more than ordinary interest. There are the usual attractions at the city's great play grounds.

MONEY BACK FLOUR.

When a mill authorizes the retail grocer to "money back" their flour, it is pretty safe to bank on it.

When this flour brings the dealer a profit of 15 cents per sack, it is a very foolish thing for him not to try to sell it in preference to other flours that only pay 5 or 10 cents per sack.

The Globe Milling Company "money backs" all the products of their mills. It guarantees its "A-1" flour to be the best and strongest in this market and authorizes the grocer to assure his customers that "A-1" will make more loaves of bread to the sack and better than any other flour.

A careful housewife would rather pay $1.40 for the flour that she knows is better than what she has been using than $1.30 or even $1.20 for some other flour.

FIGHTING CRACKER COMPANIES.

St. Louis, Mo.—The grocers are very much in earnest about their fight to discontinue paying cracker prices for pasteboard. The cracker companies have been making a net price when the grocers insisted. They have failed to take official action to guarantee that this would continue when the grocers ceased to protest. President L. F. Padburg has decided that if the local cracker factories will not agree to charge only for net weight, that the grocers will unite in taking crackers from some outside factory

Clerk's Corner

How Clerks May Advance.

"What do you think of the young man's chances in your store to-day?"

This question was asked of four different men who, as heads of stores in four lines and of four sizes, are in a position to know what the answer to the question should be. Here are the answers condensed and welded into one: "Just as good, I think, as the young man's chances in an office. The big positions are there to be won. They are always filled from the ranks of the man in the store. It is up to the man."

The writer has been both store employe and office clerk. Of the two the office work paid more, but it was the more narrow—the least developing—of the two. In an office there is the desk, the ledger, the pen and ink, and the same never ending routine of the day's work to go through with day after day, week after week, year after year, until promotion comes, if it does come. There is little or no contact with the outer world. As a consequence the clerk is in danger of becoming the narrowest of men, the least fitted for battling with the world in general of any of the better class of workers. He must succeed by staying with one firm so long that promotion is sure to come to him.

Many Opportunities in Store.

The situation is different in a store. The clerk or salesman meets and deals with dozens—possibly hundreds—of people intimately each day. He is actively a factor in the business world. His business faculties are constantly on the alert through necessity. His experience of the world and business is added to every day of his life. He meets people often in a fashion where a sale is a question of the sharper wits, so he learns aggressiveness and how to sell goods, and generally his business ability is being constantly developed.

The low pay that prevails among the majority of stores is the great drawback to the desirability of a career in a store. The young man about to choose a life vocation quite properly wants to begin by making as much as he can, provided a place holds out to him the offer of a future. He knows that it will be a long time before success will knock at his door, and in the meantime he wants to earn just as much money as he can. The average store, whether large or small, does not hold forth any high pay for the beginner.

Low Pay at Start.

The beginner must be content with $7 or $8 a week to start with, and must begin humbly to learn the business of a store, just as if he were mastering a trade. Right at the start is where the majority of young men who begin work in stores make their big mistake. They refuse to consider the work of a store in the light of a profession or trade. But the man who is in the store manager's chair got there by taking the business of the store seriously and by learning it while he was drawing small pay in a minor position. There is no time for him to learn it after he gets into the chair.

How long before the clerk will experience his first promotion will depend entirely upon himself. He may be a salesman for three or four years. Then, if he is the right man in the right place, he will find that there are plenty of other places where a good man can be used to advantage in a store besides behind the counter. As he rises his pay will grow proportionately larger and his opportunities for showing what kind of stuff there is in him will increase.

Not that success is to be had for all in this line any more than in others. But it is certain that most of the men in high position in large stores and most owners of smaller establishments came up from the ranks of the salesmen and other employes. They were good salesmen, and as salesmen they received the training that makes them good business men now. The man who will make a good salesman will, with further training, make a good, active business man.

Perhaps it were well to advice a man to time his service in the store with care. If nothing to satisfy you looms up in sight after you are in the thirties quit the work and get into something else. But you will hardly regret that you put in a few years in a store.—Henry Oyen in Detroit "Free Press."

INEXPENSIVE LIVING.

Young Men at Wabash College Wax Strong and Hearty on $1.27 Per Week.

Can a man subsist on $1.27 worth of food per week and retain his full vigor and strength?

A great many experiments have been tried within the last two or three years to ascertain just how little a person requires in order to keep in a sound and healthy physical condition. While no sensible person desires to lower the standard of living, the facts adduced by these experiments reveal many of our most glaring food faults. They tend to show, for instance, that the most nutritious foods, such as cereals, are the simplest and cheapest, while many of the foods that are almost lacking in tissue-building or strength-giving qualities are the most costly.

Hugh Sutherland and A. C. Payne, two lads who had to "work their way" through Wabash College at Crawfordsville, Indiana, solved this question in a unique and interesting way. The necessity for adopting a cheap but nutritious diet led them into by-paths of dietetic knowledge of which they had not dreamed. They discarded meat entirely, using pecan nuts, which they purchased in the form of butter, at 35 cents a pound. They also avoided white flour products, eating largely of whole wheat foods, rolled oats, milk, oysters, vegetables, eggs and fruits. They gave their expenditures for the week beginning Wednesday, October 14, as follows:

Wednesday—Shredded Wheat, 11c; milk, 15c.
Thursday—Bread, 25c; butter, 25c.
Friday—Bananas, 5c.
Saturday — Shredded Wheat, 11c; blackberries, 15c.
Sunday—Milk, 10c; oysters, 10c.
Monday—Fish, 10c.
Tuesday—Shredded Wheat, 11c.
Total for the week, $1.48; actual expense for food.

The average weekly expenditure for food for the entire college year was $1.27. And these young men not only made a high average in their studies, but took an active part in outdoor athletics, one of them being left guard on the varsity football team. Their daily program also called for physical exercise morning and evening and a cold bath in the morning. Under such a regime their health was perfect.

The important and instructive thing to be learned from the experience of these young men is that they got more nourishment and more tissue-building material from their food than most Americans get from a dietary that costs many times this amount.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

Points to Watch

CANNED PEAS.

Prices have already been withdrawn by the Association on low grade peas. As the Eastern pack is short, higher prices are anticipated.

SUGAR.

Claus Spreckels is now at Honolulu and jobbers are buying sugar only as they need it in anticipation of a possible war.

SARDINES.

There is a war on between the trust and independent canners and American sardines are selling at less than cost in Eastport, Me.

OLIVE OIL.

Olive oil is being used more and more as a medicine. It has many good qualities and the number of persons that take it is increasing rapidly. Many people take it in grape juice, which destroys the taste of the oil.

REFRIGERATORS.

A good refrigerator is an economical piece of furniture. It uses less ice than a poor one, and at the same time preserves the butter cheese and vegetables so that they remain salable longer than otherwise.

APRICOTS IN JAPAN.

J. H. Worman, United States Consul at Quebec, writes that the Canadian agent in Japan has advised his Government as follows in regard to dried apricots:

"It is only a few years since American dried apricots were introduced into that country, but owing to their good flavor and cheapness they are fast superseding the native product. At present they are imported from San Francisco, but the importers are complaining of a falling off in the quality of the fruit. The invoice of the American article is $3.50 to $4.01 per case of 25 pounds."

The following merchants are importing and dealing in apricots: Kameya & Co., Shimbashi, Tokio; Meidiya & Co., Honcho, Yokohama; Yamada & Co., Motomachi, Yokohama.

GROCERS' BIG MEETING.

J. Salomon Re-elected President With Nineteen Votes to Spare.

DISSATISFIED MEMBERS STAY HOME.

J. A. Stulz the Only Opposition Candidate Elected to the Board.

There were 128 votes cast at the annual election of the San Francisco Retail Grocers on Wednesday night.

J. Salomon secured 19 votes more than Mr. Connolly. As nearly all votes cast were straight tickets, the entire ticket following Mr. Salomon was elected, except C. F. Suss. The only man elected on the ticket headed by Mr. Connolly was Jos. A. Stulz.

The result of the election was due to various personal reasons.

More to blame, however, are at least a hundred members who are dissatisfied with the present administration even to the extent of withdrawing from the organization, but who, nevertheless, failed to attend the meeting and vote as they had promised various members of the Association they would.

It required only twenty of them to entirely change the complexion of last night's results.

What the outcome of the election will be remains to be seen, but serious results will probably follow.

How the Votes Ran.

The voting ran as follows:

President—Salomon, 75; Connolly, 56.

Vice-President—Hurley, 72; Lackmann, 59.

Directors—Wm. Ring, 71; T. H. Corcoran, 72; H. Rawe, 71; H. Methman, 70; J. P. McGuire, 71; J. M. Sullivan, 67; J. R. Van Arsdale, 66; J. C. Owens, 68; Jas. A. Stultz, 64.

Directors (not elected)—J. J. Cusack, 62; Geo. B. Doyle, 59; Julius Lilienthal, 56; J. W. Offermann, 58; John F. Schomer, 62; R. G. Schroeder, 61; Henry Wolking, 61; Henry Wreden, 60; C. F. Suss, 62.

The meeting opened with several preliminary reports.

Secretary Krueger reported a number of new members.

A communication from Chas. Suss was read, demanding that membership in the Association be refused to H. Burmeister on the ground that the gentleman was a tea merchant and not a grocer. The matter was referred to the Board of Directors.

The report of J. J. Hayes about the National Convention was read. He expressed great disappointment at the fact that Jos A. Stulz was not elected president of the National Convention. He thought that the National Convention's usefulness was lessened by the politics.

Watch For H. Rawe.

H. Rawe as chairman of the Collection Committee, spoke briefly praising the work of the Association, and stating that the colections for the year had been in excess of $3700.

Fred Meyer then presented Mr. Rawe with a beautiful gold watch as an indication of their appreciation.

Mr. Rawe spoke briefly:

"This is wholly unexpected. I have always thought that every member should do all that he could to build up the organization. That is all that I have done. I am more than rewarded, and I thank you."

President Salomon, as chairman of the Committee on Trading Stamps, reported that the matter of the constitutionality of the law secured at the last Legislature was now before the Supreme Court. He hoped to have a satisfactory report in a few weeks

Chas Suss, chairman of the Grievance Committee, read a lengthy report. He told of twenty complaints that had been adjusted.

Mr. Suss precipitated a discussion by an attack on E. A Lackmann and R G Schroeder Thus resulted in Mr Lackmann's stating that the statement of Mr. Suss was not true. The organization then voted not to accept Mr. Suss' report

The proposed amendment to make members retiring from business honorary members giving them the full right to speak, though without power to vote or hold office was adopted

The proposed amendment establishing a standing grievance committee was amended to make the committee five instead of three one of whom, at least should be a member of the Board of Directors

The election of officers then followed The nomination speeches developed considerable eloquence and much feeling

Price Cutting and Remedy.

New England Grocer of Boston Discusses and Approves Connolly's Plan.

We print herewith a carefully written and logical review of the plan submitted by Frank B. Connolly, secretary of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association as a basis for a national policy. The writer, Mr. Aaron C. Dowse, is one of the "Fathers in Israel." He has toiled in Association matters for years and has represented his state in the legislature for several terms. His ideas carry the weight that attaches to the thought utterances of a man of such wide experience. He says:

We can all endorse Mr. Connolly's statement that "in order that the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States may be in fact what its name implies, it must have a policy that will concentrate upon it the interest of every grocer in the country." The perplexing problem is what that policy—so all controlling, all concentrating—can be. Opposition to the parcels post, the enactment of a just and equitable national pure food law, are universal in their extent. What besides these? Mr. Connolly thinks he has found the policy. He says:

"Every retail grocer feels that those wholesale grocers who protect the retail trade in their profits and in their business should receive every consideration and protection from the retail grocer. Yet we cannot expect the retail grocers of Philadelphia, New York, Boston or San Francisco and other large cities to feel interested in an organization that declares, as one of its chief principles, the upholding of the wholesale grocer when the wholesale grocer of those cities not only refuse to co-operate with the retailers to protect them in their profits, but actually compete with them."

That is a long distance view.

The wholesale grocers in Boston have ever been quick to meet the just demands of the retail trade. They have refused to sell at retail, have upon request posted cards to that effect.

The fact is that changed business conditions have led to different trade alignments.

Self Preservation the First Law.

Buying syndicates have come, it is true, come to stay in all probability, but the antagonism to the wholesale trade inherent in them is not personal, but the antagonism of self preservaion. If the retail grocers may protest against the wholesaler selling to large wholesale houses and hotels in lots as large as the average retailer buys, so also may the wholesaler protest that that the retailer buys by combine direct of the manufacturer, and not of the jobber. It is a sort of a trade evolution.

The manufacturers and the jobbers will sell to the big departmental stores and the retailers will combine to buy direct of the manufacturer. Theory, talk about protection, arguments about the ethics of trade count for but little. Stubborn facts can't be winked out of sight

We are glad to know that "In Minnesota Washington and a few other favored States, the wholesale grocers use their power to help the retail grocers maintain proper trade methods and prevent undesirable cutting." We are glad that in other States the retailers

PROTECT THEIR FRIENDS.

Retail Grocers Who Want Protection Must Pay for It by Reciprocity.

By H. W. Thurlow, Secretary.

It is the chief purpose of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association to make manufacturers realize that it pays to help the retail dealer get a profit.

It rests with the retail grocer as to whether this is true or not.

When the manufacturer knows that the retail grocers are going to unite in "switching," as far as they can, trade on goods that do not pay a profit, and that they are going to sell, instead, goods that do pay a profit, the manufacturer is going to take steps to have his specialties among the preferred goods.

When the wholesaler learns that if he refuses to back up the manufacturer who maintains prices that the retailer will resent it, and that if he says by his acts, "The retailers be d d. I'm going to help the big cutter get the best of the manufacturer's contract," that the retailers are going to say, "Oh, very well; I will get my goods from the jobber who is willing to try to protect me."

THEN the wholesaler is going to agree to help the manufacturer keep the cutter from cutting.

In the Retailer's Hands.

No matter which end of the problem you start with, you come back in the end to the position that it is the retailer who is to blame if he is beaten out of his trade and his profits.

Of course the manufacturer and the wholesaler ought to be grateful enough and thoughtful enough and shrewd enough to realize that this big giant the many retailers from whose pockets they get their wealth—would gladly give them more if he had it to give, and, therefore, from policy they should see that the big cutter is not allowed to annoy and harass him and lessen his strength. But they are so busy going through him themselves that they have not time to "waste" in protecting him.

Some Splendid Exceptions.

There are some splendid exceptions to this rule

Look at them, Mr Grocer, and then throw all the strength you can to help them in order to show them that you appreciate their policy

A. Schilling & Co.

This firm will not sell to cutters. They will not sell to firms that will not agree to maintain a selling price that leaves the retailer a fair profit

Once in a while you hear of a cutter. As soon as A Schilling & Co. are notified, steps are taken to stop the sacrifice As a consequence, there is a profit in the goods that bear the Schilling label

If it was for no more than this, the retail grocery trade should "boost" the Schilling goods When other manufacturers say "Well well. The re-

Sapolio's Record.

Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. stand way at the head of the list of manufacturers who sell through jobbers.

They are the pioneers and at present the only manufacturers of world-wide reputation who extract from wholesalers a contract not to sell to department stores and not to sell to any firm that Enock Morgan's Sons Co. may denominate.

And Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. enforce that contract, too.

Look at the splendid results.

In San Francisco there is a department store that started to sell "four cakes for 25 cents" every two weeks. Then they found that no jobber would sell them Sapolio, and it became so hard to get it that their three-day sales of Sapolio at four for 25 cents were held only every month or so. Finally they changed their "special sale" price to "two for 15 cents," and it was only once in 60 or 90 days that such a price was offered. At other times the price was 10 cents and three for 25 cents.

It was only the watchfulness of Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. and their strict enforcement of their contracts that made it so expensive to violate this contract that dishonest jobbers did not dare to betray their many retail grocer customers OPENLY, but had to do it so secretly that the cutters did not dare to make it an open and general practice to cut the goods, and as a consequence

It is the rule to sell Sapolio at full price and the exception to cut it.

Cutters of all sorts have jumped at the chance to put out imitations of Sapolio "just-as-goods" that could be sold for less, to punish Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. for protecting the retail grocers.

THEN comes the chance for the retail grocer to show that he is ready to reward the manufacturer who protects him in his profit.

Sell "Sapolio." It will always pay.

Sell other soaps that are marketed on their merits and pay.

But the man who cuts into his "Sapolio" trade to try and sell an article that every department store will be able to offer for less money than he, does a bad and foolish trick.

Recently the "Owl," the big cutting druggists, began to offer Sapolio for 6 cents as a bait. At once all wholesale grocers and wholesale druggists were instructed that to supply the "Owl" directly or indirectly was a breach of contract. The "Owl" will still sell Sapolio at cut prices from time to time, but it will only be goods bought from retailers and at more than jobbers' rates, and the sales will be only occasional and the 10-cent price will be the rule.

The Flour Situation.

It lays with the mills to give the retail grocer a profit of 15 cents a sack on flour if they want to.

They have said that they would do it if the retail grocers of San Francisco wanted them to do it.

NOW is the time to show them you want it.

The Globe Mills say: "We will sell no flour to any firm that cuts the price we fix. You can guarantee our flour and give your customer the money back if it don't suit. You must sell our flour at the following prices:

"A1" at $1.40. (Profit 17½ cents.)
"Banquet" at $1.30. (Profit 15 cents.)
"Silver Star" at $1.25. (Profit 15 cents.)

When the retail grocers, by selling flours that pay a fair profit and cannot be sold for less than they sell them, show they want a profit, then they will get a profit from

SUFFERING LOSS.

Margin Retail Grocers Must Get on Flour to Come Out Even.

Few grocers will find that their expenses (after they have allowed for a decent salary for themselves) will come out under 12 per cent.

This means that, if they sell goods with less than a 12 per cent margin, they are either doing business at a loss or, at the best, are working for glory themselves.

A margin of 12 per cent on a sale of $1.25 amounts to 15 cents. This means that the man who sells flour with a less margin than 15 cents is handling it at a loss.

Look at this flour.

Every sack has to be delivered. This costs from 3 to 7 cents. It has to be handled several times. It dirties up the clothes of the clerks. Frequently, a sack is sold to a beat and a total loss is recorded.

A margin of 15 cents is even too small when the risk, the bother, and the amount invested is considered.

Yet five of the mills of San Francisco say to the retail grocers: "We will not help you secure a profit. We could stop the slaughtering of prices by the cutters here as we have in other cities, but we don't think we need to do it for the San Francisco grocers."

The mills who say this are:

Sperry,
Port Costa
Stockton,
American,
Del Monte.

A vast chorus of retail grocers goes up:

"But we DO want a profit of 15 cents. All we want is to know that the mills won't let the other fellow cut and we'll be glad to charge the price."

Then Secretary Krueger says:

"The San Francisco grocers aren't interested in getting better profits."

And President Salomon says from the chair:

"It wouldn't be fair to the mills to ask them to maintain a price of $1.25."

But the grocers about San Francisco bay can't see why it would hurt the mills to do for them what is being done for the trade in all the other large cities of the Coast.

One mill says the price can be maintained to advantage. This is the Globe Milling Co.

The grocers find that they can sell the Globe flour and the extra profit is very acceptable.

Oakland Mill Stands Pat.

The Bay City Mills of Oakland are also standing pat on its retail selling price. The Alameda County grocers are rewarding these mills by pushing their goods in place of the other brands they formerly sold.

QUICK WORK.

A New Record Set for Sugar Weighing.

The writer witnessed a performance in sugar weighing a few days since that seemed truly marvelous. Mr. Lowrie, clerk for Eugene L. Gebel, the well-known San Francisco grocer, placed a 100-pound sack of granulated sugar in their Bond Automatic Weigher, and in two and one-half minutes it was in 25-cent packages, the number multiplied by the weight set for each giving a total of 101 pounds, the additional pound being the added weight of bags as the packages were weighed gross.

It is safe to say that this machine establishes an entirely new record for speed, accuracy and cleanliness in weighing all sorts of free-running materials.

TOMATO CONDITIONS.

Baltimore Authority Reviews the Outlook in the Eastern Market.

Baltimore, June 9th—The "Trade" says:

"The past two years have been preparing the present unhealthy conditions of canned goods value. Three years ago there was an abnormal advance in tomatoes and an equally abnormal increase of new packers. The result the following year was an output of tomatoes that was based entirely on the question of producing quantity and the number of cans.

"The first rule among the new packers seemed to be to get tomatoes into cans at the lowest possible cost and rush them on to the market at the high prices then holding. Secondly, to cook them long enough to make them keep.

"The worst part of the situation was the abominable practice of putting jobbers' labels on these poor tomatoes, which allowed them to rush out on the market as first-class goods. Their inferiority being accompanied by excess in quantity the market went steadily downward.

"This prevented a return of the value on the new goods of 1904. Although the pack that year was greatly lessened, the carry-over, especially in the goods of the old packers was heavy enough to swamp the market up to date.

"The great buyers, realizing the condition of the article, have resolved this year to let the market help itself without their assistance. This means that the buying season will be in the packing season only, for spot goods only and therefore on a basis price of goods.

"In all probability, we are going to have a season of such nature that the crop of tomatoes this summer will be lessened by the weather conditions. This, coming together with a very much reduced acreage, forms a very important consideration in the question.

"Meantime the extremely low price of tomatoes has been the cause of enormous consumption of this article. The two years carry-over of 1903 is now about cleaned up. On account of the dissatisfaction caused by the inferior goods with which the market has been flooded, the quality of tomatoes packed this summer will be of a very much higher order than we have had for some time. We doubt very much if the packers will get their prices for them.

"The first of October will find no volume of pack for this year on hand. The carry-over of two years ago will have disappeared and there will be a real scarcity in canned tomatoes. If we should have a frost in the latter part of September it would result in almost a famine of tomatoes before the crop of next year."

FIRE INSURANCE DECISION.

D. Cavallaro of San Jose insured a winery on October 27, 1903, for $350. The building was destroyed by fire December 6, 1903. The company refused to pay the policy because the building had been insured as a dwelling house, while in fact it was used as a winery. Cavallaro sued for $299.99 and the jury brought in a verdict for the full amount sued for and costs. The court held that the responsibility for the error in the contract was equal as both parties thereto had been guilty of a certain amount of carelessness in describing the premises.

Price Cutting and Remedy.

"who have to compete with large cutting establishments are then forced to form Buying Exchanges in order to get prices that enable them to meet the cut rates of their competitors."

Chain Stores Force Exchanges.

We deny that the compulsion hereabouts is because of non-protection from the wholesalers. Why in Boston for years a card price was maintained on sugar and sustained by both wholesalers and refiners so rigidly that the man who cut the price couldnn't buy a pound of sugar in the Boston market. No, the buying combine is that the retailer may buy his goods at a price as low as the jobber can buy.

It had to come, not because the wholesaler had failed to protect, but because the chain store was at the individual retailer's throat—the chain store supplied with goods not by the jobber but by the manufacturer.

The jobber suffers from a condition brought about by the manufacturers, and the latter isn't so much to blame, either, for the large purchases of the chain store equaled in amount those of very many individual wholesale grocers.

It's a condition, not a theory, that faces us.

Must Recognize All Districts.

Of course we agree—we have so stated—that a national association "does a wrong to itself and to the grocery trade when it takes a stand that not only is not helpful to the retail grocers of some communities, but would be absolutely hurtful in others if the organization had the influence to make its resolutions effective."

Ethically the manufacturer should sell only to the jobber, the jobber only to the retailer, and the retailer should buy only of the jobber. Logically that's all right, but like the old one horse shay it goes to pieces all at once. You can't broomstick the tide back.

The retailers in Boston and in Philadelphia—formed into buying combines—are themselves jobbers and they retail goods. The jobber of course has the same right—and will exercise it more and more—to sell to large consumers of his goods. The manufacturer sells when and how he pleases. This may not be an ideal condition, but we must content ourselves with the thought that "whatever is, is best." Mr. Connolly is right in asserting that the national association should "be so conducted as to win for it the active support and sympathy of the largest retail grocers." but he is wrong in assuming that buying combines are the outcome of the failure of the jobber to "co-operate with the retail trade." It's just as natural for the retail grocer to seek to benefit his condition and increase his profits by shrewd corporation buying as it is for water to run down hill.

On Solid Ground.

Mr. Connolly says there is "one policy" that would "bring system into the retail grocery trade and insure the trade against unintelligent cutting." As he says, "Every grocer is in business to make money. Every merchant would like to have certain lines on which he can feel safe in making a price that will net him profit." He then gets down to solid ground and declares—and in this statement he is absolutely correct—that "There is only one way that law and order can be brought into the grocery business. This is through the assistance of the manufacturer who has the right to fix and maintain the price at which his goods shall be sold. The manufacturer has the right to refuse to sell to those who cut his price and to demand of the wholesale trade that they refuse to sell firms that cut this price. The manufacturer alone has this right." (True).

"The manufacturer would not ordinarily be warranted in making any such a demand unless the retail grocery trade were prepared to back him up. If the influence of the national association should be devoted to creating that assurance, it would be of value to every retailer and every manufacturer in the country." (True).

"The great power and influence of the National Retail Druggists' Association came from its devoting its influence to securing the co-operation of the retail druggists in so backing up the manufacturers that they could afford to give the trade protection. This policy has made the National Druggists' Association of so much value to its members that the per capita tax has been raised from 25 cents to $4 per year and the members pay the $4 much more gladly and with much more enthusiasm than they did the 25 cents." (True.)

"There is only one way by which manufacturers can be made to feel that they can safely establish a fixed retail selling price for their goods. That way is for the Retail Grocers' Associations of the country, under the leadership and direction of the National Grocers' Association, to not only resolve but actually to give their earnest assistance and best ability to the sale of those goods whose retail selling prices are protected. (True.) This also includes the united action on the part of the retail grocers in restricting in every way possible the sale of those goods the manufacturers of which allow them to be cut." (True.)

"It will give the retail grocers, both large and small, protection against cutters." (True.)

"We believe the National Retail Grocers' Association should take as its chief policy the idea of the co-operating with the manufacturers so as to make the maintenance of a fair price on leading staples practicable. Whether the manufacturer sells through the jobber or direct to the retailer is something for the wholesale grocers to settle with the manufacturer, and is entirely a local issue." (Absolutely correct.)

Mr. Connolly then declares that "the next policy should be a declaration in favor of the protection of the wholesale trade in those districts where the wholesale trade are prepared to protect the retailer." Protection in what way? The sale by manufacturers—to jobbers or to the retailer—is as Mr. Connolly says, something the wholesaler must settle with the manufacturer. This being true will Mr. Connolly please explain what he means by protecting the wholesale trade. Seems to us he contradicts himself—gets into an absolutely safe position and then jumps into the air. What is that protection he would have as "the next policy"?

"The matter of securing national legislation, the abatement of trade abuses, such as premium schemes, etc., the further extending of organization, are all valuable incidental features of importance to which attention should be given as the necessity arises."

These are more than mere incidental features—they the all important. To kill off the premium and coupon scheme, to secure a fair national pure

Resolution No. 1.

Whereas, The exigencies of trade require that a dealer meet the prices of his direct competitors, and

Whereas, The prices made by cut rate stores on leading staples have resulted in lowering the general average of profit on those staples far below the safety point, and

Whereas, Conditions are now such that a general rehabilitation of prices is essential, and

Whereas, An agreement among retail grocers themselves as to the maintenance of a retail price is impracticable in many communities, since it can only be obtained by the agreement on the part of the wholesale grocers to refuse to sell goods to the cutter, and

Whereas, The legal right of fixing and maintaining the selling price on an article rests with the manufacturer and the manufacturer alone, be it

RESOLVED, That we urge the manufacturers of the country to establish such prices for their specialties in the various communities as will allow a satisfactory margin of profit to the retailer. Be it further

RESOLVED, That we think the manufacturers should require of wholesalers an agreement not to sell their goods to such retail grocers as may cut the price of the same. Be it further

RESOLVED, That we will give every assistance in our power to increase the popularity of such goods as are protected in their retail price by the manufacturer, and that we will do everything in our power to resist the sale of those goods which the manufacturers allow to be cut.

Resolution No. 2.

Whereas, Certain manufacturers have found it possible to minimize cutting on their goods by selling only through jobbers who sign a contract to sell these goods only to retailers who sign agreements to maintain the retail selling price. Be it

RESOLVED, That we urge upon manufacturers the advisability of the contract plan. Be it further

RESOLVED, That we will assist in every way in our power to advance the sale of goods so protected.

Resolution No. 3.

Whereas, The value of the maintenance of the prices and the extent to which manufacturers can afford to devote themselves to this policy depends upon the extent to which they are supported by the retail grocery trade. Be it

RESOLVED, That we urge managers of the National Grocers' Association to use its influence to induce manufacturers of articles of widespread use to adopt the contract selling plan in all communities where the retail grocers are prepared to give such manufacturers the support that will warrant their undertaking this system.

Logical and Forceful.

These resolutions are well thought out, well phrased and the argument for a fixed selling price is presented with logical force. Whether or not the contract plan is feasible—whether or not such a price agreement is in conflict with the anti-trust laws—we are unable to state. The evils of price cutting on staple goods are painfully apparent. The cheap chain store, the spider web department store, deliberately cuts the price of some staple article—cuts below the actual cost price, that it may give to customers the idea that low prices are the rule and not the exception. It, of course, uses these as leaders, as baits with which to catch the unwary customer, making up on other goods much more than it loses on the leader.

Great Good Would Result.

If the biscuit trust, and all similar producers of goods handled by the trade could be induced to protect their prices great good would result. This would not result in dead uniformity of price for there are many goods not included in these special trade marked lines on which drives could be made.

There is food for thought in these suggestions and we would like to hear from the trade.

One thing is sure, such a plan can succeed only as it is backed by the retail trade.

The manufacturers must know that there is such a demand.

We well remember that a large manufacturer of food products in this city once lowered its price that the retailers might get a little more profit. Within a week the retailers had cut the price to a figure that allowed them only the same meagre profit they were receiving before.

Does the retailer need protection not only against the chain store and the department store but also against himself? At that time it would seem so.

Thanks for Connolly.

Mr. Connolly deserves the thanks of the trade for his sincere effort to better present day conditions.

Out of such suggestions come needed relief from trade evils.

Every grocer who gets beyond the confines of his store walls and studies these great trade problems helps his brother grocer.

Is this suggestion from the Pacific coast the El Dorado of our hopes?

Is it practical?

Is it workable?

The trade must answer—must adopt the idea or a better one or else go on in the old hap-hazard way, the twig in the trade stream turned hither and thither at the will of the cutter.

Let's first of all be sure we are right and then go ahead.

DEATH OF MRS. HEIDE.

The friends of Henry Heide, the Fourth street retail grocer, will learn with regret of his recent bereavement through the death of his beloved wife last week. Mrs. Heide was forced to submit to a serious operation recently and the first indications were that the operation would be successful. Later she took a turn for the worse, with fatal results.

CARNATION CREAM.

E. A. Stuart, president of the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co., and Mr. John Spohn, senior partner of Spohn-Patrick Co., are investigating the conditions of Carnation Cream in this market. Both Mr. Stuart and Mr. Spohn have been away from the Coast for the last three months and during that time the selling price of Carnation Cream has been rather demoralized. These gentlemen are now canvassing the trade in order to see what steps may be necessary to rehabilitate the prices on Carnation Cream.

This is a matter of great importance to the retail grocery trade. Carnation Cream during the past five years has secured the leading position among the condensed cream on this market. Practically every grocery store in San Francisco carries these goods at the present time and the selling of Carnation Cream without a satisfactory profit would make a decided impression upon the debit and credit account of the dealer.

The Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co. has co-operated with the various Associations in the past. They have successfully maintained a fair selling price on Carnation Cream in numerous communities and no doubt they will be able, with the assistance of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association, to solve the problem for San Francisco and the other bay cities.

LILY DEAL OFF.

The deal on Lily Cream, by which the retail grocer secured one case free with every 10, and a half case free with every 5½, was declared off last week. Many retail grocers took advantage of this deal to secure their Lily Cream at an inside price. Lily Cream is the pioneer of the big tins of condensed cream on this market. Its quality has always proven satisfactory and the demand with the retail trade has shown a continual and satisfactory increase.

CARNATION ..CREAM..

Is the Handy Milk Man

and the sooner the Grocer realizes this fact, the more he will sell.

Carnation Cream has many advantages over milk delivered by the dairy man:

1st. It contains more real milk substance and less water.
2nd. It is of uniform quality. Ordinary dairy milk is not.
3rd. Carnation is sterilized, hermetically sealed and free from the dust, dirt and germs that must surely get into milk while en route to homes home or places of business

RAP THE PACKERS.

Raisin Growers' Association Denounces Middlemen Who Sell Short.

Fresno, June 17th—The California Raisin Growers' Association has issued a circular in which it denounces the action of certain large firms who have offered to deliver at a low price raisins which are not yet grown and which they do not own and which they cannot own without purchasing them from the raisin growers, hundreds of whom are members of the association.

The Raisin Growers' Association declares that it is about time to teach a severe and costly lesson to the packers who have the temerity to try to wreck the raisin market in advance by offering to sell what they do not yet own, especially in the face of the fact that the raisin growers formed their association chiefly for the purpose of so strengthening the market that better prices might prevail than those named by the packers. In their circular, they say:

"All of the growers combined have exclusive control of the means with which to teach this lesson. The more outside growers who join the new company, the more effectively the lesson can be taught. If for any reason an outside grower eventually decides to remain outside, he and others like him will control the only source of supply for these packers who are now endeavoring to contract sales of 1905 raisins and the more the packers contract to deliver, the stronger will be the position of the independent growers, as the packers will be forced to pay the price demanded by the independent grower, or else pay damages to the Eastern jobber for non-delivery.

"This company at the proper time may take occasion to notify the outside growers what price the packers can easily afford to offer without suffering too much loss.

"Can the grower who has toiled and sweat during the past eight months, plowing, pruning, cultivating, irrigating and taking chances against frosts, worms, spiders and mildew, view with complacency the spectacle of the middleman selling his product four months before it is ready for the market, without even the scant courtesy of consulting the producer in order to learn whether or not he has some slight opinion as to what price the product should be offered to the trade?

"One year of intelligent combined action on the part of the growers will teach the short seller a lesson, of which he is badly in need. Last year the packers performed the same trick (successfully, too) to the great loss of the growers."

Best of Fine Fruits.

The Spohn-Patrick Company are pushing the trade on Griffin Extras fruits and vegetables with most satisfactory results.

The grocery trade has come to realize that goods bearing this brand are always satisfactory, and in handling them there will come never a word of complaint.

This is due to the great care with which these goods are put up. Only the best fruits and vegetables are used, and every precaution is taken in the preparation of these goods to insure that quality and flavor shall be absolutely maintained.

The California Fruit Canners' Association, packers of these goods, have over thirty canneries in different parts of the States, so located that they are able to pack on the spot of production the best of each and every kind.

PRAISES THE ADVOCATE.

Secretary Paulding of Los Angeles Approves the Methods of Mr. Thurlow.

There seems to be some misapprehension on the part of some of the Coast trade papers, as to the policy of the new secretary of the Pacific Coast Association in making the Retail Grocers' Advocate the preferred association paper, says Secretary Paulding of Los Angeles, in his last "Report."

Mr. Thurlow, the new secretary, in his initial statement said that he would use the Advocate in order to keep the members in touch with what was being done.

Several papers have taken exception to this statement and seem to think they have been slighted and have been publishing statements that lead us to believe that they have misunderstood the meaning of Mr. Thurlow's statement. As we understand it he intends to make extensive use of the columns of the Advocate because of its general circulation and its always fearless stand on behalf of the association in all matters. We know that he did not mean to convey the idea that he would ignore all other papers, but expects each local paper to be of as much value to the association in their locality as possible. Any paper should and no doubt will be glad to publish anything pertaining to the welfare of the Pacific Coast Association as pertaining to their locality.

However, the news of a general nature pertaining to the whole coast should be carried by a paper whose circulation is not confined to any given locality.

We realize that the success of a great movement of this character must be given publicity and it is but natural that we should seek a trade paper of the most general circulation to be the one catered to, in order to reach the greatest number of those interested in our work.

Several trade papers of the Coast have always given space to association work and have done much to help along the good work, and we hope they will continue to do so. We feel sure that it is not the intent of the Pacific Coast Association to antagonize the local trade press. However, our movement is general and if we see fit to make the paper of the most general circulation, our general paper, we do not think that the privilege should be denied us, especially when we have a paper that has stood by us in all matters like the Advocate has.

Attracting Trade

Clever Trade-Drawing Plan.

M. L. King, one of the best-known grocers in the vicinity of Boston, and who has continuously carried on a successful retail grocery business in Somerville, a suburban city which now has a population of about 70,000 people, since 1866, recently adopted a unique trade-drawing scheme.

The plan consists of returning to the cash customers the money they have paid for goods on a certain day of the month, and doing this once a month. Mr. King deposits a sealed envelope with the cashier of the Somerville National Bank about the last of each month, the envelope containing the day in the following month selected by him on which the money was to be returned. He follows this with a large circular describing the plan. On the circular is a certificate, so-called, signed by the cashier of the Somerville National Bank, and which read about as follows:

"This is to certify that M. L. King has deposited with the Somerville National Bank a certain sealed envelope said to contain a date."

Mr. King also inserted in the local paper an advertisement explaining the scheme. At first customers were rather slow to familiarize themselves with the plan, but his cash sales have very largely increased. A small amount of weekly credit trade has been turned over to cash trade. The plan only applies to cash sales, but no credit trade has been hurt or interfered with in any way. Mr. King has one of the kind of cash registers which prints the date and amount of each cash sale on a slip, and these slips or tickets are given to all cash customers.

Make Your Store Attractive.

Right now take a look around your store and give honest answers to yourself to questions such as these:

Does my store look as up to date as I can make it? Couldn't I manage to make my fixtures more presentable and more convenient? Couldn't I arrange to secure more light?

Are my departments arranged as well as they might be? Do I make it necessary for a customer who completes a purchase in one department to go the full length of the store to get other things naturally called for after such a purchase as she has just made?

Answer the questions frankly and without reference to the size of your store. However small it may be, it can be made to look prosperous. Floors can be clean, fixtures bright and counters neatly arranged.

Nice goods now piled under the counters can be brought out where customers may see them. Shelving, now so high that it makes the stock look small, can be lowered. And besides increased convenience there will be a gain in the general appearance of your store.

Remember that pretty things now kept in boxes under the counter, if shown in glass cases with mirror backs, would almost sell themselves.

Give every part of your store, every nook and corner, careful attention, with a view to improving the impression your store as a whole now makes on customers.

Tidy counters, with goods attractively displayed on every hand, aisles that afford room enough without permitting room to be wasted, fixtures as fine as you can afford—such things as these encourage customers to linger in the store after completing one purchase, looking through goods in other departments.

And it is to those who linger and look that you make those extra sales, which mean much in determining your net yearly profit.

MARKETING PRUNES.

Bad Practices of Growers Responsible for Considerable of the Demoralization.

San Jose, June 24th.—The prune growers of Santa Clara county were told some unpleasant truths at the meeting of the Association held yesterday. C. D. Harvey, who has just returned from a three months' tour of inspection through 23 States says:

"I find that the great obstacle in the way of our prune industry is the inferior packing and the unreliability of our goods and our methods of doing business in the East. This is to such an extent true, that the largest jobbers in New York, Chicago and Baltimore are compelled to obtain the prune in its natural state and process it themselves in order to guarantee their goods. These men complain about the increased rate of 20 cents per 100 on the natural prune and the one-eighth cent above box price that is demanded by the dealers.

"This complaint is from men who handle from 80 to 100 carloads each year, and is a very serious obstacle in the way of our growers getting into the best markets and dealing with the most reputable dealers of the East.

Conscienceless Prune Growers.

"The situation was thus expressed to me in an interview with the head of a leading firm in the East of 30 years' standing, who said: 'The dried fruit dealers of California are a conscienceless lot. We can neither trust their word, their goods or their brand, and we are seriously considering the elimination of the California dried fruit trade from our business. We have made no money in handling their products in the last three years.'

"In interviews with nearly 300 leading jobbers I heard the same sentiment expressed in more moderate terms, showing that it is the prevailing opinion throughout the East."

A Remedy in Organization.

Mr. Harvey suggests as a remedy that the prune growers of each neighborhood form organizations of from ten to fifty members, or more if possible. He advises that each organization control their local affairs, and that only the secretary have a salary. He suggests that all the organizations unite in choosing upon a Central Committee, and that this Central Committee, or its manager, should make all sales. By such an organization goods sold under certain labels would soon be recognized as safe to handle by the trade of the entire country.

FINEST EVER USED.

When a firm like Watt & Co. of Grass Valley can say of an article, "They are the finest we have ever used during our experience in the grocery business covering a period of more than 30 years," it stands to reason that those goods can be banked on.

That is what Watt & Co. say of the Diamond "C" hams and bacon of the Cudahy Packing Co., the firm whose slogan is "The Taste Tells."

When the grocer can give his customers an article that will make them come back and say, as Watt & Co. do, "That is the finest ham and bacon I have tasted in 30 years," there is no danger of those customers going elsewhere for their provisions, and they are going to send their friends to get some just like what they had.

This is what is happening to grocers who handle the Diamond "C" goods. Numerous letters to the Cudahy Packing Co. from grocers all over the coast attest this fact.

Victoria—The final meeting of the creditors of the estate of Hardress Clarke, former grocer, was held recently and a dividend of 13 per cent paid.

COAST CROP CONDITIONS.

The weekly report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture for California says:

"The hay crop in most parts is the heaviest for several years and the quality superior. Beans, corn and potatoes are making satisfactory growth but would be benefited by warm weather. The outlook for grapes is good for a large crop. Apricots, peaches and plums are yielding heavy crops."

The weekly report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture for Washington says:

"The weather has been very favorable for all crops. Potatoes are vigorous and promise a large crop."

The weekly report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture for Oregon says:

"The crop of cherries is below the average. While it is good in some localities it is almost a failure in others. The strawberry crop turned out to be below the average in quantity."

SUGAR MARKET.

Saturday saw a drop of 20 cents—a total decline of 40 cents during the week. The decline in San Francisco was entirely without reference to Eastern conditions. Though sugar is below parity with Eastern prices, jobbers are buying only from hand to mouth and would not be surprised at another decline. Mr. Spreckels Sr. is now in Honolulu. His arrival there was marked by the first 10-cent drop in sugar. Outsiders express the opinion that the war against the Honolulu Plantation Company has now reached the strenuous stage and that something serious will continue to be doing.

TEA.

A. Schilling & Co. say:

"The Japan market is reported firmer, with a scarcity of good teas. The steamer Manchuria arrived Tuesday with heavy shipments of tea.

"The New York and Chicago market shows greater activity."

RICE.

Honolulu, June 10th—The Honolulu "Advocate" says:

"San Francisco brokers are trying to buy Hawaiian rice, but owing to the shortage here their orders cannot be filled. Owing to the low price up to January some of the planters were almost ruined. The price of rice fell so low that a large acreage of rice lands were not re-planted this year."

CANNED GOODS.

Peas—The Association withdrew prices on cheap peas this week. The outlook for a limited Eastern crop has made it seem inevitable that higher prices must rule on the Pacific Coast.

San Jose, June 21st—The "Mercury" says: "The crop of California fruit is below the average and canned fruits will probably soar sky high in the next few months. The only canned goods that will be in abundance this year are apricots and peaches. Berries and plums will probably yield a fair crop without much change in prices.

Canned Tomatoes — The acreage planted warrants the prediction that the coming crop will not be as great as that of last year. The large carryover will prevent prices being unduly high.

String Beans—The pack from Upper Lake will probably be double what it was last year.

CANNED FRUITS.

Baltimore, June 16th—The "Trade" reports. "It is not recognized that the 1905 season will be a record breaker in disappointments as far as peas are concerned. Some estimate the pack as low as 15 per cent. of the normal. We think it will be more than this but are confident that it will not amount to more than a 50 per cent pack. Extra care is being taken in the quality of the goods."

Pineapple pack has been much lighter up to date than usual and the heavy portion of the season has already passed.

String Beans are bringing from 75 to 80 cents per bushel. Packers can only afford to handle them in large quantities when they are from 25 to 30 cents.

Tomatoes—While spot tomatoes from old holdings are quoted at 62½ cents, standard futures rule firm at 67½ cents. We hear of considerable sales made by packers during the past week.

Corn—A better tone has developed during the past two weeks. It begins to look as if the corn market will get into good shape during the season.

New York, June 14th—Jobbers consider the Association prices for lemon clings and apricots very fair. Since the issuance of the Association prices, jobbers have been sending in large orders to those packers who issued prices before those of the Assocoation were sent out. This is especially true of those varieties of fruits the figures on which are lower than on the Association's list. This includes cherries and both lemon clings and yellow peaches in 2½ lb. extra Standards and 3 lb. Standards.

DRIED FRUITS.

Fresno, June 23rd—The "Democrat" says: "There are every indications of a good crop of peaches and apricots. Both apricots and peaches are about two weeks ahead of their usual time. Many growers are holding their cots for 6½c and 7c, but packers are only paying 5½c. Growers are expecting 7c for peaches, but packers say no such a price is likely to be offered. A well known packer is quoted as giving the following estimates of the apricot and peach crops:

Apricots for 1905, 18,500 tons as against: 1902, 18,000; 1903, 10,000; 1904, 7,500.

Peaches for 1905 from 16,000 tons to 20,000 tons as against: 1902, 23,000; 1903, 18,000; 1904, 11,000.

Hanford—A number of the local fruit growers have agreed to ask 7 cents per pound for their apricots. They count this a reasonable price since Los Angeles buyers are paying for green fruit what is equivalent to about 8 cents for dried.

London—Stocks of dried fruit in warehouses on June 1st are much lower this year than at the same time last year. The figures given out are as follows: California prunes, 13,485 packages as against 60,535 in 1904; Apricots, 860 boxes as against 1155; Pears, 198 boxes as against 805; Peaches, 118 boxes as against 850.

Healdsburg—The Healdsburg Prunes Growers' Union have sold this season's crop to Sheriff Bros. on a 2½ cent basis, with a premium of 25 cents on 30-40's.

PRUNES.

San Jose, June 25.—The "Herald" says: "According to Julius Hausen, of Hamburg, Germany, the largest handler of prunes in Europe and the best authority on foreign crop conditions, the prune crop of Bosnia and Servia will be about one-half of last year. The French crop will be about the same as last year. As Bosnia and Servia produce about 75 per cent of the prunes raised in Europe, and France the other 25 per cent, this would indicate that Europe would have about a half crop for 1905. The European prune crop last year amounted to 132,000,000 pounds, and Europe imported 65,000,000 pounds from the United States. It is probable, therefore, that there will be taken much more than 65,000,000 pounds of prunes from here the present season. Mr. Hausen predicts that Europe will expect to buy American prunes on a 3 cent basis. This would net the growers a 2¾ basis. As the American crop this year will be about 50,000,000 pounds instead of the usual 100,000,000 pounds, it is evident that if Europe should take only as much as she consumed last year, there would not be left one pound of this year's prunes for domestic consumption."

Philadelphia, June 19th—There is a good demand for all class of spot prunes. Large sizes are ⅛ cent higher. Some Santa Clara futures have been sold for 2¾ cents and other prunes at 2½ cents. Offerings have been made of Santa Clara prunes, futures, on a 3 cent basis but no sale has been made.

RAISINS.

Fresno, June 25th—The Raisin Growers' Association is sending out a circular to raisin growers stating that packers are now offering to outside growers $70 per ton for raisins in the sweat box as against $60 a ton offered a month ago and $35 per ton which they paid for raisins last year when they had control of the situation. The Raisin Growers Association states that in their association they include 70 per cent of the raisin acreage of Fresno, Kings and Tulare counties and that a large part of the other 30 per cent is under control to the wineries. This will leave a very limited acreage from which the packers can buy raisins to fill orders should they succeed in selling any large quantity of raisins short. The circular says in conclusion that the Association is now perfecting plans which will insure the success of the combination and that as soon as there are completed they will be fully explained.

Fresno, June 24th—The Raisin Growers' Association has secured all but two of the Co-operative Packing Houses. This wins for them the first trick in their game of business with the packers.

Philadelphia, June 19th—There is fair inquiry for seeded raisins in this market at unchanged prices. Loose raisins seem to be scarce.

now place the Muscat crop at 25 per cent short.

BEANS.

Santa Barbara, June 20th—The crop of Lima Beans this year will be the heaviest that has yet been harvested. Some growers have contracted on the 3-cent basis, but the majority refuse to contract at that price.

WALNUTS.

Anaheim, June 24th—The walnut crop this year will be short although the nuts will be larger than last year. In some orchards the nuts are almost as large as the full grown ones last season.

ALMONDS.

Martinez—The local crop in East Contra Costa county will be between 250 to 275 tons as against 50 to 60 tons last year.

Livermore—The yield of almonds in this valley will be the heaviest in years. Prices quoted at present are fair.

BEANS.

Bayos—are advancing. There is a decided scarcety and strictly fancy stock is being taken up readily at $3.75 to $3.95.

Limas—There has been a weakening in Limas. Purchases are only to supply needs. There will be no new before October 1st, and the entire supply will be exhausted by then.

CANNED SALMON.

Seattle, June 24th—The Kelley-Clarke Co. says: "We have never known this market to be so bare in cheap grades as it is at present. Only a few pinks and a fair stock of reds remain. No sockeyes, cohoes, medium reds or chums can be obtained. Spot pinks are very strong. They are now quoted at 70 cents. An advance to at least 75 cents will probably be made soon. At least 250,000 cases are required for the trade of the South alone in Summer time. As it will be impossible to get new grades until well in September, a price of 80 cents on pinks is not improbable within the next two months. The demand for reds is picking up. First class stocks can till be had at $1. The Alaka Packers' Association is still holding firm at $1.10."

Seattle, June 24th.—The Post-Intellingencer says: "Cold storage plants on the Columbia have already put up as much salmon as they did all last season. Their contracts are about filled. Cannerymen are behind last season."

CANNED SALMON.

Sacramento—The catch has been much better than last season and fishermen are receiving 6 to 6½ cents per lb. which is the best price ever paid for salmon here. In the lower river, the run has been poor and fishermen are complaining. In the upper river the run has been fair but the catch has been slacking and the Spring catch is about over.

Portland—The run continues and consists mainly of large sizes but the volume of the catch has been hampered by the muddy water.

Chinook, June 21st—The catch around Baker's Bay has been enough to pay running expenses with the percentage in favor of large salmon.

Seattle—The "Trade Register" says: The Spring run on the Sound has kept up well. The fish are small, weighing four to five pounds which, cannermen believe to indicate a larg run. There are more porpoises and smelt this year than ever, also indicating a large run.

London, June 10th—The market is active. Owing to their great scarcity, prices for ½-lb. and 1-lb. British Columbia flats are almost prohibited. B. C. talls are neglected although they are much cheaper. This is probably due to the attention given to the Alaska red for which there is a fair demand at steady rates.

SARDINES.

Baltimore, Md., June 20—The Seacoast Packing Company suddenly reduced prices on domestic sardines, after they had agreed to maintain them in conjunction with the leading independent packers. The independents so far have not followed the cut, and give no signs as to what they intend doing. The Seacoast Company is making sales of quarter-oils at 2.20 f. o. b. Eastport for keyless cans, and $2.10 f. o. b. Eastport for three-quarter mustards. The condition of the market with cuts and counter cuts is unsettled and unsatisfactory and buyers are uncertain how to proceed.

MACKEREL.

Philadelphia, June 19th—The market is dull. Buyers are holding off waiting to see how the market will develop.

HOLLAND HERRING.

Witland Bros. say:

"Holland herrings all Milchner are now practically cleared up and whatever small quantity there is in first hands is held at a higher price."

HAY.

Somers & Co. report:

"Choice grades of wheat and wheat and oat are selling well, whereas medium quality goes at very low prices. Reports show that the State has a much larger hay crop than that of last year, although the proportion of good quality will be smaller. There is no outside demand whatever at the moment nor is there anything in sight to encourage the market."

BEST IN THE WORLD.

That is a very "big talk" to make about anything. Yet that is the way experts describe Porto Rico coffee.

G. W. Wylie, who returned last week from Porto Rico told of coffee that the planters sold at $40 per 100 pounds, to be sent to the great coffee centers of Europe. It is coffee that ranks with the best that the Porto Rico Co. is offering the Pacific Coast grocery trade under their "Ponce de Leon" brand. Demand for this coffee is gradually increasing.

All grocers have a certain number of customers who will pay 40 cents a pound for coffee—some have more, some less. These customers insist on a fine coffee. When they get "Ponce de Leon" they come back for more.

Six of the grocers who sell Ponce de Leon coffee will receive solid gold watches worth $60 apiece. Two of these grocers will be San Franciscans and four will be from the interior. No one knows who these grocers will be, but the dealers who handle the most Ponce de Leon coffee between April 15th and August 15th will be the fortunate ones.

This is not a premium scheme. It is not a lottery. It is merely a gift that will help to make six men who have "boosted" Ponce de Leon coffee remember it gratefully and "boost" all the harder as long as they have to look at a watch and are in the grocery business.

A DELICACY ALWAYS IN SEASON.

There are no articles that are better adapted to window displays than are "White Label" Olives and Pim-Olas.

They make a neat, attractive package, and are suggestive of a good appetite, besides they yield the grocer a most satisfactory profit.

Dealers who have among their customers people who are particular and want the "good things" that go with a well-ordered dinner cannot afford to not have some of these goods in their stock, and having them there should display them.

They please the eye as well as tickle the appetite.

CONGRATULATIONS IN ORDER.

On Wednesday evening Margaret Schleef, the daughter of John Schleef, the well known retail grocer, and Arthur Sheny, a hardware merchant of Eureka, were married at the home of the bride's parents, 1418 Jackson street. The young lady is one of the belles of the North Beach district and is a very pretty and accomplished young lady. The groom is a highly respected business man in the growing northern town.

Voluntary Encouragement.

Alpine Cream Company will fix and maintain prices for all Pacific Coast Associations.

Coming as this does entirely unsolicited, it should be recognized by the grocers of all the Coast Associations and their appreciation shown by their active interest in advancing the sale of these goods wherever possible.

When any manufacturer takes action of this character and does so without urging, it is because he has carefully studied the situation and has decided that he can secure the best results by working in harmony with the grocers through their associations.

The directors of the Association are pleased with the recognition of the value of association work shown by this enterprising manufacturer who is quick to recognize the growing power of associations and grasps the opportunities offered for harmonious relations with the retail trade.

Protection in the South.

Mr. A. R. Patrick, president of the Alpine Cream Company, has recently completed arrangements to protect prices on Alpine Cream through the assistance of the Southern California Association. Mr. Paulding advises us from Los Angeles that Mr. Patrick has recently made a personal call on the majority of the large retailers in Southern California and, without a single exception, they have all applauded his action and agreed to maintain his prices.

If the grocer members of all the other associations who are working with the Pacific Coast Association will show their appreciation of a manufacturer who means business and who doesn't wait to be asked by giving his goods the boost to which they are justly entitled, we will shortly have other manufacturers coming to us, instead of our going on our knees to them.

STATE CONVENTION.

Texas—The annual Convention of the State Grocers' Association of Texas was held at Mineral Wells on June 13-14. It was a great success.

North Carolina—The State Grocers' Association held its annual Convention at Asheville on June 21-22. It was one of the largest and best yet held in the South.

New York—The State Grocers' Association will hold its annual Convention at Syracuse, August 7-8-9.

Wisconsin—The 5th annual Convention of the State Grocers' Association will be held at Milwaukee September 11-12-13.

HIGH PRICED CARDBOARD.

Do you get full weight crackers nowa-days?

Do you pay for pasteboard partitions at cake prices?

If you do you are not on the same plane with your brother grocers, particularly those of St. Louis.

Under a private arrangement with the cracker manufacturers of St. Louis, all St. Louis retail grocers who insist upon it are given full weight with all of their goods.

It is a pity that the cracker manufacturers do not make public announcement of their intention to make this the general practice, but as long as they do it, we are willing to forgive them for not announcing it in print.

But, that is not enough.

We forgive them, but we do not forget.

It will be the purpose of this paper to watch this issue closely and from time to time to weigh up the goods to see that the manufacturers do not return to their old practices.

It may be said by some that this is not treating the manufacturers fairly, that if they agree with the individuals to give them full weight goods, their word should be taken for it that they will continue to be fair. That sounds well except for the fact that they will not go on record publicly leaves them open to the suspicion that they are only waiting for the excitement among the grocers to subside, to go back to their short-weight practices. Cigars and Tobacco

The sale of Cremo cigars in humidors has been discontinued by the American Tobacco Company.

What is unquestionably the greatest recent success in the local market among nickel cigars is the Rough Riders of E. M. Schwarz & Co. This cigar is now placed in more than 500 stands and repeats rapidly.

The Optimo is well maintaining its position as the leader in San Francisco among high-class goods. It is the best-distributed cigar on the market, and "the regular thing" for the great majority of smokers of high-class Havana goods.

The sales force of Ehrman Bros. & Co. are actively pushing the Henry Miller, the new nickel sigar, for which the firm are agents, and which is repeating in a most satisfactory manner. The Miller has attracted the favorable attention of a large class of smokers who want a good, long smoke for a nickel as an article of superior value.

Having disposed temporarily of the case of Edward F. Hale of the McAndrews & Forbes Co., whose application for discharge under a writ of habeas corpus has been denied, the Federal Grand Jury, which is conducting the investigation into the affairs of the "Tobacco Trust," has now turned its attention to the main company, with the result that William H. McAllister, secretary of the American Tobacco Co. has been adjudged guilty of contempt of court for assuming an attitude similar to that taken up by Mr. Hale.

BEATING ANTI-CIGARETTE LAW.

An interesting story comes to me from a friend in Indiana on the efforts of cigarette smokers in that State to obtain cigarettes notwithstanding the new anti-cigarette law, says the United States Tobacco Journal.

It develops that cigarettes from other States have been pouring into Indianapolis in original packages ever since the cigarette law was proclaimed. Packed in glass tubes, glass jams, tin cans, sealed metal packets of all sorts, sizes, shapes and pretended purposes, the paper-surrounded smoke illusions have gone from the hand of the dealer to the hand of the consumer, and the confirmed smoker has not lacked the gratification of his taste.

Now that the court has ruled that articles of interstate commerce may be imported and used by individuals, that cigarettes made outside of Indiana and shipped to the Indiana consumer may be puffed without fear of the law, the story of the traffic of the smugglers is coming out.

It seems that Cincinnati has built an immense Indiana trade in the outlawed cigarette since the Indiana law went into effect. Packages marked "perishable—rush," or "glass—handle with care," have been flooding the State. It is said that in many localities those who imported these packages received excessively high prices at retail for the interdicted smokes. The dealers went on the theory that the cigarette smoker must have his "coffin nails," and the theory seems to have made good. It is declared that hundreds of thousands of cigarettes have passed from Cincinnati to Indiana cities through express and mail channels since the Parks bill became the law. Indianapolis has had a large share of this traffic. The packages often were sent concealed in fruit crates. But in most cases the tobacco smell was avoided by the sealing in glass or metal of the precious "sticks."

CARNATION SATISFIES CUSTOMERS.

It has been the wonder of the trade—the wonderful demand that has been built up on Carnation Cream.

Nevertheless, it is not so great a wonder, but a case of push and good goods.

From the day Carnation was placed on the market it has been liberally advertised, so that the consumers have been rapidly made aware of the high claims made for it, and these claims have been in every instance lived up to to the letter by the manufacturers, the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co., and their agents, the Spohn-Patrick Company.

Good goods and faith kept in the past has begotten faith in every promise subsequently made; hence its sales have doubled, tribled and quadrupled, until to-day it is easily the leader in every Pacific coast market.

No grocer stocking carnation doubts for an instant that it will sell, and sell quickly, and each sale be followed by a demand for more.

GLASS JAR TRUST.

One Firm Gathers Many Factories Into an Effective Combine.

It is estimated that about 90 per cent of the glass jars produced in this country are manufactured by Ball Bros. of Muncie, Ind. This gives an absolute monopoly of the business to this firm, since, no matter how high they might put the price, an independent interest that could only supply 10 per cent of the jars would be unable to affect prices.

The Ball Bros. have been gathering in jar factories for some time past. The last important accession to the trust was the Hazle-Atlas Glass Co., who were the first people to introduce machine-made jars. About 75 per cent of the entire output of the country is made in the Ball Bros.' own factories. The other 15 per cent is made in factories controlled by them.

The trust has been content to keep prices low, although they are higher than last year's prices. The enormous amount of jars demanded this year unquestionably justifies the higher price to some extent. Since the fruit crop as a whole will be large, a higher price for fruit jars is anticipated.

WONDERFUL POPULARITY OF WUNDER.

"Wunder Beer" is seen on a large proportion of good bars these days.

If one passes along the streets of San Francisco for an hour or two and notes the signs on the various saloons he will at once become convinced of the fact that Wunder Beer is indeed a favorite drink.

The beer has been known for only four or five years, but in that time a great business has been built up, because it is a beer that is always satisfactory.

PRESERVING EGGS.

Every little while somebody bobs up with a new process of preserving eggs, but we have never seen a practical demonstration that any system beats a first-class cold storage house, and the good old lime vat, when properly placed and handled, has so far maintained second position. Nobody should be deceived into the belief that any method of preservation will keep an egg eight or nine months in such manner that it cannot be distinguished from the fresh-laid article.—Produce Review.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco—A young man of pleasing address succeeded on Tuesday of last week in passing a fictitious check on W. E. Stone, a clerk employed in the grocery conducted by George Sammy, at 140 Pacific street. The stranger ordered a bill of goods amounting to $2.50, for which he tendered a check for $15 purporting to be drawn on the Golden State Bank by Henry Deming. Stone accepted the check at its face value. The stranger was given $10 in gold, with the understanding that the remaining change would be sent with the order to 1505 Washington street, the address left by the stranger. Upon inquiry at that address nothing was known of the stranger except that he had called there during the afternoon and attempted to rent a room. He offered the same check in payment, but the landlady refused to accept it. E. W. Burns, a groceryman at Clay and Larkin streets, says the check was also offered to him. Detective P. J. Mitchell, who is searching for the stranger, has secured the following description of him: Height, five feet seven inches; weight, 135; thin figure; smooth shaven and light complexion. He was dressed in a black sack coat, black vest, gray trousers and stiff hat.

Carpenteria—Mr. Deadrick of the grocery firm of Bailard & Deadrick has sold his half interest to Floyd Heckey.

Cloverdale—It is reported that I. E. Shaw has sold his grocery to George N. Imrie and R. M. McClelland, late of Napa.

Eureka—A. C. Dauphiny is in Sequoia Hospital, where it may be that he will have to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Healdsburg—The "Model" grocery store, conducted by Alexander & Newbert, has assigned to creditors in San Francisco.

Hollywood—E. D. Brewster is opening a new grocery and general merchandise store in the Moore block on North Highland avenue. Mr. Brewster is an experienced grocery man and comes here well recommended.

Huntington Beach—W. C. Smith & Co. have sold their grocery department to A. Taylor.

Los Angeles—J. A. Fazenda, Central avenue, has just completed the remodeling of his store. He now has one of the best arranged and most up-to-date stores in the city. Several of the ideas which Fazenda has carried out are well worthy of attention. He has combined the "open front store" with the "show window front store" in a unique way. There is a show window only on one side, and this is so built into the adjoining room as to not interfere with the open front effect. His arrangement of stock is without a superior. The cigar cases are in the extreme front abutting the sidewalk in order to catch the transient trade. Fruits and vegetables are also displayed at the entrance. Next to the fruit and cigar department he places his candy and cracker cases. Next to these are delicacies and in the rear are the heavy groceries, bulk goods, baking powder, canned vegetables and fruits and other staples. The average person who goes to a grocery store to buy goes for the purpose of buying a staple—rice, sugar, potatoes, baking powder and the like. Mr. Fazenda's idea is to force the purchaser of staples to pass the "luxury departments" in order to get to that part of the store where staples are sold. His other idea is to catch the eye of the passer-by with the showier line of goods—cigars, confections and fruits. The entire store is finished in white.

Pomona—Miss Angeline Magill has resigned her position in the Newberry grocery store, after long and efficient service, and may now be found at the Capitol grocery.

San Diego—The case of Ella A. Chancellor and T. J. Chancellor, charged with obtaining $580 from C. E. Munro by means of false pretenses, is on trial here. Mr. Munro claims that the Chancellors sold to him the stock and fixtures in the grocery store on Fifth street, with the understanding that there were no unpaid claims against the stock. He says it has since developed that a large part of the stock is unpaid for and the creditors are coming to him for the balances due them. As this was not a part of the bargain, as he claims, he swore out the warrant against them.

San Pedro—John A. Brandes, late of Los Angeles, has opened a grocery store at 1426 Mesa street.

Santa Barbara—One of the most ingenious examples of window dressing seen in this city for many a day is that in one of the front windows of Show & Hunt's grocery. It is by way of a welcome greeting to the Christian Endeavorers, and the principal material used is bread in loaves. The scheme includes a clever representation of the familiar "C. E." monogram. The work was done by Alfred R. Edmundson, the artist who regularly does the window display for this firm, and it does great credit to his originality.

Ukiah—Henry Beattie has purchased the interest of B. Cleveland in the grocery store formerly conducted by Cleveland & Beattie. His brother, Elmer, will assist him in the management.

Green Lake—J. D. Warren has succeeded to the grocery business of Warren & Son.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

St. Paul—The Retail Grocers had a great success in their picnic this year. The grocers won the annual ball game played between the retail grocers and the commercial travelers.

Denver, Colo.—The Retail Grocers' Association is preparing to give a banquet that will bring its members together. The drivers of laundry wagons are now begining to sell tea and coffee to their customers.

New York—The Grocers' Association has been discussing the question of whether it would be better to sell milk in bottles and thus save any chance of conflict with the Health Officers or continue selling from the can. The New York and Brooklyn Associations will act jointly in this matter. The Convention of the State Association will be held August 7th, 8th and 9th.

MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE.

The laws of California allow the formation of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies by farmers. The various companies of the State show 4578 members and $4,847,000 of insurance carried. The Mutual Insurance Companies have saved their members much money.

AFTER FRUIT PEDDLARS.

Pasadena, June 21st—The grocers of this city have found their Association of value in enabling them to demand protection from the City Council. Non-resident fruit peddlars have been allowed the run of the town to sell their wares. As a result, it has been impossible for the retail grocers to estimate with any degree of certainty whether the fruit and vegetables they carry will be a loss or profit. The retail grocer has to buy a stock in anticipation of his wants. If a peddlar happens to visit their customers, they face the possibility of having all those goods spoiled on their hands. If the peddlars, as frequently happens, do not show up, they find that their stock is not sufficient to supply the wants of their customers who become dissatisfied. In order to systematize this matter, they urged the Council to pass an ordinance requiring peddlers to pay a license of $225 per year in advance for the privilege of selling in Pasadena. The Council turned the suggestion down, one of the members making a very unjust attack upon D. W. Herlihy of the Model Grocery Co. who was one of the Committee from the Association.

A committee from the City Council was then appointed to confer with the committee from the Grocers' Association to decide upon some ordinance that might be mutually satisfactory. It is probable that the compromise of a license of $5 per day will be agreed upon.

D. W. Herlihey of the Model Grocery Co., in reviewing the situation said:

Not a Question of Revenue

"It is not a question of amount of revenue, whether it should be $10 a day or ten cents, but the issue is to give the merchants of the city protection inasmuch as they must engage their fruit and berries for the entire season in advance. With a hundred boxes of berries engaged, and the merchant obliged to take them, a foreign huckster comes to town with a load of pineapples or bananas and selling them to Pasadena consumers, leaves the home grocer with just that amount of perishable stuff on hand. Were these hucksters to come every day so that the merchant could order his stock accordingly, there would be less cause for complaint. As it is, he takes chances both ways—on not having enough for his trade and buying more than he can sell."

A. A. Chubb manager of the Pasadena Grocery Co. expressed his opinion as follows:

Chubb Deplores the Action.

"The merchants have largely contributed to the upbuilding of the city, and the measure was largely intended for their protection as against irresponsible vendors of stale and inferior fruits. We are now paying local growers of strawberries 5½ and 6 cents a box for berries, and yesterday there were wagons all over town selling inferior and sewer-farm-grown berries at 5 cents a box. Such fruit would not be taken from the local growers at any price. The council does not seem to understand that it is the consumer that we wish to protect as much as ourselves."

Amusements

THE MAJESTIC.

James Neill and Edythe Chapman have opened their season with Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall. The cast is very strong, including such familiar faces as Messrs. MacVicars, Emery, Woodward, O'Hara and Travers. The play is a romantic drama of Queen Elizabeth's time and is presented with an artistic finish that makes it a real treat.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Conan Doyle's "The Best to Win" has been drawing the best houses that have rewarded the season of Alfred Woods and Maud Williamson at the Grand. The play is intensely interesting and the situations are brought about with keen dramatic effect. The four-round boxing bout between Mr. Woods and Eddie Hanlon rouses a great deal of enthusiasm. The next attraction will be the engagement of George Parsons and Georgie Drew Mendum who open on Saturday afternoon with "The Belle of Richmond." Both the principals are American artists who have scored successes with the best companies in the country. During this engagement, summer prices, 25 and 50 cents, will prevail.

ALCAZAR.

Lillian Lawrence makes "Audrey" a very lovable young woman. Audrey is the heroine of a romance in Virginia, set in the colonial period. John Craig takes the part of a young patriot who becomes her devout slave. The story is very beautiful. The company is a funny 4th of July picnic scene, which will come in very aptly for the National holiday.

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE.

This is the last week of Barron Berthold in the "Black Hussar." The opera has been doing a splendid business and is worthy in every way of the patronage accorded it. Next Monday evening "Amorita" will be produced. The cast includes Barron Berthold and Rosemary Glotz, a singer of Eastern fame but new to San Francisco audiences. Special attention is being given to the scenery and costuming. There will be a special matinee on Tuesday, July 4th.

CENTRAL.

"Down Mobile" tells a story of the sunny South. It is full of heart interest and permits of the introduction of some very beautiful scenic and electrical effects. One of the hits of the performance is made by a colored quartet which renders a number of selections in genuine Southern manner. Next week the popular melodrama "Chattanooga" will be presented. Special matinee will be given on July 4th.

THE CHUTES.

Chiquita who is billed as "The Living Doll" is receiving great numbers of visitors at the Chutes. The offerings this week are particularly strong. The program includes a comedy by Francesca Redding and her company and a splendid list of headliners. Chas. Bigney continues to shock crowds by diving nearly 100 feet into a 5 foot tank of water.

PISCHER'S.

A strong bill is presented at this playhouse. There are 10 numbers, all of which are worthy of seeing. There is a performance every afternoon and two performances each evening.

GOOD AFTER TEN YEARS.

"Shredded Wheat Biscuit" don't keep long in American homes. They are eaten too rapidly for that. But Mr. A. J. Porter, vice-president and treasurer of the Natural Food Company, made a discovery in England recently which shows that shredded wheat will keep ten years at least without any deterioration in quality or nutritive value.

He was on a tour of inspection among the European agencies in London, France, Italy, Belgium and Holland. He found in England some shredded wheat biscuits that had been mislaid or overlooked in an Englishman's pantry since 1895. Mr. Porter brought two of these biscuits home with him, and they have excited much curiosity and comment. The shreds are in good condition, and they smell as sweet and fresh as though they were made yesterday in the plant at Niagara Falls. The following statement was given to Mr. Porter by the Englishman who bought the biscuits:

Beechurst, London, May 23, 1899.

These biscuits were bought by me in New York in October, 1895, and have been kept at my home as above ever since.

(Signed.) JOHN TEARLE.

It is settled, therefore, that shredded wheat will keep ten years without spoiling or losing any of its nutritive value. If it keeps ten years there is no reason why it will not keep twenty years.

SUGAR BEETS SHORT.

Modesto, June 23d—The Sugar Company has advised many of the farmers that enough beets could not be raised here under present conditions to pay the company for handling them. In the Alvarado, Chino and San Juan districts the beet crop is reported a failure. The district about Oxnard, which has climatic conditions entirely different from those in other sections of the State, is the only beet district reporting anything like a good beet crop this year.

PRIVATE LABEL WAR.

Portland, Ore., June 26.—The grocers here are enjoying unprecedentedly low prices for canned fruit and vegetables. This is the result of a war between the local wholesale grocers and the California Fruit Canners' Association.

Clerk's Corner

Technical Education for Clerks.

It is just over a year ago that the grocers of Manchester, England, took up the question of holding classes for their employes, says the Cleveland Inland Grocer.

They approached the technical education authorities, and arrangements were soon completed, a very handsome sum of money being subscribed as an essential preliminary. Recently what was called "a practical demonstration" took place at the Grocers' Exchange in that city. The chairman on the occasion confessed that the present was a very proud moment because when he first suggested some such scheme should be carried out, very great surprise was expressed. The students at the classes number 240, and there were about 230 entries on the occasion of "the practical demonstration." An idea of the nature of the competitions will be given by citing parcel wrapping, bacon slicing, classifying samples of goods, counter displays, window dressing, tea matching, etc., all very practical work, it must be admitted. Surely, in the foregoing there is some food for reflection by the grocers of our American cities.

Dandies Are Good Clerks.

Were I about to employ a grocery clerk and had two to choose from, I would take the man whose hair and mustache were curled and whose coat was brushed, in preference to the fellow with the slouchy hat, unkempt hair and grease-spotted coat. Spruceness in a clerk adds to his abilities as a salesman in two ways. First, the man who is spruce and careful of his personal appearance usually has pride in other ways and desires the commendation of his employer as well as of customers. Because of that pride he will do better and more conscientious work. Second, he gets and holds the attention of women customers better than the fellow with the dirty apron and uncombed hair. Women admire a dandy man, and the slicker he is the better impression he makes, provided he also has the other necessary qualities. Women are not alone in this, for men customers will invariably prefer to be served by a clerk who is well dressed, whose collar is clean and whose hands give evidence of washing.

People have a right to expect and to demand that their groceries shall be served to them in as cleanly a manner as possible, and the usually enforce their demands by staying away from a store that is untidy and that employs clerks of uncleanly and untidy habits.—Exchange.

What You Owe Your Employer.

From time to time some bright young man is brought back from Canada by agents of the law. He took a flyer in wheat or played the races, and helped himself to his employer's money. The employer is always saddened by the betrayal of his confidence, and the public sense is shocked by the conception of a promising career marred or wrecked. It is an old story, says the Saturday Evening Post.

Occasionally there is a variation. For example, only the other day a bright young man was brought back from Canada by the police. He had not betrayed his employer's confidence, however. On the contrary, he had been doing his best to strengthen it. This employee knew some things a jury was trying to find out. As he was young and tender, it was feared he might be unable to withstand the inquisitorial probe. Hence the trip.

The young man loyally made himself a fugitive from the law, and at this writing he may be imagined as painfully weighing the proposition that if he tells the Grand Jury what he knows he will lose the regard of his employer, and if he doesn't tell it will be because he lies about it.

There is a further case which might be cited by book and page. Not long ago the president of a flourishing corporation found himself called upon to pay blackmail to a clique of enterprising politicians. The amount was staggering, but the trick was so well turned that he saw no means of escape save through the disagreeable alternative of committing perjury.

He chase the alternative, and three of his employes backed him up. They were not threatened with blackmail, but they "stood by the house."

Different Kinds of Loyalty.

In certain society circles, where dubious acts sometimes occur, the polite theory obtains that a woman's husband is the only judge of her conduct. In some business circles there is a disposition to make the employer, in like manner, the sole keeper of the employee's conscience in all matters pertaining to the business.

The woman who is content merely to satisfy an official conscience keeper can hardly be growing in moral grace. The employee who doesn't take his conscience out of the locker and examine it now and then is very likely to forget how to operate it before long.

We pretend that there is only one set of moral standards. In fact, there are many. Everywhere in the business world the idea that the office employee owes a strict duty of loyalty to his employer has all the force of moral sanction. An act by such an employee is considered immoral. This is very good, although, side by side with him, the workman—the trade unionist employee—puts his relations to his employer on a totally different ground, and that in its turn it not considered immoral.

But there are obvious limitations to the duty of loyalty. No employer will give you manhood or self-respect. The kind that would take them away from you in the first place has none to give.

SAVES THE GROCER MONEY.

A good oil tank is a money-maker, because it is a goods saver, which all grocers will appreciate.

Such is the tank made by S. F. Bower & Co. of Fort Wayne, Ind.

This tank, by its self-measuring apparatus, insures that the grocer will give the customer just what he is paid for and no more, and it removes the danger of damage to neighboring goods.

C. J. KRAMER CONCURS.

The following letter shows that another Association leader approves of the suggestion made by California's State Secretary, Mr. Frank B. Connolly:

Little Rock, Ark., June 14, 1905.
Mr. F. B. Connolly, San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sir—I have read your letter in the Trade Press Bulletin twice this afternoon. It is well written and contains good common sense for the benefit of the merchants of the country.

It expresses my views. But were I to disclose that fact here, the public would simply say, "You are a trust," in place of an "out-trust" as we are now.

I do not believe that a wholesaler should be a retailer, nor a retailer be a wholesaler. During the past years I have had occasion to take the matter up with the manufacturers. All the sense and satisfaction we cou'd get was that they would not let it happen again.

We are all well aware that the wholesalers make from $1 to $1.50 on all cereal foods sold to the retailer. It is easy to see that the retailer cannot compete in selling with the wholesaler who buys at this price. At present the manufacturers are all too eager to sell to care at what price the goods are sold.

This is without exception the worst trade evil we have.

I belong to an Association here that is composed of all classes of trade and I think we represent a purchasing power of over $2,000,000 in capital in the enterprises we follow. Our collection department is one of the grandest things we have to benefit members.

I am willing to do everything in my power to try and bring along the conditions you have outlined in your suggestion. I only hope the date will come when the retail merchants of this country will realize that they cannot do business without being a member of the National Association. With kind regards, I am

Yours truly,
C. J. Kramer.

STATE CONVENTION.

Important Meeting To Be Held at Stockton in August.

Representative grocers from all over the State of California will be at Stockton, Monday and Tuesday, August 21 and 22.

This convention of the different grocers' associations of California will devote itself particularly to discussing the methods used by the different associations and to planning means for securing closer co-operation among the retail grocers of the country.

Plans will be perfected so that the retail grocers can escape the domination of manufacturers who allow their goods to be sold at prices that leave no profit.

Plans will be perfected to make it harder for dead beats to defraud members.

Leading merchants of many communities will discuss matters in which all retail grocers will be interested.

Stockton will uphold its reputation for hospitality. The visiting delegates and their wives will find that they will be splendidly entertained outside of convention hours.

Every affiliating association is entitled to two delegates at large; an additional delegate for every ten members up to fifty, and an additional delegate for every fifty members in excess of fifty.

All grocers in communities that have no affiliating association are entitled to attend the convention on becoming members of the State Grocers' Association.

Those interested should address Frank B. Connolly, secretary, 456 Montgomery street, room 413.

CAN MAINTAIN PRICES.

Manufacturer Can Restrain Cutter From Interfering With His Trade.

A short time ago the Advocate noted the fact that the Crescent Manufacturing Co. had successfully enjoined the Leahy Bros. Co. of Seattle from cutting the price of their baking powder. The Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association wrote the Crescent Manufacturing Co. asking for a full account of what had taken place. The attorneys of this firm, Messrs. Benson, Hall & Higgins, sent the association a letter which explains the matter fully.

It is to be noted that an agreement to maintain prices on the part of Leahy Bros. was purely an oral one. It is also to be noted, however, that the Crescent Baking Powder Co. has now requested a written agreement from the firms to whom they sell their goods.

The letter explaining the situation is as follows:

Seattle, Wash, June 28, 1905.

Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association, San Francisco, Cal.

Gentlemen: Your letter to the Crescent Manufacturing Company of this city inquiring about their legal controversy with Leahy Brothers over the maintenance of their special price on their goods, has been referred to me for answer. The facts are as follows:

The Crescent Manufacturing Company had an oral contract with Leahy Brothers, by the terms of which Leahy Brothers agreed to maintain the retail price on the Crescent Manufacturing Company's goods, according to the schedule established by the Crescent Manufacturing Company. Leahy Brothers, after having sold out the stock of Crescent products originally secured from the Crescent Manufacturing Company and being unable to secure more of these goods directly from the Crescent Manufacturing Company because of difficulties with the wholesalers and retailers here, purchased a large quantity of the goods from a wholesale house, and advertised them at cut prices.

The Crescent Manufacuring Company then began a suit against Leahy Brothers, in which they sought to enjoin the retail firm from cutting the price of the goods, and in which they also sought damages for the breach of contract to maintain the price. After a thorough investigation of the facts, Leahy Brothers' attorney, evidently realizing that the case would eventually result in a judgment against Leahy Brothers, advised a compromise, and by stipulation the Superior Court here, entered a decree permanently enjoining Leahy Brothers from violating the Crescent Company's retail prices, and taxed them with the costs of the action, the Crescent Manufacturing Company waiving its further claim for damages in consideration of the settlement of the case without a contest.

From the foregoing statement you will see that the matter was settled without a trial, and that the decree in the case does not therefore carry the weight of a judicial decision of the matter in controversy. There can be no doubt, however, that had the case proceeded to trial it would have resulted in a judgment against Leahy Brothers, both for the injunction and damages,

A SQUARE DEAL.

Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association Will Guard Against Injustice to Manufacturers.

(By H. W. Thurlow, Sec'y.)

The permanent value of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association to its members depends upon having every manufacturer in the country know that he is going to get a square deal from its management.

The retail grocers are not making a satisfactory or a fair profit on some lines of goods. It is the chief purpose of our organization to back up the manufacturer who seeks to correct this evil.

To help the manufacturer who helps us, we must bring the power of our organization to bear so that goods that are protected are given preference over goods the prices of which can be cut. This action will, of course, hurt the sale of the goods that can be cut. This injury will, however, be only temporary, providing the manufacturer of these goods realizes soon enough that he is hurting his trade by being careless of the interests of the retail grocers whom he expects to sell his goods for him.

This organization was created by retail grocers.

Primarily, its purpose is to assist its retail grocer members.

Secondly, its purpose is to assist those manufacturers who seek to better the conditions of the retail grocery trade.

In bringing about these conditions we will frequently come in contact with firms who oppose us either actively by encouraging cutters or passively by not attempting to interfere with the cutters. If the firms in the same line of business would align themselves with us to better conditions we would unquestionably back them up.

At the same time, no act of this organization will be taken against a firm unless some definite good is expected to come out of the action. No action will be taken against any firm for any personal reason. No action will be taken against any firm in order to advantage some other firm unless it be as we have outlined, but that this firm has placed itself on the side of the retail grocers and is seeking to help the grocer to secure better profits.

Where manufacturers desire to maintain a retail selling price on their goods and demand of the retail trade that they maintain a certain fair selling price it is possible to maintain that price.

We expect to make it easier for these firms to maintain these prices by giving them the co-operation of the associated retail grocers throughout the Coast.

This office was instituted in order that the various associations be kept informed as to conditions. It will be our purpose to perform this work fairly and without favor.

Whenever the manufacturer finds that a grocers' association is opposed to a certain policy he may be following, his first impulse is usually to find fault with the association.

These manufacturers usually change

San Francisco's Need.

How the Pitiful Weakness That at Present Afflicts the Association Can Be Corrected.

San Francisco's organization is at present an aggregation of units that do not act together.

This is its weakness. This is the reason why it has not been able to accomplish nearly so much for its members as the organizations in other cities.

This could easily be corrected.

It was with the idea of correcting this that a body of eleven men, headed by Frank B. Connolly agreed to allow their names to be presented as candidates for directors. At least fifty-six retail grocers who attended the annual meeting wanted this course taken. If the seventy-five who voted in opposition to it were to be asked their ideas, it would be found that at least fifty of them were anxious to have the conditions of handling the Association changed, while the remaining twenty-five wouldn't care one way or the other as long as their liquor license was kept down to $84 per year. At least 100 members who did not attend wanted conditions changed.

The only way the grocers of San Francisco can be brought to act together would be by having a secretary whose sole duty would be to go from one member to the other and keep them in touch with the work that all are interested in.

This secretary could get together a list of the bad accounts of the members and then serve as the agent for each member in seeing that the collection of those bills was properly attended to.

The secretary could insure that all the members would unite in giving the same treatment to some special article. In this way the grocers of San Francisco would be made a wonderful power in securing consideration from manufacturers who to-day are willing.

Since the annual meeting, held on Wednesday, June 28 a number of the more influential retail grocers have been considering the advisability of effecting an organization among the larger retail grocers who feel that it would pay them to unite in hiring a man to guard those interests which they have in common with every other retail grocer.

VERBAL CONTRACTS.

aws of California Make Them Binding Except in Certain Specified Cases.

Unless the law requires specially at it be in writing, the verbal agreeent of two parties constitutes a conact in California and is as binding as would be if reduced in writing.

A verbal agreement by a retail deal- to maintain a certain retail selling ice fixed by a manufacturer is a nding contract. The only reason why written contract is better is because is easier to verify and prove a writn contract than a verbal one.

What Must Be Written.

According to Section 1624 of the Code Civil Procedure, the following are e contracts that must be put in writg:

1. An agreement that is not to be erformed within a year.
2. A special promise to stand good r the debt of another (except where e goods are charged direct to the an guaranteeing the payment).
3. An agreement made upon conderation of marriage.
4. An agreement to sell something orth $250 or more unless the buyer ceives part of the goods or pays part the purchase price down.
5. A lease of more than a year or e sale of real property or an interit in real property. A written agreeent with an agent does not hold in ch cases unless the agent has writn authority to make the agreement.
6. An agreement to pay a commisn for the purchase or sale of real tate.
7. An agreement that is not to be erformed during the lifetime of the romisor or an agreement to make prosion for a person by will.

It is to be noted that an agreement maintain a certain selling price on oods is not mentioned among the class contracts that must be written.

Making a Contract.

The matter of what constitutes a ontract is of considerable interest. ections 158 to 1587, inclusive, provide s follows:

"One party may propose a thing, but he proposal must be accepted before contract is created.

"An acceptance must be absolute nd unqualified. If one party makes proposition, and the other replies ith a proposition on his part, there no contract, because the parties have ot mutually agreed upon anything.

"The proposal may be revoked at any time before it is accepted. It is revoked by giving notice of its withdrawal to the person to whom the proposal was made. It is also revoked, where a certain time was given in which to accept, by the expiration of that time without notice of acceptance; it is also revoked by the failure of the person to whom the proposal is made to do some act which is required of him as a condition preceding the acceptance; and a proposal is necessarily revoked by the death or insanity of the proposer.

"Any usual and reasonable mode of giving notice of acceptance of a proposal may be adopted, as, by mail, or in person, or by messenger, and it will be sufficient to constitute a contract. But the proposer may prescribe a certain mode in which notice of acceptance must be given, and the proposer will not be bound unless the mode prescribed by him is adopted."

PARCELS POST SYMPTOMS.

The day before its adjournment, the Senate adopted a resolution of Assemblyman Busick calling upon the California Congressional delegates at Washington to do their utmost to forward such legislation as would establish a parcels post at rates not to exceed those charged by the American Express Company to the British Postoffice, namely, 24c for packages of 11 pounds for all distances between New York and San Francisco.

This shows the seriousness of the situation. We would ask our Pacific Coast merchants as to how they could face the competition of Eastern department stores which buy in carload lots if those department stores could ship goods to the Coast at the rate of 24c for 1 pounds.

A NEVALA ENTHUSIAST.

Reno, Nev., March 5, 1905.

Editor Advocate—Please find check enclosed for subscription to your valuable paper. I have read with interest about the activity of the retail merchants of California to secure better laws. I think it would be a splendid thing if the Nevada merchants should ask similar consideration from the legislature of our State.

We have an association of the grocers of Reno that was formed some time since through the organizer for the California State Grocers' Association. It works very well and has been of considerable value to the grocers of our city. Yours truly,

H. A. SMITH.

PORTO RICO'S GROWTH.

Coffee Trade Being Studied by the Island Government.

The Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor has recently issued a bulletin showing in detail the growth of commerce between the two countries since Porto Rico became an American possession.

"In the seven years since 1898 when the treaty of Paris gave the island to the United States, Porto Rico's exports to this country have increased from $2,382,170 to $12,963,483, a gain of 560 per cent. Her imports from the United States have grown from $1,404,004 to $11,934,978, a gain of 850 per cent. Our purchases from the island dependency have increased at a steady rate, the figures for the last three years being as follows: 1902, $9,634,176; 1903, $10,152,923; 1904, $12,963,483. The high water mark of American exports to that country was reached in 1902, when the total was $12,195,297.

"Three-fourths of the total American imports from Porto Rico is sugar, the value of that commodity brought in last year being $9,491,757. Cigars and leaf tobacco worth about $2,000,000 were imported and the other principal items were fruit and coffee.

"Considering the superior quality of Porto Rican coffee it might be supposed that this article would figure extensively in the import list, but such is not the case. The amount last year was only $292,000. But the insular government has arranged to establish a coffee agency in New York with the object of acquainting the great American race of coffee drinkers with the merits of the Porto Rican berry.

"The work of the Porto Rico Co., 581-589 Howard street, San Francisco, in introducing Porto Rico coffee on the Pacific Coast is meeting with marked success. The trade have taken up the goods very generally and have found them thoroughly satisfactory.

This is especially true of the "Ponce de Leon" brand. High class trade that are willing to pay 40 cents a pound for coffee want quality and this they get in "Ponce de Leon."

Grocers are beginning to wonder who will get the $60 gold watches that the Porto Rico Co. has offered to give to the six retail grocers who may handle the most Ponce de Leon coffee between April 15 and August 15.

A GREAT FAIR.

Distinctive Features of Lewis & Clark Exposition.

One purpose of the exposition is the exploitation of the Pacific Northwest with a view to attracting settlers, and while the national aspect of the Fair is assured by government participation and representation on the part of fourteen States and the enterprise is made world-wide in its scope through participation of some sort by nearly every nation on the globe, the efforts of the Fair management have been directed primarily toward securing adequate representation of the resources of the Pacific Northwest.

Every State in this new country is represented by a building and a comprehensive display, while many counties in Oregon, and not a few in the adjoining States, have individual displays. As a result, it is possible for a prospective settler to make a careful study of the various districts of the Pacific Northwest before deciding where he wishes to locate, without the time and expense of a tour of the country.

PRAISE FOR SILL.

Berkeley "Advance" Sings the Praises of Alameda County's President.

In an editorial article discussing the possibilities for business success in Berkeley, the "Advance" says:

"The question of business openings in Berkeley, of what can be accomplished if a man has the capital and the sense, is one that interests outsiders more than any other. It can be answered best by telling the story of one business built up here until it is now a feature of the town.

"About four years ago Mr. S. J. Sill, whom I knew in San Diego, asked me whether there was an opening here for another grocery store. I replied, "There is room for you." Whether that reply had anything to do with it or not, he came and started.

A Modest Beginning.

"On October 20, 1900, Mr. Sill opened on the corner of Shattuck avenue and Allston way in a room 22 by about 75 feet, with a line of groceries exclusively. When he started it was S. J. Sill only. To-day it is the S. J. Sill Company, occupying 75 feet on Shattuck avenue and an entire half block on Allston way. Also they have three large warehouses, and are building a fine stable on McKinley avenue, near Allston. It takes ten teams to take care of their business.

"The story is practically told in those few sentences, but there are details of interest.

Reason for Delicacies.

"Why do the delicacy counters take up nearly all of the front-center floor space in Sill's store? At first thought one might regard this as an intrusion, but stop a bit. Sound business, you know! Groceries have to be cooked. People want them ready. There you are!

"So there is the big delicacy department with its dainties in infinite variety, and to back it up the kitchen and Chef Todhunter. I invaded his dominions with a pleasure not untinged with awe. He and his assistants are arrayed in spotless white. All about them is old-fashioned New England cleanliness—the kind that smells sweet. The Garland range glowed and glistened at me. Marvelously appetizing compounds seduced me on all sides. I paused only long enough to note the perfect order and system, and then flew from temptation.

Really a Wholesaler.

"A constant stream of groceries is flowing in and out of Sill's. The receiving department looks like a wholesale house, which it really is. The packing and shipping departments had some of the busiest men in them I ever saw.

"They have had to crowd the fruit and the vegetables into departments of their own on Allston way. What I noted here was the freshness of everything. One wants to eat because of it.

"In back are the three warehouses—zinc-lined, dry, clean, wholesome. 'A place for everything and everything in its place.' Ready!

"Now, why should hardware be sold with groceries? Well, I remarked before that groceries have to be cooked—hence, kitchens have to be furnished. Also, there are many little things for tools to do about the house, and many little conveniences for the housekeeper.

His Hardware Department.

"To meet these wants Sill set up his hardware department. To enumerate the things here would take a column. Maybe I'll get him to publish the list later, just to prove it. Stoves of all kinds, pots and pans, knives, baskets, paints and oils, tools, bathroom fixtures, useful inventions—most anything you want to save time and work. Just you look at it.

"All the modern facilities are in and about the establishment, too. There's the private exchange telephone, and the department switch phone, and the adding machine, and the glass case for the cashier, and the shoot-the-cash coming, and things, and things.

"Then, there's the man that did it. He's everywhere at once, but he never hurries. He has always his winning smile, and a flying word of humor, if you know him, but when you get down to business I love to watch his eye. They made him president of the big State Grocers' Association, by the way. That shows you.

"Briefly told, that is the record of one 'business opening' in Berkeley. There are plenty of others—for the same kind of men."

'FRISCO'S GREAT CHANCE.

Opportunity at Hand to Make the Grocery Business More Profitable.

An association, to be of real value to its members, should make their business more profitable.

It should save them from unfair competition.

It should increase profits.

It should collect bad bills.

It should change bad laws.

The opportunity is at hand for San Francisco to get all these things.

Some of them have been given to the city in spite of the opposition of a few men.

Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley and all the rest of the State will be glad to help San Francisco get the rest.

The best men of the trade must make the start.

They must figure on their association as if it were a part of their business that should be made to increase their gross receipts from 5 to 10 per cent.

They should then put in business men to run the Association who would run it on business principles and without regard to petty personal prejudices.

Most important of all, they should hire a manager, a secretary of whose judgment and ability there would be no question.

When this is done, there is hardly a grocer in San Francisco who would not be willing and glad to come into the organization.

There is to be an election of directors in June. The Advocate hopes the members will see to it that the best men in the city who can be induced to take the jobs will be secured for the board of directors.

CAN MAINTAIN PRICES.

and it was only in the face of certain defeat that Leahy Brothers, who are very vigorous fighters, consented to the entry of the decree against them.

The case for the plaintiff would have involved the difficulty attendant upon proof of the oral agreement. The Crescent Manufacturing Company has obviated any possibility of future difficulties on that score by requiring its customers to sign a written agreement to maintain the retail price established by the Crescent Manufacturing Company. There can be no question but such an agreement is legal and binding upon the retailer, and upon a violation of it he would be enjoined by the courts and damages resulting to the manufacturer from the breach of the contract by the retailer compensated by a judgment for damages.

I enclose a copy of the form of agreement now used by the Crescent Manufacturing Company, and if you will submit it to your attorney there I am positive that he will advise you that it can be enforced in your state as well as here in Washington.

It is an elementary proposition of law that a manufacturer has a proprietary interest in his own brands of goods; that he can sell his goods to whom he choose and upon whatever conditions he legally chooses to impose, that a minimum retail price is a condition for the sale of his goods the law gives him a right to fix, that a violation of that condition will be enjoined and remedied by the courts, and that a manufacturer may refuse to sell his goods to any one for any reason or no reason.

Yours very truly,
JOHN C. HIGGINS,
Attorney for Washington State Gro. Association.

MAINTAINING PRICES.

Possibility of Success in the San Francisco Market.

"You cannot maintain prices in San Francisco."

This is the position taken by the manufacturer who does not want to try to maintain prices. Then he adds:

"Look at Sapolio. The Empirium cuts it. Levin on Turk street cuts it. The Owl cuts it. And every once in a while some retail grocer out in the suburbs of the city cuts it. If Sapolio, which is practically a trust and has an ironclad contract with the jobbers which it enforces strictly, cannot maintain prices, how can you expect other manufacturerers to do so?"

Sapolio Maintains Prices.

This is exactly the situation.

If Sapolio cannot succeed, trying honestly and earnestly, others can hardly do so. But Sapolio does maintain its prices.

The manufacturer proves our cause from his own arguments. The retail selling price of Sapolio is 10 cents straight, 3 for 25 cents. Once in a while there is a cut in this price. The cut is a special and is offered for a few days only. The manufacturers of Sapolio do not let any infringement of the rule pass unnoticed but take immediate action towards having the cutting stopped, and they have always restrained it.

The habitual cutter soon finds that he cannot buy this Sapolio openly through any jobber. He is forced to secure his goods in indirect ways. This makes his Sapolio cost him more money than it would otherwise. He, therefore, sells his Sapolio as a rule at 10 cents straight, 3 cakes for a quarter, and the cutting is only occasional.

If the manufacturers of Sapolio did not give the care and attention to protecting the price of their goods the price of Sapolio in San Francisco would be generally 4 cakes for 25 cents and the cutters would be offering it at 5 cents as a leader.

A Schilling Example.

There are people who say: "Why even A. Schilling & Co. cannot maintain prices on their goods. We hear about cuts on Schilling's goods every once in a while."

Here is another instance in which the critic proves the weakness of his own cause.

The selling price of Schilling's goods is maintained.

The fact that the selling price of their goods is maintained is best proven by the fact that when a cut is made every one notices it and immediate action is taken to repress the cutting, and it is repressed.

Both these manufacturers maintain their prices without regard to the cooperation of the retail grocery trade.

They are conferring a great gift upon the grocery trade. They are doing it, however, as a matter of business policy because they know that when the grocery trade is assured a profit on any particular article, they are glad to sell it and as soon as the goods are generally cut and there is no profit on them, that the trade immediately begins to look for a substitute to put in their place.

A Flour Example.

Those manufacturers who do not think that it pays to maintain a fair selling price on their goods should study the success of the Grobe Mills.

They invested $350,000 in a great milling plant in San Francisco before they had 10 cents worth of trade in the market of Northern California. They made this enormous investment because they were certain that a policy that would insure the retail grocery trade a fair profit on goods of the first quality would win out and secure them business.

Because they could guarantee the grocery trade that their goods were not to be cut and because they "money backed" these goods and authorized the retail dealer to tell his customers that if the flour was not satisfactory they could bring it back without paying for what they had used, the grocers were not only willing to sell their goods, but push them in preference to those that did not pay a profit.

As a consequence, the Globe Mills in a very few months have taken a leading place among the mills of Northern California.

The flour has the largest sale of any flour in Alameda, Berkeley and Oakland. Practically every leading grocer of those cities recommends and sells "A-1" flour. In San Francisco alone, there are about 500 retail grocers who are recommending "A-1" flour to their trade in preference to every other flour. They are doing this because they get a profit on "A-1" which is denied them by the other mills.

A SQUARE DEAL.

their policy to comply with what the retail grocers desire when they find the retail grocers are in earnest. Until they find this is necessary it is usually the rule for them to declare that the associations are of no account and that the officers of the association are either foolish or dishonest and that sometimes they are both. This has happened more than once and will unquestionably happen again. Invariably when they have decided to make use of the association instead of opposing it, they admit the honesty of the association and the officers.

I call attention to this now so that the retail trade may know what to expect. Every act of this office will be taken only after careful consideration and due conference with the men to whom the grocers give the responsibility for the direction of their organization.

Attracting Trade

Murphy's Crazy Sale.

Murphy's Crazy Sale had a short life—only one short week. But that week was filled with business. The sale put customers in good humor and made an advertisement for Mr. Murphy that is doing work, says the Dry Goods Reporter.

Even to-day customers who enjoyed the sale and profited by it come to the store and say, "Murphy, when are you going to hold another crazy sale?"

Murphy's crazy sale originated in the brain of R. R. Murphy, of Austin, Minn.

Trade was undeniably dull and into Mr. Murphy's fertile brain and creative mind the "crazy sale" came as an inspiration.

What Murphy did was to give a discount on all purchases. That will not strike the reader as anything particularly original. Nor was it. It was in the "work-out" that Murphy turned the trick that gave his sale the name and showed that he was not as crazy as one might suppose. He worked the scheme something like the man in the insane asylum who was pushing a wheelbarrow along upside down. "My good man," said a visitor, "why don't you turn your wheelbarrow other side up?" "For a good reason," said the crazy man; "if I should turn it other side up somebody would fill it full of bricks."

And so with Murphy—there was method in his madness. He knew that if he gave the same discount on his goods each day the sale would be no different than any other clearing sale. And if he gave a certain discount on certain goods during certain hours it would be just like an hour sale, which he had previously held.

A Discount with Mystery.

He wanted something different, and he wanted enough mystery about the plan to keep people guessing. Without doing any gambling he was willing to appeal to a gambling spirit. And this is how Murphy worked it. At the beginning of each hour he whispered to his cashier: "The discount this hour will be so and so." He advertised that to obtain a discount a customer must purchase at least three items. In this way he increased the volume of business.

One woman was buying some goods; she had bought to the extent of $2.10. "Now," said the clerk, "if you buy one more item you will be entitled to a discount." "How much?" said the customer. "I can't tell you that," said the clerak, for I don't know myself."

So the woman, with the hopes of saving a little, bought a pair of stockings for 18 cents, making the bill $2.28. The discount during the hour was ten per cent, so her rebate amounted to 23 cents. She found that she actually obtained the stockings for nothing. And maybe she didn't talk! Maybe she didn't advertise Murphy's Crazy Sale!

Mr. Murphy varied the discount to suit himself. During the early morning hours, when trade was naturally small, the discount would be big. The next day, if people should swarm in during the same hour, the discount would be small.

Occasionally a "snag" would stick up, but Mr. Murphy always kept his word. If the discount happened to be 50 per cent and a customer insisted on buying a $40 suit, Mr. Murphy made the sale and stood the loss. But usually he could get around this. One customer who wanted a number of yards of carpet was shown something else she wanted until the big discount hour had passed.

Shuold Plan With Care.

If a merchant contemplated such a sale as this—and such a sale is almost sure to stir up a big excitement—he should plan it carefully. If he conducts a general store, it would be well to except such things as sugar and flour, or staples which are always sold at almost cost. If he buys country produce and sells it to town people at almost the same price he pays, he should except country produce.

The the merchant can make it necessary to buy three or four or five items, as he pleases, in order for his customer to obtain a discount.

It's a great scheme to induce people to make big purchases, and in such a sale it's a good plan to display your profit-makers so conspicuously that people can hardly get away from them.

If you have some good profit-makers, get them where people can't help seeing them, and be sure that the price ticket is attractive, without any discount.

THEY MEAN BUSINESS.

Retail grocers of Southern California should appreciate the aggressive method used by the Globe Grain and Milling Co. in protecting the price of their goods, say Secretary Paulding in his last "Report." These mills have sent the following letter to firms that have cut and it has invariably brought about satisfactory results:

Dear Sir: We have been informed that you are selling "A-1" Flour at less than the established retail selling price of $1.55 per one-fourth sack, and 80 cents per one-eighth sack. The above prices are stipulated by us, and are clearly understood by the trade in general, and we must ask you to kindly raise your prices accordingly.

Kindly reply to this letter, stating whether our information is correct or not, and if it is true that you have been offering it at less than the regular price, your aggreeableness to maintain prices. Yours truly,

Globe Grain and Milling Co.

Pertinent Suggestion for Employes.

The United States Cigar Store Company has issued a manual for the guidance of its employes, and it contains much advice that is just as good for other stores as it is for the U. C. S. Co. Here are a few epigrams from the book:

Say "Thank you" every time—say it cordially.

Never tire of taking pains to please.

Keep your hands clean all the while.

Once is enough for the same mistake.

Be a booster—knocking is a waste of time.

Make neatness a habit—it counts.

Every customer should have a reason for coming again.

Lift your work—anybody can hold down a job.

There is a good deal more to salesmanship than selling.

A good time to look pleasant is when a customer comes in.

Never forget that what a customer asks for he wants.

To get a customer's attention, give him yours.

Know your stock as well as you know your way home.

And above all, be cheerful, smile and say "Thank you."

The Lewis and Clark Exposition grounds have natural advantages which are far superior to sites for earlier fairs. The entrance gates are only fifteen minutes by street car from the down-town portion of the city, and open upon an exposition which is laid out charmingly and with such good taste that, while the buildings are not crowded together, the long miles of weary wanderings which visitors to earlier fairs recall so vividly are avoided.

COAST CROP CONDITIONS.

The weekly report of the United States Department of Agriculture of California says:

"The hay crop is the best for several years in all parts of the State. Fruit picking, drying, canning and shipping are in progress. In many communities yields are better than was expected a few weeks ago. The pear crop is much larger than was estimated. Apples give indications of a large yield. Grapes are advancing satisfactorily and there will be a very large yield. Olives are doing well."

SUGAR MARKET.

No change to report. Buying is very light.

New York, June 29th—Willett & Gray report:

Raws—Present general conditions, including favorable weather, cause the growing crop to have an overpowering influence everywhere. Even Cuba finds it to its advantage to let go the raw sugar, which sold a short time ago at higher price and several parcels of spot sugar put into warehouses at above 4½c are now coming out at 4¼c.

Refined—The recent reported declines have brought in a good buying demand for absolute wants and the refiners report a good business. As long as this continues there would seem to be no need for lowering quotations. The general trend of the sugar market being downward there is no probability of an advance for refined. It is probably well to carry a good supply for a while during the fruit season for current wants."

MAPLE SUGAR.

St. Johnsbury, Vt.—The Cary Maple Sugar Co. report:

"There is not much maple sugar in the hands of the farmers. Canadian farmers now hold their sugar for an advance."

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"There has been little trading going on, owing to the Fourth of July holidays, but Wednesday and Thursday showed some increase of activity again.

"The Eastern market is firmer and has advanced 30 points, and we are looking for an advance here in August and September.

"It is reported that the Brazilian crop will be considerably short of expectations, therefore we regard coffee as a good holding at present prices.

"Salvador reports a full crop."

New York, June 29th—Willet & Gray report:

"European and Brazilian markets hold firm; Europe because of the large decline in stocks and Brazil because of the higher exchange and the unwillingness of holders to give way. Reports from Europe show that dealers there must buy soon no matter what the price is, as they have not enough trading assortment. Brazil is aware of this and it furnishes the best reason for holding firm."

New York, June 27th—Volney Green & Sons report:

"Prices have ruled firm with holders asking a premium for desirable chops with roasting merit. Prices in Brazil are too high to look attractive. Jobbers are firm and Mocha is ¼c higher."

TEA.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"It is almost out of the question to obtain first-class Japan tea. The second crop is reported 50 per cent short owing to the excessive rains.

"In view of the shortage it is impossible for prices to remain long on the present low basis.

"Shanghai reports a 5 per cent increase in Gunpowder teas. Congous and Oolongs are unchanged in price."

New York, June 27—John B. Brown & Co. report: "Late cables state that Congou teas have advanced 10 per cent over prices ruling ten days ago, and new crop of Pingsueys were being purchased at Shanghai at from 10 to 15 per cent less than last season. The offerings at the London Public auction during the month of May compared with the offerings for the same month last year were as follows:

India Teas, 1905 offerings, 137,000 packages, as against 118,000 packages in 1904. Prices average ¾ cent per pound less than in 1904.

Ceylon Teas, 1905 offerings, 120,000 packages, as aginst 86,000 for 1904. The price averaged ¾ cent less than in 1904.

Java Teas—14,000 packages are offered with strong prices for desirable kinds.

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The market on Jap rice remains firm, the advance is firmly maintained, and sellers pass a sale rather than shade even 1-16. It looks as if prices will be maintained until new crop; in fact, as the new crop draws near we would not be surprised to see an advance over present prices, as we think new crop Jap will sell at a basis of $3 f. o. b. New Orleans or Country Mills, which would mean $3.55 San Francisco.

"Other grades of rice are firm, fancy Carolina rice is hard to obtain and we look for another advance in this grade.

"Honolulu rice is higher, asking price $3.50, and this grade is now selling freely; in fact it is the best value in the market.

"China, No. 2, is higher, and No. 1 is easier."

Goldboro, N. C., June 24—The trade are now buying according to their actual wants. Prices are well maintained and are tending upward.

Charlestown, S. C.—Samuel G. Stoney reports: "The stocks of Carolina clean rice are very small. At the present rate of movement there will probably be a cleanup within six weeks. Reports from the growing crops are not as satisfactory as last week."

DRIED FRUITS.

The only receipts so far are of apricots. Those that are coming in are small but are eagerly taken up. A few apples are coming in.

Dixon—There has been a large loss of apricots in this and adjoining communities from lack of help to gather the fruit.

Eureka—The north wind has been shaking off the apples. The winter variety which usually are ripe enough by July 1st for cooking are now not more than half grown.

Fresno—Superintendent of Horticulture Shell says: "Peaches will not yield the crop estimated a short time since. Tomatoes show a total failure on account of what is called tomato wilt. The outlook for raisins is for a small crop. From the present indications the honey output will be light this year."

HONEY.

Santa Ana—The expectations of a large crop are going to be disappointing. This year's honey yield will be below the average. Bee men place the crop at from 300 to 400 tons instead of the 600 tons that was first expected. The quality of the crop is very fine.

BEANS.

J. K. Armsby Co. report:

"Limas are selling at $5.75 f. o. b. south. The prices ordinarily in the San Francisco market would be $5.90. They are being quoted at $5.80 and $5.85. The holdings are now very much reduced. Local holders have been shading prices slightly. The high class beans are scarce. Bayos are higher. Small white are out of buyers hands. Large whites are scarce and strong.

CANNED GOODS.

Baltimore, June 24th—H. H. Taylor & Sons report:

"While the tomato market is likely to become much stronger within the next month or so, it is quite evident that there are tomatoes enough carried over to save the market from any tendency of a rapid change of price for some months to come. Many holders of tomatoes are feeling much stronger from their talk on prices, but brokers are glad to get bonafide orders on canned tomatoes at 65c in round lots. Nominally, the market is on a higher basis, although a few offerings are put out from 67½c to 70c by the packers. Undoubtedly fancy hand-packed tomatoes for future deliveries are a good purchase when bought for about 75c from reliable packers."

Baltimore, Md., June 24th—Thos. J. Meehan & Co. report:

"The tomato market has shown stronger upward tendency for both spot and future deliveries. The fact that the jobbers have made liberal purchases at advanced prices causes holders to believe that the activity will continue until next fall. Sellers demand 67½c for 3-lb. standards."

Perrymen, Md., June 24th—J. F. Towner reports:

"The market on tomatoes is improving daily. The acreage is small and plants are not looking well. There is little doubt but it will reach 75c before fall."

CANNED SALMON.

The Alaska Packers' Association, through the J. K. Armsby Co., have announced opening prices on early 1905 pack of Alaska salmon as follows:

Alaska red, one pound, talls, $1.00.
Alaska King, one pound, talls, 95c.
Alaska Cohoe, one pound, talls, 85c.
Alaska Pinks, one pound, 75c.

In a statement to the trade the J.

K. Armsby Co. say that all of their 1904 pack is sold out with the exception of a few Alaska red. The scant supply of spot goods and the growing demand is the cause for the early naming of 1905 prices. Stocks of salmon are low throughout the world. In Liverpool, salmon returns for 1905 show 550,084 cases on hand on June 1, 1905, as against 688,164 cases in 1904.

Stocks in the hands of jobbers on the Coast are low, but business has been backward until June. Since June, sales have been abnormally heavy.

Conditions have favored the Alaskan canneries this year, since the weather allowed preparations to be made without interruption.

Many of the Pacific Coast salmon canneries are closed. The Sacramento River canneries have not put up any fish this season. The run is light on the Columbia River, since much of the fish are sold to the dealers to be shipped fresh. For these reasons, the total pack is not likely to be above the average, notwithstanding the probable heavy output of sockeyes. It is now positively assured that the Columbia River canneries are all heavily oversold and will be short on their deliveries.

Portland, July 2nd—Run of salmon is much greater than at any time during the present season. The run of steel heads is especially great. The cold storage men continue to bid up on large size chinooks and are getting the supply.

Anacortes, June 29th—The run of spring salmon grows better. There is no truth in the story of a 50-mile school of sockeyes in the daily papers.

Vancouver, B. C., June 29th—Sockeye packing is in progress all along the British Columbia Coast. All the canneries expect large packs.

Portland, June 29th—The run of salmon is increasing. This is a great relief to the Columbia River packers.

Bellingham, June 29th—An order for 2,200 tons of salt salmon has been awarded by the Japanese government to the West Coast Commercial Co. The price is $75,000.

SARDINES.

New York, June 27th—Jed Frye & Co. report:

"The catch of fish is light for this season of the year. With normal summer buying a firmer feeling should result. Last sales were at $2.20 and $2.25 for ¼-oils and ¾-mustards f. o. b. Eastport."

New York, June 27th—B. O. Bowers & Co. report:

"Factories are practically closed on account of lack of fish. Nearly everything packed up to the present has entered into consumption. Prices vary in accordance with brands and quality. Oiled sardines quoted at $2.25 and $2.30, ¾-mustards at $3.25."

SPICES.

New York, June 27th—John Clarke reports:

"The market continues active. There are indications of unlooked for shortages in pepper crops, which were already less than estimated."

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York—Aspergren & Co. report:

"The situation to-day is considerably stronger than it was three weeks ago at 2c per gallon higher prices. Everything points to better times. There is still a possibility of further liquidations although it is highly improbable."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Martin's New York State factory cheese, June make, is cheaper, but we hardly think that prices will go below present quotations."

"Mad as a Hatter."

What is the derivation of the phrase "Mad as a hatter?" One explanation is that it was originally French, "As mad as an oyster" (huitre), that bivalve being supposed to be extremely unintellectual. Another theory is that the phrase had reference to Collins, the English poet, author of the "Ode to the Passions." He was a hatter at Chichester, and it has been said that the lunatics with whom he was confined at one time called him "the hatter" and that the phrase originated thus.

Cigars and Tobacco

The sale of the Optimo cigars of A. Santrella & Co. keeps right on increasing by leaps and bounds and has nearly reached the million-a-month mark. Forty-three cases were shipped last week from Tampa for Ehrman Bros. & Co. of this city.

The question of establishing a tobacco monopoly in Russia has entered on a definite phase, the Government having at last decided to undertake the monopoly. In financial circles it is maintained that this measure will be a guarantee for a foreign loan, but a highly placed official now says that the question of a tobacco monopoly was discussed long before the foreign loan came before the Government.

Russia and Mexico are heavy consumers of cigarettes, but they are not to be compared with the Philippines. In the archipelago every man, woman and child uses the paper rolls. Nearly two-thirds use ready-made cigarettes, while over one-third make their own with French rice paper and native picadura. The ready-made cigarettes are manufactured almost exclusively in Manila, that city producing more than 95 per cent of the output. The daily output runs between 600,000 and 700,000 packages, the latter being of two sizes, the small, which contains 24, and the large, which contains 30 cigarettes. The average the year through is 17,000,000 a day, or 5,000,000,000 a year.

Tobacco says: Manufacturers of Porto Rican cigars are experiencing all sorts of difficulties in getting out their goods rapidly enough to fill the orders that are pouring in on them from every direction. A letter from a manufacturer in Porto Rico says that they have had an unusually rainy season, which has made it impossible to do any packing at times. That particular manufacturer attributes practically all his difficulties to that cause.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco writes that journal under date of June 17th: "It is difficult to adequately chronicle the business of A. Santaella & Co. The growth is so rapid from week to week the astonishing notes of conditions last week seem tame when applied to this week's state of affairs. Really the marvelous business of this up-to-date progressive firm appears to be only in its infancy. Plans are drawn and the contracts awarded for the 100-foot addition to their handsome new brick factory, fourteen windows deep and fifty-six on a side at present. This is their fourth factory since they began business in Tampa, about five years ago, with forty cigar makers. 'The best there is and all the time,' is the Santaella idea. It would profit all manufacturers."

The Department of Commerce and Labor has received from the Japanese Department of Finance a report on the import trade of the empire in tobacco for the years 1902 and 1903. From this report the effect of the monopoly of that country on tobacco, which has been in operation for six years, is shown. During the year 1902 Japan imported 4,564,318 pounds of tobacco, which was valued at $478,408; in 1903, 5,707,843 pounds, valued at $588,589, and in 1904, 5,656,739 pounds, valued at $719,352. During the latter period the United States supplied the major portion of the imports, her shipments amounting to 5,649,634 pounds, valued at $718,258. The Philippine Islands sent 6758 pounds, valued at $904; Turkey, 202 pounds, valued at $107, and other countries furnished 135 pounds, valued at $83. As a result of the action of the Japanese Government in taking over the control of the numerous cigarette factories in the Empire, the importations of cigarettes into that country have been reduced considerably in the last three years. During 1903 Japan imported 8,479,000 pounds of cigarettes, valued at $10,678; in 1903, 4,291,000 pounds, valued at $7,420, and during the calendar year of 1904 imported only 2,107,000 pounds, which were valued at $4,393.

Tobacco cultivation in Australia was first attempted in the early sixties. In Queensland, where, in the southern part, on the river flats, there has been much encouragement, and where cultivation will be carried on with renewed activity this year. The climate conditions are, however, more favorable than in Victoria or New South Wales. In these two States the climate is exceedingly dry, with no dew or humidity, such as there is in the Eastern part of the United States and in the Connecticut Valley, although the soil is very similar, and such influences have, no doubt, something to do with the successful or unsuccessful raising of the plant. In Queensland, one-half of the State lies in the Tropics, and the climate, although warm, is free from the scorching hot winds which prevail in Victoria during a great part of the summer, and dry up and burn almost everything in the way of delicate crops unless they are irrigated by artificial means. The labor question in Queensland is responsible to a great extent for the want of enterprise, as the climate in many parts is totally unsuitable for Europeans, on account of the malarial fevers which prevail at certain seasons of the year.

A TRADE BUILDER.

When recommending a certain line of goods to his customer, the grocer should have two things in view. The first of these is the profit the goods pay. The second is, the satisfaction the customer will get out of them.

It is very poor policy for the grocer to sell a customer something with which he knows the customer will not be satisfied no matter how large the immediate profit may be. At the same time, it is just as foolish for the retailer to sell articles that carry no profit just because his customers happen to demand that particular brand, especially if there is some other article equally as good on which the retailer gets a fair profit. When an article combines both advantages or profit and satisfaction the dealer who handles the goods is fortunate.

Because their Diamond "C" Hams and Bacon possess those qualities, the Cudahy Packing Co. have won out the success they have secured. Consumers on the Pacific Coast are very exacting as to quality. They know what they want and why they want it. This is particularly true in regard to hams and bacon. This fact accounts for the enormous popularity of the Diamond "C" goods.

Dealers who give their trade Diamond "C" products, will find that they are satisfied. The quality of these goods is such as to occasion comment from the consumer. As a result, one sale makes several more since satisfied customers send their friends to the store that handles these goods.

RECOGNITION FOR GROCERS.

Mayor of Spokane Proclaims Grocers' Day a Legal Holiday.

The retail grocers of Spokane evidently occupy a very important place in the commercial make-up of their city. The Grocers' Association is made up of the leading business men of Spokane who have used their influence to assist materially in the advancement of many local improvements. For this reason, the Mayor proclaimed their "Grocers' Day" a public holiday. The proclamation of the Mayor reads as follows:

"Whereas, The day for the celebration of the annual picnic of the Spokane Grocers' Association is generally recognized by the business men of our city as a holiday, and special inducements and opportunities are on that day offered for the entertainment and enjoyment of the business men and their employes, and,

"Whereas, The Retail Grocers' Association has made elaborate preparations to entertain the people of Spokane at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, on June 20, 1905.

"Therefore, I. G. B. Koontz, acting mayor of the city of Spokane, do hereby proclaim Tuesday, June 20, a holiday."

The list of games were 22 in number. The prizes were numerous and valuable and attracted a great deal of attention. As so many of the business houses closed, people generally took advantage of the fact to attend the picnic. As a result, it was the most successful ever given, under the auspices of the Spokane Retail Grocers' Association. A handsome souvenir program was printed which included much interesting matter.

The officers of the Spokane Association are as follows: E. F. Parmeter, President; U. G. Allen, first Vice President; S. B. Crandall, second Vice President; E. N. Cory, Secretary; C. Anderson, Treasurer. Directors: E. E. Parmeter, C. Anderson, P. Nelson, E. N. Cory and John Gifford.

A VALUABLE ACCOMPLISHMENT.

If dealers could stop al overweight in putting up packages the net profits at the end of the year would be much more satisfactory. This is why the Bond Automatic Weigher is coming into such popular favor. It is absolutely accurate in its work, and multiplies the operator's speed five-fold.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco—William Rohrs, about twenty-one years old, who works for his father, George Rohrs, in a grocery store at 1701 Jones street, was recently arrested by Captain George W. Hazen of the secret service for passing a raised bill upon Frank Deiling, a clerk for J. Knubel, a grocer at 911 McAllister street. Rohrs says he was trying to get rid of a raised bill that had been passed on him.

Los Angeles—C. F. Young has sold his interest in the grocery store to his former partner, L. O. Powers. Mr. Young retires from business on account of ill health.

San Diego—The case against Mrs. E. O. Chancellor, charged with attempting to defraud C. E. Munro in the sale of the Central grocery was dismissed as soon as it was investigated. It developed that the whole difficulty arose from ignorance of an amendment to the old statutes requiring certain formalities to be observed in the sale of a stock of goods. As neither the judge, the district attorney nor the attorneys for either side knew of the existence of the law until it was brought to their attention by this case, the court thought it was hardly fair to hold Mrs. Chancellor criminally liable for her lack of knowledge. The law referred to compels a person who has a stock of merchandise which he is about to dispose of, to post notices of such intention to sell at least five days before the deal is completed.

Mears, secretary of the Oregon Wholesale Grocers' Association, and secretary of the North Pacific Coast Jobbers and Manufacturers' Association, will represent both of the North Pacific States. P. J. Gabel has succeeded Gabel & Eyler, grocers, at 516 Broadway. T. H. Pichette, grocer at the corner of Seventh avenue and James street, has started another grocery at the corner of Seventh avenue and Madison street. E. Moore, formerly of 318 Union street, and H. J. Hartsell of 324 Union street, have combined their stocks of teas, coffees and groceries at the latter place under the style of the Berry Tea and Coffee Company.

The recently organized association among the bakers of Tacoma was disrupted at a rather stormy session held last week. The bakers announced a new regulation of twenty-eight loaves to the dollar for the retail trade, with no bread taken back, and the grocers requested that the association take steps to make a five-cent straight charge to the consumer, eliminating the practice of giving six loaves for a quarter. This request was never acted upon, however, owing to the dissolution of the association.

Tacoma—Chas. M. Miller's grocery store was robbed recently. Nearly fifty poems bearing the title of "Watch Tacoma Grow" have been submitted for the prize offered by the Retail Grocers' Association. The idea has made a popular hit with the public.

PREVENTS SEASICKNESS.

It is one thing to find a food that will stay with you and quite another thing to find one that will stay in you. This is the kind of a food that interests the ocean traveler.

Here is where shredded wheat has them all "beat." The popularity of shredded wheat biscuit and triscuit as a food for ocean voyagers is a development of the last few years and on a recent trip to Europe, Mr. A. J. Porter, vice president of the Natural Food Co., had the satisfaction of demonstrating for himself the value of the food on shipboard.

Both going and returning, Triscuit was the dietetic mainstay of the majority of passengers. Both the biscuit and the triscuit were on the breakfast menus of the White Star and German Lloyd ships. It was interesting to watch the avidity with which the passengers devoured the Triscuits either as sandwiches or as toast when they learned they were a sure and never-failing preventive of sea sickness. To eat them not only meant stomach comfort, but they furnished the strength-giving nutriment so much needed.

THE DISSATISFIED ONES.

Lives Spoiled by a Fruitless Longing For Other Fields.

Everywhere we find people who are dissatisfied with their lot, who think they would be happy if they could only get somewhere else, into some other occupation. They see only the thorns in their own vocations, the roses in those of others. The shopgirl would be an actress; the cook would change places with her mistress, the butler with his master. The lawyer would be a doctor, the doctor a lawyer. The farmer bemoans his hard lot and longs to exchange his life of drudgery for the career of the merchant or the manufacturer. The country boy leans on his plow handle and looks toward the city with hungry eyes. If he could only be free from the slavery of the farm, he thinks, wear good clothes, get hold of a yardstick and stand behind a counter! Happiness, opportunity, fortune—everything, lies yonder; around him misery, toil, poverty—nothing desirable. A city youth behind a counter or sitting on a high office stool rails at fate for confining him to the limits of brick walls and the dreary details of merchandise, buying and selling, or of figuring up accounts. Oh, if he could only go to sea and travel to distant countries, become a captain in the navy or skipper or owner of a merchant vessel! Life would be worth something then. But now—

How much energy has been lost, how many lives have been spoiled by this fruitless longing for other fields, other opportunities out of reach. What is the use of sighing or dreaming of what you would do if you were in somebody else's place? What is the use of trying to reach into your neighbor's pasture when you do not know what bitterness may lie at the root of it, hidden from your sight, when you have never tried to develop or to call out the sweetness and juiciness which thrive in your own?—O. S. Marden in Success.

The Rented Babies of Paris.

The written law provides for every child in France that the government supplement the home education and when necessary replace it entirely, but as a matter of fact there are scores of children, in Paris especially, who have shaken free of their parents or been cast off by them and who live a vagabond existence, playing hide and seek with the officers of the law. Among this band the commonest offense is begging, though generally there is some older person back of the whining specimens one meets with on the streets. The fruitful incomes in this profession are obtained only through children. During the nights between New Year's and Christmas a baby in long clothes, especially if it be delicate looking, rents for as high as $5 or $6. His brothers and sisters from one to five years old bring $2, while those still older are worth a dollar on the coldest days.—Harper's Magazine.

How to Cure Nail Biting.

Nail biting is not always a willful habit to be cured by some little punishment, but sometimes an indication of the first stage of nervous degeneration. The habit should be treated as a disease. It affects the general health, as the pieces of sharp nail are swallowed and may cause appendicitis. A little bitter aloes rubbed on the finger tips will cure it in children.

BUYING FUTURES.

Important Matter That Retail Gro- Should Study Carefully.

Grocers all over the country are beginning to question the wisdom of buying futures.

A leading San Francisco jobber said recently:

"Leave out the folly of a business man's gambling in the prices of food products, and most retail grocers lose money by buying futures. Some men have failed through being unable to meet current bills because they had so much money tied up in canned goods that when they faced an unexpected loss they were not able to make good.

"Even when they win, the gains on futures are not likely to be nearly so much as they could make by discounting their bills."

The grocers of Seattle have declared strongly against futures.

ALCAZAR.

There has been another successful week at this theater where "Up York State" is being presented. It is extremely funny and is replete with amusing instances that bring out the strength of the Alcazar Stock Co. The Fourth of July picnic scene appeals to every American and the love story that runs through the play is full of interest. The next production will be "On Probation." This is one of the best known and most successful of Wm. H. Crane's comedies.

MAJESTIC.

"Secret Service" has been produced this week. The story is one that thrills the heart of every patriot. The play is being presented very effectively by the Majestic Stock Company. "Barbara Fritchie" is to follow with James Neil and Edythe Chapman in the leading roles. They will be supported by a strong company.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"The Belle of Richmond" has been providing satisfactory entertainment for the patrons of this theater. The production of an interesting love story is thoroughly tangled in the maze of modern melodrama and the audience is kept interested to the final curtain. Georgia Drew Mendum and George Parsons play the most important roles and made a decided hit. "The Turkish Texas" is to follow next.

TIVOLI.

Rosemary Glosz has scored an immediate success as Angelo in the Tivoli production of "Amorita." This is a tuneful, jolly comic opera with the beautiful scenery and gorgeous and picturesque costumes of Florence and a strong company and a big chorus, it provides a very effective evening's entertainment. Barron Barthold has the tenor role and Miss Hemmi sings the part of Amorita. The cast includes the full Tivoli company.

CENTRAL.

Patriotism has held full sway at the Central this week where "Chattanooga" is being produced with all the noise and enthusiasm of that splendid war play. The battle scene requires the assistance of quite an army of soldiers who are supplied from the ranks of the local militia. On Monday "The Heart of the Klondike" will be put on.

FISCHER'S.

There has been the usual variety in the performance at this O'Farrell street theater. A long program is made up of clever headliners. There is a matinee and two performances each evening.

CHUTES.

A thoroughly diversified performance is presented at the big free theater. In addition to the charming little Chiquita there is a strong program of variety artists, together with various interesting novelties on the anamatiscope. Bigney still dives from his little platform into a 5-foot tank of water and the circle swing and other specialties supply additional attractions.

EXPECT GREAT THINGS.

Eastern Manufacturers Look Forward to Pacific Coast Expansion.

"The manufacturers throughout the East expect great things of the Pacific Coast during the next few years," said John H. Spohn, this week. Mr. Soohn has just returned from a trip through the leading commercial centers of the country and found all eyes centered on the Pacific Coast.

"I was able to confer with our various principals and found them well posted as to general conditions. They were all pleased with the increased business we had been able to do for them during the past year and were hopeful for a still greater increase during the next twelve months.

"The population of all the leading cities of the coast show material increase. The opening up of new mining districts and the building of new railroads is developing cities in various territories. The necessity of a greater population to meet the growing demands of the Pacific Islands and the trade that we may expect from the Orient particularly after the cessation of hostilities by Russia and Japan, are all looked forward to as causes for a new era of growth and prosperity for all mercantile interests."

Clerk's Corner

A TALE WITH A MORAL.

"Guess I'll quit the grocery business. Don't seem to be anything in it."

The speaker, ordinarily, was a likely looking young fellow—clear skinned, bright-eyed, well built, neatly dressed—but the expression of his face at the moment was dismal—it spoiled the prospect, so far as he was concerned.

His audience of one was his boss—the proprietor of a small but growing grocery store in a good neighborhood. This personage was a modernized picture of your Uncle Samuel—smooth shaven except for the goatee on his chin; lank and muscular of frame, shrewd but kindly of expression.

"That idea has been bothering you all day, hasn't it?" asked the proprietor.

"Yes—several days for that matter."

"So I judged. Your face has been eloquent all day of a settled grudge against something—I did not know whether you had been taking a poison squad' diet and got your liver out of kilter, whether you wanted a raise or whether you were in debt, in love or in doubt about the doctrine of the trinity. One thing I did notice was that customers took one look at you and then passed along to another clerk. You did not seem to invite confidence nor business."

"If my work was not satisfactory I suppose you would have told me so," rejoined the young man sulkily.

"I would, my boy—at an early opportunity," rejoined the elder. "I realize, however, that human folks have their limitations. In my time I have seen much good business spoiled because the man doing it had quarreled with his wife at breakfast. I have seen good men spoiled by being given too much freedom of judgment and by being given too little. I have noticed that a man will get over his little internal disorders if he is given a good diet, plenty of sleep and air and homoeopathic doses of wise counsel in sugar-coated pills. Here is one for you: When you allow that comely face of yours to be clouded by a frown all day, you lost as much ground in the retail business as you have gained in several weeks. The women will forget to tell each other, as they have done, that they like to trade at my store because my clerks are polite, prompt, helpful and not at all intrusive. I heard one woman tell another right here in the store that she never felt that my men were working for me—they seemed to be working for her. That was a pretty good ad and I liked it. You were waiting upon her at the time. To-day she took one look at you, hesitated, then came to me to give her order. Had any trouble with her?"

Why She Passed Him.

"Mrs. ——, you mean? Why, no; I had no trouble with her. I noticed she passed me by, too. Yesterday I sold her a good order. Did she tell you why she did not come to me with her order to-day?"

"No," smiled the old man. "You glowered at her as if she were an ogre. I took her order and she left in good spirits, although I had a jumping toothache myself. She did not find that out, though. When she left I began to look over things. I have left the care of that corner window to you. Generally speaking, you have made it one of the best drawing cards in the store. To-day, I found it sadly neglected. There were cobwebs on the ceiling, dust on the window ledge and the panes were not exactly bright. The display had not been kept up."

"That's a homeopathic dose, too, I suppose," said the young man.

"Certainly—sugar coated, too, as I told you that I had left our best window in your care. I mentioned only one or two defects, because I know that you can be developed into a first-rate business man, but you need treatment, same as I did at your age. Your sour visage and unkempt window today indicated to me that something was wrong with you. Having a toothache myself, I sympathized with you, but I kept my troubles to myself. Our customers have their own, too, I suppose. Anyhow, they don't care for ours. We have to please them, and that is the whole subject."

The Lesson Benefited.

"Wonder you did not 'fire' me, if that was your notion," said the clerk.

"You fail to follow me, or you would not say that," was the reply. "I have seen dumb brutes and soulless machines acting in such contrary ways at times that I am not quite ready to condemn a man for being unreasonable, occasionally. You are not under obligations to stay with me, if you can better your position by changing. But I would not advise you to quit the grocery trade. It is a magnificent business and it is calling for the best men all the time. I want men who can learn it, grow into it and maintain its standards. The personal end of that proposition is the important part. The trade calls for merchandising in its most advanced lines and that means that you and I must be merchants. That is the side we must show to the world. Our personal affairs do not much interest them. Show them the bright side and they will be attracted."

"Guess I'll try it awhile longer, anyhow," said the young man, after a pause.

"Don't forget the window," said the proprietor, as he started for the dentist's office.—New England Grocer.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

Brooklyn.—The Grocers' Association is to hold its thirty-third annual picnic on July 19th. The ladies will have an eagle target shoot.

Syracuse, N. Y.—The State Association is to hold its convention here on August 7th, 8th and 9th. Elaborate preparations are being made for the entertainment of the delegates and their wives outside of convention hours.

Cleveland, O.—The Retail Grocers' Association is conferring with the large baking companies because of their action in refusing to exchange new packed goods for old.

Connecticut.—The judiciary committee of the Legislature has substituted a bill for the various trading stamp bills. There were a dozen schemes presented at the beginning of the session. The bill of the judiciary committee provides that trading stamps must have a cash value marked on them and that they must be redeemed in cash if the holder makes the demand.

Iowa.—The State Grocers' Association and State Federation of Labor have conferred with the result that the Federation of Labor has agreed to stand in with the retail grocers to ask the Legislature to repeal all the exemption laws now in force for the purpose that all men should be responsible before the law. The grocers on their part agree to help secure the passage of a child labor law and enforce a compulsory education law. The grocers agree to give preference to union made goods and to favor legislation providing for better factory inspection. The Federation of Labor agrees on its side to unite in discouraging non-resident catalogue houses and peddlars.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

Points to Watch

HERRING.
Holland herring are very scarce and command high prices.

WALNUTS.
A shortage of 100 to 150 cars is reported from Southern California.

BREAD AND CAKES.
Many grocers overlook this valuable line. It not only pays a good profit in itself, but attracts customers to the store.

SUGAR.
Jobbers are buying sparingly at the decline of Wednesday. There is a general feeling that the bottom has not yet been reached.

CANNED FRUITS.
The hot weather of last week has so advanced the ripening of fruit that canners say that the pack of high grade gods will be largely curtailed.

PEAS.
The California Association now says there will be only about a 75 per cent delivery of California peas. The Eastern packers expect only half a crop.

RAISINS.
Packers are said to be offering $70 and $75 a ton for raisins in the sweat box as against $60 offered two weeks ago and $35 which was paid last year.

CANNED SALMON.
Even with a very heavy pack of sockeyes, experts think that red Alaska and pinks will not cost less than at the present time and will probably cost more.

RICE.
Reports from Southeastern China say that the first crop will be a practical failure this year. American growers are very strong in their views owing to short acreage and unfavorable weather conditions.

PRAISE THAT COUNTS.

The "Rice Journal and Gulf Coast Farmer" writes:

Crowley, La., July 7th, 1905.
Editor Retail Grocers' Advocate, San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sir—We would be glad to receive the Advocate in exchange. We note that you carry a good rice market and are interested in this. We suppose that you will be similarly interested in the matter found in the "Rice Journal" that has a bearing on the rice market in various places, and that thus the exchange will not be one-sided. We are placing your name on our list. Very respectfully,

John T. Nixon, Desk Editor.

Are Maintaining Prices.

Los Angeles Association Proves Fallacy of Mendacious Editor.

By J. F. Paulding, Secretary.

Los Angeles, July 3, 1905.
Mr. A. H. Powers, San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sir:—I see by the last issue of the "Grocer and Country Merchant" that Mr. Menzies claims it is not possible to maintain a retailing selling price by the manufacturer. Mr. Menzies used for the basis of his article the fact that in our last report I stated that there were certain articles that had been cut on which the manufacturer had established a retail price.

Facts Favor Protection.

Facts are facts, and there is no trying to get away from them.

I mentioned four articles on which the price had been cut, and could have mentioned perhaps as many more, out of a total of about One Hundred and Forty-one (141) different brands of goods that are on list.

Surely, there is no great danger of a disruption of our prices with this showing.

Again, the cut prices on these few articles are the exception and not the rule. There is no question about the fact that if no precaution had been taken, it would have been the rule rather than the exception.

"A1" Price is Maintained.

I mentioned that the "A1" flour had been cut. Yet at the cut price mentioned, it paid the party cutting it a 15-cents per sack margin. If no precaution had been taken, it would have been cut in every town in place of just one, and the profit would not have been 15 cents per sack either.

The cutting has always been discontinued when the Globe Mills took the matter in hand.

Another Menzies Falacy.

Mr. Menzies tries to prove that established prices are not possible. Before closing his articles, he insists that by having these established prices, we are inviting too many people to go into the business and thereby admits that we do have and maintain established prices—a fact that he denies in the next breath.

His statement was that owing to our having fixed prices, we had caused the number of stores to increase from less than 150 ten years ago to 600 at present.

I do not know how many stores there were here ten years ago, but I will base my argument on the year 1901 to prove the falseness of his argument.

The 1901 City directory showed 395 retail grocery stores in Los Angeles. The United States census taken in July, 1900, showed the population of Los Angeles to have been 102,000. It is not unreasonable, therefore, to assume that the population of this city in February, 1901, when the directory census was taken was not over 110,000 at the most, inasmuch as the growth of the city during 1901 was not nearly so rapid as since 1903. This would give one grocery for every 278 inhabitants.

The school census of Los Angeles this year shows a population exceeding 200,000. This gives a grocery store for every 333 inhabitants or an increase of 55 people to every store in place of a decrease, as stated by Mr. Menzies.

Our Association was organized June 1901, or at least three months after the directory was printed. We had no price card for at least one and a half years after we were organized. It can be readily seen from this, that our price card could have had nothing to do with the small number of people to every store in 1901.

Take Menzies Own Figures.

Mr. Menzies may say that we have less population than here mentioned, or more stores than here mentioned. I am, therefore, basing the number of stores, 600, on his own statement and the population on the school census.

I have other reasons to believe that we have at least 200 000 inhabitants, some of which are the facts that our assessment rolls show double the valuations they did three years ago; and the additional proof that there were 60,000 people paid poll tax this year where the number was only 27,000 three years ago. It is, therefore, reasonable to assume that my figures are approximately right.

Cause of the Lies.

Whether Mr. Menzies made his deductions from maliciousness or ignorance is not for me to say. But when a paper will try to mislead its readers by making such false statements, I would question if they could believe any of his statements. It is too well known to need further mention that Mr. Menzies' chief support comes from firms who observe the growth of the Association with alarm. This will account for his continual misstatement of conditions in regard to the Association.

It is base flattery to consider his paper in the trade paper class, let alone its reliability.

Yours for honest trade methods,
J. F. Paulding.

LOCAL BOARD ORGANIZES.

The old board of directors of the San Francisco Retail Grocers' Association formally turned the affairs of the organization over to the new board last Monday evening.

President Salomon appointed the following standing committees.

Finance and Auditing—Methmann, Ring and Van Arsdale.

Collection Bureau—Rowe, Corcoran and Sullivan.

Grievance — McGuire, Stulz and Owens.

President Salomon advised the board that while he personally favored having five members on the Grievance Committee, as required by the resolution adopted at the annual meeting, he thought a change would have to be made in the constitution and by-laws before the other two committeemen could be appointed. This matter will be taken up in regular form at the next meeting of the Association.

Mr. Stulz called attention to the necessity of retaining affiliation with the State Grocers' Association if the San Francisco organization expected to maintain the highest possible degree of value to its members.

R. A. HOLCOMBE & CO. MOVE.

Owing to the very decided increase in business, R. A. Holcombe & Co. have found their quarters at 20 Pine street unsatisfactory. They have therefore moved to larger offices at 124 California street, where they will be prepared to handle the business to a better advantage.

THEIR OWN ENEMY.

Retail Grocers to Blame When Manufacturers Fail to Protect Them in Their Profits.

It is because retail grocers are prone to submit to impositions as long as they are endurable that so little advancement is made in bettering trade conditions.

The grocery trade is like a giant who does not realize his strength and does not know how to use it.

A few manufacturers who have realized the value of the giant strength of the trade, have employed it to better themselves and have secured its assistance by paying therefore.

First among the firms that have been willing to pay for the assistance of the trade are Enoch Morgans Sons Company, with its Sapolio, A. Schilling & Co.; and the Globe Grain and Milling Company with its flour.

These firms realize that, to retain the interest of the grocers in their goods, they must assure their customers of a profit. To do this they must guard the firms that work up a trade on their line of goods so that the goods will not be generally cut and should any firm cut these goods they not only refuse to sell them but, if necessary, take any course in law that may be necessary to protect both themselves and their customers.

While cutters sometime break in on the price it is only for a few days at a time and only once in a long while. Both Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. and A. Schilling & Co. have in the past been able to secure these results without resources to the courts.

A Washington Example.

In last weeks paper we told of how the Crescent Manufacturing Company, of Seattle, Wash., forced a big department store to refrain from cutting the established price of their baking powder. It is worthy of note that this baking powder was not bought direct from the Crescent Manufacturing Company, but through a jobber. It was only because the attorneys for the department store realized that their clients were legally responsible for damages to the Crescent Manufacturing Company in having offered the Crescent baking powder at less than the rates the retailers were required to promise to ask that the case was settled without a suit.

How the Retailer Counts.

When the retailers are in earnest about correcting a trade abuse and are prepared to work together under intelligent direction, their giant strength can accomplish wonderful results.

There are two ways in which the retail grocers can make a manufacturer recognize the fact that it is going to pay him to protect their interests.

One way is for a great many grocers, who are acting together, to say to the manufacturer "Unless you restrain cutters from selling your goods at a price which does not leave a profit, we will not handle them."

J. R. Newberry of Southern California taught the grocers another way.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT CANNERS ASSOCIATION

Largest Packers of Canned Fruits and Vegetables in the World.

the leading retail grocers advertise the article at such a low price that there was no profit left in it for anybody, at the same time advertising a protected article of the same class at the full price and pushing the sale of the protected article. Because of the fact that there was no profit at all left on the goods cut, the retail grocers as a body joined in protesting and the demand for the article was killed for the time being.

This method was used with very good effect in convincing a leading baking powder company that the grocers of Southern California were in earnest in asking them to maintain the price of their baking powder in Southern California.

It was also used to good effect in convincing one of the largest catsup manufacturers of the country that they could afford to protect the price of their goods in Southern California.

It is only when the grocers want a thing badly enough to demand it; not to suggest that they would like it, but to be prepared to say if they do not get it they will take active measures to protect themselves, that they will get anything.

Until the grocers are prepared to do this they will get no results.

When they are prepared to do this and back up their asociation managers there is almost nothing that will not be theirs for the asking.

H. Hauch, of Alameda, said recently: "I think ours should be a fighting organization."

When the grocers look on their association as the medium to fight their battles for them, association work will be successful.

PORTO RICO COFFEE.

Coffee is the staple product of the island, the product in 1903 being 33,450.000 pounds from a cultivated area of 170,000 acres, says an exchange. About 62,000 acres are devoted to sugar, from which 234,000,000 pounds were produced in the year named. Under tobacco there were 14,000 acres, yielding 12,000,000 pounds. Experiments in the cultivation of cotton are under way.

The Porto Rico Company of 587-589 Howard street is introducing the Porto Rico coffee to the Pacific Coast trade. Its high quality is winning it many staunch friends.

"THE TASTE TELLS."

This is particularly the truth in regard to hams and bacons. People are guided in their purchases of these provisions and of butter and eggs first of all by the appearance and next by the flavor.

The Diamond "C" hams and bacon of the Cudahy Packing Co. satisfy in both these particulars. In appearance they are very attractive, being cut from the very choicest animals, carefully trimmed and smoked by special process. The flavor is also distinctive since only the finest meat is used and great care is taken to see that the fine flavor is brought out and preserved.

Many retail grocers report to the Cudahy Packing Co. that they find their customers unanimously pleased with the Diamond "C" provisions. They report also that the sale of these goods has brought them much new trade.

It is through handling products which are better than the average that retail grocers secure the reputation that brings people to their stores and makes them feel convinced that they will be satisfied with all the goods they may buy from this store. The high quality of a certain line is fair assurance hat other lines will also possess the same high quality.

BETTER VALUES.

Since the Spohn-Patrick Company introduced "Griffin Extras" brand of fruits and vegetables on this market they have been recognized as a leading factor in the canned goods trade.

These goods are packed by the California Fruit Canners' Association, which owns thirty-four canneries in various parts of the Coast, and thereby enabled to put up the goods bearing their brand where grown in greatest perfection, and when they are in the best possible condition for canning.

Hence the general satisfaction resulting to the consumer from the use of goods bearing the "Griffin Extras" brand.

CONGRATULATES THE COAST.

National President Green Writes Words of Cheer from the East.

Cleveland, Ohio, July, 1905.

Mr. A. H. Powers, Editor, San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Mr. Powers:—Allow me, through the columns of your valuable paper, to extend my congratulations to the grocers of the Coast. Through the Advocate, which comes to me regularly, I find that they are holding their own in the march of progress.

The grocers of the country realize today more than ever before the necessity of organization. Every State convention that I have attended has been imbued with the earnestness of purpose that accomplishes results.

Those States that have not already upon the statute garnishment laws, will soon be called upon to pass such laws.

The firm who now charges cracker prices for pasteboard must soon succumb to the demand of the trade.

The dead-beat, through the efforts of organization, must shy his carcass into some unknown realm where delinquent lists and garnishee laws are not heard of.

At our next National Convention at Niagara Falls, which, by the present outlook, will be the largest ever attended, topics of vital interests will be discussed.

None more prominent than the manufacturer placing the selling price on the product; the Parcels Post and Post Check currency bills.

The representation at the convention must be so large that the attendance alone must impress the manufacturers and jobbers with its importance.

The grocers of the country are fast becoming a power. That power conservatively handled will be a great influence for bettering the condition of the retailer.

It was my privilege to address the Wholesale Grocers of the United States at Milwaukee on June 29th, and I assure you every effort was put forth to place the grocers of the country in the best possible position before them and I believe with marked success.

The expressions of confidence received by me stimulates me to greater exertions. We must move forward. We have much to do and not only must we have united co-operation of the entire membership, but the united support of the trade press as well.

Thanking you for courtesy extended, and with kindest regards for the grocers of the Pacific Coast, I am,

Very truly yours,
JOHN A. GREEN.
President.

A COMMON LOSS.

Where Many a Dealer Loses Money.

If the proprietor of nearly any grocery will occasionally place the packages of sugar, rice, and similar articles that are ready for delivery upon the scale he will be surprised to note in how many instances they contain overweight.

This is perhaps the most costly and insidious loss in a grocery store, for it can never be permanently stopped. The best hand scale made does not insure its careful use.

There is only one means of insuring absolute accuracy in the weighing department and that is by the use of the Bond Automatic Weigher. This machine "is never careless and never tires."

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

Denver, June 29th—The Retail Grocers' are preparing for a picnic at Crystal Lake.

San Bernardino, June 29th—The Grocers' Association gave an entertainment in honor of the clerks last night. There was a general turning out of the grocers and their families and the clerks with their wives and sweethearts. In the banquet chamber Al. Frantz presided as caterer, and prepared a most tempting spread, covers being laid for 145 persons, and not a plate was unturned. During the banquet H. M. Willis acted as toastmaster, responses being made by George Feetham, of Feetham & McNeil's, and T. F. Snelson for the Grocers' Association, while R. B. Parazette responded for the clerks and H. M. Willis made an address as a general response to both hosts and guests. After the banquet, dancing was indulged in until a late hour.

Los Angeles—The new president, Mr. C. Mottaz, has introduced an innovation into Association meetings which promises to prove very popular. It is to have discussions held on some subject of common interest during the evening. The subject discussed at the last meeting of the Association was "Dishonest Clerks"; this was led by J. A. Fazenda. At the meeting of July 13th, the Association will discuss "Price Cutting," to be led by J. R. Newberry.

Youngstown, Ohio—The closing of grocery stores on Wednesday afternoons during the months of July and August is finding more favor this year. This was a movement instituted by the Grocers' Association last year.

Wisconsin—The State Grocers' Association holds its fifth annual convention at Milwaukee on September 11, 12 and 13. Among the questions to be discussed are the "Parcels Pos Scheme," "Premium Schemes" and "Credit Systems."

Centralia, Wash.—Secretary J. J. Higgins of the Seattle Grocers' Association and of the State Association, was in conference with the grocers of Centralia recently. Acting on his advice, they were able to remove certain obstacles that were causing trouble. The Centralia Association thanked Mr. Higgins formally for his efforts in their behalf.

Seattle—The Grocers' Association will hold its annual picnic July 19th at Pleasant Beach. Many grocers from other towns will be in attendance

St. Louis—The agitation of the grocers to secure relief from the practice of the cracker bakeries in charging full cracker prices for cardboard is bearing its fruit. Several cracker companies are making allowances for the pasteboard. More results are expected in the near future.

Chicago, June 28th—The central committee of the Chicago Grocers' Associations are complaining of the unfair action of some of the local associations. There are four associations in Chicago and two of them have never paid their share towards maintaining the central committee. At the same time, in soliciting members they have sent out cards taking to themselves the credit of the accomplishments of the central committee. This is causing a great deal of indignation.

Fergus Falls, Minn.—The merchants recently had a peddler's license ordinance passed by the City Council. Anyone peddling without a license will now be liable to a fine of $100 or imprisonment for as much as 90 days.

LOCAL NOTES.

John W. King opens on Saturday one of the finest and most modern stores in San Francisco, at Market, near Sixteenth street. This is Mr. King's second store. The new store will have a frontage of 30 feet on Market street, 38 feet on Sixteenth street and will be 130 feet deep. The store has a modern plate glass front on both streets and is being equipped with every modern device to facilitate the expeditious handling of a large amount of business. Mr. King has won a splendid success in the grocery business. It seems only a short time ago that he was forced to move into larger and handsomer quarters at Twenty-second and Valencia. His success continued in this new establishment and the store on Market street will extend it still further.

J. Wm. Offermann, with his wife and daughter, are spending a brief vacation at Portland, where they are taking in the wonders of the Lewis and Clarke Exposition.

John Schloen, who was in business for a long time at the corner of Polk and Sacramento streets, has returned to the city and is looking remarkably well after his long rest. He has not yet decided when he will go into the business again.

NEW DAIRY EXCHANGE.

An attempt is being made to re-establish the Dairy Exchange. The plan was to have prices set by a committee appointed for that purpose. The promoters considered it necessary that each member should deposit a guarantee note for $500 as a guarantee that fines would be paid. This arrangement occasioned considerable discussion and the forming of the exchange has not yet been agreed to.

THE COLOR CURE.

Windows of Various Hues as Remedies For Many Diseases.

Dr. Boris Bruchs of Kharkov, in south Russia, says a correspondent of the New York American, is attracting general attention by the extravagant pitch to which he is developing the so called "color cure."

By immersing the patient in successive baths of colored lights he professes to be able to cure all diseases, from cancer and consumption to simple catarrhs.

Near Orenburg, on the verge of the west Asian steppes, he is building a magnificent sanitarium, specially designed for color treatment. The house, which is only one room deep, has all its windows, numbering over a hundred, facing south. The interior walls of the rooms are painted a pure white, while the windows are of different colors or mixtures of colors. With the colored sunlight streaming on them through these windows patients will recline on divans, drink coffee, smoke cigarettes and pray for speedy recovery.

The delicacy of the treatment professed by Bruchs may be realized from the fact that there are five windows with different shades of green. The windows toward the extreme end of the house fade gradually from deep orange to pale yellow and pure transparency.

Bruchs affirms that for the cure of cancer immersion in no less than nine shades of green light baths is required. The duration of stay in each bath must be calculated to a nicety, as certain colors are inclined to induce new complaints.

The Nijni Novgorod millionaire, M. Schukotin, underwent Dr. Bruchs' treatment for kidney disease with such success that he has contributed 80,000 rubles toward the erection of the new sanitarium. The local doctors, however, denounce Bruchs as a quack.

Steiner & Co. of Escondido Establish a Library for Boys and Girls.

Steiner & Co. of Escondido use a very generous space in their local papers to announce the opening of a library in their store. The library is made up of books that will be of special interest to boys and girls. Every purchaser of a pair of shoes receives a membership card to the library giving them the privilege of taking out books for three months. The member is allowed to retain books for two weeks.

They have issued a circular headed "If Carnegie Does Not, WE DO." In this circular they explain about their "American Boys' and Girls' Library" scheme. After a brief trade talk describing their shoes they say:

"Come in and see what we have to offer. We would rather attract one customer to this store by honest representation than ten by misrepresentation.

"Remember—We have the largest, cleanest grocery stock in the county to select from at prices in keeping with the quality. 'The best is good enough.

"Originators—The American Boys' and Girls' Library is the best, and absolutely free to all. The People's Store. The Quality Store. Steiner & Company, Escondido, Cal."

In each of the library books is pasted a notice that reads as follows:

"This book is the property of Steiner & Company, the People's Store. Steiner's American Boys' and Girls' Library accords you the privilege of reading this book and hopes that you will enjoy the same and profit by its teachings. In doing this we do not expect you to buy shoes of us simply because you receive this privilege of membership, but we hope that you will be so pleased with out footwear that you will be justified in telling your friends to come in and become a member of our library, and a customer of our shoe department, as well as all other lines.

"If we satisfy you, tell others, if not tell us.

"We carry such well known shoes as the Pingree make, Hamilton Brown Shoe Co.'s, Utz & Dunn and others, and guarantee to make good any shoe that is defective in workmanship or material.

"You will always find our Dry Goods Department and furnishing lines replete with the latest novelties at prices that will please.

"Please keep this book clean; do not mutilate it. It is loaned to you and must be returned to us in ten days. (Value 50 cents—to be paid if damaged.) Steiner & Company, Escondido, Cal."

NO EVAPORATED CREAM.

Minneapolis—The State food authorities have ruled that the "Evaporated Cream" (so-called) sold in this market is only evaporated milk from which the cream has not been separated and, therefore, is labeled in a way to mislead the purchaser. The labels must be changed after July 31.

Odd Art Criticisms.

A young woman of great, perhaps too great, sensibility, according to the Dundee Advertiser, begged to be excused from visiting an aunt who lived in an old fashioned house where pictures of a certain period were in evidence. "There is an engraving of a blacksmith's shop in the dining room!" said she hysterically. "You can't expect me to eat my dinner there; I smell the hoofs."

A similar criticism came from one who suffered, not from overrefinement, but from something quite different. She was a woman of recently acquired wealth, who went into an art gallery and asked for a painting of a certain size. "I have just what you want," said the dealer. He showed her a beautiful animal painting, but she looked at it for a few minutes and then shook her head. "It won't do," she said; "I want this picture for my drawing room." "But it's a beautiful thing," ventured the dealer. "Not for a drawing room," announced the woman conclusively; "you couldn't have a cow in a drawing room."

Puzzles From the Greek.

If two are a few, why not three; if three, why not four, and by a gradual addition or increment of number why not 1,000 or any other number? Or, again, if the loss of a single hair does not make a man bald, why should the loss of two, of three, and so on, and inferentially the loss of all?

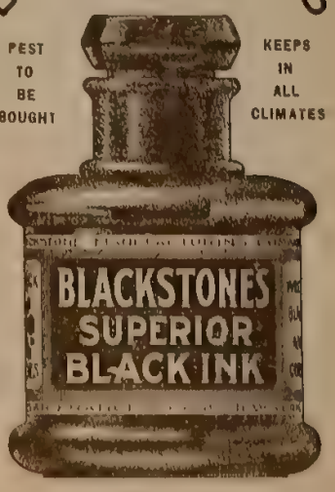
If, then, no addition or subtraction of a unit can transform a small number of wheat grains into a heap or a full head of hair into a bald head, how is it possible that either transition should ever be accomplished?

Take a grain of millet out of a bushel and let it fall on the ground, and it makes no noise. Take every grain in succession of 10,000, let the same happen, and no sound is heard. Then collect all the grains back into the bushel and pour it out, and the result is a great noise. How, asks Zeno, can 10,000 noiseless processes make one full of noise?

Trespassing.

According to the common law of England there can be no theft of things which form part of or are attached to the soil, and there is no statute or penalty against the gathering of wild flowers in a field or wood. Most people at some time or other have paused at the fearsome legend, "Trespassers Will Be Prosecuted," printed on the menacing board which lawyers have described as a "wooden liar," for, as a matter of fact, the mere walking across another man's field is no more a criminal offense than to walk along the highroad. If the trespasser does no actual damage there is no ground for prosecution, with any hope of obtaining more than merely nominal damages, and none but a born litigant would dream of taking action. London Globe.

An Evident Alternative.



"She married him in spite of great opposition, didn't she?"

"Yes. If her marriage doesn't turn out well she'll only have herself to blame."

"Good gracious! Why? What's to prevent her blaming him?"

CO-OPERATION AMONG GROCERS.

Harry Duncan Writes of Its Value and Necessity.

Oakland, Cal., June 26, 1905.

Editor Advocate:—It is in the success or the failure of co-operation in the grocery business that the trade will find either inestimable benefits or life of endless drudgery.

Few grocers seem to realize it. But, really, we are to-day making the very fight of our lives.

There can be no drawing back.

We must burn the bridges behind us and keep right on until our efforts are crowned with success, because it must be success that we attain; since failure will mean the gradual elimination of profits that will reduce the smaller men in the business to a steady grind for little more than the absolute necessities of life.

The grocery business to-day reminds me of a very sick man. After a careful diagnosis of the case, I find that though he is of big bone and a hard worker, he has very little power.

Few men have the foresight to grasp conditions as they arise. Such is true with our sick "Grocery Business."

The more dense the population grows, the keener will be the competition. With keener competition there naturally develops new ideas to gain business.

Our patient, Mr. sick "Grocery Business" is suffering from a lot of these new ideas that have been forced on him and have given him a sort of business indigestion.

We have the cash store. While it is a legitimate business, yet, it is not usually run on strict business principles.

How few cash stores pay cash for their goods. Because of the failure to follow necessary precautions many of them fail, possibly benefiting themselves, but at the same time doing great damage to the credit grocer.

Then we have the department stores. As a rule they do not try to make a profit off their groceries, but use them to advertise other lines.

It is with pitty, I look upon another type which has precipitated conditions as they now are. It is that of the unscrupulous grocer who is of such low intelligence that he imagines that to run a store all that is necessary is to take the goods off the shelf, wrap them up and take the money. Men of this class do not know what goods cost or what per cent it takes of the gross receipts to run a business. They can not tell you at any time whether they have any profits at all.

It is this caliber of men that are to-day retarding the great movement of co-operation. Designing persons can easily influence them away from the forward movement of the organization.

The influences I have enumerated have all influenced the legitimate trade and forced dealers into bad business methods.

Some have stooped to cutting prices. Others become loose in the granting of credits. A third class have made themselves susceptible to designing persons for the purpose of advertisement. Last, but not least, they become antagonistic to each other.

As every disease has a cure or a preventative, so it is with the condition before us to-day.

It was not long ago that a philanthropist in the shape of the State Grocers' Association visited us and organized a local association.

Now, by incessant work of the individual, we can raise this association to a high standard of efficiency which will show benefits innumerable.

Already we have a better social feeling amongst the trade than ever before; we have a delinquent list; we have a collection bureau; we have attained success in our legislative work.

A close co-operation on our part with the sincerity of the members behind it, will develop a card price in the very near future.

As an illustration of what is possible I would in closing ask: "What, with the immense purchasing power of the organization behind us, would the flour companies do to-day, if we were to write them to the effect that after twenty-four hours' notice we would refrain from selling their products if they did not protect their prices. Why, gentlemen, they would accept our ultimatum without one word of dissent. And our success would be permanent because we are not asking anything unfair; but only what justly belongs to us. Yours very truly,

HARRY DUNCAN.

FRUIT MEN WAR.

Dried Fruit Packers Decide to Go Into the Canning Business.

Fresno, July 8—A new war of fruit canners and packers is apparently about to be percipitated.

Some time ago the California Fruit Canners' Association come out with the announcement that it will be in the field this year for dried fruit. The canners can with little cost be equipped for handling dried fruit after the canning season is over.

After this announcement it was reported that the J. K. Armsby Company had decided to go into the canning business in the northern part of the State by way of delivering a counter blow to the canners' association. The other dried fruit packers have likewise resented the intrusion of the canneries on their "sphere of influence," and four of the leading packing firms have combined to go into the canning business. They will build canneries in the leading fruit sections of the State in time for next year's business.

The packers in the new combination are the Phoenix, Castle Brothers, Guggenhime & Co. and Rosenberg Brothers. The paid up capital stock will be $1,000,000.

The incorporators do not admit that their action has been influenced by the action of the canners' association, but the trade entertains no doubt on that score.

Attracting Trade

Window Dressing Hints.

There are two extremes in the treatment of the show window—indifference and over-trimming. The one is a result of neglect of its opportunities and produces a shiftless display; the other arises from an impractical idea of the window's purpose and crowds the window with a various display of all the "fancy" looking goods in the store, arranged solely with regard to appearances. This latter form is far preferable, of course, and is in place on certain occasions, such as a store opening.

The true business use of a show window, however, is to make it a factor in the sale of goods, and while this style of trimming will do something in that direction, much more can be accomplished by other methods.

Change Windows Frequently.

The window should be changed frequently, which will not be done when no pains are taken in its care or where the displays are excessively elaborate. One change each week is not too often, and perhaps about as often as it can be managed ordinarily. The first reason for this is to maintain a clean appearance. After a few days the glass becomes smoky or fly-specked, dust accumulates and the display loses its fresh appearance, and if left longer, it will soon be repellant in effect rather than attractive.

The bulk of customers are the people who pass the store every day or so and after one observation the window loses its power of drawing attention. Unless there be a moving or changeable object in the window they will not stop to look again.

Always Have Something New.

There is no virtue here in repetition. Think a minute and see if this isn't so. Don't we, when passing a store, notice from the corner of an eye whether the display is different from what it was yesterday, or the day before? Should the goods displayed be anything in which we are interested, then we stop for a more careful inspection.

Confine the display, as a rule, to one line of goods; often to one article. It is possible to have so many diefrrent things in the display as to scatter the attention of the customer and fail to impress him with anything. Centralize the attack and make a forcible presentation of whatever is shown.

Selection Important.

Spend more thought over the matter of what to put in the display than over the intricate design that can be made from it. An original form of arranging the goods is always attractive, but so long as the display is neat and orderly it will be of service, provided seasonable and appropriate goods are selected.

Definite suggestions as to what to display can hardly be given, for that is largely a matter of circumstance, but certain lines of goods are available at certain times during the year at which they need to be made prominent.

Seasonable Displays.

The canning season has its special line of goods, the camping season has another, and the cold, frosty morning air of approaching winter suggests hot pancakes with maple syrup and coffee. There are other combinations which are just as appropriate and the wise grocer is posted upon them all and observes each at its proper season.

It is a great help in the sale of goods to place them where they may be seen and tasted. For instance, if canned goods are displayed, on special days a can may be opened, the contents turned into a glass dish and the dish placed in the window, where it will be conspicuous, yet within reach from the back of the window. Then, when a customer is being served, the clerk may offer a sample for trial and call attention to the quality and price of the goods. This idea can be carried out in various lines of goods and always with good results.

An Attractive Window Display.

An attractive and effective device for window display is a set of ordinary balance scales, such as the figures representing Justice, held outstretched.

Hang these scales in the middle of the show window, well toward the front. In one place a box of cigars, or cigarettes, or a packet of tobacco, of any particular brand to which you desire to call special attention. In the other put several pieces of coal of irregular shape, which have been painted with liquid gold paint, such as can be bought at any artists' supply store for a few cents.

Accompanying this display you will require a simple card or window bulletin, calling attention to the brand, and announce that it is Worth its Weight in Gold.

This device can always be depended upon to attract attention, and it almost invariably creates a favorable impression in regard to the brand of goods thus exploited.

Frayed Cuffs.

Among the minor arts of life of which we have lately given some instances is one which is sadly neglected. It relates to the treatment of shirt cuffs that show the first protest against the laundry's handling. The laundress is cruel, but the man who pares his shirt cuffs with scissors heaps folly upon brutality. With the first touch of steel the cuff is ruined. Light a match and pass it round the frayed edges (do not burn your wrist). The cleansing fire will remove the dross and leave intact the pure gloss of the cuff. A cuff treated with fire will last laundry generations longer than the cuff treated with steel.—London Chronicle.

To Bombard the Angry Seas.

Shells filled with oil, intended to calm a stormy sea when fired into it, have been invented in France. The effect of a film of oil in reducing the size of waves is well known, but in the case of a moving vessel it is difficult to reach those in front, among which the ship's progress will soon bring it. At first ordinary explosive shells containing oil were tried, but these, besides being dangerous, did not distribute the oil evenly. At present wooden shells are used, which break when they strike the water, allowing the oil to run evenly over the surface. For night use the shells have an illuminating attachment. The results are said to be satisfactory.—Success.

Worm Bright as a Trolley Car.

Conductor Gleason of the Louisville and Nashville railroad recently captured a peculiar worm on Red mountain and will send it to the Smithsonian institute to have it examined and classed. The worm is about two and a half inches long and of an oak color, no fur or hairs, but a shell-like back, there being eleven joints and at each joint a yellow streak across the back. On each side where the worm comes in contact with the ground are yellow dots ten on each side. At night these streaks and dots are as bright as an electric light, and when crawling the strange worm does not look unlike a trolley car with many lights on the sides.

Cows With Nervous Prostration.

The Minnesota experiment station has discovered that the cow suffers from the characteristic disease of twentieth century civilization—nervous overstrain. She has temperament. She is overcivilized. "The high strung cow has no place in the dairy scheme. She should be eliminated," says Professor Haecker.

COAST CROP CONDITIONS.

The United States Department of Agriculture reports for California:

"In many parts, all records for hot weather were broken on the 7th and 8th. Beans were not seriously injured by the heat. Potatoes were benefited. Deciduous fruits and grapes were probably injured by the extreme heat. Reports thus far do not give any reliable estimates.

SUGAR MARKET.

A decline of 20 cents was announced on Wednesday at 1 p. m. Jobbers are buying sparingly, as they fear further declines.

New York, July 7th—Willett & Gray report:

Raws—Changes in prices here were unimportant though they were important abroad. European market made a new low level at 10s 9d for immediate and 9s 5½d for October delivery. The difference between old and new crop is still too large to hold much longer.

Refined—Since the holidays, the market is quieter and much beneath expectations for demand. Therefore a further decline appears to be nearly due. There is no reason to expect any upward turn in the refined market or the raw market for some time to come.

New York, July 5th—M. G. Wanzor & Co. report:

"The steadily declining European markets have exerted an influence that cannot be ignored. Such European declines as we have had this week detract from the strength of the position of the Cuban growers. The refiners in the United States have allowed their stocks to become depleted to an almost unprecedented extent. The strong feature of the market is that, while there is plenty of raw sugar here, the refiners do not own it. Unless the sugar houses close down, they must buy additional supplies within a very few days. If the holders of cane sugar continue the resistance they have displayed up to the present, it is thought the scales will turn in their favor. The Cuban owners can control the values of raw sugar if they are able to hold firm, since the refiners must have their sugar. Europe will follow the lead of the Cuban market during the next two months. Careful attention must be given by buyers to the raw situation. Purchases should be based upon the movement of the raw product. When the uncertainty has been removed, there will be a rush for granulated that will keep every sugar house busy to its fullest capacity."

MOLASSES AND SYRUPS.

Columbus, Ga., June 26th—Cargill-Wright & Co. report:

'Stocks of Georgia cane syrups are now practically exhausted. Prices advanced rapidly in the last two weeks. There will probably be no 1904 crop on hand on the advent of the new season's goods."

MAPLE SUGAR.

Nashville, Mich., June 26th—Downing, Bullis & Co. report:

"Trade is quiet. Prices are the same as last season."

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. report:

"Greater activity is displayed in the coffee market and prices have advanced both in the East and in the principal coffee centers of Europe—Hamburg and Havre.

"Mild coffee is becoming very scarce."

New York, July 6th—Willett & Gray report:

"There is an active inquiry for actual coffee. The market has been depressed for a long time on account of vicious attacks based on forecasts which events have shown were unwarranted. Europe has commenced to buy in Brazil and the American buyers are feeling their way there. Meanwhile Brazil holds firm. The assortment of old crops such as this country wants are now scarce in Santos."

New York, July 5th—Volney Green & Son report:

"The option market opened very strong this morning after the three days' holiday. Holders of spot coffee immediately stiffened their prices. Demands are still light, as the trade hardly knows what to think of the sudden development of strength. Buying will probably hold off as long as possible before placing orders at a material advance."

TEA MARKET.

New York, July 5th—John B. Brown & Co. report:

Congous—Mail advices state that "crack" chops are finer than last year, although, as a whole, the crop is not as good as last season. The demand for Russia has been unusually strong.

Hankow—Teas are coming in slowly. With few exceptions they do not come up to last year's level of quality.

Japans—Late mail samples show quality and style to be satisfactory. Prices continue about on last year's basis.

Formosas—Considerable business is now being transacted. Prices continue on an average of 1 cent per pound less than last year's quotations.

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"There has been no changeq in the rice market since our last reports."

Charleston, S. C., July 1st—Samuel G. Stoney reports:

"Our market has been quiet, as holders of Georgia rice feel they should get better figures than are now offering. Common grades have shown an improvement and an advance. Small stocks of Carolina rice now on hand will probably be cleaned up before the middle of August. Reports from growing crops indicate slight damage from want of rain and the condition of the rivers."

New York, July 3rd—Dan Talmage Sons Co. report:

"Advices from the South note moderate demand on the Atlantic Coast. At New Orleans the market is firm with offerings light. Cables and correspondence from abroad note firm market with little doing."

Amoy, China, April 22nd—United States Consul Geo. E. Anderson writes:

"Continued unseasonable weather in Southeastern China threatens failure for one of the two crops harvested each year unless there is an immediate change for the better. In many parts it will be impossible to transplant the rice plants in time to supply the usual first crop even if the change should come. The area affected by present unfavorable conditions is very large and includes some of the best country in the southern part of China. The bad crops will, of course, affect China's purchasing power and credit."

SPICES.

New York, July 5th—John Clarke reports:

"Market unchanged, but very strong with tendency toward higher prices."

CANNED FRUITS.

The California Fruit Canners' Association reports:

"Local retailers are buying even more largely of future fruits than last year. Prices on future cherries have been withdrawn and there are almost no spot cherries on the market. There will be a shortage on the delivery of peas. It is estimated that the deliveries will be about 75 per cent."

Central California Canneries report:

SUYDAM BROS. & ROGERS
WHOL SALE GROCERS
14-16 Spear Street, San Francisco.
Tel. Main 5396.

"The extreme heat of last week will unquestionably be of great benefit to canners. The weak point in the situation has been the promise of an enormous pack of 'cots. The hot weather shriveled and burned much of the ripe fruit and ripened other fruit without allowing it to reach the larger size which it would have attained had the weather been more temperate. As a consequence, a much greater amount of fruit is being forced upon the canners than they are prepared to handle. In addition to this the percentage of high grade fruit is much less than it would otherwise have been. We are already canning freestone peaches and some clings in Visalia and pears in Sacramento. The rapid and unexpected ripening of the fruit will unquestionably result in a material curtailment of the pack of fine goods. Since the 1905 pack comes on to a market practically bare except for the considerable carry-over of apricots in the United Kingdom, it can readily be seen that the outlook is for a firm market and higher prices."

CANNED TOMATOES.

Baltimore, Md., June 30th—The "Trade" says: "Reports from the tomato fields show a great reduction in the acreage. They also bring information that the steady consumptive demand has been cleaning up the holdings of last year's stocks in the hands of the canneries throughout the country. In one locality in Delaware, out of the 11 canneries, only 3 went into operation this summer, as all were carrying heavy stocks. Every one of these 11 factories is to-day cleaned out and yet only 3 of them are working. Standard No. 3 tomatoes are quoted at 67½c to 70c and rule firm at these figures."

Bridgeville, Del., July 1st—H. P. Cannon reports:

"There are now many inquiries for future tomatoes. Buyers still keep below the packers' ideas as to prices. A change must come eventually, as packers now insist on securing at least the cost of packing the goods.

Aberdeen, Md., June 30th—Strasbough-Silver Co. report:

"When nobody wanted tomatoes, many were hoping for an advance. Now that the advance has happened, sellers seem to have disappeared. It is to be hoped that buyers and sellers will come to an understanding on a conservative basis before long."

Bel Air, Md., July 1st—Finney & Robinson report:

"There has been an advance of practically 2½c per dozen on both future and spot tomatoes during the past week. This is due both to comparatively light stocks on hand and also to the shortage in the acreage. It is impossible to buy any future tomatoes in any size lots at less than 70c. Stocks are held firmly at 67½c.

Princess Anne, Md., July 3rd—C. M. Dashiell reports:

"The trade have been buying tomatoes lately in large quantities. So large, in fact, as to practically clean up some large packing concerns. The price paid, however, would not remunerate packers. The market is advancing."

DRIED FRUIT.

Only apricots are coming in in any quantity. Orders for other varieties are being filled, where it is possible, from the small remaining stocks. A few apples are arriving, but they are of poor quality. Apricots have eased off somewhat during the past week.

Los Angeles, July 7th—Percy R. Wilding says:

"Apricots are lower by ¼c and ½c than they were a week ago. Eastern buyers believe the market will be much lower. Peach market is strong; the crop running shorter than earlier expected. The market on future prunes is strong on 2½c to 2¾c bag basis. Prices on evaporated apples have as yet not been named, but reports from all sections show a large crop. Low values are expected. Spot apples are entirely cleaned up on the Coast. The market for spot raisins is very firm. Careful estimates place the crop of walnuts from 100 to 150 cars short of last year. No. 1 soft shell are closely cleaned up and the market is strong."

Red Bluff—Apricot crop is shorter than last year, but the fruit is larger and finer. This county expects to have a larger crop of prunes than ever before.

Selma—Apricot drying is progressing. The crop was two weeks earlier than usual. Peaches are also early and cutting will coon commence.

Chico, June 27th—E. T. Reynolds & Sons report:

"Packers are having trouble in getting peaches with which to fill orders which they sold short earlier in the season at 5¼c for standards and 5½c and little up for choice in 50-pound boxes. Growers do not want to sell at the prices offered. There is a fair peach crop throughout the entire Sacramento Valley. Peaches should bring a medium price—about 6c for choice f. o b. New crop prunes will range from 2½c basis to higher prices for very large and very small. Almonds are nearly all in associations. This indicates uniform prices."

Saratoga, June 26th—F. W. Cranwall, manager of the Sorosis Fruit Co., reports:

"Conservative estimates place the prune crop at 40 per cent of last year's output. While a few growers are letting go at 2¾c in large lots, most of them are inclined to hold for a 3c basis. Apricots are being held for from 7c to 7½c per pound for choice. Peaches appear to be about normal crop and fruit to be of good size and quality."

RAISINS.

Lodi, July 8th—Almost the entire grape crop, both table and wine variety, has been burned out by the sun in the northern part of San Joaquin County. The damage is the greatest ever done here.

Newcastle, Placer Co., July 8th—Serious damage has been done to the vineyards in the foothill section of Placer Co. by the heat in the past few days.

New York, July 1st—There is an active demand for spot raisins. Loose muscatels are particularly wanted. Stocks of fancy seeded raisins here are light and the market is tending upward. Nothing in the way of seeded can be obtained on the Coast except choice, which buyers do not seem desirous of taking hold of.

Fresno, July 11th—The "Democrat" says: "Packers are freely offering 3¼c for the coming crop. In a few cases 3½c has been offered, and in one instance the offer was 3¾c. The packers have apparently abandoned hope of securing any considerable quantity at 3c.

PRUNES.

Salem, Or., July 4th—The situation is growing stronger here although little business is being done. Eastern buyers are willing to pay more than they were a short time since, but have not yet reached the position where dealers feel satisfied to do business."

New York, July 1st—Inquiries and orders for California prunes of 1905 crop have become more numerous within the past few days. It is stated that nothing is obtainable on a 3c f. o b. bag basis for the four sizes. Jobbers are said to hesitate in buying because the demand from consumers seems to have "gone off" this year.

HONEY.

Los Angeles, July 9th—H. J. Mercer says "There will only be about one-quarter of the usual honey crop produced in Southern California this season. The estimated yield is not more than 125 cars of 20 tons each and the normal yield would be about 500 cars. The crop in Colorado will be about 60 per cent of the full crop. A fair output is expected in Texas. Arizona reports the lightest honey crop in years.

San Diego, July 8—The members of the San Diego Honey Producers' Association will pool their crops and work on the co-operative plan this year. The prices at the present time range from 4 to 4½ cents per pound for extracted honey and it is possible that it will fall below the 4 cents. If this occurs the 1905 honey will probably be kept until the price goes up again. Estimates of the crop vary from $20,000 to $100,000.

CURRANTS.

New York, July 1—The Hills Bros. Co. report:

"The market for spot shipment is unchanged and firmly held. The opening prices on new crop are unusually low. Fine 'Amalia' grades are obtainable for 4⅞ cents f. o. b. New York, with 5 cents asked for 'Wedding Cake.'"

BEANS.

Los Angeles June 29—Holmes, Stockard Co. report:

"Lima bean conditions continue favorable. We anticipate a probable 10 per cent increase over the normal yield. This will mean about 50,000 sacks, which is less than the usual carry over. We expect a strong market for the following reasons: First, spot stocks everywhere will be exhausted before the new crop is available; second, growers generally have already bargained their stocks to strong holders; third, these strong holders are men of long experience in the lima bean business and will take advantage of the situation."

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 1st—The Michigan Milling Co. report:

"The bean area this year has been greatly curtailed by the protracted wet weather."

Detroit, Mich., July 1—H. E. Botsford & Co. report:

"Hand picked pea beans advanced about 5 cents per pound this week throughout the State. There are few beans available and these are held in strog hands. In the most favorable circumstances, this year's crop will be late, which means exposure to damage by frosts."

Remus, Mich., July 1—D. Mansfield reports:

"The acreage of beans here is large and the outlook at this date is favorable for a good yield."

Lockport, N. Y., July 3rd—W. D. Schaeffer reports. "Owing to the long continued rains, the beans planted prior to this date have nearly all been drowned out. Those which are still growing are having a hard struggle with the weeds.

Penn Yan, N. Y., June 30—C. T. Birkett reports

"We think prices on pea beans are going to do considerably better although the real advance seems to be a long time coming."

HOPS.

Portland, July 7th—Oregon growers claim that the plants are threatened with destruction by lice.

CANNED SALMON.

Vancouver, B. C., July 7—Sockeye salmon are running in large number on the Nass and Skeena Rivers. The canneries in the north are working to their fullest capacity to handle the run which is phenomenally large.

Victoria, B. C., July 10—The Canners' Association which controls forty-five canneries has agreed to pay 12½ cents per fish during July and 10 cents from August 1 to the close of the season on August 25. Fish will be accepted only six days in the week. The run on the Skeena is said to be phenomenally large.

Seattle, July 8—Simon Kilduff has gone to Saginaw Bay to superintend the salting of 700,000 salmon to be shipped to Japan in the hold of the ship Agenar by the Northwestern Commercial Company. The contract price for the fish is $80,000. The fish will weigh 2,400 tons.

Cigars and Tobacco

Harry Herzog, office manager for Oscar Figel, has been spending his holidays at Agua Caliente.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. had in June the best month since they have been in business, their orders for Optimo cigars passing the million mark, and totaling 1,050,000 for the month. During the last week in June 63 cases were shipped this house from the Tampa factory.

I. Danziger recently returned from a six weeks' trip through Oregon and Washington, whither he went in the interest of the West Indies Cigar Co., Teodoro Perez, and the Robertson Tobacco Co. His trip was prolific in orders, but unfortunately Mr. Danziger was taken ill at Portland, which necessitated an earlier return than he had intended.

Tillmann & Bendel report that their cigar trade was never in better condition than at present. Orders for the Sanchez & Haya are coming in with great freedom, the record for Monday alone being 60,000. The demand for Recruits and Cremos is also exceptionally good, as is also the case with the Pete Dailey and King V. The tobacco trade is in good condition with no notable features.

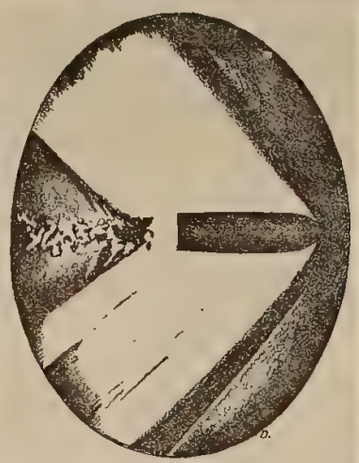
The Internal Revenue receipts for May show considerable increases in the output of every branch of the trade industries with the exception of manufactured tobacco; the increase in the output of large cigars amounting to 25,198,907, in a total output of 594,292,307; the increase in little cigars amounting to 18,289,611 in a total output of 71,079,611; the increase in cigarettes amounting to 88,044,084 in a total output of 331,347,700, and the increase in the production of snuff amounting to 166,241 pounds in a total production of 1,759,998 pounds. Only in manufactured tobacco there was a decrease of 2,995,992 pounds in a total production of 30,302,074 pounds. The most surprising feature of these figures is the extraordinary increase in cigarettes in spite of their consumption being outlawed in Indiana, Wisconsin and Nebraska.

Pittsburg (Pa.), July 9—The American Tobacco Company has acquired, by outright purchase, entire control of Weyman Brothers' Tobacco Company of Pittsburg, the largest independent manufacturers of tobacco in the United States, and will operate the various factories of the company under the present name, but as a subsidiary concern of the American Company. The purchase price has been stated at various figures between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000. Details of the transfer, so far as known now, are that the Weyman interests have entirely withdrawn from the concern and will have no active connection with it in the future. They will retain a small amount of bonds of the American Company.

Vacation Demand for Pipes.

A representative of a leading pipe house said that the vacation demand for pipes is more active than usual and that sales of some varieties, notably medium and higher priced grades, are steadily increasing. He thought that this increase in demand is incident to vacation, or the preparations being made for vacation. Continuing, he said:

"Many smokers will take a pipe with them during vacation even when they seldom smoke one at home. It is a change from a cigar and affords satisfaction after the changes due to the enjoyment of a vacation. Whether this extra demand will keep up after vacation is a question, but I am disposed to think it will not. It seldom does. When sojourners in the country or at seaside resorts, return to the city they discard their pipes and take to cigars again."—Tobacco.



The Jap Baby.

How do you suppose the babies in Japan take an airing? In baby carriages, you say? Of course not. The Japanese never do anything the way we do it. When the baby's about three days old it goes out for its first glimpse of the world strapped on somebody's back, and that's the way it goes every day till it can go on its own feet. Sometimes its mother or its nurse takes it, but very often it rides on the back of a brother or sister, who is perhaps not more than four or five years old. These little nurses don't seem to be troubled at all by their charges, as you would suppose. They play ball and tag and run races and fly kites in spite of the heavy loads on their backs. What is more remarkable, the babies are perfectly happy and hardly ever cry, though when their young nurses run with them the poor babies' faces bang back and forth against their caretakers' shoulders till an American baby would howl with pain and rage.—Bertha Runkle in St. Nicholas.

A WONDERFUL PHOTOGRAPH

Flying Bullet Caught by the Camera of a German Scientist.

The accompanying illustration is not a representation of a cigar, as one might think at first glance. It is a photograph of a bullet from a Mannlicher rifle traveling through the air at the rate of 1,750 feet a second. This remarkable photograph was taken by Professor Ludwig Mach of Prague by the aid of an electric flash, the exposure being approximately one eight hundred thousandth of a second.

The picture shows how the bullet in its flight pushes the air aside as the prow of a fast moving ship displaces the water ahead of it. Behind the bullet are seen air waves like the waves in the wake of a vessel, while immediately about the projectile a vacuum is apparent.

Professor Mach's photograph is the first, it is said, ever taken of a flying bullet and demonstrates the wonderful superiority of the camera over the human eye as a medium of vision.

A Good Kind of Discontent.

There are two kinds of discontent in this world, the discontent that works and the discontent that wrings its hands. The first gets what it wants, and the second loses what it has. There's no cure for the first but success, and there's no cure at all for the second, especially if a woman has it, for she doesn't know what she wants, and so you can't give it to her.

Happiness is like salvation—a state of grace that makes you enjoy the good things you've got and keep reaching out for better ones in the hereafter. And home isn't what's around you, but what's inside you.—From "Old Gorgon Graham; More Letters From a Self Made Merchant to His Son," by George Horace Lorimer.

The Kind of Decision That Wins.

I want to impress on you the importance of deciding promptly. The man who can make up his mind quick makes up other people's minds for them. Decision is a sharp knife that cuts clear and straight and lays bare the fat and the lean; indecision a dull one that hacks and tears and leaves ragged edges behind it. Say yes or no—seldom perhaps. Some people have such fertile imaginations that they will take a grain of hope and grow a large definite promise with bark on it overnight, and later, when you come to pull that out of their brains by the roots, it hurts, and they holler.—From "Old Gorgon Graham; More Letters From a Self Made Merchant to His Son," by George Horace Lorimer

Vancouver, B. C., July 5—The Vancouver "World" says: "British Columbia salmon pack will be about 25 per cent less than it was in the year of the last big run, 1901. The total number of cases put up then was about 1,230,000. This year the British Columbia canneries are making preparations to put up between 750,000 and 800,000 cases. The remaining canneries are prepared to pack about a quarter million more. Consequently when the supply of tin plate, etc., has been exhausted the packing will stop, even though there should be more fish available.

Seattle—Samuel N. Irwin, auditor of the P. P. & N. Co. says: "The prospective pack of pinks and chums for 1905 will aggregate 450,000 cases, apportioned about as follows:

"Alaska, 190,000; British Columbia, 35,000; Puget Sound, 135,000; Columbia River, 20,000; outside rivers, 30,000.

"Since the home consumption has in the past averaged about 600,000 cases annually, there will be a shortage of about 150,000 cases of enough to supply the home needs. As Japan has annually called for over 90,000 cases of pinks and chums, besides, it is certain that packers will not be in a hurry to sell at a low price. We think that a year from now, there will not be a case of cheap salmon to be bought on the Pacific Coast. As buyers will want to purchase cheap salmon in the summer of 1906 to replenish their stocks, the packers will no doubt keep up their prices at the closing price of 1905. For this reason I do not expect any cheap fish for two years at least."

New York, July 3—The total consumption of salmon for the season of 1904 is estimated at 4,300,000 cases, with a production of 3,200,000. This shows why there has been a cleanup of the surplus due to overproduction in preceding years. Should the run of sockeyes not be so heavy as should be expected, the demand for Alaska reds and pinks will be greatly augmented and prices correspondingly greater."

Portland, July 5—Reports from the lower river say that the run of salmon is not quite so heavy. Fisherman from the upper river complain on account of the practical closing of the progress of the fish by the extra large number of nets at the mouth of the river.

Seattle, July 8—The "Trade Register" says: "The market in pinks is very firm at 75 cents. Lower prices are being turned down promptly by brokers. Prices on chums are also firm. Kelley-Clarke Co. have advanced prices for pink from 70 cents to 75 cents. Spot stocks are practically cleaned up excepting reds and it is believed that there are less than 70,000 cases to supply the summer demand of 250,000 cases."

London, England, June 24—Buyers are neglecting British Columbia talls at the prices which holders are asking and are devoting attention to Alaska salmon in consequence of its comparatively low value.

Seattle, June 27—Brady & Co., Inc., report:

"Spot market consists of red Alaska in liberal supply. Prices range from $1 to $1.10. A large quantity should move out before new deliveries as jobbers have only purchased lightly of red Alaska during the past two years."

Pink Salmon—There is a heavy demand as stocks are nearly cleaned up. What is left is held at 75 cents.

Futures—The trade is preparing to purchase sockeyes very heavily. If the run materializes, jobbers will take in a two years' supply. Columbia River chinooks are practically sold up for future deliveries.

CANNED PEAS.

Baltimore, June 30th—The "Trade" says: "It is now reasonably certain that the pack of peas this year will not go much above one-half of the normal pack. Before May, 1906, the market will be well cleaned up of peas of all kinds. Sugar corn will probably be in the same condition. The weather in New York and Maine is very unpropitous, although in the Chesapeake region sugar corn is doing well."

SARDINES.

New York, July 5—Strohmeyer & Arne Co. report:

"The French packers are at least one month behind. Stocks of French sardines, both here and abroad, are unimportant. First hands are holding prices firmly, as they feel there is no necessity for sacrificing present stocks, although packers expect a good season."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Martin's New York State Factory cheese has reached the bottom as far as we can judge from here."

HERRING.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Holland Herrings, Milchner, are scarce and bring top notch prices."

HAY.

Somers & Co. report:

The choicer grades of hay are comparatively scarce. Trade outlook is not very encouraging. There is no possible outside demand and all shipments to market must be used for local consumption.

"The prices which we give below are all on new crop hay.

Choice Wheat Hay	$12.50 to 14 00
Good Wheat Hay	10.00 to 11 50
Tame Oat Hay	7.50 to 11 00
Wild Oat Hay	5.50 to 9.00
Barley Hay	7.00 to 9.50
Alfalfa	6.00 to 9.50
Straw, per bale	.35 to .60

A CARNATION TRIUMPH.

Wins Large Government Order Over Many Competitors.

The Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co. was last week awarded a contract for 1,000 cases of Cream to be delivered at Mare Island for the use of the Navy Department. This award was made at Washington, D. C., in the face of very spirited competition.

There were many competitors for the business, practically all the leading brands being desirous of securing the contract. While other creams were offered for less money the contract was awarded to Carnation Cream, as the department considered both quality and price in placing the business.

The Warning In a Sneeze.

"As a general thing sneezing is nature's warning to get warmer in some way or other, and quickly," is the gist of an article by Dr. W. R. Conant in Modern Medical Science.

"The question of temperature and ventilation," he says, "is one of the most difficult winter problems. So much depends upon circumstances and individual idiosyncrasy that it is hard to lay down any definite rules. An indoor temperature which is suitable for a vigorous person or one in active motion is dangerous for one who is delicate or sitting and doing head work exclusively.

"As a general rule, it may be said that a temperature that falls much below 70 degrees at four feet from the floor is dangerous for sedentary workers, and any one who continues sitting when he feels chilled does so at the risk of his life."

Amusements

MAJESTIC.

The production of "Barbara Frietchie" is worthy of much praise. The piece is redolent of the atmosphere of the South. Edythe Chapman's interpretation of the title role is a very beautiful performance and one that rouses the sympathy of the audience thoroughly. James Neill as the Union officer with whom she is in love, plays his part in frank, straight-forward manner that is very good to see. The cast is a strong one and includes a bevy of pretty and talented girls who look very winsome in the costumes of forty years ago. Next week Frank Bacon will appear as Aunt Abby in "The County Fair." While this piece is full of rollicking fun it, at the same time, carries a quaint love story and is full of heart interest that involves as many tears as smiles.

ALCAZAR.

"On Probation" doesn't leave a quiet moment for the spectators at the Alcazar. The central figure is a Chicago speculator who is touring the continent. John Craig takes the leading role and as the wide-awake, aggressive American, he makes a very decided impression on the cosmopolitan gatherings to be found at the pleasure resorts of France and Switzerland in which most of the scenes are laid. A new Japanese play, "The Heart of a Geisha," is billed for next week. The scenery and costuming will be very elaborate. Juliet Crosby will play the leading role of Kohama San, the queen of the Geisha girls of Tokio.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

George Parsons is carrying out a rollicking week at the Grand in a play called "The Turkish Texan," which was written by himself in collaboration with Willie Collier. The scene of the play is laid in Constantinople, where a young Texan comes into an inheritance which carries with it the necessity of assuming several wives. Georgie Drew Mendum is also cast to very good advantage.

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE.

"Amorita" is in its last week. It is to be followed next week by an elaborate production of "Rob Roy," which will be produced under the stage management of the famous Max Freeman. The scenery and costumes will be very beautiful. No expense is being spared to make the production a perfect one. The cast includes Kate Condon, the contralto who is such a favorite in San Francisco, and Arthur Cunningham and Anna Lichter, both splendid singers and actors. This production will also serve to introduce Frank Hayes, a clever comedian who has distinguished himself in the East. It will be the first production of "Rob Roy" anywhere at popular prices.

CENTRAL THEATER.

"The Heart of the Klondike" carries the clientele of this house to the frozen North and keeps them interested in many thrilling scenes. The scenic effects are remarkable. The situations are novel and there is not a moment in the play when the interest lags. Next week the great and only John L. Sullivan is to appear in "Fast Life in New York."

FISCHER'S.

The bill this week includes a bright musical comedy in which the star part is carried by Harry Conlon, the clever comedian who made such a success lately as the Chinaman in "The Tenderfoot" at the Tivoli. There are also numerous clever vaudevillians who help make up a long and interesting program. There are two performances each evening.

CHUTES.

"Princess Fan Tan" has been interesting the little ones and the big folks as well during the past week. The cast includes 200 clever children. There are several new specialties, including Annie Redline, the wonderful fat lady, and the incubators for the rearing of babies.

CONTEMPTIBLE ADVERTISING.

A Method of Publicity That Is Fortunately Not Frequently Sought.

At Duluth a retail grocer has begun suit against the Retail Grocers' Association, alleging it to be a trust. His complaint makes sweeping charges and includes the wholesale grocers in what he claims a conspiracy.

There are men in every community who are always seeking free advertising at the expense of their followers in business.

This looks like one of those cases.

Here is a retailer who has profited by stable business conditions in his branch of business brought about by a retail grocers' association. He has been willing to accept the benefits. Now he attacks the instrument by which the benefits he has shared were brought about.

In other words, while accepting the benefits brought about by the organization, he has attempted to place the organization in a questionable light before the public.

It is to be hoped that this case will be carried to the Supreme Court and settle once for all the wild-eyed charges that are being made against retail grocers' associations, and especially the Duluth association.—"Commercial Bulletin," Minneapolis.

IMPORTANT OPPORTUNITY.

FOR SALE—One of the largest and best established wholesale grocery and commission houses in the Northwest, located in the center of a rich productive fruit and farming country. Will take an investment of about $75,000. This will bear thorough investigation. Reason for selling will be given to interested parties. Address C. W. P., Retail Grocers' Advocate.

Poets and Irresponsibility.

Poets are wayward creatures, largely irresponsible for their actions, or, at all events, provided with such a curiously sensitive and inflammable organization that we feel it would be unjust to judge them by ordinary standards.—London Telegraph.

"Just like her father," said Mrs. Nuritch; "he made his money in the grocery line."

SALT LAKE WATER.

Effect of Its Wonderful Buoyancy on Bodies and Boats.

The buoyancy of the water of the Great Salt lake is such that it is almost impossible for a person to remain upright in it, his body being lifted as a strip of wood thrown into the water at a vertical or oblique direction like a dart is returned to the surface in a horizontal position. In fact, it is believed that the Great Salt lake will support more weight to a given volume of water than even the Dead sea. It is a very popular resort with bathers for the reason that it is impossible for a person to drown unless he should deliberately place his head under the surface or tie a weight to his feet. The bather can float upon the water, lying on his back or chest, and keep his head entirely above the surface with no effort of the arms or legs. The large quantity of salt in solution is the principal reason for the buoyancy. While the buoyancy of the water is so great that it will support a person without aid, the boats which are designed to be used upon the lake must be constructed especially to counteract this feature. The ordinary wooden vessel when empty is actually too light to be navigated with safety upon it, since such a small portion of it would be immersed. Therefore care has to be taken, in building sailboats especially, lest they be top heavy. For this reason navigation is very dangerous on the lake when the wind is blowing even moderately unless the vessel is loaded so that it sits deep enough in the water to counteract the buoyant tendency. The quantity of salt held in solution is so great that it is dangerous for one to swallow even a mouthful of the water, as it is liable to cause strangulation. Several deaths from this cause have ensued among persons who have ventured into the lake.—Chambers' Journal.

Very Old Trees.

An old yew tree stands in the churchyard at Fortingal, in Perthshire, which De Candolle nearly a century ago proved to the satisfaction of botanists to be twenty-five centuries old, and another is still standing at Hedsor, in Buclas, which is 3,240 years old. How De Candolle arrived at an apparently correct estimate of the enormous age of these living trees is a simple thing, and the principle is doubtless well known today to all. The yew, like most other trees, adds one line, about the tenth of an inch, to its circumference each year. But the oldest living thing in the world today as far as known is a cypress tree in Chapultepec, Mexico, that is 6,260 years old.

Fame.

Schumann, the famous musician, is the principal character of an amusing story told by a Vienna critic: "The composer once accompanied his wife, who was even then a celebrated pianist, to the palace when she went to play before the king of Holland and was gratified by the monarch's compliments of her performance. The composer was somewhat surprised, however, when the king turned to him and courteously inquired, 'Are you also musical?'"

Dared.

"Tell me what you eat and I will tell you what you are."

"Well, I s'pose I eat more wienerwurst than anything else. Now, confound you, go on with your theory if you've got the nerve."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Clerk's Corner

Carlessness That Costs Customers.

"The Business Management Man," in Printer's Ink, has a friend who drinks beer with his dinner every night. He buys it at the corner grocery, on alternate nights, and always the same quantity— three bottles. The proprietor and the same clerks have waited on him long enough to know what he wants almost without being told, yet he tells me that with one exception his order has had to be repeated at least once, and on that exception he reached home to find that he had two bottles of light beer and one of dark, though he asked distinctly for three bottles of light beer.

He invariably has to wait until the clerks have finished their personal conversation or until some part of their routine work is done, and as a result of the general indifference and inattentiveness all around he has transferred his entire grocery trade, which amounts to a good deal, to a store whose stock offers no where near as many trading advantages, but whose service is prompt and efficient.

Maybe the careless groceryman, with his still more careless clerks, who of course take their cue from him, is making money. If he is, he is making it in spite of poor service and he could easily make a great deal more by half way attending to business.

This is by no means an exceptional case—you find more or less of it in all lines of business. In big stores it is practically impossible to make every clerk render the proper service; but in a store where only half a dozen clerks are continually under the eye of the owner it would seem a very simple matter to make certain that every customer gets the prompt and careful attention to which he is entitled. Even the owner of the only store of its kind in a small town can not afford to become careless in the matter, because the big mail-order houses are reaching out into his field every day with all sorts of attractive propositions, and he no longer owns his customers.

The Clerk With Personality.

Have you a clerk with a personality? If so, you are in luck, providing you know how to guide that personality into channels where it will be effective.

If a census of retail store clerks should be taken and their various qualifications listed, the item of personality would be found scarce.

That is why so much in the management of a retail store depends upon the proprietor himself. That is why personal attention to many details is necessary.

Here and there one of the kind of clerks which make merchants is found, but they are in the minority. An observing salesman said recently that if twenty clerks were selected promiscuously from as many stores, it was doubtful if more than one clerk with a personality would be found. There would be many human machines in those twenty stores, but few clerks with initiative and the faculty of doing things.

If you have one clerk with a personality, make him a strong factor in your store organization. Give him responsibility and hold him responsible for results. At the same time keep in close touch with his work and the work of those you place under him. That will reduce your burdens some. If you have not a clerk with a personality, remember that such an assistant will prove a valuable aide in your business. Look around you. Endeavor to find raw material that can be developed and which has in it the germ of personality.

Also be on the hunt for the finished product, the clerk with initiative and sensible enough not to acquire the swell-head. You will not find many. When you do find one he is worth bidding for.—Commercial Enquirer.

Don't Like Their Own Medicine.

Dentists are, as a rule, not living testimonials to their profession. "It is because we know how much a tooth can be hurt that we dislike to get into a chair ourselves," one of the craft explained the other day. "I had to fill a tooth for a fellow dentist last week and found it simply impossible to do a good job. He twisted and turned, grabbed my hand when he saw it coming his way and absolutely refused to let me do enough cutting to hold the filling solidly. Finally I patched the tooth up somehow, and he wouldn't let me polish off the edges. Give me the most hysterical woman before a dentist every time."—New York Tribune.

A Quaint Story.

The Irish solicitor general, speaking the other day upon delusions, told a story of a north of Ireland Protestant who was perfectly sane save on one point. This stanch Protestant harbored the delusion that one of his legs belonged to a Roman Catholic, and therefore when he went to bed every night he used to leave the Catholic leg outside the blanket by way of punishment.

Points to Watch

TEA.
The Japan and China tea crop is short, and reports from Ceylon indicate a similar condition there. Better grade Japan teas will be especially scarce owing to exceptionally unfavorable weather conditions during the period of picking.

COFFEE.
A very strong feeling exists in the coffee market, due to reports from Europe and Brazil.

SUGAR.
The market is very weak all over the world. Buyers are only satisfying immediate needs through fear of another decline.

RICE.
Indications are for a continuation of high prices in rice for some time to come.

ASPARAGUS.
Short deliveries have been made to the jobbers. Higher prices may be expected.

CANNED SALMON.
Present prices will be very good six months from now. See Review of the Markets.

CANNED PEAS.
The shortage in the East has strengthened the position of these vegetables here.

RAISINS.
Sunburn during the hot spell has still further lessened this year's crop. Prices will range much higher this year than last.

WALNUTS.
Advices from Europe indicate short crops and deliveries too late for Thanksgiving. This will insure a heavy demand for all California nuts of fine quality.

BRAZIL NUTS.
These nuts are of unusually fine quality and in large supply and should continue at moderate prices.

National—Fred Mason, former secretary of the National Grocers' Association, has turned over all the papers of the organization to President John A. Green, who will fill the office till the convention at Niagara Falls in January.

Spokane, Wash.—C. Anderson and P. Nelson have been appointed a committee to arrange a watermelon social.

New Orleans.—The attempt to raise the liquor license to $500 a year for grocers, with a graduated scale up to $2500, was defeated in the city council, largely through the influence of the Retail Grocers' Association by a vote of 11 against to 7 for.

New Orleans—The grocers are complaining about brewers selling to their customers.

Dallas, Tex.—The local grocers' association has asked for the appointment of a Pure Food Inspector, "provided that said inspector be appointed on account of his fitness and qualifications for the office and not on account of his political influence."

FRISCO GROCERS MEET.

Discuss State Association and the Matter of Maintaining Prices.

The greater part of the time of the meeting of the San Francisco Retail Grocers on Wednesday evening was spent in the discussion of securing funds to continue affiliation with the State Grocers' Association.

J. A. Stulz said he considered it necessary for San Francisco to have the co-operation of other associations if this city were to accomplish the best possible results.

F. B. Connolly said that San Francisco profited more largely by the State Association than any other special organization. He pointed out that it was through the State organization that laws had been secured protecting the grocer who had a guarantee of the purity of his goods, allowing the attachment of public officials, making the wife's separate property responsible for grocery bills and prohibiting trading stamps—a law that the State Association is now helping test in the Supreme Court. Mr. Connoly stated that there were many other advantages to be secured from the State, but that these were the chief ones.

H. Rawe questioned the ability of the Association to pay the per capita tax of $1.

Mr. Stulz insisted that the grocers had always been able to raise money for anything they had wanted to do during the past 15 or 16 years.

Mr. Hurley insisted that the State Association was not worth 10 cents to the members and spoke against affiliating with it.

Bert McCoy favored keeping up the State Association but suggested that each member be assessed $1 if the treasury was not strong enough. He said he was sure every member would be willing to give up $1 for the cause.

T. H. Corcoran favored a special meeting to consider the matter.

J. J. Hayes spoke for continuing with the State organization.

F. B. Connolly said there was much to be gained from the State Association besides legislative influence. That as individuals the retail grocer was powerless, but collectively they were a power. He urged that the men present were a large percentage of the number who usually attended meetings and advised immediate action.

H. D. Burmeister advised sending postals to members asking for contributions.

Julius Berendsen favored this idea.

Mr. Connolly stated that as nearly all present apparently favored continuing affiliation with the State Association, he suggested the appointing of a committee on ways and means to devise a method for securing the funds. The committee appointed was Messrs. Connolly, Burmeister, Corcoran, D. J. Sullivan, Methmann Ring, Van Arsdale.

Mr. D. J. Sullivan advised strongly that delegates be required to pay their own expenses, which would save $150 to the organization.

The committee of five from Alameda county then urged the idea of closer co-operation between San Francisco and Alameda county in upholding prices. They were warmly applauded and assured that San Francisco would be prepared to follow any practical suggestion that might be made by their Oakland brothers towards securing results.

The meeting adjourned to beer and sandwiches at a late hour.

Many Delegates Expected.

Numerous Communities to be Represented at California's State Convention.

The convention of the State Grocers' Association, which is to be held at Stockton, August 21st and 22nd, promises to be very largely attended.

The past year has seen a remarkable strengthening in many of the associations along lines that experience has taught them were wise. Every association in the State can profit by learning of the methods that have been followed in these other associations. The successful association will be strengthened by the strengthening of the "weak sisters" in Association work who have failed to secure satisfactory results in the past.

Alameda County Ready.

In another column will be found a report of the meeting of the Alameda County Grocers' Association. This organization will send a full quota of delegates to the convention. All the delegates from Alameda county will be required to meet their own expenses. This association has added to its dues $1 per year to be collected by the secretary in order to meet the funds of the State Grocers' Association per capita tax. They are entitled to nine delegates and will probably make an effort to secure the presidency for L. Warnke, who has served as president of their organization for one term and as secretary of the State Association for two terms. Their election of delegates will take place at their next meeting, which will be held August 7th.

Sacramento in Line.

A letter has been received from the secretary of the Sacramento Retail Grocers' Association in which he says:

"We have elected our delegates to the State convention. Sacramento will be represented in force at Stockton, August 21st and 22nd. Sacramento will send seven delegates. They will all be there. We are gaining in membership and getting all we are asking for."

Program of Officers.

Accordingly to State Secretary Frank B. Connolly, the idea for this convention is to have the discussions carried on by the retail grocers themselves. There will be two chief features of the convention.

One feature of great importance will be a report from each affiliating association who, through some representative will tell what has been accomplished by that association and will then be prepared to answer queries from other delegates in regard to important features of the work accomplished.

Another important part of the work will be a discussion in open convention of the various features of Association work and questions that are now engrossing the attention of the grocery trade all over the United States.

This will be done with the idea of bringing out the thoughts and sentiments of various communities with regard to these various matters. These discussions will be unquestionably of great educational value to representatives of Associations who may not have considered these propositions fully in the past.

Every grocer in the State will be welcome to attend the various sessions of

PROTECTING PROFITS.

Recognition By the Trade of the Necessity for Better Conditions.

By H. W. Thurlow, Secretary.

It is very gratifying to the gentlemen who planned the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association to see that all over the United States an agitation similar to their own is being taken up by the grocery trade.

One of the principal matters discussed by the recent wholesale grocers' convention held at Milwaukee on June 29th and 30th, was the policy of having manufacturers fix and maintain a fair selling price for their goods. At this convention there were present more than 300 wholesale grocers, who were the leading merchants from 30 different States. They passed resolutions favoring having the manufacturer govern the sale of his products by contract providing the manufacturer enforced that contract.

This has been the attitude of the management of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association, who have urged that manufacturers govern the sale of their goods through the retailers by contracts with the individual retailer and agreeing to give him their support and assistance providing he enforced the contract. Unless such a contract is enforced, it not only is of no value, but is really a detriment to the trade since it causes confusion and loss to those merchants who insist upon living up to any contract they may make.

It is only necessary for the grocers to look at Southern California in the south and Seattle, Spokane and Tacoma in the north, to realize that manufacturers will be willing and eager to give their goods such protection when the retail grocers desire it. This protection is as much of an advantage to the manufacturer as it is to the retailer, since the trade always displaces an article that does not give a sufficient margin with something that pays better.

It Pays Manufacturers.

The success of the Globe Grain and Milling Co. in introducing its goods in the markets of San Francisco and the bay cities is the best evidence of the fact that retail grocers desire a profit on their goods and will give preference to those manufacturers who will assure them such profits, providing the goods have merit. It is frequently a difficult matter to switch a customer on flour. Nevertheless, this has been done by nearly one thousand retail dealers of San Francisco and the bay cities. These men were assured by the Globe Milling Co. that they would not allow their flour to be cut. Knowing that they could safely offer this flour to their trade at the price fixed by the Globe Mills without danger of having that customer receive an offer of the same goods for less money, the trade were glad to push it, and the sale of "A-1," "Banquet" and "Silver Star" flour by the grocery trade of San Francisco has already reached very large proportions.

There is no question but that the introduction of the Globe flour could not have been brought about so readily had the trade been receiving fair treatment from the other mills, to whom they had been giving their best

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Lemons are firm and apparently on a steady basis.

Summer drink season is now at its height. Grape juices, ginger ale, and other like drinks are selling well.

Apple butter is a good item for your picnic assortment.

A good quality of paper bags prevents much cussing.

Spices look like a good purchase. Pepper leads in strength.

Keep your store clean and you won't be troubled with flies.

The demand for ice-cream salt is good. How is your supply?

Most grocers are disposing of their last year's preserves at reduced prices.

Dried fruits put in pound paper boxes are in better demand at this time of year.

Get your line of condensed soups out. If you don't, the trade may forget all about them.

In what condition is your candy department? Better move it to a cool place in the store.

Trade in fruit jars is picking up rapidly. All markets are making a hard bid for the business.

The right kind of attention to the candy department will increase business in a profitable line.

Bird seed and bird gravel in packages are a good thing to place on the counter at this season.

Why not push custards and other preparations for ice cream now that the ice cream season is here?

There's nothing more important about the business of retailing than good feeling between employer and clerks.

If your clerks are "grouchy" there may be a good cause for it. Examine yourself conscientiously; the fault may be yours.

Saratoga chips done up in pound and half-pound packages is a good article to put with your picnic assortment.

Pickling season will soon be here. Your spice and vinegar stocks must be in such shape as to meet the demand.

Cheese is a good seler. Keep your cheese knives clean and the department clean and your sales will increase.

Grocers wishing to boom their bakery department should use a part of the show windows to display a few of their goods.

If you haven't a case showing samples of your package goods in crackers and cookies you better get one or make it.

Work your canned goods so that when the fresh stock comes on the market you will be in shape to put in this year's goods.

How about your stock of jelly? It is about time to get rid of last year's goods. Why not put it at a price that will tempt the trade?

Vinegar in bottles is a good seller to small families.

Trade in package cereals is on the increase with most retail grocers. The cereal department has come to stay and it is quite a department at that.

In your salt fish department have a list of the different kinds of fish so that customers do not have to "nose" around to find out what you carry.

Reports about a shortage in Japan tea crops continue to arrive. Prices on high grades are getting better. Some grocers are picking up tea bargains.

During the hot months the bakery department ought to pay well. Push this department toward the front of the store. Keep it clean and fresh looking.

Olive oils and salad dressings are good numbers at this season of the year. Keep them toward the front and don't forget to call the trade's attention to the line.

Occasionally women complain that when it comes time for pickling the grocers seem to forget that it is the large crocks the housewives are after. Don't let that be said of you.

Right over your "delicatessen" department have a list of the ready-made foods found there. A city grocer has his painted in large black letters so that it can be read from the front of the store.

A place for everything and everything in its place applies well to the stock. A grocer who mixes lamp stock with scrub-brushes will be paid for his carelessness when the heavy rush comes.

If you want to push toilet soaps sell three or six cakes for a quarter, but do not sell anything less than a quarter's worth. A merchant tells us that he has several brands that he never sells by the single cake, and it is easier getting the quarter than it is getting the five or ten cents for one cake.

One of the large department stores devotes a table to picnic goods and every can is labeled with a small white ticket giving the contents of the can and the price. While a customer is waiting to be served she can look over the whole list and know exactly what she wants by the time a clerk is ready to take her order.

Picnic items are selling fast these outing days. It pays to keep in stock a nice line of canned meats, also olives, potted cheese, sardines, etc.

St. Louis retailers have stirred up an awful row about manufacturers selling short weight crackers. Do you blame them? When a grocer pays for crackers he doesn't want pasteboard delivered to him.

Trade in fruit jars and the things that go with them, rubbers, sealing wax, etc., ought to be good now. Jelly tumblers are seasonable. Push these things. Advertise them. They also help sugar sales.

The canned pea pack is reported short and the reports have the right ring about them, too. Maryland and Baltimore report a shortage of approximately fifty per cent as compared with last season.

The rice market looks to be very strong. Southern advices indicate conditions which render a large reduction in yield this fall certain. Higher prices on this popular cereal are regarded as assured.

A little advertising properly directed will have a mighty good effect in driving off the dullnes or the dog days.

Olives stuffed with celery make a wholesome relish.

In purchasing nutmegs pick out those nuts which are of an oily appearance and heavy.

Oatmeal is a somewhat perishable article. Exposure to air causes it to have a bitter flavor.

Cocktail olives, otherwise the pitted Manzanilla fruit, are now a staple article on all up-to-date bars.

Tea deteriorates by keeping after reaching maturity, and it loses strength and flavor quite rapidly if it is frequently exposed to the air.

There is only one safe rule in the spice department, and that is to buy from a thoroughly reliable house. The dealer who looks around for bargains in spices will probably have no spice trade to care for before long.

Olives are recomemnded as useful for promoting digestion. They are good for people who need fattening up. The more they are eaten, the better they are liked. Samples of olives usually make customers for the goods, when freely distributed.

"Fourpenny" as a trade term in the hardware branch of the general store business, means four pounds to the thousand nails, and "tenpenny" means ten pounds to the thousand nails. Originally the word was "pound," but it was clipped until it finally became what it is to-day.

A high German authority prefers the lime and water method of preserving eggs to the water glass method. He says that the preserving of eggs in a water glass solution he would not recommend, as he has read that in handling eggs thus preserved one is liable to get a sore hand or loosened finger nails.

Iced tea is best when made with cold water, according to some authorities, because the aroma is not dissipated by the cold water. If an extract of tea is made with cold water it can be bottled, and if placed in a moderate temperature should keep for a reasonable time. When serving fill the glass with cracked ice, put some sugar on top of it, add a slice of lemon and then pour in the extract. It is surprising to most people that so simple a beverage should be so delicious. For making the extract a choice grade of Chinese congou or souchong is best fitted. Japan tea is least suitable of any tea. Fine oolong leaf makes good iced tea. For people of good nerves, who like green tea, fine imperials and young hysons are recommended.

PENALTY OF IGNORANCE.

Ridiculous Statement That People Read and Believe.

Many daily papers all over the country are printing excerpts from an article about adulteration of food that apepared in a recent issue of the "Saturday Evening Post" of Philadelphia. The article was filled with such preposterous libels on the men who sell food that Dr. C. H. La Wall, a chemist of the Pennsylvania Dairy and Food Department, has written the following letter of protest:

Philadelphia, June 30, 1905.

The Curtis Publishing Co.,
421 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Dear Sirs:—In the "Saturday Evening Post" for June 17th there appeared a narticle entitled "The Penalties of Poverty," by David Graham Philips, in which the author cites some instances of adulteration which are so ridiculously unjustified as to cast discredit upon the entire article among those who are at all familiar with the subject.

I refer particularly to the paragraph upon sugar, milk and coffee. Mr. Pillips certainly should know by this time, if he did not know when the article was wirtten, that such gross methods as adding sand or chalk (marble dust) to sugar have not existed for years, if they ever did exist at all, except in the minds of the writers of jokes for the comic papers.

I have had a great deal of experience in the line of food adulteration and I have never seen or heard of sugar which contained chalk or marble dust, and I would be very much pleased if Mr. Phillips could tell me where such material can be obtained.

With regard to milk, I venture to say that such a thing as watering milk to double or treble its bulk has never come under the notice of the authorities either in Philadelphia or in New York, where the system of milk inspection is so well attended to that, at the present time, it is very rare to find milk to which one-fourth its volume of water has been added, and the absurdity of adding water to treble its bulk will be apparent to any one who cares to try it—such milk could not be sold to the most ignorant person.

The subject of coffee is also one on which Mr. Phillips needs enlightenment, as since the failure of the Camden firm some few years ago to foisten upon the market an artificial coffee bean very little adulteration is practiced, except in package pulverized goods, and even then it is not a common ocurrence.

I shuold be very glad to be of assistance to Mr. Phillips at some future time in furnishing him with data which will not make him a laughing stock to those who know something of the subject.

Yours very truly,
Charles H. LaWall.

CALIFORNIA PRODUCTS.

We welcome Vol. 1, No. 1. of "California Products," a new candidate for popular favor published at Los Angeles in the interest of fruits, nuts, wines and other fruit products of the Pacific Coast. The paper is attractive in appearance and the first number was well filled with valuable matter.

A SATISFACTORY SELLER.

Retail Grocers Assured of Satisfied Customers and a Fair Profit.

The most important element in the success of a retail grocer is satisfying his customers. The goods he sells must suit their requirements or the sale is unprofitable, no matter how big a margin he may secure.

When the article not only gives satisfaction to the customers as to quality, but is also satisfactory as to price, and at the same time pays the retailer a profit that is satisfactory to himself, every element for successful merchandizing has been supplied.

It is along these lines that the Alpine Evaporated Cream Company is building up its trade.

Alpine Cream is made at Hollister by the improved process and under the personal supervision of Mr. John B. Meyenberg. Mr. Meyenberg is the inventor and the original manufacturer of evaporated creams This means that he has had an experience of over twenty years and has been able to test and learn the value of every process that has been employed. The full advantage of this knowledge has been applied to the advantage of the Alpine Company, which is one of the best assurances that their cream will satisfy the customer.

The price at which Alpine Cream is sold to the retail grocer permits of its being sold in San Francisco and the other bay cities at the price of 10 cents, three for 25 cents, with a fair profit. It will be the endeavor of the Alpine Cream Company to see that the price is maintained. This company does not desire to have their goods handled by firms who may desire to sell cream less than three for 25 cents.

The established price of Alpine Cream is now being maintained in Southern California, the company having there the active co-operation of the Southern California Grocers' Association. The company is prepared to co-operate to the fullest extent to secure the maintenance of prices with the members of every other association that desires to secure a fair profit.

Alpine Cream is for sale by all jobbers.

FOLDING DELIVERY BOXES.

A Modern Convenience That Saves Grocers Space and Money.

It has been seven years since folding delivery boxes for grocers' use was first put upon the market. Their success was instantaneous. The many advantages of the folding box were quickly recognized by the retail grocery trade and at present there are over a million of them in daily use by the leading grocers of the country, especially in the East.

The folding delivery box is admirably adapted to delivery wagons because of its shape, lightness and strength. They insure against danger of breaking or crushing, since the boxes lock one into the other and cannot telescope. They save wagon space, since their square form permits their being packed more closely in the wagon than baskets could be. They insure a safe delivery of goods, since the boxes, when empty, are folded, and this is positive proof that no part of the order is being carried back to the store.

On the first part of the cover will be seen a letter from P. G. Hansen, a merchant well known to the retail grocers of the United States, who writes that he has used the folding boxes for the past four years and considers them the best of modern conveniences for grocers and that they are economical from every standpoint since they save space in the wagon and in the store and are four times cheaper than boxes because of their durability.

The Edw. Cornett Co. of St. Louis, Mo., have also written the manufacturers that since they first took hold of the folding boxes, they had bought about fifteen hundred or more. They add: "We do not think any live, wide-awake groceryman should be without them any more than they would do without scales."

The Pacific Coast agent is W. A. Hawley, whose offices are at 578 Mission St.

"H. S. Elliott" is the name over the store at 302 Third street that was formerly conducted as Elliott Bros. John S. Elliott, the older brother, has purchased the old-established store of Geo. Reed of Oakland.

OAKLAND GROCERS MEET.

Appreciate Results of Work Done by Associations, and Awake to The Future.

The grocers of Alameda County held a very interesting and important meeting on Monday evening. The spirit that pervaded the members was expressed by H. Hauch of Alameda in a discussion which arose as to supporting the directors of the Pacific Coast Association in their efforts to secure concerted action by the different Associations. Mr. Hauch said: "Optimism, the intention to go ahead, is the only thing that will accomplish anything for us. Unless we have the spirit to attempt better things and unless we are prepared to say what we mean and then back up what we say, we cannot hope for any better conditions. If the grocers can show that they have spirit and fighting capacity, their requests will be considered."

Secretary Reed reported that the cutting on Del Monte products had been stopped through the efforts of the Del Monte Mills, directed by Mr Holmes, the Alameda County representative of that concern.

The death of T. J. Parsons, president of the Del Monte Milling Co., was announced at this juncture. L. Warnke of Alameda then took the floor and spoke eloquently and feelingly of the co-operation and friendliness that had always been manifested towards the grocers by Mr. Parsons in their efforts to better trade conditions. Mr. Warnke stated that he had had occasion to interview Mr. Parsons many times and had always found him desirous of doing everything that lay in his power to better conditions.

Respect for T. J. Parsons.

On motion of L. Warnke, a resolution of condolence was passed and it was decided that when the Association adjourned they should adjourn out of respect for Mr. Parsons.

The matter of Association funds was then taken up. Mr. Nor, chairman of the committee that had this in charge, advised that the membership be divided into three classes. That class A be made up of grocers who employed one wagon or less and pay 50 cents per month as dues. Class B be made up of those grocers who employed two wagons and should pay $1 per month. Class C be made up of grocers having more than two wagons and should pay $2 per month as dues. It was decided that this would not supply sufficient funds to meet the expenses of the organization without some outside help. It was then voted that class A members should pay 75 cents, class B, $1.50, and class C, $2.50, and that once a year the secretary should collect $1 from each member to pay the State Association per capita tax.

Want Frisco's Co-operation.

A discussion as to the advantages that had accrued from the Association and the necessity of having manufacturers maintain the retail selling prices brought out the fact that owing to the lack of activity on the part of San Francisco's Association, Alameda County had been restrained from securing the greatest possible amount of usefulness through the organization.

Mr. H. D. Cushing suggested that a committee from the Alameda County grocers should be appointed to attend the next meeting of the San Francisco grocers and discuss the situation with them with the idea of arranging some way by which the grocers of the two cities could co-operate along matters of common interest. This suggestion met with general approval. The chair was instructed to appoint a committee of five and request each committeeman to take as many grocer friends along with him as could make it convenient to go. The committee appointed consisted of Messrs. Sill, Hauch, Cushing, Eiben and Warnke.

A communication from the State Grocers' Association requesting the appointment of delegates to the State convention was read. As Oakland has about 140 members, it was decided that she was entitled to nine delegates. Each delegate will be required to pay his own expenses this year. A full representation was desired as Vice-President Duncan stated that Alameda County was particularly anxious to make a strong showing at the Stockton convention, since they hoped to see one of their members fill the position of chief executive. This announcement brought applause from the members and blushes to the cheeks of Mr. Warnke.

The following members were then nominated for delegates to the convention at Stockton, the election to be held on the first Monday in August.

Warnke, Cushing, Hopkins, Hofman, Sill, Wixson, Hauch, Duncan, Troill, Eiben, Manning, Mitchell, Scott, Gibson, Hadlen, Clatanoff, Nor and Russell.

The suggestion of Mr. Hauch, the chair was instructed to appoint nine committees, one for Alameda, three for Berkeley, five for Oakland, of workers to get new members.

What's the Grocery Business Coming To?

The grocery business is coming to better things; may be the time is not at hand; may be it is.

What are the better things?

One of them is the elimination of the cutter.

When you can no longer say you sell cheaper than the other fellow — but when you can say your service is better — your store cleaner — your salesmen more intelligent and that you sell

SCHILLING'S BEST.

A CAR A DAY.

Carnation Cream Does a Record Business for the Month of July.

The month of July, 1905, has shown a record business for the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co. in Northern California. The sales thorugh the jobbing centers of this district have averaged a full car a day for each day of the month since July 1st, exclusive of Sundays. This is a marvelous record and would have been considered impossible had it been suggested two years ago.

The enormous sales of canned cream in this market are due largely to the campaign of education carried on by the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co. in the interest of Carnation Cream for the past four years. This campaign of education backed up by the quality of the goods has familiarized the general public with the desirability of evaporated cream and has made Carnation practically a "cow in the pantry," as its manufacturers are pleased to call it.

MANY DELEGATES EXPECTED.

the Convention. The right to vote will of course, be confined to delegates.

Who Will be Delegates.

Every affiliating association is entitled to two delegates at large. They are also entitled to one delegate for every ten members up to fifty, and another delegate for every additional fifty. All individual members are entitled to attend as delegates. Every grocer in a town which has no affiliating association is entitled to become a member on the payment of the annual dues of $3.

Stockton Will Entertain.

The Grocers' Association of Stockton is officered by young, energetic merchants. This association has always been one of the most aggressive in the State. It has succeeded in securing many advantages for its members. In every movement to better trade conditions, the grocers of Stockton have always kept pace with the band wagon. They have never allowed any organization to pass them in their endeavor to get results.

They are now preparing to give a splendid time to all those grocers of the State who go to Stockton on August 21st and 22nd will not only have a very valuable experience but a very pleasant one.

PURE FOOD LAW.

Attracting Trade

The Town That Woke Up.

In this, the story of the town that woke up, there is a distinct invitation to the retail merchant to not only read it, but also act upon it.

The details may be varied in some respects, but the general plan in the main will be followed because it fits not one, but most communities. The main feature in the retail business is selling. The science of buying may be the foundation rock for popular selling, but the essential element to merchandising success is sales—and more of them.

When the weekly newspaper in Prairie Center one day of its not too exhilarating existence, changed hands, there was considerable comment among the merchants as to what difference, if any, the new ownership would make. The Review's journalistic policy had heretofore been rather more than less desultory and commonplace. It aroused small interest because its contents, if analyzed, would show little, if any, of that mental Tabasco, termed Attic salt.

Wide-awake Newspaper Man.

But it was soon evident that a change was at hand. There was news, real news, in the next issue of the Review. The use of newspaper English was more metropolitan in character, the head letter was of new and attractive face; there were "features" and sprightly comment that straightway claimed attention. But the crowning sensation was the editorial page. There was a double-leaded editorial that recited in pungent detail the manifold shortcomings of Prairie Center in general, and each and every merchant in particular. The lack of cohesion, the deficit of united effort, the evidence of "letting things drift," were all unsparingly pointed out.

There followed a dissertation on paint and the price of it per gallon set in bold Roman numerals. The contrast between the store of Burton & Co., freshly decorated and as it was with the front sun-cracked and all but guiltless of paint, the wooden awning roof warped and the pillars gnawed by many a flea-bitten old "cribber" were described so vividly that Mr. Burton, with the paper still in his hand and his face rubicond with emotion, walked to the middle of the street in front of his somewhat faded emporium and took a minute survey of it from ground floor to sky line.

Woke Storekeeper Up.

The group of corner whittlers who were watching him in curiosity heard him remark in an emphatic way: "Darned if he ain't right," and retire thoughtfully to his store.

The next week was a busy one at the Burton & Co. store. A new striped awning and a newly painted front, clean windows and seasonable merchandise attractively displayed were all in evidence and the next week's issue of the Review carried the name of Burton & Co. in its "roll of progress" column and also admiratory comment on the "comendable enterprise." There were others. The force of example was strong enough to induce followers, and the result was good to see. But it takes more than fresh paint and attractive displays to make business, although these undoubtedly help

The Co-Operative Sale.

There were other towns only a few miles away and these obtained a share of the trade of the farming community as well as Prairie Center. Then it was the new editor broached a sale-making plan to the merchants. It was discussed and approved first by Burton & Co., and one by one the bulk of the other merchants.

It was agreed by a majority of the merchants that a general sale would be held on Saturday following week in which the dry goods, shoe, grocery, furniture, hardware and general stores would participate.

Each was to prepare as large an ad as necessary to carry detailed descriptions and prices with leaders as liberally sprinkled as the merchants' conscience would permit.

The editor agreed that first, every farmer within a radius of fifteen miles of Prairie Center should receive a copy of the paper, and that it would be issued a day earlier in the week. It was mailed regularly on Thursday so that by sending it out Wednesday those living farthest away would receive it in plenty of time to come to Prairie Center on Saturday. "Now in addition," said the editor, "there should be another inducement, something that will bring every man and woman as well as the younger people to Prairie Center on this big sale day.

Extra Pay for Eggs.

"My idea of what that something should be is this: Advertise in this same paper that Prairie Center merchants will on that day pay two cents more than market price for each dozen eggs and the same for each pound of butter brought to this town. Also include the name of the merchants who will pay these prices.

"This will prove a big drawing card and it is only fair that a part of this expense should be shared by each merchant who will also share in the general benefits.

"There must be a fund provided to take care of the extra two cents premium that is to be paid on eggs and each should pledge himself to meet his just share of this premium, say up to $5. That will provide for 250 dozen eggs, or 250 pounds of butter.

"If this amount is not enough the deficit can be made up after the sale, and to provide for this fairly each merchant buyer of produce will keep an account of the name of the seller and the amount of produce purchased."

This appealed to all as being fair, and was agreed upon.

From that time on until the paper was mailed was a busy time for the editor and his force as well as for the merchants.

When the paper was printed it was just about double the usual size.

It bristled with pointed headlines and reveled in snappy offering.

In fact more Prairie Center merchandise saw the limelight of publicity that day than ever before.

In half a dozen places black type announcements in prominent display of offer of over the market price for produce, and on other pages were goods described in terms that would result in the produce premium, and then some, returning to the various commercial tills.

Results of Sale.

Long before seven o'clock that Saturday morning farmers' teams were hitched around the "square," and more were arriving every few minutes. By ten o'clock Prairie Center had the largest crowd on its streets in its history. The stores were crowded with country people and the grocery and general merchandise stores had rows of tubbs and baskets of eggs, while meat counters were piled with crocks and rolls of butter.

And buy! Every merchant did the business of his life that day. The quantity of goods that passed over the counters established a new record in the town.

Every merchant for once on his mettle and the service was fairly prompt. The preliminary work had been so thoroughly done and the plan on the whole was so attractive that buying moved briskly all day. Late in the evening the rattle of the last home-going wagons died in the distance. The tired merchant looked over his day's record of sales, counted his cash and made up his profits. He carried a mile home with him. He could afford to. The co-operative sale of the town that woke up was a whole success.

CHICAGO AGREES.

Grocers' Criterion Approves the Ideas Advanced by Mr. Connolly.

Mr. Connolly of California outlines a few things which he thinks the National Retail Grocers' Association ought to do for its members and the grocery trade in general, says the "Grocers' Criterion." He suggests that its policy should be to "bring system into the retail grocery trade and insure the trade against unintelligent cutting."

Upon [illegible] this should be one of [illegible]. But how to proceed to insure it against unintelligent cutting is not easy to determine. To prevent cutting of any character is one of the hardest propositions the national or [illegible] could possibly tackle. We [illegible] what we don't know how it would [illegible] the matter.

Mr. Connolly, however, has a plan, as the following [illegible]. "We believe the National Retail Grocers' Association should take as its chief policy the idea of [illegible] co-operating with the manufacturers so as to make the maintenance of a fair price on leading staples possible. Whether the manufacturer sells through the jobber or direct to the retailer is something for the associations to settle with the manufacturer and is entirely a local issue."

COAST CROP CONDITIONS.

The Weekly Report of the United States Department of Agriculture for California says:

"Hops and Beans are in good condition. But trifling damage was caused to the beans by the hot weather. Grapes and other deciduous fruits were considerably injured by the heat of the preceding week."

SUGAR MARKET.

There has been no change in the local market. Trade has been very slack owing to the uncertainty as to the trend of prices.

New York, July 13th—Willet & Gray report:

Raws—The market during the week was unsettled and holders weak. The European market declined a shilling for July deliveries and is within 4d. of quotations for new crop. Even at this heavy decline the market is not steady and we cannot feel sure that the bottom is touched yet. It would seem as if the market has reached a point where judgment is thrown to the winds both here and in Europe, and it is a scramble to get out regardless of cost. Indications point to large crops next season But there is practically no invisible stocks left in the large consuming countries, and the deliveries from first hands for the next twelve months are bound to be very heavy. There is, therefore, no good reason for prices to further decline and long remain below the cost of production which at the present price of beet roots is equal to 4 cents for centrifugals, the present quotations for October-December deliveries.

Refined—The trade generally is quite bare of stocks Buyers are watching the course of the raw sugar market and holding off waiting further developments.

New York, July 11th—M. G. Wanzor & Co. report:

"Since the date of our last letter, European markets have declined almost 22 cents per 100 lbs We believe this last break may be accounted for by the panicky feeling in Europe due to the unsettled political conditions there. There have been no happenings in the industry such as would warrant any decline like those shown. Sugar values on the Continent are getting to a basis which holds no hope for profit to the producers whose crops are now growing."

New Orleans, July 7th—G. Schwartz reports:

"The course of the London market has paralyzed holders, and they are gradually selling out. Some of them are losing as high as $3.50 per barrel."

Philadelphia, Pa. — The "Evening World" says:

"The raw sugar market is weakened by the prospect that the coming crop of beet sugar will be over 2,000,000 tons larger than last year, an increase of about 40 per cent. If such an increase actually comes the market will be so hopelessly waterlogged that it is hard to see how prices can be held up. Added to the above is the fact that there will be a carry-over of raw sugar from last year's crop. Earlier in the season it was expected that there would scarcely be enough raw sugar to go around. The high prices so reduced consumption all over the world, however, that there was more than enough and some to carry over."

MAPLE SUGAR.

Enosburg Falls, Vt.—A. J. Croft reports: "Prices have been well sustained. A large percentage of the crop of 1905 has been marketed. The prices paid producers was 8 cents per lb.

COFFEE.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"The market is very firm and active."

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"The coffee trade in this market has been very active during the past week, and a tendency to higher prices prevails.

"Coffee roasters delayed buying hoping for lower prices, but reports from Europe all indicate probable advance in price. July receipts wil fall short on Rios.

"We consider coffee a good purchase at prevailing prices, as there is quite a demand for export from this market, which has not hitherto been the case."

New York, July 13th—Willet & Gray report:

"The New York Coffee Exchange figures out the decline in the world's visible supply during June to be 417,000 bags. The European statisticians report the decline about 500,000 bags. The world's production for the season just closed was 16,000,000. The world's consumption (corrected) was about 16,400,000 bags. From this it can be seen that the world's visible supply has declined heavily. It is difficult to state the quantity in figures, but probably another million bags. It is enough to say that during the 1904-1905 season, production fell short of consumption upwards of 2,000,000 bags. The outlook for this new season of 1905-1906 already points decidedly to a further shrinkage. The situation is making for higher values and Brazil seems to be in a position not only to resist a decline, but insists on better prices. The Brazil holders know it and already begin to realize on their opportunity. Brazil is selling to some extent at prices above European and American parity."

New York, July 11th—Volney Green & Son report:

"Coffee options have advanced 30 points during the last week. Spot coffees are stronger and prices show an advance all along the line. The mild varieties are steady with holders not inclined to shade prices."

TEA.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. report:

"According to all reports there will be a considerable shortage in the tea crop of both Japan and China and probably of Ceylon."

A. Schilling & Co. report.

"Advices which we have received all agree that the present crop of Japan teas will be very short, especially will this be the case as regards all good teas which are now in light supply and good demand.

"On account of the peculiar climatic conditions which have prevailed this season, many growers have not been able to pluck the leaf at the right moment, with the result that it has matured too much and a coarser leaf than usual has resulted

"It is fully expected by buyers in Japan that the shortage will soon be felt on this side, and a condition result in the tea market here not known for some time. That the market from now on will be firm and stronger than hitherto seems certain."

Yokohama, Japan, June 8th—Smith, Baker & Co. report:

"The tea crop is the shortest in twenty years, being, to date, barely more than half compared with previous years excepting 1902, which was a frost visited season. The initial cause for the present shortage was frosts which cut off the buds in many districts, followed by cool, sunless weather, which retarded development. The secondary cause was the disappointment of the producers for what they considered carefully prepared early teas. This heavy shortage will mean serious loss to Japan producers, but will be advantageous to those American tea merchants who are carrying large stocks of unsold teas of previous seasons. Total receipts at both ports amount to 91,037 piculs, as against 147,233 in 1904 and 157,897 in 1903. Total stocks in both ports 81,568 piculs, as against 128,957 same time in 1904, and 144,038 in 1903. This is exclusive of export transactions at Skidzuoka and other interior points."

RICE.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"A very strong feeling prevails in the rice market. Holders are very firm in the views."

New York, July 11th—Dan Talmage Sons report:

"Market for the week has been steady. Orders indicate a disposition to take for needs only. Nevertheless, stocks are running down and sightly offering are firmly held since no re-supply can be had at equal costs.

"The growing crop has had unfavorable conditions in many sections from the start to the present. Cold weather and excess of rains interfered with plowing and seeding. Drought followed, which baked the ground so hard that much seed did not come up. At the present time, the superabundance of rain is unfavorable to the late planting. Authorities estimate that there has been a reduction of from 25 to 50 per cent of the acreage.

"Advices from abroad note that prices are strongly held with restricted business."

Houston, Texas, July 3d—Standard Milling Co. report:

"Heavy rains and frosts in the rice belt of Louisiana and Texas have caused a great deal of unsprouted seed to rot. In some sections farmers are still planting. This will necessitate a great deal of late and damaged rice."

CANNED FRUITS.

There have been no changes in quotations this week. Some of the packers continue their quotations of cherries, although the Association withdrew prices several weeks ago. The loss by the hot spell and the rushing of the season may restrict the pack on sorts that promised well.

Haywards—Much of the apricots brought to the cannery at this place have been so badly sun-burned as to be practically valueless for caning purposes. This fruit will have to be dried.

Sacramento—State Horticultural Commissioner Arborn reports considerable damage to apricots, peaches and apples because of the heat. Owing to the ripeness of the apricot crop the fruit has been badly burned, and most of it will have to be dried.

Newcastle—Many weather reports confirm loss of grapes, plums and prunes.

Fresno, July 6th—B. Large, manager Minnewawa Packing Co., reports: "We think the canneries will be compelled to advance prices 10 cents per dozen over their opening prices on peaches, since the fruit is costing more than they expected it would."

CANNED ASPARAGUS.

Asparagus—Is held very strongly. The entire pack has been turned over to the jobbers, and prices now rest with them. There is considerable talk of an advance.

CANNED TOMATOES.

Aberdeen, Md., July 8th—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report:

"Acreage for tomatoes will be 60 to 65 per cent of last year. It is now a question of the carry-over as to how much tomatoes will be available. Spot tomatoes continue to advance and large speculative buying is reported. From the fact that many lots of spot tomatoes have in some cases been frozen three winters, means that, except for immediate wants, futures at 70 per cent are by far the more desirable purchase."

Baltimore, July 8th—T. J. Meehan & Co. report: "Tomatoes continue active. The end of the week saw a still stronger market. Surface indications would denote that the upward movement is not yet closed."

Baltimore, Md., July 7th—The "Trade" reports:

"The improvement on tomatoes still continues and strengthens for all sizes. It is now recognized that the acreage is very greatly reduced, certainly not over 60 per cent of what it was last year at the same time in the heaviest packing season. No. 3 Spot are quoted at 67½ to 70 cents, and supply has run short. No. 3 Future Standards are quoted 70 to 75 cents, and will soon be bargains at that."

CANNED PEAS.

Baltimore, July 7th—The "Trade" reports:

"The market condition on canned peas is very much mixed. In some sections, good conditions are reported. In others the crop will be almost a failure. The crop in New York is considerably lessened by rain. They will either have a big crop of poor stock or a poor pack of good stuff. This means that peas like tomatoes are about to take a turn for the better and will probably improve steadily for the next two months."

CANNED PINEAPPLES.

New York, July 10th—Paul Taylor Co. report:

"Owing to the destruction of pinapples in Florida by frosts, there has been such a heavy demand for table use of the pines coming from Porto Rico and Cuba, that higher prices have been realized by the growers in the northern part of Porto Rico than ever before. Canneries have therefore suffered badly in consequence. The pack in the southern portion of the islands has not been influenced by these conditions owing to the impossibility of satisfactory shipping of green fruit."

DRIED FRUIT.

The conference of the Raisin Growers' Association and the Commercial packers, which is to be held this Friday night, will do much towards settling the future of the raisin market. If the combination is effected, it will mean the combining of practically all the holders of raisins to maintain prices. This, coming in a year when the crop is short and the carry-over considerably smaller than usual, will mean considerably better prices than are ruling at present.

The Commercial packers are buying a few prunes at 2½ and 2¾-cent basis, but growers generally are unwilling to sell on this basis since the majority of them expect 3 cents.

Apricots are a little firmer. There has been a stronger feeling since the hot spell assured a considerable lessening of the output over what was expected.

Fresno, July 17—It is stated reliably that the sun burn of the recent hot week has reduced the tonnage of raisins from 15 to 20 per cent. This, together with early frosts, has very materially reduced the crop. Those packers who have sold raisins short will find themselves seriously pinched this year.

Salem, Ore., June 10th—Clinton J. Kirtz reports: "I have seen nearly all the bearing prune orchards of the State. There will be about 25 to 30 per cent of the prune crop. Speculative buyers have been making some offers, but holders are not selling. I believe the prices will reach the 3-cent bag basis."

Newmark, N. Y., July 10th—E. V. Peirson & Co. reports: "The June drop of apples has continued into July. Prospects at the present time are for about 50 per cent the last year's crop."

CURRANTS.

New York, July 11th—Greek Currant Co. says: "Goods of fine quality are attracting considerable attention and may be expected to command high prices Owing to the general idea that Parliament will act to protect the currant producers, prices have strengthened on strictly choice stocks to a figure above open quotations on this market."

WALNUTS.

New York, July 11th—Stocks of French walnuts on the spot have been closely concentrated by recent speculative purchases and the market is very strong. Mail advices from Bordeaux state that crop conditions are very discouraging. The output in some districts will not exceed half a crop. Shipments will not begin before November 15th. This would mean that the new crop would arrive too late for Thanksgiving trade. Reports from Chili are to the effect that this season's crop of walnuts is very small and the prices on a high basis.

PEANUTS.

St. Louis, July 8th—The St. Louis Edible Nut Co. reports:

"Spanish peanuts are in the hands of strong holders who are able to dictate prices. They have forced the market up considerably in the last two weeks, and will likely continue the profitable movement. Virginia shelled are in sympathy with Spanish and will demand good prices when the demand starts in.

BRAZIL NUTS.

New York, July 8th—Hills Bros. & Co. report:

"Brazils this year are of unusually fine quality. As the crop is large prices will no doubt continue moderate throughout the season."

RIPE OLIVES.

San Diego—C. M. Gifford, who has been making a success of canning ripe olives, says that the demand is greater than the supply and that he could use more fruit at his factory if he could get it. The crop this year will be of fair size.

BEANS.

Santa Maria, Cal.—Bean raisers say that the first bloom of vines has been ruined by the unusual heat and that the later yields have also suffered somewhat. This would indicate a shortage.

Detroit, July 8th—Carson, Craig & Co. report: "The acreage in beans cultivation is much less than last year. The season is nearly three weeks late. It will require the most favorable conditions from now on to produce even a moderate crop of beans. The weather for the past twenty days has been unfavorable. Rains have been general over the State, followed by cool weather.

Orion, July 6th—Geo. Swayze says: "Beans in dealers' and farmers' hands are about all cleaned up. The acreage of new crop beans amounts to about 80 per cent of last year's.

Halley, N. Y., July 8th—Smith, Partridge report: "Little stock of old beans remains in farmers' hands. It will be three months or more before new beans will be on the market. The feeling in the country is very strong. This year's crop will be late. With the best of weather from now on we do not look for more than one-half crop in this section. Not over two-thirds of the acreage at the outside has been planted."

Penn Yan, N. Y., July 7th—Birkett Mills report: "The acreage of beans in this territory is small. The crop will be a very moderate one."

CANNED SALMON.

New York, July 13th—J. K. Armsby says:

"The price of Puget Sound sockeye salmon when made will not be on a lower basis than $1.25 for talls f. o. b. Coast, even though there were a large pack. The British Columbia packers have named their prices and will market only one-half of what they pack this season, whatever the total, carrying the balance until next year. The large canners on Puget Sound will do the same and will purchase the excess output of the small packers. This is for the purpose of providing a supply for the lean years of 1906 to 1908, inclusive.

"The pack of low grades of salmon will fall at least 250,000 cases short of last year's consumption of that kind of fish. Our reports from Bering Sea indicate a good pack of salmon there, leading to the expectation that the world's pack, excluding sockeyes, will amount to 3,000,000 cases. The consumption of salmon for the season, from October, 1904, to October, 1905, we estimate at 4,380,000 cases. Jobbers are taking hold of red Alaska salmon freely at the opening prices. Stocks in their hands were never so strongly held as now. The carry-over from last season is nowhere near so burdensome as has been supposed. There will be no carry-over in England, Canada or Australia."

Kussiloff, July 14th—Two buildings of the salmon canning plant at this place have been burned. The loss includes 8000 cases of salmon.

Uyak, July 14th—The big salmon cannery of the N. W. Fisheries Co. has been destroyed by fire. The preparations for packing were under way, and 720,000 cans were made. These, with other things, were lost.

Seattle, July 15th—The "Trade Register" says: "Since the announcement last week of Alaska salmon prices, reports have come in that the price on red has been cut to 95 cent. A good run is reported in Alaska, and there seems no good reason for selling reds below $1.10, as the fish is worth it. Buying has been brisk except in the big Eastern markets, which seemed disposed to hold off hoping that the big sockeye pack will cause low prices. We believe this to be a mistake. Even with a large pack the sockeye packers have no reason to make low prices. They canot afford it. On the other hand, if the Sound sockeye pack runs below 800,000 cases, which it is liable to do, then jobbers will find higher prices quoted from now. So far, the indications are favorable for a good pack. The first run of sockeyes is small. In Northern British Columbia, canneries are said to be putting up an extra large pack. By next week we should have a good run on the Sound. Nevertheless, it will be several weeks before a definite idea can be had of the sockeye pack.

The Dalles, Ore.—F. A. Saufert says:

"The salmon packing on this river will be very small, owing to the large amount of salmon going into pickle for export trade. While the pack of pickled salmon will be fully that of last year, the canned goods pack will not exceed half of last year's pack on No 1 Chinook. If the sockeye run can be gauged by the blue black run of the Columbia, there will be no cheap sockeyes."

Bellingham, July 13th—The largest catch of sockeye salmon taken this season, amounting to 18,000 fish, was received to-day. This catch is good for this time of the month, although it is not large compared with those later in the season, when upwards of 80,000 are caught daily. Thousands of fish are reported seen in the Lower Sound. The straits are reported full of sockeyes on their way up the river.

Salem, Ore., July 11th—The market is very firm. Although it was generally believed that the price of Columbia River Chinooks would be higher this year, prices are the same as previous years. Before the season had begun the packers had sold their expected packs for the year. This in itself shows the firmness of the market.

Seattle, July 12th—Fish Commissioner Kerstan reports that the cold storage pack to date is ten times greater than for the same period of 1904 and that the canneries are considerably short of last year's mark for the same period. He looks for the canneries to secure a full pack before the close of the season. He said, "I am confident that the sockeye run on the Sound will be equal to that of four years ago. The run this year may be a little late. In that event it may be shortened to a slight extent."

London, Eng., July 1st—Alaska salmon has been in fair demand at unaltered rates.

Liverpool, Eng., June 30th—There has been little activity during the last week. 1-lb flats have advanced about 1s per case, ½-lb. flats have advanced 3s. to 4s., and 1-lb. talls have advanced at least 6d.

LOBSTERS.

Jos. E. Gallagher of the Portland (Me.) Packing Co., says: "The packing season is approaching a close without much of a pack. It will not be as good as was expected. The Government will not permit any late packing, so the pack is practically ended. Owing to the high price, the demand now runs principally to ½-lb. sizes."

FRENCH SARDINES.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Sardine fishing in France so far has been poor, but there may be an improvement during the next two months."

New York, July 11th—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report:

"The catch has been so small that no lots of consequence have been packed. Stocks here are gradually going into consumption. We do not look for lower prices than we had last season. All depends upon the catch, but it is nearly six weeks behind. The difference can hardly be made up even by an abundant catch in the near future."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Martins cheese is firm at present quotations."

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, July 6th—Asperginn & Co. report: "The advance on cotton and the bad showing of the Government cotton crop report, induced speculators to come into the market, and the last few days have seen an advance of from 1 to 1¼ cents. Steady buying will naturally advance prices. The advance so far has not been very extensive, which makes traders expect a further advance unless oil should be dumped on the market in very large bulk."

SPICES.

Baltimore, Md., July 6th—McCormack & Co. report: "Market continues active. This applies especially to popper. It is now known that stocks are extremely short. From the buyers' standpoint the present is the most advantageous time to cover their wants."

HAY.

Somers & Co. report:

"The market has weakened perceptibly under heavy arrivals, and it looks as though there will be a still further decline. There is a very heavy crop of hay on the lowlands around San Francisco Bay, so that arrivals by water will be exceedingly plentiful from now on.

"The Government has just advertised for 1000 tons of hay for immediate shipment. This quantity is not sufficient to affect the market, as there is plenty of hay all along the Coast.

"The choicest grades of both wheat and tame oat hay will probably hold fairly firm throughout the season for retail purposes, but all other grades will weaken considerably from the present range.

. . . . . .

J. J. GILDEA RENEWED.

The Advocate is pleased to note that J. J. Gildea & Co. have renewed business. They are now located at room 4, Phelan building, 806 Market street, where they are prepared to supply the trade with men's high grade, ready to wear clothes at very reasonable terms.

Cigars and Tobacco

Will Marshall has taken the agency for a new Pennsylvania line of cigars.

Oscar Figel, distributer of the Fair Lillian, and family are spending their vacation at San Rafael.

H. L. Pollack, California sales manager for the El Modelo cigar, has returned from a successful trip through Sonoma county, in the interest of his goods.

Lex Ehrman, of Ehrman Bros. & Co., accompanied by his wife, left last Saturday for the Yelowstone Park. Mr. and Mrs Ehrman go thither via Denver and will be absent about three weeks.

Mr. Korn, who has hitherto represented R. A. Patterson & Co. in Oregon and Washington, is in the city, assisting in making an aggressive local campaign in behalf of the various Patterson brands of tobaccos.

E. D. Marshall, San Francisco representative of Theobald Oppenheimer, has returned from the home offices of his company in Philadelphia, and is actively pushing the sale of the William Penn, La Toco and Royal Lance cigars.

The new deal of the American Tobacco Company, whereby they give Sledge Plug free on orders for 60 lbs. and over of tobaccos from the company's warehouses, and on orders for 120 lbs. and upwards from their factory, is meeting with great favor with the trade.

Tillmann & Bendel report that trade is exceedingly active with them, and specially is this the case with the Sachez & Haya clear Havana cigar, 425,000 of which were sold by them last week, and one salesman sending in orders for 90,000 on Monday. The sales of the Recruit cigar are rapidly increasing, while the Cremo is repeating more readily than ever. The firm are doing some very effective advertising for the Pete Dailey cigar, and are getting satisfactory results. In general tobacco business is good with Tillmann & Bendel.

Boltz, Clymer & Co. report that trade is somewhat quiet with them owing to the fact that their factories were closed down during the first ten days in July for stock taking, and they did not have sufficient cigars on hand to last through the interim. Mr. Starr, Coast manager for Boltz, Clymer & Co., is highly pleased with the results of the first six months of the year. Each month showed a large increase as compared with the corresponding month of 1904. June was a surprise to the firm when their books were closed. Until then they had thought it was slower than the corersponding month a year ago, but when the books were balanced it also showed several thousand dollars to the good.

By a decree issued on May 20, 1905, the importation of leaf tobacco into Costa Rica, which has heretofore been a Government monopoly, is made free to everyone. Iztepeque tobacco is excluded from this provision and remains a Government monopoly. The decree takes effect August 1, 1905.

In a recent letter to Tobacco from its Tampa correspondent we read the following item. "Jose Lovera & Co. have just received an order for 300,000 cigars for Alaska, which will create quite a haze in the atmosphere of the frozen zone. Senor Jose Lovera secured a year's supply of the best Vuelto Abajo leaf, which he considers exteremely fine."

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco writes that journal: "'And the desert shall blossom as the rose,' is well illustrated in the Santaella factory grounds. A few months ago their handsome new cigar factory was set in the center of a block on a bed of Florida sand; while to-day the sand is covered with rich green grass; palms, orange, fig and flowering trees embelish the lawn, and tall feather duster palms stand in rows on the street fronts. It will soon become one of the handsomest of Tampa's handsome cigar factories."

Petty burglars have invented a new contrivance to remove cigar boxes from the shelves of cigar stores protected by an iron grating. The plan of the burglar is to place his instrument through the iron grating, grasp the boxes on the shelves and then draw them up to where they are within easy reach. At Barney McLaughlin's cigar store, 757 Market street, several hundred cigars were stolen during one night recently.

The Bureau of American Republics is advised that a company is being formed in Greece under the auspices of the Bank of Athens and with the support of the principal tobacco merchants of Volo for the purpose of improving the cultivation of tobacco, developing the export trade and manufacturing cigarettes for export. Although the culture of tobacco has improved in Greece still the quality produced is inferior to Turkish tobacco, and with the object of improving it the Government has for the past two years been distributing to growers Kavalla, Xanthi and Yenidje seed which have given very satisfactory results. Experiments have convinced the promoters of the undertaking that Thessaly can produce as good tobaccos as Turkey if only certain changes are made in the methods of cultivation.

The United States Government, in a recent consular report, furnishes interesting figures, showing the condition of the tobacco trade, as it relates to the export of cigars from Cuba by trust and independent cigar manufacturers. The figures show that the exports of the trust concerns have been falling off and that the independents are gaining. The figures show that 51.3 per cent of the total exports came from the trust factories and 48.7 per cent from the independent concerns When the trust was formed the trust factories supplied abotu 75 per cent—according to the statement of the trust itself, 85 per cent—of the total exports. It is therefore evident that the trust, up to December 31, 1904, has lost at least 30 per cent—more than 50,000,000 cigars—in trade.

According to a leading New York dealer the development of the Porto Rican cigar business has been one of phenomenal trade changes in recent years. Every firm that handles Porto Rican cigars has orders placed a long time in advance, and manufacturing is apparently slow down there. Some think that Porto Rican goods will gradually supplant Cuban goods, and there are those who declare that the quality of Porto Rican cigars is even better than the Cuban, while there is chance for improvement in Porto Rico which does not exist in Cuba. The soil in Cuba has been cropped for many years, say these partisans of Porto Rico, and nothing exhausts the soil like tobacco while Porto Rico soil has all its strength and will do better in the future than it is doing now.—Tobacco.

Washington, D. C., July 5.—The notorious Wm. M. Jacobs and his partner, Wm. Kendig, of Lancaster, Pa., who were serving a twelve-year sentence for wholesale frauds against the Government by means of counterfeit Internal Revenue stamps on cigars of their manufacture, have been pardoned by President Roosevelt.

The arrest of Jacobs and Kendig, April 19, 1899, caused a tremendous sensation in trade circles, as it was accompanied by the simultaneous seizure by Internal Revenue agents in all sections of the United States of hundreds of thousands of fraudulently stamped cigars.

Wm. M. Jacobs & Co. operated factory 3741, in the Ninth Pennsylvania district, and the distribution of their product was widespread, as the seizures included nearly 2,000,000 cigars in Greater New York, 700,000 in Cincinnati, 500,000 in Chicago, 300,000 in Philadelphia, 100,000 in Chattanooga, 140,000 in Denver, 100,000 in St. Louis, 75,000 in New Orleans, 50,000 in Toledo, 25,000 in Indianapolis, as well as varying quantities in scores of other places from Maine to California.

Association Picnics Promote Harmony.

The Retail Cigar and Tobacco Dealers' Association of New York would do well to borrow a leaf from the Philadelphia dealers' organization, and hold a big picnic during the present summer, says Tobacco. It is doubtful if there is any other thing that the dealers in Greater New York could do to so stimulate interest in the organization at this time, and imbue the individual retailers with the spirit of harmony that is so esential for the success of the association. As a promoter of friendly relations between the dealers in the different sections of the greater city, one properly organized picnic would be worth a score of trips to Coney Island, such as the association made last season or than two score of ordinary meetings.

John H. Tietjen & Co. are making a splendid success of their new store at 2361 Fillmore street. This is a transfer corner, and many people take advantage of the invitation to step into this fine-looking store and rest.

BOOMING THEIR PRODUCTS.

The Porto Rican government has appointed Scott Truxton, a son of Commodore Wm. T. Truxton, as its agent to advance the sale of Porto Rican coffee. Mr. Truxton opened offices in the Jauncey building, 91 Wall street, New York, July 1st. This is right in the heart of the coffee district. In explaining the need of the department over which he presides to a representative of the "Tea and Coffee Trade Journal," Mr. Truxton said:

"The conditions surrounding the Porto Rican planter will be hard to understand from an American standpoint. The difficulty arose largely through the changed conditions that the planters faced when Porto Rico became United States territory. The planters were accustomed to long time credits, which Americans seldom grant. They found the value of their money lessened by one-third. They also found it necessary to bring in modern methods of cultivation and introduce new and improved machinery and to establish coffee types that were absolutely different from the older standards.

"This has required a carefully planned campaign of education. Private interests have been brought together and the Planters' Protective Association has been formed. It is under the auspices of this organization that we are preparing to present this year's crop to the American trade.

"Over 52,00,000 pounds of coffee was exported from Porto Rico in 1897. In 1900 the output had fallen to less than 32,000,000. Many new groves come into bearing during the present year and the indications are that the crop of 1905 will show a marked improvement.

"The logical time has apparently arrived for a determined effort to interest the trade and the wholesale and retail consumer in a home product that far excels the majority, if not ALL, of the so-called high grade coffee. It is for this object that our agency was created. Through it, the consumers may be assured of absolute genuiness and conformity to selling type. At the same time, we eliminate that element of uncertainty that always attends business dealings with parties unacquainted with American methods and ways.

"The main effort of our agency will be directed towards the sale of Porto Rican coffees. It will, at the same time, act as an agency for all the products of the islands."

The work of introducing Porto Rico coffee to the distributors and consumers of the Pacific Coast is being undertaken by the Porto Rico Co., whose offices are at 587-589 Howard street. This company is advertising, especially, the Ponce de Leon brand of coffee. They find the trade glad to take up this coffee which, while it sells for 40c. per lb., carries with it assurance of a satisfied customer.

The introduction of the Ponce de Leon brand by the Porto Rico Co. has resulted in advertising all Porto Rico coffee. Interest in this high grade brand has assisted largely in popularizing Porto Rican coffees generally, with the result that the Porto Rico Co. has been selling large quantities of the medium and lower goods. The Porto Rico Co. has lately installed a plant for the handling of spices. Only pure products of the very highest quality will be dealt in.

PROTECTING PROFITS.

ness during the past forty years. These mills ignored the requests of the retail grocers to protect them from cutters, feeling that the trade would have to handle their flour whether they got a profit on it or not. The loss of trade they have suffered is due entirely to the stand they took in opposition to what the grocers asked and what they had a fair right to expect.

A Student of Trade Problems.

There is no closer student of trade problems than A. Schilling of the firm of A. Schilling & Co. Mr. Schilling has devoted much time and thought to the study of trade problems. He has also paid large sums to men high in their profession to consider these problems with him.

Mr. Schilling has for years realized that the permanency of the popularity of his goods depends upon the friendship of the retail grocers, which can be secured only by proper compensation (profits) and the friendship of the consumer, which can only be retained by satisfactory quality and a fair price. The entire policy of his business has been based upon this theory. The general acceptance accorded by consumers to the fact that the "Schilling's Best" trademark guarantees satisfactory goods and the fact that the red label of the Schilling package is found in a prominent place on the shelves of almost every Pacific Coast retail grocer, proves that Mr. Schilling's policy is correct.

Can Maintain Prices.

Many manufacturers who have only glanced at these problems in a casual way or who are so anxious to sell large quantities of goods at the outset that they are careless as to what the ultimate effect on their sales will be, often say that it is impossible to maintain prices.

The success of A. Schilling & Co. with their "Schilling's Best," and of Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. with "Sapolio," proves that it is possible to protect goods where the manufacturer is willing to "pay the price." The price for protection is the willingness and the executive force to carry out contracts with regard to prices.

The price of "Schilling's Best" and "Sapolio" is maintained only because the manufacturers of these goods refuse to wink at any violation of established prices. As soon as they learn of a cut, they use every effort to restrain the cutter. As a consequence, the cutter finds so much difficulty in getting his goods that his advertisement ceases to pay him and he discontinues the same. In the meanwhile, the rest of the trade maintain the established price because they know that they would have the same difficulty as the cutter. They are not in position to secure even the small returns in the way of advertising that the cutter expects, since, when the average retail grocer cuts, it is in a spasmodic way and merely to meet the price of a competitor and not as a part of some broad scheme of advertising directed with a purposeful motive.

Beginning with the 15th of July the Alpine Evaporated Cream Co. have placed their goods on the protected list, to be sold at 10 cents straight and 3 for 25 cents. These goods allow a fair margin to the retail grocer at the price named for them.

Our Association will be glad to co-operate with any manufacturer who will honestly try to maintain the retail selling price of his goods.

MANY ACTIVE WORKERS.

San Bernardino, July 12th, 1905.

Advocate Publishing Co., San Francisco.

Gentlemen:—Our grocers' association has among its active workers most of the retail grocers of our city. Among the members who have exerted themselves to better trade conditions are T. J Kelty, Thos. Dobson, Harrison & Pace, J. M. Bracewell, L. B. Bean & Co., Enterprise Grocery, Base Line Grocery, M. L. Hicks & Co., T. F. Snelson, Rochdale Co-operative Grocers and Feetham & McNeil.

There are only four firms who are not now co-operating with us. Two of these firms do a little cutting once in a while but they have come to realize that any action taken by the Association is taken for the common good and they have been willing to profit by the same with the rest of us.

Yours very truly,

ALCAZAR.

A new Japanese play, the "Heart of the Geisha," is being presented for the first time at the Alcazar. Miss Crosby plays the leading role as Yohamma San, a Geisha who loves an American officer and then drives him from her because his sister convinces the Japanese girl that the connection was hurtful to her sweetheart. The Geisha then commits suicide. The staging and costuming is very rich and effective. The play is well cast and should be a decided success. Next week White Whittlesey returns and will present J. K. Hackett's romantic comedy, "Fortunes of a King."

TIVOLI.

They have been filling the Tivoli to overflowing with people who wanted to see "Rob Roy," with its splendid cast, including Kate Condon, Arthur Cunningham, Anna Lichter and Frank B. Hayes. There is every indication that the piece will see a long run.

MAJESTIC.

Frank Bacon is doing splendid work as Abigail Prue, "Aunt Abbey," the leading part in "The County Fair," made famous by Neil Burgess. Mr. Bacon shines in roles that require dry, quiet humor. His Aunt Abbey is a production of his own and he makes the part extremely funny.

CENTRAL.

The great and only John L. Sullivan has been adding to the success of "Fast Life in New York." The name of the piece is decidedly appropriate when one stops to consider the record made by John L as a spender in the great metropolis. The famous actor-pugilist had a short role but it gave him a good opportunity and he took full advantage of it. His initial reception was a tremendous ovation. Before it could subside, he was forced to make a speech to satisfy the demands of the gallery gods. The ex-champion won his battle in the fourth round amid great applause. The play abounds in thrilling scenes and there is no time for weariness on the part of the audience. Herschel Mayall returns next week to play the leading role in "Blue Jeans." Miss Agnes Rankin has been specially engaged.

GRAND.

The Glickman Yiddish Players have been drawing crowds during the past few days. This is the last few nights of their engagement. Those interested in Yiddish players who have not seen this company should certainly take advantage of the splendid performances given by this company. On Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings the "Jewish Hamlet" will be presented and on Saturday and Sunday matinees "Kol Nidrey" will be sung Dennis O'Sullivan is to follow.

FISCHER'S.

They have a very interesting program at Fischer's this week. The fame of this house has spread through the city so that they are assured of large audiences twice each night. The afternoon matinees are also well attended. There is a complete change of the program every week, together with new moving pictures.

CHUTES.

"Princess Fan Tan," with nearly 300 children in the cast, has been completing its second week at the Chutes. There are numerous specialties that go to complete a very interesting program. Among the other attractions that now help entertain the visitors in the Chutes are Annie Redline, who is 4 feet 7 inches tall and 7 feet 4 inches around the waist, Chiquita, the living doll, and the life-saving incubators with their tiny occupants.
